FOREWORD

Encouraged many years ago by a growing awareness that life has a perceivable pattern, I joined the many others seeking some way that this pattern could be understood and that knowledge applied constructively. Contemporary science supplied the technological tools to take care of my material needs, even the psychological insights on how to live with the present order of things. But when I turned to it for an overall rationale, a purpose to life, it had no meaningful answer. Religion offered faith, which I still value most highly, but unfortunately all too often it seems to bury knowledge and truth under dogma and bigotry, leaving mankind at the mercy of a seemingly capricious God. Try as I have, this I could not accept. I don't feel that my prayers to that God for enlightenment have been all in vain. In fact, the ensuing research for wisdom, the teachers and sources of information made available to me along the way, I believe are, at least in part, answers to my petitions for divine guidance.

I feel that the dubious reputation earned by the occult down through the centuries has caused the more constructive metaphysical insights to be condemned along with practitioners of witchcraft and other forms of hokus-pokus. To me, observation has shown that some of the occult sciences can give a perspective of the handiwork of the Almighty equal to that found anywhere in creation. The structure of these subtle, metaphysical sciences demonstrates the inter-relationship of all life. This seems to be far more awesome than the physical cosmos itself. In the form and order reflected through these sciences, I believe we can perceive a meaning and a purpose, and even more evidential than the stars and galaxies, a witness to a Supreme Intelligence.

This presentation on the cards is the result of many years of research and experience gained through counselling and through other metaphysical pursuits. Stimulated by curiosity and a desire to improve my skill in making useful forecasts, I investigated various aspects of the occult, eventually arriving at this synthesis of occult knowledge. While I hope you will find this material interesting, even entertaining, I also hope that you may find it a useful tool, one which will help you to live more completely and successfully. You may find, as I have, that in this symbolic language there is a perspective which can be a source of tremendous insight and understanding.

In my endeavor to present this material in as clear and useable a form as possible, at times the material may seem almost too encumbered with details and explanations. Bear with me, and you will find the extra effort contributing to your understanding. In reconstructing this ancient, secret, occult code, which combines the meanings of the cards with astrological and numerological influences, I couldn't help but wonder, since these supposedly separate occult sciences blended so beautifully, if they were not originally all components of an ancient master occult science.

Even though this endeavor has involved extensive research on my part, I am privileged to credit those earlier astrologers and authors without whom this work would not have been possible. Among the most important sources of information are Olney H. Richmond and his Mystic Test Book and Temple Lectures; Edith L. Randall and Florence Evylinn Campbell and their Sacred Symbols of the Ancients; also Miss Campbell's Your Days Are Numbered; Symbolism by Potenger; P. Foli's Fortune Telling with the Cards; Zolar's It's All in the Stars; Joseph F. Goodavage's Write Your Own Horoscope; The Degrees of the Zodiac Symbolized by Charubel and Sepharial, Basic Numerology Key Words by J.C. Kenyon, and Anniversaries and Holidays by Mary E. Hazeltine. To the more serious students interested in expanding their knowledge, I highly recommend these books.

All is mystery;
But he is a slave who will not struggle
To penetrate the dark veil.
Benjamin Disraeli

INTRODUCTION

"What's Your Card?" In all seriousness, an ancient and little known occult system maintains that you do have a card. A card which has a peculiar identification with your birthday, capable of revealing much about you, your relationships and your place in the scheme of life. This has nothing to do with the card readers who rely on psychic ability or a gift of gab to interpret the cards. This book is about an "occult science" with a definite structure and formula. Though it may prove an entree to your intuitive powers, you do not have to be psychic to use this system.

So simple, yet remarkably informative, for centuries this system was part of the "forbidden" knowledge, the exclusive privilege of a few enlightened mystics. In our time, as if by some master plan, much of that which has been concealed is now being revealed. So if you're not afraid of what this potent, "forbidden" knowledge may reveal about yourself, your loved ones, and the future — read on!

The playing cards as we know them surfaced in France in about the fourteenth century where they were used for games. Other records suggest that they existed in various forms much earlier in China, Persia and Egypt. As to the true origin of the cards, I favor the legend put forth by Olney Richmond, who in his Mystic Test Book and Temple Lectures maintains that they are a product of an advanced culture which existed on the lost continent of Atlantis. Perhaps in our quest for artifacts to prove the existence of prehistoric civilizations equal or even superior to ours, or extra-terrestial beings, we have overlooked the possibility that in the hidden knowledge of the cards, astrology and numerology, we already have that evidence? Do we in our highly evolved technological culture have any science or system which so profoundly measures the subtle structure, quality and progress of life?

As you study the system and uncover the secret knowledge contained in the cards, there are several things to keep in mind. In themselves, the cards are neither positive or negative. The cards are symbolic representations of natural forces and attributes, which like the other elements of nature are not necessarily either good or bad. In this book, I've described both their positive and negative possibilities. As with all knowledge, the secret of its power is in its application. Resist the temptation to think comparatively. Each card has its place, so no card is better or less than another. True, those identified with certain high cards in our contemporary criteria of values may seem to have an easier journey through life. But they too, have their own peculiar challenges, frequently failing because they take success for granted. On the other hand, someone with a seemingly lesser card, realizing that survival is going to require an all-out effort, ends up on top.

In a symbolic sense, your card is you! Your happiness and success may be greatly enhanced through the unique insight revealed to you through your card. Use this knowledge as a tool for understanding yourself and others. Let it help you to realize your highest potential.

Instead of saying that man is the creature of circumstance, it would be nearer the mark to say that man is the architect of circumstance. It is character which builds an existence out of circumstance. From the same materials man builds palaces, another hovels; one warehouses, another villas; bricks and mortar are mortar and bricks until the architect can make them something else.

Thomas Carlyle

SECTION I — METASYMBOLOGY

The Science of the Cards

From the mysterious realms of the occult emerges the subtle science of the cards. Actually, the presentation in this book is a merging of the occult sciences — astrology, numerology, metaphysics — with the cards into a total subject we identify as Metasymbology.

Although you may have no desire to become an adept, or a practitioner of this mystic art, your enjoyment of Metasymbology will be enhanced by the understanding of some of its components. What follows is a picture of the cards, numbers and planets as they interrelate with each other.

CHAPTER ONE

THE LANGUAGE OF THE CARDS

SUITS: The first step to understanding.

Astrological influences, along with numbers, symbols, colors and suits comprise the basic ingredients in "the language of the cards." The following overview should give you a greater understanding of the intrepretations of this language.

Hearts signify emotion. Birthdays identified with this suit find the greatest fulfillment in a positive expression of love, compassion and understanding. Hearts, above all others, are best suited to demonstrate these attributes. They can be the most affectionate lovers and friends. At best, hearts are sensitive and their sensual nature can make them among the greatest of artists, sculptors, musicians and poets. At worse, they are vulnerable to the emotional temperament, which can turn love into violent hate. Delight in the sensual can turn hearts away from sensitive expressions to self-indulgence and promiscuity.

The least obvious in its meaning is the club symbol. Resembling the clover leaf, it was chosen by the ancients to represent the summertime of life, when man gathers knowledge. So this symbol becomes the emblem of wisdom and knowledge. In the language of the cards, clubs represent the mind and mental activities. If your birthday identifies you as a club, although you may not rival Einstein, Freud or Salk, your prime asset is your mind. To you education of some sort is a prerequisite so that you may fulfill your responsibility of comprehending and translating the facts of life. At best, you should do well in occupations which provide you with the opportunity to share the insight of your intellectual powers, such as law, teaching, writing and counselling.

Your greatest challenge may be the temptation to abuse your powers through the manipulation of facts, negative arguments and the distortion of knowledge.

If the diamond suit brings visions of jewels and money, you are on the right track, but that's not the whole story. The diamonds relate primarily to values, material and otherwise, but too often the "otherwise" is overlooked.

A truly positive diamond individual should be able to recognize and accept spiritual as well as material responsibility. "What profiteth a man, if he gain the whole world and yet lose his soul." If your birthday identifies you as a diamond, your sense and appreciation of values can be a great help to others. Lacking such positiveness, diamonds can be trapped by material concerns, devoting lifetimes to an ever increasing spiral of acquisitiveness.

If your card is a diamond, you are likely to be successful in occupations involved with the handling of money, manufacturing and merchandising. When your material know-how is positively applied, family, communities, even nations benefit.

It is not difficult to think of a spade as a symbol of work. Like the diamonds, however, the spades also symbolize another quality — higher wisdom.

A suit of extremes, the Spade can represent the unhappy side of life, drudgery, despair and even death. At the other end of the spectrum, the Spade is the suit of mystics and spiritual giants. At first, the blending of drudgery and transcendental understanding may seem inconsistent. Actually, it isn't so odd. The same quiet and persevering nature that must cope with the basics of life for survival may find that those same basics are a key, a prelude to spiritual understanding.

As a rule, spades have to work hard for everything they want. All too often this becomes their only reality, and they try to solve all their problems by the sweat of their brows. Frequently, this forces them into the most menial jobs and earthbound philosophies. The spades who are able to recognize that they have an intuitive key to higher wisdom can find the greatest fulfillment of all.

NUMBERS

To the qualifying influence of the suits we add the quantitative attributes of the numbers. This does not necessarily mean that the aces will always represent one person or item, or that the number ten will indicate ten of something. While it is true that the aces are more apt to symbolize one person and individual concerns and the higher numbers symbolize plural qualities, the numbers do have other symbolical meanings.

In the following Key Word Table you will see how the numbers modify the qualities of the suits. Although the meanings have been over-simplified, the table should help you see at a glance the qualities that result from the combination of the suits and numbers.

ASTROLOGICAL INFLUENCES

You need not know anything about astrology, or even the cards and numbers to understand the descriptions given for each birthday. But if curiosity causes you to wonder how fifty-two cards can cover three hundred and sixty-five days, perhaps the following will help you to understand.

Each birthday, as well as being identified with a card, is also associated with modifying astrological influences. As there are only fifty-two cards, many of them represent more than one day. The variation in their interpretations is determined by the astrological sign in which the birthday occurs. For example, two individuals, one born on April 3rd, the other on May 1st, would both be identified with the same card — the Five of Spades. Although they would have the attributes of the Five of Spades in common, the person born on April 3rd would have these qualities modified by the aggressive, vital quality of Mars, the planetary ruler of Aries. The other born on May 1st would have his version of the Five of Spades modified by the sensual, artistic planet of love, Venus, the ruling planet of Taurus.

ASTROLOGICAL TERMINOLOGY

To increase your enjoyment and understanding, I have included here a simple explanation of the astrological terms used in the descriptions of the birthdays.

SUN SIGNS: Astrologically, the year is divided into twelve segments identified as Sun Signs.

PLANETARY RULERS: (Sometimes identified as Celestial Ruler, Ruling Orb, Guiding Star.) Each Sun Sign is associated with a planet which symbolizes its quality, and is considered to represent the ruling force of that sign.

DECANATES: Each sun sign is divided into three segments, otherwise known as decanates. Each decanate has also a sub-ruling planetary influence.

CUSP: Birthdays that occur within the first or last five days of a sign are considered to be within the cusp. These birthdays take on a blending of influences from the sun signs in which they appear with that of the Sun Signs either preceding or following their Sun Signs.

The following is a list of the Sun Signs showing their elements, ruling planets and characteristics most commonly associated with them. Also shown are the decanates of each Sun Sign and their sub-planetary rulers. As astrological sources vary regarding planetary and decanate rulers, we've chosen those planetary influences most consistent with the cards. Time spans shown for both the Sun Signs and decanates are approximate.

CHAPTER TWO

THE PERFECT AND LIFE SPREADS

The Perfect and Life Spreads symbolize in the cards the basic picture of life, both spiritual and mundane. In the Perfect Spread, representing the divine plan, notice that all the cards are in perfect sequence, progressing from the Ace of Hearts through all the suits ending with the King of Spades in the top, or Crown Line. The Perfect Spread contributes overtones and subtle influences, which at times can be quite strong (see pages 20 and 21).

It is in the Life Spread where we find a symbolical picture of the more tangible aspects of life here on earth. This spread pictures you, your life story, your loved ones, friends and enemies. In this time, when there is talk of identifying everyone with a number, by identifying each one of us with a card, it appears the ancients beat us to the punch.

All the basic life patterns described in Section III — You, Your Life and Your Card, are shown on the Life Spread. The location of your card and the cards which make up your basic life pattern on the Life Spread indicate the opportunities, challenges, and the overall complexion of your life.

Will it be love or strife? Here, too, are shown the basic relationships, the cast of characters of your life story. In the cards, relationships are defined by how the cards, which represent the various birthdays, relate to each other with reference to the planets. This might be easier to understand if you will look at the illustration in Figure 3, where you will find that certain rectangular spaces relating to your card are identified with the planets.

The odds are that your card is actually located in some other space, but for our purpose of illustration we will assume your card is located as shown in Figure 3. Now, you want to determine how someone relates to you on the Life Spread. For example, if the card of someone should appear in one of the spaces identified with Venus, it could mean "love." On the other hand, if their card appears in the Mars space, it could mean "war."

In Section II — Your Birthday, birthdays which are in either a horizontal or vertical Venus or Jupiter relationship to your card and the most compatible sun sign are listed. (This listing does not include diagonal planetary influences.) As there are five other types of planetary relationships, including the diagonal Venus and Jupiter relationships, you can determine them by applying the procedure illustrated in Figure 3 by the following steps.

Step 1: In Figure 5 you will find a listing of all birthdays and their corresponding cards. Locate the birthdays and the cards of the individuals whom you wish to check against your card.

Step 2: Locate these same cards on the Life Spread on page 21. If your cards relate, as shown in Figure 3 in a straight line, horizontally, vertically or diagonally, there is a planetary relationship. Do not read down the same column in which your card appears, as the cards beneath your card are included in the vertical sequence of planets. In other words, when you reach the top space in the column above your card, continue the vertical progression by going to the bottom of the same column, moving up planet by planet until you reach your card. This is a basic rule to be applied in reading any spread.

Step 3: To determine the planetary relationship between your card and the individual in question, move from your card to their card in this order: Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune. (Always use this sequence of planets). When you reach their card, note with which planetary influence their card is identified in relation to your card.

For example, if their card is in the space next to you, they will be in a Mercury relation to you. This is a fine planetary influence for companionship and the communication of ideas. You will probably do a lot of gabbing together. If their card occupies the space two cards away from your card, this would indicate a Venus relationship, which indicates a friendly, affectionate quality. This can be one of the best for lovers. Now, you may have to guard against arguments and friction if their card is in Mars — a space three cards away from yours. For a more complete interpretation of these and other planetary relationships, read the descriptions given in Planetary Influences on Relationships, page 26. Note that if your horizontal sequence of planets is located in the lower line, you may find it necessary to continue reading your planetary sequence beyond the last space int he lower left hand corner. In this case, you would continue the sequence by going to the top right hand corner of the Crown Line as shown X to Z in Figure 3.

If you do not find someone in whom you are interested in any of these planetary positions on the Life Spread, you may find your relationship on the Perfect Spread (page 20), or the Yearly Spreads (page 521). To determine the relationships on these spreads, follow the same procedure as described above. A relationship reflected on the Perfect Spread may be more subtle in its influence. Those on the Yearly Spreads may be of a more transitory nature.

PLANETARY INFLUENCES ON RELATIONSHIPS

The following is a description of the seven planets, especially as to how they may apply to relationships. As with the cards, there is no planetary influence that is all good or all bad.

MERCURY: In mythology, Mercury is depicted as the messenger of the gods. In this sense, anyone relating to you from this planetary position may be a source of ideas and information. Since this planet is also associated with mental activities, Mercury relationships may be intellectually stimulating. It can be an excellent influence for conversational rapport. This planetary influence may bring sudden and surprising happenings. Its influence in the spreads is usually considered of a short duration. In the cards, it pertains especially to the earlier part of life in the Life Spread, and the first segment of the year in the Yearly Spread.

VENUS: Associate this planet with the "Goddess of Love." If it doesn't bring romantic overtones from those who relate to you from this position, it should at least bring a warm, affectionate response. This is the most romantic of all the planetary influences, so if someone you desire relates to you from this position, press your cause. The home and all matters of a personal and intimate nature are likely to come under its influence. It also encourages an appreciation of beauty and artistic expression. Symbolically, it represents the "Feminine Principal." Negatively expressed, the qualities of Venus can lead to social and sensual excesses. In cases where love and friendship have been rejected, this can bring negative emotional expressions, such as hate.

MARS: Keep in mind that Mars was identified as the "God of War." Actually, even though this planetary influence may encourage a warlike manner and friction in relationships, it also represents energy and vitality. The challenge may be to channel this energy constructively. If you can minimize the temptation to argue and fight, you may find those who relate to you from Mars very stimulating. They may prod you to success or battle. With this insight, you may have a choice.

JUPITER: This planet of fortune is usually considered the most beneficial of all the planetary influences. At least its benefits are apt to be the most easily obtained. It can bring an expansive, fortunate influence, especially in matters pertaining to money, material values and business. It can be a mixed blessing, as this same expansive quality can increase one's greed and expand the waistline. As a rule, Jupiter relationships are considered beneficial. This may be in the form of a helpful parent, friend, teacher or employer who may be of valuable assistance to you. Since, as a rule, they can do you no harm, these are relationships to encourage.

SATURN: Because it more frequently appears to represent challenges, the influence of this planet is often feared. True, it may be symbolic of obstacles, burdens and restrictive elements, but as mentioned earlier there is no influence that is entirely negative. Actually the challenges represented here may provide the opportunity for significant growth. Lessons learned and progress made under Saturn may be more substantial and lasting than under any other planetary influence. Keep this in mind when you are involved with someone in a Saturn relationship. Of course, more often than not, those who are in Saturn to you are likely to pose problems. This may be as a burden due to age or poor health. Or they may oppose you and minimize your ideas and interests. Since the challenges usually appear to outweigh the possible benefits, I would never encourage a marriage to someone in Saturn. But for those involved in such a relationship, awareness and a good measure of self-control can make this a most constructive association. Relationships with someone in Saturn are sometimes called Karmic. This means that due to a previous experience, usually referring to a prior incarnation, that this is a destined association. A person or experience relating to you from Saturn can be a teacher, a catalyst, providing you with the opportunity to learn a most valuable lesson.

URANUS: This is the planet which symbolizes "The Age of Aquarius." It brings in the new and the unusual. As its influence becomes more apparent, it may bring drastic changes in life styles. Even though it may encourage advanced technology, it is even more likely to bring challenges in social and philosphical values. In relationships, it encourages the unconventional life styles and association with those of unusual interests. It accents interests in metaphysics and social reform. In the cards, it especially pertains to labor interest and matters pertaining to products of the land, such as farming, mining, and real estate. Whatever, in contacts with those who relate to you from Uranus, expect the unexpected.

NEPTUNE: It may be easier to remember the attributes of this planet if you visualize it as the mythological "King of the Sea." Its influence often pertains to matters relating to liquids, such as water, oil, perfume, liquor, narcotics and fluids of the body. When negatively aspected, it may bring problems and illness relating to those areas. It frequently pertains to long journeys,especially those over or near water. Since it may be all too easy to idealize someone who relates to you from this glamorous and nebulous position, you may have to guard against deception, especially self-deception. Communication with one in Neptune to you may be veiled in illusion, causing misunderstanding. Psychic experiences, profound inspiration, along with impractical schemes, are all symbolized here.

Don't preclude that because someone relates to you from any one of these planetary positions that they will definitely express either the positive or negative attributes of that planet. Rather, first observe, and then use this knowledge of the cards as another tool to give you that extra insight, which may help you understand and make the most of any relationship.

Throughout this book, you'll notice that there is only reference given to seven planets. You may wonder why only seven planets. Your first thought may be that the ancients were only familiar with these seven. It is most likely that they chose these seven planets to symbolize the seven primary qualities, and that these planetary influences are more symbolical than actual. In other words, the planets represent natural forces and attributes encompassed in a symbolic language.

SECTION II YOUR BIRTHDAY In Calendar sequence

To obtain an occult portrait of you, we blend the cards with the numerological and astrological influences associated with your birthday. In this process the planetary rulers of your sign and decan have been translated into the language of the cards.

To the right of the birthday and card, the numerological quality is shown for all birthdays consisting of two numbers which, except for those identified with the "master numbers" eleven and twenty-two, have been reduced to the lowest common denominator.

At the end of your birthday description, you will find a listing of birthdays considered to be among the most compatible to yours. These have been obtained by determining the days which are either in a Venus (love) or Jupiter (beneficial) type relationship to your card in the Life Spread. Congenial astrological sun-signs have been considered in the listing of these birthdays . At the discretion of the author, some birthdays within the cusps have also been listed.

If you don't find that special someone listed, don't be too concerned. There are other favorable relationships shown in the cards of which you will learn more later. After reading the description given under your birthday, you will find additional information about yourself and your overall life pattern by turning to Section III, You and Your Card.

JANUARY 1 (1 = 1) K♠ KING OF SPADES

Both your one birthday (January 1) and your card, the King of Spades, suggest that you were born to rule. Your prime challenge will be to master the power symbolized in your card, and to accept the responsibility of leadership handed to you by destiny. Identified with the top card in the deck, no one has a greater potential.

Astrologically a Capricorn with Saturn your ruling planet represented by a symbol of change and restlessness — the Five of Clubs, you can thank your restless spirit for a wide range of interests. You can also blame it for the discontent that distracts you from your lofty goals. While you have a strong intuitive sense of fairness and justice, you are not likely to be very receptive to advice. A determined thinker, you will feel more in your element in occupations that give you the opportunity to express your great versatility. Unhappy with anything less, accept the fact that you belong in the driver's seat. You can excel in almost any position of authority. In that quest, perhaps the following who share this birthday with you may give you some inspiration. Among them are Betsy Ross, Paul Revere, Wild Bill Donovan, J. Edgar Hoover, Senator Barry Goldwater, actors Charles Bickford and Dana Andrews, actress Carole Landis and orchestra leader Xavier Cugat.

A charm that minimizes your otherwise serious nature is suggested by Venus, your decanate ruler. Symbolized by the Ace of Clubs, this planetary influence feeds your desire to surround yourself with mentally stimulating companions, those who can contribute productively to your life, as well as to your social expressions. Great as your need for affection may be, it's not likely to blind you to practical considerations.

Among your most compatible birthdays for love and friendship are: January 4, 6, 8; February 25, 28, 29; March 2, 4; April 21, 24, 25; May 19, 22; June 28, 29; July 15, 18, 19; August 24, 25; September 11, 14, 15, 22, 23; October 31; November 7, 10, 11, 18, 19; December 27, 29.

JANUARY 2 (2 = 2) Q♠ QUEEN OF SPADES

Whether you are male or female, if January 2 is your birthday, you are the Queen of Spades. Your's can be a most significant destiny, especially if you do not fear the responsibility represented in your card. Your numerical two birthday suggests you crave companionship and harmonious circumstances.

Unaware that you are identified with a crown card, as a spade you may be inclined to fulfill your needs through menial tasks, while something inside cries out for more sublime expression. Perhaps the awareness that not only is your birthday identified with a royal symbol, but also that Saturn, your planetary ruler represented by another crown card, the King of Clubs will encourage you to aspire to your true place. This card also suggests that you have an intuitive-intellect worthy of a serious educational program. Usually well camouflaged, your extreme sensitivity, while a source of pain, can also be the key to tremendous spiritual power.

A natural philosophical inclination suggests that materially oriented jobs are apt to leave you unfulfilled. While your receptive powers could help you to be a whiz in the world of finance, it should also prove an asset in science, politics, teaching and writing. A maternal instinct suggests that you would probably find even greater fulfillment in occupational activity involving some form of service. For other career ideas, note the following who share this birthday with you. They include Joseph Stalin, General James Wolfe, composer Balakiref, scientists Issac Asimov, dancer Vera Zorina, singers Renata Tebaldi and Julius La Rosa, and pianist Roger Miller.

With your decanate ruler Venus, represented by the Nine of Diamonds, love and marriage are apt to be expensive. A natural homemaker, and yet you are not inclined to have a large family. Moods and an inclination to vacillate between extravagance and penuriousness may impair the beautiful love that you have to give. You may find expressions of love and friendship easier with someone born on January 6, 11, 18, 21; February 26; March 2, 7, 14, 17; April 22, 27; May 3, 10, 13, 20; June 23, 28; July 6, 9, 16, 21; September 2, 5, 12, 17, 22; November 1, 8, 13, 18.

JANUARY 3 (3 = 3) J♠ JACK OF SPADES

Your card identifies you as one of the Crown Princes of the cards. It also implies that you have the perceptive powers to achieve the lofty objectives to which you aspire. Numerically, your number three birthday indicates that you have a winning personality. But there's the rub! This influence also suggests that you may be tempted to play and dissipate your energies through all sorts of questionable activities.

Fortunately, Saturn, your ruling planet, suggests that once turned on, you can be among the hardest workers of all. And since this planetary influence is represented by the Ten of Diamonds, your efforts are likely to reward you handsomely. A law unto yourself, you are not receptive to criticism. After all — how can a Royal Prince be wrong!

Since your decanate ruler is Venus (symbolized by the Six of Diamonds), it is important that you develop a responsible attitude in handling money and in work. A lack of discipline could backfire, bringing deep depressions resulting from the lack of funds to maintain your prestige. The combination of your penetrating insight and analytical abilities can bring achievements in science, medicine and the literary field. Many born on your day have found success in more public expression. For example, you share this birthday with the Roman statesman Cicero, astronomer Sir William Peck, Prime Minister Clement Atlee, actresses Zasu Pitts, Marion Davies and Betty Furness, actor Ray Milland and pianist Victor Borge.

Although you are intrigued by bizarre emotional experiences, practical considerations are likely to encourage you to seek a more conservative expression of love. An inclination to be somewhat remote and secretive can create unnecessary problems in close relationships. Your unique requirements in love and friendship may be most easily found with those born in January 1, 5, 7, 14, 21; February 19; March 1, 3, 10, 17; April 30; May 6, 13, 16; June 26; July 2, 12, 24; August 22, 29; September 8, 20; October 25; November 1, 16, 23; December 21, 29.

JANUARY 4 (4 = 4) 10♠ TEN OF SPADES

Identified with a symbol of success and the constructive influence of your number four birthday, how can you fail? And yet, in your case, the obstacles to that success are apt to be equal to your potential. If it isn't problems imposed by circumstances, it will be an inability to apply self-discipline. Of course, if you master the latter, there is no limit to what you can achieve.

As a Capricorn, with the taskmaster Saturn as your planetary ruler, your practical nature should help you capitalize on your abilities. Since this planetary influence is represented by the Seven of Diamonds, this may prove to be a mixed blessing. It points to possible problems in the managing of money. You can make it, but grandiose schemes helped by needy friends and loved ones may make it difficult to hang on to it. Unfortunately, this is further amplified by the fact that your decanate ruler, Venus, is symbolized by a dubious financial influence — the Three of Diamonds.

Although you are very sensitive, the cold, critical facade that you show the world does a pretty good job of hiding your feelings. Helpful as this might be in work, where you feel it necessary to drive others as hard as you drive yourself, you may find that this may isolate you, bringing misunderstandings and loneliness. This loner quality could contribute to your success in secretive occupations and research. You have a potential to run businesses involved in manufacturing, building, farming and mining. The somber perspective suggested by your birthday might be minimized through expression in the arts and the theater. For example, you share this birthday with scientist Sir Issac Newton, inventors Issac Pitman and Louis Braille, statesman Everett Dirksen, author Jacob Grimm of "fairy tales" fame, actresses Jane Wyman, Barbara Rush and Dyan Cannon.

An inability in expressing your feelings may make move more a pain than a joy. This, combined with the fact that emotional involvements art apt to be expensive, suggests that you move very cautiously in romance. You might improve your luck with someone born on January 1, 2, 6, 8, 11; February 22; March 2, 4, 7, 20; April 30; May 3, 16; June 26, 29; July 12; August 25, 31; September 8, 20, 23; October 27, 28; December 23, 24, 30.

JANUARY 5 (5 = 5) — 9♠ NINE OF SPADES

A fearless giant is suggested by your card and birthday. No room for smallness, that is if you are to realize the fulfillment promised in this card. An inherent greatness in you seeks expression on a universal scale. While this card can represent a life of accomplishment and realization, indulgence in negativity can make it a symbol of disappointment and frustration.

A positive mental influence is suggested by the Four of Clubs, which symbolizes your planetary ruler Saturn. The potential of a very keen practical mind is implied, one that can cut through untruths like a knife. And while you can cut deep with skeptical observations, you also have the power to heal through your words and spiritual force.

Venus, your decanate ruler, as represented by the King of Hearts, certainly points to your potential as a leader. Combined with the influences suggested by your card, it implies that humanitarian endeavors can be a source of great personal satisfaction. Whether it be in some position of authority, or as a parent, guard against the inclination to be dictatorial. In spite of your fine mind, the danger of your thoughts being colored by your emotions is ever present. Your personal magnetism should prove a significant asset in people-oriented careers and activities, such as religion, politics and the entertainment industry. Power is important to you, and you are apt to go to great lengths to get what you want. Your potential for compassion is equaled by a potential for ruthlessness. Remember, you do have a choice. Note the diversified careers of the following who share this birthday with you. U.S. Navy hero Stephen Decatur, politicians Konrad Adenauer and Phillip Jessup, spiritual leader Paramahansa Yogananda, and actor Jean Pierre Aumont.

Your intense nature will be most evident in your emotional expression. Even your Capricorn practicality is apt to be pushed aside as you overwhelm the object of your heart's desire. When you win them, you may lose them either through jealousy or because no one can live up to your impossible fantasies. You may come closer to your romantic fantasy with someone born on January 1, 3, 7, 20; March 3, 15, 16; May 11, 12; June 30, July 7, 8, August 26, 30; September 3, 4; October 22, 24, 29; November 20, 22; December 20 and 29.

JANUARY 6 (6 = 6) — 8♠ EIGHT OF SPADES

If you like to be identified as hardworking and dependable, you picked the right day to be born. The attributes associated with your card imply that you can achieve just about anything. Just watch that in the process you do not become a slave to duty, losing sight of the intuitive vision implied in your birthday.

Although Saturn, your ruling planet, underscores the strength implied in your card, as represented by the Three of Clubs, this planetary influence suggests that your powers may be threatened by an inner confusion. In keeping with your bold facade, no one is likely to ever know about your hidden qualms. There is a personable quality also revealed here, which could be quite an asset in occupations dealing with the public and in group activities.

Though your birthday occurs in the decanate sub-ruled by Venus, love is likely to play second fiddle to your aspirations. This planet, symbolized by the Ace of Diamonds, suggests that ambition is likely to be a prime motivating factor. So the charms suggested by this planet of love are likely to be applied to more practical purposes. Just don't allow a preoccupation with money and prestige to become a barrier, separating you from friends and loved ones. Whether your gender be masculine or feminine, expression in work or some productive activity is essential to your personal fulfillment.

For inspiration, you share this birthday with statesmen Benjamin Franklin and Sam Rayburn, composer Scriabin, poet Carl Sandburg, actor Tom Mix, actress Loretta Young, entertainers Danny Thomas and Joey Adams and French heroine, St. Joan of Arc.

You are loyalty personified, but you may have to guard against developing a martyr complex. A tendency to worry too much about relationships and related responsibilities may take all the joy out of love. Nothing ordinary about you, and that includes your personal life. So when seeking a mate or friends, look for those who have the breadth of understanding needed to share and enjoy your eccentricities with you. In this respect, you might get a head start with someone born on January 1, 2, 4, 8, 20, 21; February 19, 24, 29; March 16, 17; April 20, 25; May 12, 13, 18; June 28; July 8, 9, 14, 19; August 24, 29; September 4, 5, 10, 15, 22; October 25, 30; November 1, 6, 11, 18; December 26.

JANUARY 7 (7 = 7) — 7♠ SEVEN OF SPADES

A pull between heaven and earth is suggested by the combination of your Earth Sign — Capricorn and the sevens in your card and birthday. Spiritual awareness and idealism will probably have to vie for expression with mundane desires. A healthy integration of these qualities can bring inspired leadership. But watch that a conflict in values does not leave you on a do-nothing fence.

As represented by the Four of Diamonds, good health and earning ability are suggested by Saturn, your ruling planet. While work is apt to be an important part of your life plan, your greatest hurdle may be a lack of incentive to develop your possibilities. The cards are so stacked in your favor that any sincere effort on your part should pay off.

The potential to excel in whatever you choose to do is clearly indicated by the King of Clubs, symbolic of your decanate ruler — Venus. While you may not insist on being in the limelight, you are not likely to be happy in subservient positions. But a lack of concentration and a tendency to procrastinate could keep you there. A philosophical-reasoning mentality may cause you to live in two worlds. While one may be a dream world, encouraging introspective moods, it may also spawn some worthwhile inspirations. Although an inherent stubbornness can be a detriment, it may also help you persevere through an inclination to quit, just before you've reached your objective. Careerwise, you are best suited for occupations that make good use of your sensitive intellect. For example, you share this birthday with Saint Bernadette, Pope Gregorius XIII, President Millard Fillmore, motion picture producer Adolph Zukor, cartoonist Charles Addams, and actress Terry Moore.

You have the magnetism to attract all sorts of emotional opportunities. But, as with all who are born under the number seven, marriage and intimate involvements are apt to be a serious challenge. In your choice of friends and marriage partners, look for maturity and intellectual stimulation as prerequisites to increase your chances for personal happiness.

It might also help if they were born on one of the following days: January 3, 5, 9, 11, 17, 19, 21, 22; February 19, 20, 25, 27; March 1, 5, 7, 13, 15, 17, 18; April 21, 23, May 1, 3, 9, 11, 13, 14, 19, 21; July 5, 7, 9, 10, 15, 17; August 28; September 1, 3, 5, 6, 11, 13, October 24, 31; November 1, 2, 7, 9, 22; December 27.

JANUARY 8 (8 = 8) — 6♠ — SIX OF SPADES

Quiet thunder is suggested by the combination of your card with the power of your number eight birthday. You can accomplish much, and make it seem like no effort. Guard against becoming so earthbound that you lose the inspired awareness associated with your card.

While you may want to be light and gay, having Saturn as your planetary ruler may make such behavior difficult. And since this planetary influence is represented by the Three of Hearts, uncertainty about people, even yourself and purpose, may prove to be a significant obstacle. In your quandary, you may push yourself impatiently into activities with the hope that they will solve your problems. Or you may just accept a retiring role, waiting for something to happen to point the way. In your brooding charm is a personality force which may be one of your prime assets. Basically, you are practical and inclined to earn your way and gain knowledge through the pain of experience.

As one of the success symbols, the Ten of Clubs, representative of your decanate ruler — Venus, suggests that your life has an element of good fortune, which can raise you to spectacular heights. Though you are not likely to make a big show of your intellectual powers, it certainly is not due to any cerebral lack. Actually, if inertia doesn't lull you into a rut, this influence suggests that you have the talent and the ability to put it all together. Perhaps the following who share this birthday with you will stir your ambition. The list includes Russia's Malenkov, economist Kiplinger, politician Sherman Adams, naturalist Alfred Russell Wallace, entertainers Peter Arno, Soupy Sales, Elvis Presley, Jose Ferrer, and Yvette Mimieux.

You have no lack of passion, but your demonstration of affection is likely to vary from too much – to a moody nothing. While you can be quite sensual, you also have a great need for someone who can stimulate you mentally. That special someone may be more likely to be found in someone born on January 1, 3, 4, 6, 10, 22; February 20, 21, 28; March 2, 6, 19; April 24, 30; May 2, 14, 15, 22; June 26; July 10, 11, 18; August 31; September 6, 7, 14, 20; October 27; November 2, 3, 10, 16; December 23.

JANUARY 9 (9 = 9) — 5♠ — FIVE OF SPADES

A restless urge to play a part on the larger stage of life is suggested by the combination of your card and your number nine birthday. The latter implies a universal interest in human endeavors. Be careful that self-concerns and too small a perspective do not become obstacles to the fulfillment of your grand dreams.

Exalted highs and equally devastating lows are suggested by your birthday. Saturn, your ruling planet, as represented by the King of Hearts, symbolizes the highs available to you. Emotionally dynamic, you should be especially effective in leadership roles. Keep in mind that this card also warns that your judgement may be swayed by your emotions. Don't allow temper and an inflexible attitude to minimize your power of charm in people-related activities.

According to Venus, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Nine of Clubs, much of what you achieve is due to perseverance. This card also implies intellectual powers and an impatient mind, suggesting that you can be an able debater. Watch that the element of strife associated with your birthday does not lead to needless arguments and misunderstandings. Some of these difficulties may arise from a self-protective secretiveness. Significant frustrations and worry are also suggested by this influence. Though you are likely to be buffeted by severe storms, you are not likely to stay down for long. You have the ambition and the cards to help you reach the great heights to which you aspire. In work and play you are apt to do a great deal of traveling. To illustrate, note the following. You share this birthday with President Richard Nixon, impresario Rudolf Bing, ballet's George Balanchine, entertainers Gypsy Rose Lee, Fernando Lamas, Gracie Fields, Joan Baez, Susannah York and Bob Denver, and sports star Bart Starr.

Intimate involvements are likely to be disturbed by your need for a variety of action and a preoccupation with career and other interests. Your mate and loved ones are apt to be a source of disappointment. You might minimize this possibility by choosing someone born on January 7, 11, 18; February 22, 28, 29; March 3, 7, 14, 20; April 24, 25; May 3, 10, 16, 22; June 21; July 6, 12, 18, 19; August 29; September 2, 8, 14, 15; October 25, 28; November 4, 10, 11, 13; December 21, 24, 29.

JANUARY 10 (1 + 0 = 1) — 4♠ — FOUR OF SPADES

Numerically, your birthday suggests a compelling urge to be number one in your field of endeavor. Fortunately, the constructive influence of your card indicates that you have the practical attributes to realize this aspiration. But it also indicates very clearly that the entree to your good fortune is much hard work.

Saturn, your planetary ruler, as represented by the symbol of ambition, the Ace of Diamonds, suggests that you have a built-in drive for success. As there is a real danger that you may not be satisfied no matter how successful you become, watch that your qu for money and fame does not deteriorate into a frustrating obsession. Blessed both menta and physically, guard against negative psychological attitudes which can compound y problems during your low periods. Normally, you are among the more constructive memb of the community. But when your positive energies are short-circuited, you may be all t easily tempted to become involved with dubious associates and activities. An intuiti understanding of "what makes the wheels go round" along with your practical applicati of this knowledge is your key to success. Though you are particularly suited to the busin world, as the following notables well illustrate, you certainly have a potential for succes the realm of entertainment. For examples of this and other possibilities, you share t birthday with religious reformers John Calvin, painter James Whistler, humorist Finley P Dunne, ballerina Galina Ulanova, actors Paul Henreid, Ray Bolger and Sal Mineo, sing Gisele MacKenzie, Johnny Ray and Frank Sinatra, Jr., and boxer George Foreman.

As represented by the Ten of Diamonds, Venus, your decanate ruler, suggests t your home and life style will reflect touches of affluence. As strong as your passions m be, they are not likely to interfere with practical considerations. Even though you can b most thoughtful host, you are not likely to be very domestic. Perhaps you can find some born on one of the following days who is: January 8, 12, 14, 17; February 23; March 4 10; April 26, May 4, 6, 17, June 22; July 2, 5, 13, 20; September 1, 9, 16; November 12, December 30.

JANUARY 11 (Master Number) 3♠ THREE OF SPADES

The indecisiveness suggested by your card is considerably modified by your num eleven birthday. As a "Master Number," it gives impetus to your mundane aspirations reinforces the spiritual quality suggested in your Spade card. To truly fulfill the opportun symbolized here, find a way to blend these two extremes.

With your planetary ruler Saturn symbolized by the Jack of Clubs, a dramatic, creat intellect is suggested. Just don't allow your clever mental abilities to completely obsc your more subtle intuitive powers. The heights of achievement are within your reach, h without discipline, so are the lowest depths. An inclination to go to extremes can wre havoc with your nervous system. As depressions may result from a tendency to depl your energies in an obsessive push to gain your objectives, sufficient rest should be p of your daily routine.

Although a vibrant magnetism is suggested by the Nine of Hearts, representative your decanate ruler Mercury, it also implies the probability of erratic emotional attitud While the compassionate power represented here can help you to be an effective counsell teacher and leader, it may also cause you to indulge in petty and temperamental behavi Outspoken as you can be, watch that a too narrow viewpoint or intolerance doesn't m your astute observations and opinions. Apply the mastery symbolized in your birth and you will find that you have what it takes for success in a wide range of possibilities. For inspiration, note the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are statesman Alexander Hamilton and Pierre Mendes France, psychologist William James, actress Eva La Gallienne and actor Rod Taylor.

While your strong love nature may seem to consume you at times, you are not likely to allow it to completely interfere with your freedom. In all probability, you will find a way to combine love and liberty successfully. This might be easier with someone born on January 2, 4, 7, 9, 13; February 24; March 3, 5, 9; April 20, 27, 30; May 1, 5, 18; June 23, 26; July 1, 14, 21; August 22, 31; September 10, 17, 20; October 27, 30; November 6, 13, 16; December 23, 26.

JANUARY 12 (1 + 2 = 3) 2♠ TWO OF SPADES

A practical, personable diplomat is suggested by the combination of attributes associated with your birthday. Numerologically, your number "twelve" birthday becomes a three. This tends to brighten the more somber aspects of your Capricorn sun sign. But it may also encourage you to scatter your energies through too many interests.

Your ruling planet Saturn suggests that you are not afraid of work. In fact, your devotion to work may cause you to neglect other interests. Since this planetary influence is represented by the Ten of Clubs, the odds — particularly in the brain department — are stacked in your favor. So remember to use your head! This influence also suggests an independent streak, which may make it difficult to apply the emphasis on cooperation pointed out by your card. Actually, you are likely to be happier working for yourself.

Mercury is the ruler of the decanate in which your birthday occurs. As symbolized by the Eight of Hearts it implies a commanding personal force and charm, which should help you to get your message across. This should prove to be a most wonderful asset if you choose to become involved in politics, the theater and in selling. Even though you are inclined toward the more tangible-mundane aspects of life, an underlying mystical quality may encourage an interest in matters occult and spiritual. To illustrate the extreme possibilities, for example, you share this birthday with Swami Viveknananda, artist John Sargent, German politician Herman Goering, writer Jack London, singer-actor Tex Ritter, and newscaster Martin Agronsky.

Early in life you are likely to realize that "he who flirts and runs away, lives to flirt another day." But identified as you are with the number two, you are also likely to recognize that you need someone else to be complete. Having a strong domestic nature, you are a natural for marriage. In your quest for completeness, you may be more successful with someone born on January 10, 14, 16; February 25, 26; March 6, 10, 12; April 21, 28; May 2, 6, 19, 20; June 24, 27; July 2, 15, 16, 22; August 23, 27; September 11, 12, 18, 21; December 25, 27.

JANUARY 13 (1 + 3 = 4) A♠ ACE OF SPADES

The aspiration for something, possibly unknown, is apt to motivate you to work ver hard, seeking a meaningful purpose and expression for your life. Frustrations are apt t challenge this effort, encouraging indulgence in chronic depression. Use the "mystic insight" symbolized in your card, and you will find the key to overcoming.

The numerical four of your birthday, along with Saturn, your ruling planet, is likel to encourage a down-to-earth, practical approach to solving problems. As represented b the Nine of Clubs, this planetary influence indicates that you have the mental capacity but that you may dissipate your potential through wasting your energies in worry an defeatism. Physically the odds are in your favor, but your health is very vulnerable to you mental outlook. So in your intense effort to prove yourself, watch that you do not becom so determined and grim that you take the joy out of living.

Your birthday occurs in the decanate of Capricorn ruled by Mercury. Since this plane is symbolized by the Seven of Hearts, charm is likely to be one of your prime assets. It als points to the possibility that jealousy both on the giving and receiving end may be a re hazard. While the secretive qualities of your card suggest that you might be happier behin the scenes, an aggressive urge for self-expression is likely to push you into the limelight.

For some examples, note the following who share this birthday with you. Author Horati Alger, philosopher George Gurdjieff, producer Vittorio De Sica, actress Gwen Verdon an actor Robert Stack.

Even though you have that certain something that attracts others to you, loneline may still haunt you. It may drive you to drink, or it may encourage an exploration of th spiritual powers hidden in your card in a quest for answers. If you choose the latter cour others may also benefit from your efforts. An inclination to be somewhat aloof and under onstrative in your affections may cause others to think you eccentric and cold. Don answer doubts and misunderstandings with temperament.

You may find an easier rapport with someone born on January 11, 15, 20; Februar 18, 25, 26; March 7, 11, 16; April 21, 22, 29; May 3, 7, 12, 20; June 25; July 3, 8, 15, 1 23; August 21, 27, 28; September 4, 11, 12, 19; October 23, 24; November 7, 8, 15, 21, 2

JANUARY 14 (1 + 4 = 5) K♦ KING OF DIAMONDS

Card-wise, you wear a diamond crown. The numerical five of your birthday sugges versatility and the probability that the quest for your destined realm will involve extensiv travel and many changes. Though you may start small, the cards suggest that you wi achieve considerable success in the kingdom of your choice.

According to the Eight of Clubs, which represents your planetary ruler — Saturn, you scepter of power is cerebral. But before you can effectively use this brain power, you wi probably have to overcome a gnawing restlessness and lack of discipline. You are pragmatic. You are not interested in theories, that is unless they can be put to some practical use. And since you are identified with the top diamond card, this could be in occupations dealing in monetary and material matters. In fact, you are inclined to enjoy bargaining, as an exercise of your manipulative talents.

As represented by the Six of Hearts, your decanate ruler Mercury may somewhat soften the materialistic image implied in your card. A magnetic charm is suggested by this influence, which could prove a valuable asset in your natural role of leadership. The strong sensual-sensitivity suggested can contribute to successful expression in music, art and drama. It can also lead to excessive indulgences in all things to which the flesh is prone. Though ambition for money and power are associated with your birthday as the following well-known names illustrate, this is not the whole picture. For example, you share your January 14 birthday with spiritual leaders Albert Schweitzer and Pastor Martin Niemoeller. Also born on this day were: writer-statesman Carlos Romulo of the Philippines, writer Pierre Loti, singers Jean De Reszke and Jack Jones, designer Cecile Beaton, politician Julian Bond, actor William Bendix and actress Faye Dunaway.

When it comes to dealing with groups of people, you are a social success. It's those close-ups, where your emotional uncertainty and inability to express your real feelings, that cause difficulty in building relationships. Love and sex are important, but they are not likely to sway practical considerations. You are likely to find greater success in love and friendship with someone born on January 2, 10, 12, 16, 18; February 25, 27, 29; March 6, 10, 12, 14; April 22, 23, 25, 30; May 2, 4, 8, 10, 20, 21; June 26; July 4, 6, 16; 17, 19; September 2, 12, 13, 15, 20; November 8, 9, 11, 16; December 29.

JANUARY 15 (1 + 5 = 6) Q♦ QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

The sensitive leadership quality implied by your card is enhanced by the natural diplomatic flare suggested by the numerical six of your birthday. An inherent subtle strength and an intuitive sense of values should serve you well in people-related activities and in the appreciation of finer things.

Your guiding star, Saturn, as represented by the Seven of Clubs, indicates a potential for significant inspiration. Because of excessive worry, particularly in regards to money, there is danger of minimizing your ability to give inspired leadership. Since you have wonderful earning potential, these fears are likely to be groundless. Any problems that may arise here are likely to be the result of reckless extravagance.

An air of uncertainty may mark your outlook, especially in relationships. This is due to the influence of the Five of Hearts, which symbolizes your decanate ruler Mercury. Watch that this emotional influence does not encourage instability which can impair your relationship with others. As a keen observer, you probably prefer to by-pass text books and increase your wisdom through absorbing knowledge. Though your great versatility suggests a multitude of possibilities, you may be particularly gifted in public service and merchandising. For other considerations note the following who share this birthday with you. Two rulers, Ibn Saud of Arabia and Nassar of Egypt, playwright Moliere, scientist Edward Teller, actor Lloyd Bridges, actresses Maria Schell and Margaret O'Brien, drummer Gene Krupa and civil rights leader Martin Luther King.

Numerologically, your birthday is considered to be a marriage number, so your personal fulfillment is likely to depend on finding that special someone with whom you can share your life. But your own emotional instability, and a tendency to attract others suffering from the same affliction may make this blissful state difficult to realize. You may find it easier with someone born on January 3, 13, 17, 19; March 9, 13, 15; May 5, 9, 11; June 27, 30; July 1, 5, 7; August 23, 26, 30; September 1, 3, 21; October 22, 26; November 17, 20; December 22, 30.

JANUARY 16 (1 + 6 = 7) — J♦ — JACK OF DIAMONDS

The practical wisdom suggested by the numerical seven of your birthday should help you to capitalize on the positive, youthful vitality implied by your card. There are spiritual overtones here, but being in conflict with mundane and material ambition they are likely to come out second best.

Saturn, ruler of your sun sign, as represented by the Six of Clubs, suggests that intuitive timing is one of the keys to your success. While this planetary influence is likely to add a force of stability, it also points to the danger of your getting into a rut, of being content with things as they are. This might be fine, except your card implies that you thrive on action and progress. Without stability, you could all too easily lose that exuberant self-confidence in moody depressions.

The Four of Hearts symbolizing Mercury, the decanate ruler of the segment of Capricorn in which your birthday occurs, suggests that you have an instant charm. One that can win a favorable response, whether it be in the realm of politics, selling products or yourself as an entertainer. Your life picture indicates a wide variety of experiences, which will probably include much travel. A strong sense of patriotism suggests that you can be especially valuable in the service of your country both militarily and in government. According to your crown card the role of a leader or an executive should be natural for you. But as a Jack whether it be as a profession, or as an avocation, you should provide yourself with some opportunity for creative expression for your happiness.

You share this birthday with Captain John Smith, writer Vittorio Alfieri, Cuban leader Batista, baseball's Dizzy Dean and singer Ethel Merman.

You appear to be spontaneous and enthusiastic, but in truth your impulses are apt to be controlled and deliberate. The same might be said about your affairs of the heart. Practical considerations are likely to play an important part in your choice of romantic involvements and friendships. To simplify this quest, you might start with those born on January 14, 18, 20; February 21; March 10, 14, 16, 19; May 6, 10, 12, 15; June 28; July 2, 6, 8, 11; August 24, 31; September 2, 4, 7, 22; October 27; November 3, 18; December 23.

JANUARY 17 (1 + 7 = 8) — 10♦ — TEN OF DIAMONDS

Success and power merge through your card, the Ten of Diamonds, and the number eight of your birthday. With this dynamic combination of influences you have no excuse for failure. You desire much, and the cards, planets and numbers all say you have what it takes to get it.

Independent and confident, yet Saturn, your planetary ruler as represented by the Five of Hearts, suggests that emotional considerations may prove to be a significant stumbling block. The variety of moods implied by this card warn of an erratic temperament. While this can be an unstable influence, it also suggests a great charm, and an interest in the well-being of others. The positive image that you project conceals the fact that you may be very vulnerable — health-wise — to the excessive demands that you make on your energies. Wisdom suggests that you deliberately schedule times in which you can withdraw to recoup your strength.

Mercury, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the constructive power of the Eight of Spades accents your practical capabilities and suggests that you belong on top. The record indicates that this may be as a statesman, performer or executive. You are great at directing the action, but you should have others take care of the details. While you may respond to reason, critics will not find you very gracious. Security and enjoyment come to you through acquiring the treasures of this planet. Providing you are willing to work for it, there is no good reason why you should not be able to achieve the success and abundance to which you aspire. If you need any inspiration, consider the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes statesman Benjamin Franklin, David Lloyd George and Frank Hague, Doctor Tom Dooley, prize fighter Joe Frazier, dancer Moira Shearer, actresses Shari Lewis and Sheree North, actor James Earl Jones, producer Stanislavsky and author Anton Chekhov.

Emotional restlessness may conflict with your otherwise conservative nature. Your home is very important, but other interests may not allow you to spend much time by your own fireplace. In your choice of marriage partners and friends, practical considerations are likely to play an important part. In this pursuit you may be more fortunate with someone born on January 7, 10, 13, 15, 19; March 3, 6, 9, 11, 15; April 26; May 5, 6, 7, 11; June 22; July 1, 3, 7, 20; August 28; September 3, 16; October 24; November 12, 22; December 30.

JANUARY 18 (1 + 8 = 9) — 9♦ — NINE OF DIAMONDS

The attributes of the number nine are emphasized by both your card and by the numerical quality of your birthday. These suggest a universal interest in life, an independent spirit, and the ability to succeed as a leader and executive. These suggest a challenging life but also one that presents the opportunity for considerable achievement.

As a Capricorn, Saturn, your planetary ruler, accents a practical approach toward fulfilling your ambition for all the prestige and material well-being that status can buy. As this planet is represented by the Four of Hearts, your aspirations are helped by a warm natural charm. This combination of influences also suggests that a positive, confident facade hides an extremely sensitive you, an individual who might truly enjoy collecting art for its own sake. Guard against abusing this emotional force through an inclination to be critical and sarcastic. The intense will that contributes to your success in business also helps you excel on the golf course, or on the tennis court. Actually, your tendency to be high-strung suggests that sports could prove to be a most valuable therapy.

Not too receptive to advice, it is fortunate that you have the keen perspective power implied by your decanate ruler, Mercury. Because of the superior reasoning ability suggested by this influence, you may get a kick out of debates. Since this planetary influence is symbolized by the Seven of Spades, do not let these deteriorate into arguments. While well equipped to handle the big problems of life, you are apt to stumble over little worries and details. You are at your best in large-scale endeavors, such as big business, large parties and large audiences.

The writers Montesquieu and Daniel Webster, actors Oliver Hardy, Cary Grant and Danny Kaye and boxing champion Muhammad Ali all share this birthday with you.

Love is likely to be a chore for you, so be especially careful that you do not become involved in problem relationships. Since the realm of relationships is one area in which your natural luck is likely to fail, you might improve your chances for success in love and friendship by looking for someone born on January 2, 9, 14, 16, 20; February 28; March 5, 10, 12, 16; April 24, 27; May 6, 8, 12, 22; June 28; July 2, 4, 8, 18, 21; August 24, 29; September 4, 14, 17, 22; October 25; November 10, 13, 18.

JANUARY 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) — 8♦ — EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

Combine the power suggested in your card with the leadership attributes implied in your birthday, and you should be able to obtain just about anything you desire. In your quest to be number one, avoid being too aggressive. You should be able to achieve your goals through your many abilities and exciting personality.

With the Ten of Spades symbolizing your astrological ruler — Saturn, success is almost a predestined probability. Obviously, work is part of your destiny and the key to your personal fulfillment and happiness. Although you may have to work hard for the good fortune promised in your birthday, you are likely to have the strong physique and health needed to sustain your endeavors.

Your ability to excel and to lead others is further enhanced by the King of Spades, which symbolizes your decanate ruler — Mercury. The mystical-spiritual quality associated with this influence can give a profound boost to your higher awareness. For the totally materially-oriented, this influence may encourage unexplainable moods and outbursts of temper. If the bright promises made for your birthday appear to be eluding you, check to see if you are avoiding the responsibility of your potential. While your card and Capricorn birthday suggest a talent in dealing in values, money, property and machinery, you also have a gift for turning your inspirations into literary and artistic masterpieces. For other possibilities, observe in the following, the diversity of expression available to those born on your day. The list includes inventor James Watt, scientist Henry Bessemer, artist Paul Cezanne, writers Edgar Allen Poe and Alexander Woolcott, Robert E. Lee, actress Jean Stapleton, actors Victor Mature, Guy Madison and Desi Arnaz, Jr.

The fortunate aspects of your day are not likely to be of much help in romance. Difficulties in this area may arise from emotional confusion and your preoccupation with other interests. Success in love, even friendships may take all the keen understanding of human nature that you possess. Your chances might be improved in this respect by choosing someone born on January 7, 15, 17, 21; February 21, 26; March 3, 11, 13, 17, 19; April 22, 28; May 7, 9, 13, 15, 20; June 24; July 3, 5, 9, 11, 16, 22; August 27, 28; September 1, 5, 7, 12, 18; October 24, 25; November 1, 3, 8, 14; December 28.

JANUARY 20 (2 + 0 = 2) — 7♦ — SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

A mystical introvert is the image suggested by your card in combination with the gentle numerical two of your birthday. The urge to prove yourself, to find a personal security in the expression of your talents may awaken your sleeping ambition and help you overcome your hyper-sensitive shyness.

Occurring on the cusp of Capricorn and Aquarius, your birthday suggests that you have two planetary rulers — Saturn and Uranus. While Uranus could disturb your practical nature with flights of fancy, the practical influence of Saturn could help make your impossible Aquarius dreams come true. Saturn, as represented by the Two of Hearts, suggests burdens in relationships and cooperative endeavors. Though it appears you can gain from partnership efforts, fear of the challenge may cause you to forgo them, concentrating your energies on personal objectives. Uranus, as symbolized by the King of Hearts, highlights your leadership attributes, and suggests a magnetism which could prove to be quite an asset in activities involving contacts with people. Heartbreaking setbacks are a strong possibility. In your desperation for success, resist the temptation to use dubious tactics. Fortunately, you have a gut-drive to find success through your abilities and perseverance. Business interests, particularly those involved in the handling of money, are favored by your "diamond" sense of values.

As well demonstrated by the following, you can also sparkle successfully in music, dance and drama. For example, you share this birthday with dancers Ruth St. Dennis and Alexandra Danilova, pianist Joseph Hofman, violinist Mischa Elman, comedians George Burns and Arte Johnson, publisher Fleur Cowles, producer Federico Fellini and actresses Dorothy Provine and Patricia Neal.

Capable of loving deeply, but emotional hang-ups and demands from loved ones may cause you to wonder if marriage is really worth the hassle. Go it alone, and your intense feelings are likely to suffer from a sense of incompleteness. You might find someone worthwhile if you will drop the veil of aloofness and seek someone born on one of the following days: January 5, 6, 13, 18; February 20; March 1, 2, 9, 12, 14, 18; April 28, 29; May 5, 8, 10, 14; June 24, 25; July 1, 4, 6, 10, 22, 23; August 21, 28; September 2, 6, 18, 19; October 24, 30; November 2, 14, 15, 22; December 20, 26.

JANUARY 21 (2 + 1 = 3) — 6♦ — SIX OF DIAMONDS

A dreamer of grand dreams, you have the charm and almost everything else needed to make them come true . . . with the possible exception of initiative. Capable as you can be, your lofty aspirations may suffer from a strong appetite for pleasure and companionship, a desire to be a real bon vivant.

As a child of the cusp of Capricorn and Aquarius, your destiny is influenced by two ruling planets — Saturn and Uranus. These celestial spheres, as represented by the Ace of Hearts and the Ace of Diamonds, may supply enough ambition to overcome your inherent inertia. When you rise above this hurdle, guard against taking on too many interests, or you will end up with a good case of confusion. Though you may appear easy going, you can be quite obstinate, especially when you feel that you are being pushed around. A lack of persistence and purpose is apt to be one of the greatest obstacles to your achieving your objectives. Failing to gain the recognition you feel is your due, you are apt to retreat into moods and aimless jobs. The practical application of your visionary abilities through some type of community leadership or artistic expression could bring you the very recognition and prestige you so dearly desire.

You share this birthday with King Charles V of France, military leaders General Stonewall Jackson and Maxime Wegland. Inventor of the machine gun — John Browning, designer Christian Dior, actors J. Carrol Naish, Steve Reeves and Telly Savalas, actress Jinx Falkenberg, and golfer Jack Nicklaus.

The need to be involved with someone is a compelling urge, but closer ties may suffer from your love of being surrounded by a crowd of friends. Sensual as you are inclined to be, an intermittent sex drive suggests that you may be a better buddy than a sweetheart. All the more reason for much caution in choosing a lifemate. In that quest, you may be more successful with someone born on January 3, 6, 19; February 1, 4, 17; March 2, 15; April 13, 29, 30; May 11, 27, 28; June 25, 26; July 7, 23, 24, 31; August 21, 22, 29; September 3, 19, 20, 27, 30; October 1, 17, 18; November 15, 23, 26; December 13, 14, 21, 24, 27.

JANUARY 22 (Master Number) — 5♦ — FIVE OF DIAMONDS

The tendency to indulge in uncertainty implied by your card is greatly minimized by the power suggested in your number twenty-two birthday. As a "Master Number," twenty-two suggests a tremendous potential. particularly if you apply the concept of personal mastery. If this is more than you can cope with, you can also operate under the constructive influence of the numerical four of your birthday.

The spectacular possibilities suggested above are further amplified by the King of Clubs, which symbolizes your ruling planet — Uranus. Whatever your interest or occupation, this influence suggests that you are a natural leader and are likely to feel incomplete until you find some way to express this ability. Despite the greatness of your potential, an almost petty concern with mundane affairs and money matters may prove a real threat to your profound inspirations. Beginning with possible problems with your parents in your youth and throughout much of your life, calls for help, health problems of yourself and others are apt to interfere with the pace needed to achieve your lofty objectives. Watch that a desire for change combined with a restless impatience doesn't cause a vulnerability to accidents and financial reverses. An inclination to indulge in extremes and erratic behavior patterns could seriously undermine the wonderful possibilities available to you.

On the other hand, don't become so overly cautious that you stifle your creativity. Get it all together and you should find that you have got what it takes to make it in art, drama and music. Actually, you can excel at just about anything. To illustrate, you share this birthday with Ivan the Great of Russia, philosopher Sir Francis Bacon, physicist Andre Ampere, writers Lord Byron, Maurice Hewlett and August Stringberg, singer Rosa Ponselle, actress Ann Sothern, actor Bill Bixby, and the U.N. Chairman, U Thant.

You can be a great lover, but an inclination to be somewhat aloof may make it difficult to prove. Or when you drop the barriers, a desire for the bizarre is apt to encourage some strange, probably unwise involvements. You might minimize the risk by looking for someone born on January 20, 24, 26, 29; February 5, 18; March 22, 25; April 1, 14, 18, 20; May 21, 28, 29; June 10, 14, 16, 19; July 24, 25; August 6, 10, 12, 15, 18, 22, 23; September 28; October 2, 6, 8, 11, 19; November 24, 30; December 2, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22.

JANUARY 23 (2 + 3 = 5) — 4♦ — FOUR OF DIAMONDS

The union of your card with the numerical factors of your Aquarius birthday suggest a peculiar combination of practicality and eccentricity. Capable and versatile, yet you may fail through an almost reckless restlessness and an inability to sustain your interest. A hard worker, but you may need something to keep turning you on.

Talent and mental potential are suggested by the Ten of Clubs, which represents your planetary ruler — Uranus. When you want to, you can learn quickly. But everything you do is inclined to be subject to your vacillating moods. Your free Aquarian spirit is reluctant to accept the dictum of hard work implied in your card as a necessary ingredient toward realizing your far-out schemes. Watch that a resistance to this necessity does not encourage nervousness and stomach problems. A remarkable understanding of people suggests you should find work and activities which allow an expression of this faculty very rewarding. In your impatience, watch the tendency to risk everything on some speculative venture. Identified as you are with the Four of Diamonds you are fortunate — but not in games of chance. Moneywise, the cards are stacked in your favor, but in one way or another, the Fates have destined you to work for it. Channel that imagination, and you can succeed in business, music, art and drama. For further inspiration check the following who share this birthday with you. American revolutionary statesman John Hancock, artist Edouard Manet, actress Jeanne Moreau, actors Randolph Scott and Ernie Kovacs.

Emotionally unpredictable, at times you may have an intense sex drive and then, at other times you may prefer platonic relationships. Marriage is not exactly your cup of whatever, but if you are female and someone snags you with a wedding ring, you will probably work hard at it. If you are male, romantic marriage entanglements are even less likely. In either case, you may find relationships with those born on the following days among the most satisfactory. January 21, 25; February 6, 12, 14, 17, 19; April 2, 8, 10, 13, 15, 19; May 30; June 4, 6, 9, 11, 15; July 26; August 2, 5, 7, 11, 24; September 22, 29; October 1, 3, 7, 20; November 25, 28; December 2, 16, 23.

JANUARY 24 (2 + 4 = 6) — 3♦ — THREE OF DIAMONDS

The need for self-expression implied in your card is likely to eventually overcome the reticence suggested numerically in your birthday, encouraging some sort of public activity. Though somewhat of a mystery, even to yourself, you can be a gifted speaker when you get past the communication barriers within, as well as without.

The eccentric influence of Uranus, your planetary ruler, may add to your sense of adventure, but is not likely to contribute much to your quest for stability. As symbolized by the Nine of Clubs, this distant planet indicates no lack in the brain department, but thinking may seem such a chore that you are reluctant to develop this attribute. Quandaries are likely to begin early in life, with the necessity of having to make decisions. The direction in which you want your life to go being the most difficult. While this may not seem like much of a challenge, it's apt to feed those youthful frustrations and tensions resulting in depression and nervousness. Retreating from the complexities of society, pursuing a simple life in the country may minimize this possibility. Or you may find that peace of mind can be found in working with your hands — writing, sculpting or working with machinery.

A need for people along with ambition for the luxuries of life may lure you back into the mainstream. Here you may find the outlet for your desire for expression in politics and in the theater. If you need any further inspiration to overcome that tendency to become bored and give up, keep in mind you share this birthday with Rome's Emperor Hadrian, Frederick the Great of Prussia; also more comtemporary figures such as composer William Mason, diplomat-orator Joseph Choate, Pulitzer prize winner novelist Edith Wharton, sculptor Paul Barlett, evangelist Oral Roberts, actor Ernest Borgnine, dancer Maria Tallchief and singer Neil Diamond.

Unpredictable moods may camouflage your natural charms, but when someone turns you on, your winning personality lights up and conquers the object of your affections. Since you are not exactly "lucky in love," this may not be to your advantage. You might improve that luck by looking for someone born on January 22, 26; February 1, 7, 20; March 22; April 3, 16, 20; May 31; June 12, 16; July 27; August 8, 12; September 23, 30; October 4, 8, 21; November 26; December 4, 17.

JANUARY 25 (2 + 5 = 7) — 2♦ — TWO OF DIAMONDS

The mystical inclination suggested by the numerical seven of your birthday may be minimized by the material orientation implied in your diamond card, but it may still bring a touch of immortality to your mundane efforts. Do not allow hidden fears to foster any hostilities, which may interfere with the success you can find in cooperative endeavors.

It should please you to learn that the Ten of Diamonds, which symbolizes your ruling planet Uranus, indicates the possibility of your efforts rewarding you in a very handsome way. There is a major obstacle to your good fortune, and that is an inclination to indulge in self-depreciating negativity. Triumph over this tendency and "success should be no stranger." The Uranus placement of this card suggests that your fortune may be found in dealing in products or activities relating to the land, such as mining, farming and real estate. Medical and scientific research are also favored by this influence. Mental resources, second to none, may be most apparent in your analytical and mathematical ability. A natural curiosity encourages developing an understanding of the mechanics of life both in people and in machinery.

You can build, repair and sell — and according to the following who share this birt day with you, you may be able to make it in writing and drama. For example, you sha this birthday with surgical inventor James Sims, distinguished educator and religious lead Rufus Matthew Jones, writers Robert Burns and Somerset Maugham, chemist Robert Boyl doctor Paul Spaak, newsman Edwin Newman, actresses Mildred Dunnock and Leigh Taylo Young.

As a two, you have a great need to be needed. In an effort to fulfill this need, you a apt to saddle yourself with the responsibilities of others, often receiving no recognition o appreciation for your efforts. Although not happy as a loner, numerically your birthda suggests extreme caution in choosing a marriage partner. You may do much to minimiz possible difficulties by choosing mates and close associates from those born on January 2 27, 29; February 8; March 23, 25, 28, 30, 31; April 4, 17, 21; May 21, 24, 26, 27; June 1 17, 19, 22; July 22, 23, 28; August 9, 13, 15, 18, 20, 21; September 24, 28; October 5, 11, 14, 16, 17, 22; November 24, 27; December 1, 5, 7, 10, 12, 13, 18, 22.

JANUARY 26 (2 + 6 = 8) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

Numerologically, your birthday reveals the power necessary to accomplish the amb tious aspirations suggested by your card. But this quest may be jeopardized by an inclinatio to work or play too hard. Among your prime assets on that road to success is your ability t relate successfully with all kinds of people.

Your guiding planet, Uranus, suggests a youthful spirit, and a freedom from conve tional life styles. As symbolized by the Seven of Clubs, this celestial influence may giv you some wild inspirations that can be the key to your fortune. Or it may short circuit you brain power through worrisome thought patterns. A dabbling acquaintance with the occu may also be encouraged by this influence. But your need for practical, material demonstra tion is apt to minimize any serious pursuit in the metaphysical realms. Even so, an intuitiv insight in business will probably be a significant asset in anticipating trends and contribut to your ever increasing bank account.

Full of ideas, you are inclined to take on big undertakings, which may need a sma army to bring them into reality. A streak of extravagance will probably give your mone making talents a real race. At times you are almost generous to a fault; so much so that you penurious moments may come as a surprise to those who think they know you well. I choosing a career, or way of life, keep in mind your compulsive need for freedom. Yo thrive on a variety of action and changes of scenery. An ideal career might be as a stoc broker, or entertainer on a cruise ship.

For some other possibilities check out the following who share this birthday wit you: General MacArthur, explorer Roy Chapman, singers Norma Madsden and Eartha Kit actor Paul Newman, publisher Larry Ross and civil rights leader Angela Davis.

Your restless Aquarian heart may find it difficult to settle down. But a strong desir for a home base, a need for emotional security and stability, and a stubborn streak may accomplish what no romantic situation can. You might be more inspired to make this effort with someone born on January 22, 24, 30; February 4, 9, 20; March 20, 24, 26; April 5, 16, 18; May 20, 22; June 1, 12, 14, 18, 20; July 31; August 8, 10, 14, 18; September 27; October 4, 6, 10, 12; November 23, 28; December 21, 26.

JANUARY 27 (2 + 7 = 9) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

Identification with the top card in the club or mental suit, and with a birthday which numerically implies a "cosmic awareness," certainly suggests that you were born under a "lucky star." Even if you take your good fortune for granted, you will probably enjoy some of its bountiful benefits. Of course, to truly realize your potential it is essential that you accept the responsibilites of developing the opportunities symbolized in your crown card.

The tremendous intellectual potential implied in your birthday is enhanced by the intuitive perspective indicated by the Six of Clubs, symbolic of your ruling planet, Uranus. This influence also warns that your wonderful possibilities may suffer through indulgent laziness. Although your thinking is likely to be too advanced to be interested in traditional life styles and religious practices, you are apt to be intrigued by unusual philosophical and metaphysical concepts. Although your life is likely to be one of extreme highs and lows, fortunately your positive spirit is not likely to let you stay down for long. Not exactly cut out to be a follower, you had better prepare to lead the action or to excel in your chosen field. One of your greatest frustrations may be in the realization "that you could have been greater than you are." A law unto yourself, you might feel right at home in the legal profession or in politics. The latter should benefit from your intuitive understanding of human nature, which should also prove an asset in the role of counsellor, teacher and physician.

For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with Kaiser Wilhelm II, composers Mozart, Edouard Lalo and Jerome Kern, publisher William Randolf Hearst, Vice Admiral Rickover, actress Donna Reed, actor Troy Donahue and musician Skitch Henderson.

In love and friendship, you are apt to have everything your way — almost! A suspicious reservation about people allows you to accept only a few as close friends from the many who try to crowd into your life. Apply this same caution in love and you may minimize the tendency to attract burdensome relationships. You might begin by looking for someone born on January 25, 29, 31; February 5, 10, 11; March 21, 25, 27; April 1, 6, 7, 19; May 21, 23; June 2, 3, 15, 19, 21; July 29; August 11, 15, 17; September 25; October 7, 11, 13, 23; November 21, 29; December 3, 7, 9, 19, 27.

JANUARY 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

The sensitive, multi-talented potential suggested by your card combined with th leadership quality implied in the numerical one of your birthday could place you up fro in just about anything you may attempt. Whatever it be, mentally, you are apt to be on natural high, at the forefront of the avant-garde.

The fountainhead of your creativity is likely to be found in the eccentric brainstorm spawned by your guiding planet, Uranus. As your ruling planet, Uranus is symbolized b the Seven of Diamonds, material aspirations are likely to add their incentive, giving sui stance to your idealistic inspirations through music, literature, science, or as the champio of some social or political cause. In this respect, you might find a special place in the leg profession, or in just about anything that can make good use of your cerebral powers. Thi clearly suggests that you are likely to be wasting your time behind a plow or using a pic and shovel. As boredom can wipe you out about as fast as anything, you will also be wise t avoid interests, particularly work of a too mundane or pedantic nature. All your endeavor especially relationships are vulnerable to your changeable, emotional temperament whic can cause you to be unrealistic and extravagant. A natural for occult interests, don't allo your curiosity regarding metaphysics encourage you to become too disconnected and ab stract. As it is, you are already beyond the understanding of most mortals. If you can kee from being too obscure, you can be an inspired teacher and counsellor. For some othe possibilities, you share this birthday with England's King Henry VIII, scientist Charle Condamine, explorer Sir Henry Stanley, balloonist August Piccard, statesman Jose Mart novelist Colette, pianist Arthur Rubinstein and actor Alan Alda.

Idealism may hold you in place, but it will have to counter a love of variety and unpre dictable emotions. If you desire to build a lasting relationship, you had better find someon who is flexible and imaginative and not too greatly shaken by your restless heart. You migh just find that someone born on January 26, 27; February 10, 11, 12, 17; March 22, 28, 3 April 6, 7, 8, 13, 20; May 24, 27, 29; June 2, 3, 4, 9, 16, 22; July 23, 25, 30; August 5, 1 18, 21, 23; September 26; October 1, 8, 14, 17, 19, 24; November 22, 27, 30; December 4 10, 13; 15, 20.

JANUARY 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

Card-wise and numerically, you are a Crown Prince with awesome power. Some appli cation of the mastery symbolized in your birthday is essential if you are to successfull express the responsibility associated with your card. In this effort, you are likely to fin your greatest challenge will be your eccentric and independent nature.

With Uranus your ruling planet, symbolized by the Four of Hearts, your metaphysica and philosophical perspective takes on a humanitarian quality. One which may benefit man others through your talented pen, scientific insight, or the desire to serve politically through some idealistic cause. Leadership is written in all the occult aspects of your birthday. Were you to seek a so-called normal life, the demands for your skills and talents would soon bring you out into the limelight. You belong at the head, not in a subordinate position. You are not a follower! The friendly warmth suggested by your birthday implies you can be particularly effective in activities that bring you before the public. Occupations which provide you with the opportunity to express your creative imagination should be the most personally rewarding.

If you need some inspiration, the following persons who share this birthday with you should certainly provide it. The list includes mystic-philosopher Emanuel Swedenborg, political philosopher Thomas Paine, President William McKinley, inventor Allen Dumont, film director Ernest Lubitsch, playwright Paddy Chayefsky, actor John Forsythe.

Unusual as your life is apt to be, you can hardly expect your love life to follow traditional modes. Even those brief intimate emotional experiences are likely to be disturbed by moods and deep thoughts. In selecting a mate or friends, you will fare better with those who can adjust their time to your erratic schedule. This may be easier with someone born on January 22, 27; February 1, 5, 13; March 23; April 1, 9, 16, 21; June 5, 12, 17; July 31; August 1, 8, 13; September 27, 28; October 4, 9; November 23, 24; December 5, 21, 22.

JANUARY 30 (3 + 0 = 3) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

The numerical three of your birthday suggests an electric personality, which should enhance the potential for success implied in your card. Capable in many areas, yet your versatility may minimize your achievements by tempting you to scatter your energies through too many interests and places.

The probability of success is further amplified by the Ten of Spades, which represents your ruling planet, Uranus. This combination of influences also suggests that no matter how far out your dreams and schemes may be, you are not above the hard work needed to bring them to fruition. Be it hard work or pleasure, ambition encourages you to do things on a big, imaginative scale. A restless impatience suggests that you prefer to acquire your education through travel and a wide variety of experiences. This is so much so that there is a real danger of going overboard with this program.

Whether at work or at social occasions, you are inclined to dominate the scene, so you are not really suited for a subordinate position or partnerships. Partnerships are particularly apt to suffer from your compulsion for personal freedom and sense of recklessness. When selecting your life work or special purpose, keep in mind that the success indicated by your card, the Ten of Clubs, is more likely to come through using your head. You might translate this into productivity through writing, designing and composing music. Since you thrive on a variety of action, you may find politics and the entertainment world just your "thing." To illustrate, you share this birthday with President Franklin D. Roosevelt. King

Boris III of Bulgaria, conductor Walter Damrosh, actors David Wayne, John Ireland and Gene Hackman, actresses Dorothy Malone, Tammy Grimes and Vanessa Redgrave.

Sympathetic as you may be to the needs of others, romantic interests are likely to suffer from your independent nature and a preoccupation with career and numerous interests. A tendency to be somewhat high-strung may cause you to protect yourself with an invisible barrier, which is likely to hinder communications with those closest to you. You may feel less of a need to do this with someone born on January 26; February 6, 7, 16, 19; March 22, 28; April 2, 8, 12, 20; May 24, 31; June 8, 16, 22; July 27, 31; August 4, 12, 18; September 23, 27, 29; October 8, 14, 21; November 23, 25; December 4, 10, 17, 21, 23.

JANUARY 31 (3 + 1 = 4) — 9♣ — NINE OF CLUBS

Bold and impatient in your quest to play an important part on the larger stage of life, you have a recklessness that could get you into all sorts of adventures. Happily, both your card and the numerical four factor of your birthday suggest that you have the talent and the practical luck to translate these experiences into fame and fortune.

Although a strong unconventional streak is indicated by Uranus, your planetary ruler as represented by the stabilizing influence of the Four of Clubs, your eccentricities are likely to be minimized by practical considerations. Except for an inclination to fret over little things, you will probably get a lot of pleasure out of just about anything you do. This does not mean you won't have your share of difficulties; after all, your card can be a symbol of disappointment and frustration. But it can also be symbolic of fulfillment as the result of perseverance. In this effort, do not impair your personable image by becoming too obstinate and temperamental. The development of your abilities and talents may be hampered by an underlying restlessness.

A "devil may care" charm combined with a theatrical flare could serve you well in the entertainment world and politics. But there is also intellectual power implied in your card which could bring success in writing and research. For some examples of both, you share this birthday with composer Franz Schubert, patriot merchant Robert Morris, Nobel Prize winning chemists Theodore Richards and Irving Langmuir, politician Stewert Udall, dancer Anna Pavlova, writer Norman Mailer, actresses Tallulah Bankhead, Jean Simmons, Carol Channing and Suzanne Pleshette, actor James Franciscus, comedian Eddie Cantor, singer Mario Lanza and television's Garry Moore.

Despite your freedom-loving Aquarian spirit, a very strong need for emotional security is likely to tame you into the state of matrimony. Once captured, you are inclined to be most faithful. Don't allow oversensitivity and a tendency to borrow trouble create unnecessary problems in relationships. Love and friendship may be easier with someone born on January 27, 29; February 4, 7, 12; March 23, 25, 29, 31; April 3, 8, 21; May 21, 25, 27, 30; June 4,17,19, 23; July 23, 26; August 13, 15, 19, 21; September 22, 30; October 9, 11, 15, 17, 20; November 26; December 5, 7, 11, 13, 16.

FEBRUARY 1 (1 = 1) — J♠ — JACK OF SPADES

Not easy to fathom, your card suggests a peculiar blending of humility and confident arrogance. Numerically, your birthday implies that you really do want to be "number one." Cardwise, you have the intuitive vitality both materially and spiritually to achieve that objective.

The subtle power implied in your card is accentuated by the Eight of Spades, which symbolizes your ruling planet, Uranus. This combination of influences suggests the probability that there is little that can resist any sincere effort on your part. The real challenge may lie in directing your somewhat erratic energies into constructive channels. But when you do, your talents and abilities combined with your individualistic and dramatic nature can bring success in government and in theatrical endeavors.

Superior mental attributes are pointed out by the Eight of Clubs, representative of your decanate ruler, Mercury. This suggests rewarding expression through literature, or pioneering new concepts and social reforms. As a rule, you go about your tasks and activities quietly. It is only when somebody crosses you or tries to pick an argument that they are likely to find that you are more than their match both physically and mentally. Unless you are the boss, you are not likely to be content in an eight to five type job. As you are inclined to make your own rules, it is very important that you learn to resist the temptation to use dubious tactics to obtain your ends. Accept the responsibility of your own crown card, and as the following clearly illustrate, you can excel in the field of your choice. For example, you share this birthday with the great English jurist Sir Edward Coke, first woman senator Gattie W. Caraway, composer Victor Herbert, designer Louis St. Laurent, director John Ford, singer Alexander Kipnes, basso Chaliapin and actor Clark Gable.

Emotionally, you are apt to be pulled between idealism and expediency. A natural charm combined with a gift of gab can get you just about anyone or anything. Actually, you may have a greater problem in getting out of those impulsive entanglements. Love may be better with someone born on January 21, 29; February 3, 5, 11, 12, 19; March 25; April 1, 8, 9, 15; May 21, 28; June 4, 5, 11, 19; July 24, 31; August 1, 7, 15, 22; September 27; October 3, 11, 18; November 23; December 7, 14, 21.

FEBRUARY 2 (2 = 2) — 10♠ — TEN OF SPADES

According to your card, fate dealt you an extraordinary opportunity for success. Though an independent nature may cause you to appear aloof and overly confident, your number two birthday suggests this is a cover-up for a very sensitive individual. Vulnerable as this attribute may cause you to be, it may also be the key to the success symbolized in your card. Disciplined, this sensitivity supplies that subtle perception and touch required in the expression of genius.

As an Aquarian, your guiding stellar light is Uranus, which cardwise is represented by the Five of Spades. This symbol of change suggests your destiny includes a life full of travel and varied experiences. Mercury, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Five of Clubs, make this all the more probable, suggesting that restlessness is the spur that encourages travel and many changes in occupations and interests. A great curiosity in people and what makes them go may cause you to delve into psychological research, economics and politics. Capable as you can be in all these areas, you may have to watch that your very diversity of interests does not impair your success. Careerwise, you may find inspiration in the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are the psychologist Havelock Ellis, violinist Fritz Kreisler and Jascha Heifetz, author James Joyce, costume designer Helen Rose, sports star George Halas and comedian Tom Smothers.

You have the magnetism to attract others to you and yet difficulty in demonstrating affection may prove a serious obstacle in love and friendship. True, once your love and friendhsip has been gained none greater can be found. Unfortunately, it may be all too easy for you to become caught up with your own thing, to the point that you exclude others from your life. Combined with a natural secretiveness, you may find that this is a pathway to loneliness. You may find it easier to bridge this gap with those born on January 24; February 4, 6, 9; March 20; April 2, 5, 18; May 28, 31; June 1, 14; July 24, 27; August 10, 22; September 23, 29, 30; October 6, 18, 21; November 25, 26; December 2, 14, 17, 23.

FEBRUARY 3 (3 = 3) 9♠ NINE OF SPADES

The profound but somewhat cynical outlook suggested by your high Spade card is somewhat brightened by your number three birthday. This combination does imply a tendency to extremes, causing you to be either dynamic and humorous, or dull and despondent, with the potential for greatness equalled by a potential for despair.

A streak of reckless eccentricity is suggested by the combination of your card and Uranus, your ruling planet. As represented by the Two of Diamonds, this celestial body suggests that you may find profit through using your unique perspective as a source of unusual ideas, sparking scientific innovations, musical themes or capturing a bit of life on canvas or in the written word. Vitality and good recuperative power are also indicated. So if you get stuck with a lingering ailment, check to see if it isn't due to an indulgence in carelessness and negativity. Your casual air belies a methodical, almost painfully meticulous regard for details. While your unorthodox way of doing things is apt to be a significant factor in your success, you may have to watch that this does not lead to erratic behavior and temperamental outbursts which may disturb work and relationships.

As well demonstrated by the following, your success possibilities are quite diversified. For example, you share this birthday with the first American woman to receive a medical diploma-Elizabeth Blackwell, composer Felix Mendelson, educator-writer Horace Greeley, poet Sidney Lanier, inventor of high explosives Hudson Maxim, writers Gertrude Stein, Fran Tarkenton and James Michener, artist Norman Rockwell, entertainers Shelly Berman, Joey Bishop and Hildegarde, disk jockey Martin Block, and sports stars Carol Mann and Arthur Afrons.

Love, or at least some close emotional involvement is indicated by the Two of Hearts, symbolic of Mercury, your decanate ruler, as to being very important to your personal happiness. A natural personable magnetism is likely to make romance almost too easy. An inclination to be somewhat introspective and remote may create communication problems. This may be less likely with someone born on January 20; February 3, 5, 18; March 29; April 1, 14; May 25, 31; June 10, 23, 30; July 27, 28, 30; August 6, 19; September 23, 24, 26; October 2, 15, 21, 24; November 22, 27; December 11, 17, 18, 20.

FEBRUARY 4 (4 = 4) 8♠ EIGHT OF SPADES

According to your number four birthday the key to the power symbolized in your card is work! Accept this fact and there is very little that you can't do — and do exceptionally well. Ambitious, hard working, almost too determined for an Aquarian, watch that your push for success doesn't lead to wilful excesses.

Represented by the Three of Spades, Uranus, your planetary ruler, points to an exciting charm which could prove quite an asset in dealing with the public. It also warns of an inclination to take on too many interests. While your enthusiasm can move others into action, you are not likely to spare yourself. In fact, you may have to guard against a tendency to do everything the hard way, and the inclination to impose your will on others. Anyone mistaking your quiet nature as weakness is apt to be surprised at your stubborn tenacity. The blend of intuition and practical materialism implied in your card should help you give substance to advanced concepts as well as find profit in the process.

Though a great organizer and promoter of new ideas, don't allow this image of strength deceive you into thinking that you are above health precautions. It is important that you plan on regular periods to retreat to some quiet place where you can relax and recoup your energies. If you need any inspiration regarding your possibilities, you share this birthday with earlier educator Mark Hopkins, first pilot to fly the Atlantic Charles Lindbergh, German statesman Ludwig Erhard, comedian Eddie Foy, actress Ida Lupino, golfer Byron Nelson, and rock music star Alice Cooper.

Symbolic of your decanate ruler, Mercury, the Ace of Hearts suggests that your self-confident exterior hides a strong need for love. Great as that desire for affection may be, your set ways and outward coldness may prove a serious obstacle to emotional fulfillment. Material considerations are likely to play an important part in your choice of mate. Successful relationships may be more easily realized with someone born on January 21, 26, 31; February 2, 6, 18, 19; March 22, 27; April 2, 14, 15, 20; May 23, 30; June 10, 11, 16, 21; July 26, 31; August 6, 7, 12, 17; September 27; October 2, 3, 8, 13, 20; November 23, 28; December 4, 9, 16, 21.

FEBRUARY 5 (5 = 5) 7♠ SEVEN OF SPADES

The restless, skeptical nature suggested by your birthday may prove a serious challenge to the profound potential associated with your card. Most capable of leadership but a reluctance to accept the serious responsibilities symbolized in your card may encourage you to wear the mask of a clown.

An emphasis on cooperative endeavors is suggested by the Two of Spades, symbolic of your planetary ruler Uranus, and the Two of Clubs, representative of Mercury your decanate ruler. The hair-trigger, intuitive mind implied in these cards may encourage an impatient and quarrelsome nature, which could minimize the benefits to be gained from combining your forces with others. Though you are apt to have an abundance of physical vitality, your extreme sensitivity suggests that you need time, preferably outdoors where you can recharge your spiritual and physical batteries with the help of nature's healing forces

An inclination to procrastinate, or get lost in introspective moods, may cause others to think you are lazy. Actually, once turned on to an interest, a job, or special project, you are apt to work with no thought of time. As you will be uncomfortable in subordinate positions, you should either work for yourself or in some position of authority. You can be an inspiring force spiritually and politically, or your compulsive need for personal freedom may attract you to sports. For this and other examples, you share this birthday with "the pioneer of religious liberty" Roger Williams, pre-revolutionary politician James Otis, British Tory statesman Sir Robert Peel, American statesman Adlai Stevenson, Swedish poet Johan Runeberg, violinist Ole Bull, financier Norton Simon, actor Red Buttons, baseball's Hank Aaron and football's Roger Staubach.

A winning charm both publicly and privately, but fluctuating moods and a tendency to pursue romantic "will-o-the-wisps" may prove obstacles to your personal happiness. Actually, you are apt to be more successful with someone who stimulates you mentally as well as emotionally and who is born on January 21, 22, 27, 29; February 1, 3, 7, 15, 17, 19; March 23, 25, 31; April 3, 11, 13, 15, 16; May 21, 27; June 7, 9, 11, 12, 17, 19; July 23, 30; August 3, 5, 7, 8, 15, 21; September 26; October 1, 3, 9, 11, 17; November 29; December 5, 7, 13, 20.

FEBRUARY 6 (6 = 6) 6♠ SIX OF SPADES

The double six influence of your card and birthday suggests that an idealism to set things right may be one of your prime motivating forces. An inspired, intuitive awareness is likely to add to the effectiveness of your efforts. No limit to the heights you can reach, but inertia may prove a major impediment in the expression of your great gifts.

Uranus, your ruling planet as represented by the Ace of Clubs, indicates a desire to know and become involved,is likely to get you involved in all sorts of activity. Your enthusiasm is likely to spark others into action. Although you can be a drudge lost in monotonous routines, when something triggers a response, you can be quite outspoken. That catalyst may be your great sense of fairness, which may prod you into church, community and political action. A natural diplomat with charismatic charms, you can cut quite a figure on the podium, or in front of a camera. It appears that your energies are likely to grow with people contact, so don't hide away at home or in some job that isolates you from others. If you need any ideas in this regard, you may find them in the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are Belle Starr out of the old west, Governor Ronald Reagan, pianist Claudio Arrau, actresses Zsa Zsa Gabor, Mamie Van Doren and actor Fabian.

The numerical six factor of your birthday is considered to be a "marriage number." Add to this the impact of your decanate ruler, Mercury, as symbolized by the Queen of Hearts – a marriage symbol – and it's obvious that the state of matrimony is likely to be very important to you. While you're likely to have all the charms needed to fulfill this romantic destiny, an eternal quest for that ideal love may keep you trying again and again. You might minimize the need for this experimentation by looking for someone born on January 22, 23, 30; February 1, 2, 4, 8, 20; March 26; April 4, 16, 17; May 22, 28; June 12, 13, 20; July 24; August 8, 9, 16, 22; September 29; October 4, 5, 12, 18; November 25; December 1, 8, 14.

FEBRUARY 7 (7 = 7) 5♠ FIVE OF SPADES

To channel the restless uncertainty suggested by your card into productive expression may be your principle challenge. Your efforts to do this may be helped by drawing on the spiritual wisdom and discipline implied in your number seven birthday. These efforts are likely to be rewarded with material success and a mystical awareness which will truly quench your thirst for freedom.

Uranus, your planetary ruler as symbolized by the King of Diamonds, suggests that your personal fulfillment may be found through combining your inherent perceptive analytical ability in some expression of leadership, especially in scientific research and professions concerned with the welfare of others. Mining, farming and real estate are also likely to prove successful possibilities. As static situations tend to make you nervous, avoid occupations which are monotonous and restrictive. While this may make it difficult to sit at a typewriter and develop your exceptional writing potential, it would be a shame to let restlessness interfere with your literary possibilities. Perhaps, dictation is your answer; in this way you could write on the run. Inclined to be somewhat high-strung, you might find music both a natural therapy and a happy source of income. An instinctive humanitarian, you could contribute significantly towards improving the lot of others through enlightened observations, politically and in writing.

You share this birthday with English statesman Sir Thomas More, merchant-philanthropist John Rylands, novelists Charles Dickens and Sinclair Lewis, painter and ornithologist Louis Fuertes, Russian chemist Mendeleyev, baseball's Babe Ruth and football star turned actor Jim Brown.

Strong feelings and emotional sensitivity are implied by the Jack of Hearts, which symbolizes your decanate ruler Mercury. Since love is not likely to be a "many splendored thing," you would be wise to apply much caution in affairs of the heart. You might minimize some romantic problems by curbing your emotional impulses and finding someone born on January 24, 30, 31; February 5, 9, 16; March 26, 27; April 1, 5, 12, 18; May 22, 23; June 1, 8, 14, 20, 21; July 31; August 4, 10, 16, 17; September 27, 30; October 6, 12, 13; November 23, 26; December 2, 8, 9, 21, 29.

FEBRUARY 8 (8 = 8) 4♠ FOUR OF SPADES

A positive, dynamic individual is suggested by the combination of the practical attributes of your card and the power implied numerically in your birthday. Ambition is not likely to allow you to waste much time in laziness. You have a drive which can bring success in just about anything to which you apply your will and efforts.

This hard-headed practicality is likely to translate those unusual ideas inspired by your ruling planet, Uranus, into solid reality or cash. As this ruler is symbolized by the Queen of Diamonds, your appreciation of the finer things is likely to contribute to your urge for achievement. Vitality plus, but your intense nature can burn up a lot of energy, so wisdom suggests that you program into your life regular periods for relaxation. Otherwise, you run the hazard of serious physical or psychological problems.

Success with the public or groups of people is suggested by the Ten of Hearts, which represents your decanate ruler Mercury. Keep this in mind when choosing an occupation or important activities. While you can lead armies and run businesses with your super-organizational abilities, according to the following you can also give a good account of yourself in literature and drama. For example, you share this birthday with General William Sherman of the Civil War, writers John Ruskin and Jules Verne, astrologer Evangeline Adams, director King Vidor, actors Charles Ruggles, Jack Lemmon, James Dean and actresses Dame Edith Evans and Lana Turner.

While it may contribute to your special brand of magic, a tendency to be secretive and somewhat remote may complicate your emotional involvements; which are apt to be further complicated by your ever-changing moods and short interest span. You may have to learn to work as hard at love and friendship as you do with your career and other interests. When you do, you should find that you can keep the romantic prizes won by your charms. This may be easier with someone born on January 25; February 6, 10, 15; March 21, 28; April 2, 6, 11, 19; May 24; June 2, 7, 10, 15, 22; August 3, 11, 18; October 7, 14; December 3, 10, and 30.

FEBRUARY 9 (9 = 9) 3♠ THREE OF SPADES

Cardwise, you are among the most personable. Yet this bright, almost childlike quality may be a facade which hides the burden of the potential greatness destiny has handed you through your number nine birthday. This combination suggests a lifetime of exhilarating mental peaks and valleys of frustrations.

Mental discipline is an absolute must if you are to enjoy and use constructively the unique sensitive perspective supplied by your guiding planet, Uranus. Its abstract influence along with those of your card and birthday can all too easily encourage eccentricities and confusion. While you may feel above it all, the fact that your planetary ruler is symbolized by the Nine of Diamonds suggests the importance of developing a realistic and practical attitude regarding money and other mundane considerations.

With yet another nine, the Nine of Hearts symbolizing your decanate ruler Mercury, it is particularly important that you recognize that this number requires a universal, compassionate love for humanity. Otherwise, a limited viewpoint on relationships can leave you all too vulnerable to disappointment in people. Master the emotional power implied here, and you may find success in the role of humanitarian, teacher or counsellor. The breadth of understanding and the dramatic dimension indicated in this card suggests that you may be particularly effective in political service or in the entertainment world. Since moods are apt to be a significant part of your sensitive nature, it is especially important when choosing an occupation, that you avoid those which might restrict your free Aquarian spirit.

You share this birthday with President William Harrison, statesman Dean Rusk, editor and political reformer Samuel Bowles, actors Ronald Coleman and Brian Donlevy, actresses Kathryn Grayson and Mia Farrow.

Since love may seem more like a form of punishment, you are probably better suited to platonic relationships. But if you insist on emotional involvements, you may increase your possibilities for happiness by choosing someone born on January 26; February 2, 5, 7, 11; March 22, 29; April 1, 3, 7, 20; May 25, 28; June 3, 16, 23; July 24; August 12, 19, 22; September 29; October 8, 15, 18; November 25, 28; December 4, 11, 14.

FEBRUARY 10 (1 + 0 = 1) 2♠ TWO OF SPADES

Numerologically, your birthday implies that you can be "number one" in just about anything you may attempt. While you are quite an individualist, keep in mind that your card indicates that cooperation is the true key to your success, so don't try to do it all by yourself.

As represented by the Eight of Diamonds, Uranus your guiding star, suggests that your efforts can bring fame and wealth. This capricious planetary influence also implies an independent streak, which could be an obstacle to your good fortune. Though your cards indicate a tendency to get into monotonous jobs and situations, fate is apt to upset th routine every so often with travel, new situations and a new cast of characters. Happily, yo are not likely to be too disturbed by these changes.

Venus, the ruler of your Aquarian decanate as represented by the Six of Clubs, ind cates an intuitive rapport with people which could be a significant asset. As this abilit seems to gain power through involvement, wisdom suggests that you seek occupations an activities which will provide you with the opportunity to exploit this attribute. So whil you can successfully express yourself in solitary efforts such as writing, you are even mor effective on stage, in the pulpit, or in the halls of government. To illustrate, you share th birthday with writers William Allen White and Charles Lamb, statesmen Alexandre Mill rand, Vishinsky and Harold MacMillian, comedian Jimmy Durante, singers Adelina Patt Leontyne Price and Roberta Flack, actress Judith Anderson, actor Robert Wagner, tenni star Bill Tilden and Olympic swimming champion Mark Spitz.

Life will be filled with so many people that it may be difficult to distinguish your re friends from the supporting players. Since you seem to thrive on social excitement, you ma find it difficult to settle down. But if you do decide to make a go of a one-to-one relatio ship, you may find it more satisfying with someone born on January 27, 28; February 8, 1 March 23, 24, 30; April 4, 8, 21, 22; May 20, 26, 29; June 4, 17, 18; July 22, 25, 2 August 13, 14, 20, 23; September 25; October 9, 10, 16, 19, 23; November 27, 29; Decem ber 5, 6, 12, 15, 19.

FEBRUARY 11 (Master Number) A♠ ACE OF SPADES

Cardwise, you hold the "key to the mysteries." In using it, you would be wise to appl some of the "mastery" symbolized numerically in your birthday. In doing so the odds favo your reaching spectacular heights of achievement. Without it, you find that you hold th card of depression and despair.

Your natural curiosity is likely to be stimulated by Uranus, your planetary ruler, t explore the unknown through science and philosophy. As this planet is identified with th Nine of Spades, your efforts may be aided by a profound, intuitive insight. Unfortunately this influence also suggests that you may need a great deal of gut-fortitude and perseveranc to overcome the obstacles and frustrations on your path. Actually, this cosmic path ma seem so difficult, that you may try to ignore it, losing yourself in matters more mundane Even so, a lingering, haunting curiosity may still draw you to some sort of occult or spiritua expression. While blessed with the physical stamina to get through anything that stands i your way, you may have to guard against borrowing trouble by wearing a "chip on you shoulder." Feelings of despondency may be the warning signal that you are pushing yourself too hard. If your aspirations need a boost, consider the following who share this birthda with you. Among them are: Governor Lloyd Bentsen, Jr., inventor Thomas Edison, autho Pasternak, Joseph Mankiewicz, King Farouk of Egypt, actresses Eva Gabor and Kim Stanley and actor Burt Reynolds.

A romantic nature is suggested by Venus, your decanate ruler. But since this planet is represented by the Seven of Diamonds, material ambitions are apt to be entwined with your emotional interests. Watch the mingling of love and money, as it could be costly, as well as a source of heartache. You have a certain mystique, which is likely to open the door to some rather unusual romantic situations. In this respect, you may prefer unconventional arrangements. Whether it be an affair or something more lasting, you will probably have better luck with someone born on January 20, 27, 28; February 9, 13, 18; March 23, 24, 31; April 5, 9, 14, 21; May 19, 20, 27; June 1, 5, 10, 17, 18; July 23, 29, 30; August 1, 6, 13, 14, 21; September 25, 26; October 2, 9, 10, 17, 23; November 22; December 5, 6, 13, 19, 20.

FEBRUARY 12 (1 + 2 = 3) K♦ KING OF DIAMONDS

Accept the responsibility of leadership symbolized in your card and you will have the entree to fortune and fulfillment. Be it a humanitarian mission, or the building of a material empire, the numerical three of your birthday implies that you have the magnetic charm to win others to your cause. Guard against dissipating this power through too many interests.

Uranus, your ruling planet, as symbolized by the Six of Diamonds, implies that your material and monetary affairs are aided by a perceptive sense of values. Perhaps you can take this perspective and inspire others to pursue a truer sense of values. There is a subtle warning in this card, and that is you could fail your potential by being too satisfied with the status quo.

Your success in dealing with the public is enhanced by Venus, your decanate ruler. As represented by the positive, mental influence of the Four of Clubs, this card and planet suggests that your friendly smile conceals a quick mind, which is more than able to hold its own in verbal engagements. This suggests that you might be in your own element as an attorney, politician or mediator. In choosing a vocation don't neglect the fact that you are identified with a crown card, which implies you are more suited to wielding authority than being a follower.

If your versatility makes it difficult to choose a direction, perhaps in the following you may find the necessary inspiration. To illustrate, you share this birthday with President Abraham Lincoln, biologist Charles Darwin, inventor-philantropist Peter Cooper, Dutch philosopher Jan Swammerdam, industrialist Hugo Stinnes, General Omar Bradley, Ambassador David Bruce, union leader John L. Lewis, Mayor Joseph Alioto, novelist George Meredith, television stars Ted Mack, Lorne Green and Joe Garagiola.

Your friendly, natural charm should make it easy to attract both love and friendship. While you have a curious, romantic streak, which might tempt you to flirt with some unusual emotional possibilities, basically stable and domestic, you are apt to prefer family oriented social activities. In that quest for a mate, you may be more successful with someone born on January 29, 31; February 1, 8, 10, 14, 16; March 24, 25, 27; April 4, 6, 10, 12; May 23, 28; June 6, 8, 18, 21; July 24; August 2, 4, 14, 17, 22; October 10, 13, 18; December 6, 9, 14, 29.

FEBRUARY 13 (1 + 3 = 4) Q♦ QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

Your free Aquarian spirit may resent the regal responsibility reflected in your card. Yet, if you will but combine this significant potential with the practical hard working qualities suggested numerically by your birthday, you should be able to achieve the heights and material well being demanded by your royal tastes.

An element of restlessness is suggested by the Five of Diamonds, which represents your planetary ruler, Uranus. Like it or not, this influence will probably bring you a life filled with changes and travel. Watch that the urge for change doesn't become an expensive indulgence. Identified as you are with a crown card, you do have the ability to lead others. But in roles of authority guard against being dictatorial. Actually, you may find a happier road to your lofty aspirations through the expression of your talents in music, art, and drama. While you may find that life is a "hard taskmaster," fortunately you are likely to be well equipped both mentally and physically to meet this challenge. In your quest for expression, keep in mind, while you can do many things well, your queen card suggests that you are most likely to realize your true purpose through some form of service.

You share this birthday with the statesman Talleyrand, anatomist John Hunter, artist Grant Wood, Bess Truman, singers Tennessee Ernie Ford and Eileen Farrell, actresses Kim Novak and Carol Lynley and golf star Patty Berg.

As symbolized by the Three of Clubs, Venus, your decanate ruler, warns that you may have to guard against uncertainty and confusion in your emotional expressions. In spite of your strong love nature, a self-insistence and difficulty in expressing your affections may contribute to the misunderstandings that are apt to disturb closer relationships. You may find these problems less likely with those born on February 1, 11, 15, 17; April 7, 11, 13; May 29; June 3, 7, 9; July 25, 28; August 3, 5, 23; September 21, 24, 28; October 1, 19, 22; November 24; December 15, 18, 22, 30.

FEBRUARY 14 (1 + 4 = 5) J♦ JACK OF DIAMONDS

Youthful, versatile and talented, cardwise you have all the attributes needed for success. That is, except for a possible wide streak of restless immaturity, which may keep you from putting your wonderful package together. While basically fortunate, don't depend on luck to win the whole ballgame for you.

While your ruling planet may encourage an unconventional life style, as represented by the Six of Spades, this planetary influence is also likely to stabilize your more brash impulses. In fact, despite the adventurous quality associated with your Sun sign, this influence suggests a quest for security may get you into a static monotonous rut. If this becomes the case, this is likely to spawn a restless recklessness, which may feed your gambling spirit. While you will have some luck in speculative ventures, this influence, plus that indicated by your card, suggest that your fortune is to be found in some productive expression of your creative powers.

With the Four of Diamonds representing your decanate ruler, Venus, your personable charm may be one of your most profitable assets. This should prove especially true, if you can become involved in occupations and activities which will showcase your talents and ability to deal with the public. Whether it be a product, artistic effort, or yourself, you can sell. To illustrate, check the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes actor John Barrymore, comedian Jack Benny, labor leader James Hoffa, singers Cesare Siepe and Florence Henderson, typewriter inventor Christopher Sholes, television's Hugh Downs and jockey Johnny Longden.

Emotionally restless, you may be especially vulnerable to all the pitfalls of sex, overindulgence and other social excesses. The neuter-gender quality of your card combined with the eccentric influence of your Sun sign, Aquarius, may encourage bisexual experiments. Whatever course your romantic expression may take, you may find greater success in relationships with those born on January 20, 23; February 12, 16, 18; April 8, 12, 14, 17; May 30; June 4, 8, 10, 13; July 26; August 4, 6, 9, 24; September 22, 29; October 2, 5, 20; November 25; December 1, 16, 23.

FEBRUARY 15 (1 + 5 = 6) 10♦ TEN OF DIAMONDS

Despite a possible lack of ambition as implied in the numerical six factor of your birthday, your card suggests that success will seek you out. Conservative, and yet you are an interesting combination of extremes; scientific and philosopically idealistic and yet sensually materialistic.

The Three of Clubs, symbolic of your planetary ruler Uranus, suggests a multipotential through which you can achieve the success implied in your card. But unless you learn to focus, this may prove a dubious blessing, bringing confusion instead of success. The struggles of your earlier years are likely to be minimized by the gifts and assistance of patrons and friendly benefactors. Not being particularly receptive to advice, especially orders, you will be happier in business for yourself, or in activities which will allow you to express your independent nature. Both in work and pleasure, an innate youthful enthusiasm is likely to prove a significant asset. Workwise, you are more suited to professional careers, such as to be found in law, medicine and government service. Although you enjoy public contact, you are equally comfortable in working by yourself in a laboratory or at a typewriter. Note the occupations of the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are astronomer Galileo, inventor Cyrus McCormick, suffragist Susan B. Anthony, politics' Elihu Root and James Forrestal, actor Cesar Romero and actress Claire Bloom.

Friendly and generous, yet an inclination to live within may minimize your enjoyment of social activity. Venus rules the decanate of Aquarius in which your birthday occurs. Since this planet is represented by the Ace of Hearts, a great need for love is likely to encourage many emotional experiments in a quest for someone who can fill that unique emptine your heart. While this may encourage a variety of relationships, numerically your birthd suggests that marriage is the answer to your emotional need. Both in marriage and friendsh you may find a greater compatibility with those born on February 5, 8, 11, 13, 17; Ma 28; April 1, 7, 9, 13; May 24; June 3, 5, 9, 22; July 30; August 1, 5, 18; September 2 October 1, 14, 24; November 22; December 10, 20, 30.-

FEBRUARY 16 (1 + 6 = 7) 9♦ NINE OF DIAMONDS

An interesting paradox is suggested by the fusion of your card with the numeri seven influence of your Aquarian birthday. While a part of you builds on traditional valu the home, prestige in the community, you also have a nonconformist streak, which bel your otherwise circumspect and conservative attitudes.

The eccentric impulses implied in your ruling planet Uranus, are somewhat stabili by the practical, material influence of the Four of Diamonds, which symbolizes this cel tial body. This combination of influences also suggests that you have the business genius convert outlandish ideas into profit. Your strong desire to build may find a construct expression in politics, science or in the building of your own home. As much as you m appreciate your own fireside, a yen for those far-away places is likely to keep you on t move.

Sometimes most open and generous, other times may find you secretive and s protective, so don't be surprised if others find you something of a puzzle. While yo perceptive, somewhat critical intellect may serve you well over a drawing board, at the sm end of a telescope or analyzing business reports, resist the temptation to waste your men energies in useless arguments. Though you are not exactly helpless when it comes to wo ing with your hands, you are apt to be more at home expressing yourself professiona pounding a typewriter or strutting your stuff on some stage. To illustrate, you share t birthday with Chinese statesman Li Hung Chang, botanist Hugo De Vries, Justice Har Medina, actress Katharine Cornell, writers Jokai and Pulitzer prize winner Van W entertainers Edgar Bergen and Sonny Bono and prize fighter Max Baer. jockey Eddie Arcaro and prize fighterMax Baer.

Gregarious as Venus your decanate ruler suggests you are, as represented by the Two Clubs, this planetary influence implies a real need for a close relationship, preferably w someone who is both mentally stimulating and romantically imaginative. You might co closer to finding someone who can meet these specific requirements born on January 2 30; February 12, 14, 18; March 26, 29; April 1, 3, 8, 10, 14; May 22, 25, 30; June 4, 6, 1 20, 23; July 26, 31; August 2, 6, 16, 19, 24; September 22, 27; October 1, 12, 15, 2 November 23; December 8, 11, 16, 21.

FEBRUARY 17 (1 + 7 = 8) 8♦ EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

Inspired strength is suggested by the combination of occult influences associated with your birthday. As you are a productive individual with probably more than your share of obstacles to overcome, it's fortunate that the power of eight is reflected in both your card and the numerical factor of your birthday.

The original viewpoint which your guiding star Uranus is apt to inspire should encourage some unique solutions to your problems. As represented by the Five of Clubs, this planetary influence also suggests an inner disquiet hidden beneath your cool exterior which is likely to urge you into a life filled with changes and travel. This is not likely to disturb your stability and integrity, which permeates everything that you do. Your positive attitude "can move mountains," but you may have to guard an inclination to push yourself beyond your physical limits. Basically conservative and practical, you can be particularly effective in occupations which are involved in the handling of financial matters. You have organizational ability and a keen business sense, as well as a dramatic and musical potential shown in your cards. You also share this birthday with the inventor of the stethoscope Rene Laennec, writers Malthus and Margaret Truman, singers Marian Anderson and Marjorie Lawrence, actors Arthur Kennedy and Hal Holbrook, sports stars Red Barber and James Brown.

Dynamic as you can be, considerable sensitivity is indicated by your decanate ruler, Venus. Since this planetary influence is represented by the Three of Hearts, you're likely to have a personable appeal for groups and audiences. Unfortunately, this card implies that the contrary may be true in your more intimate relationships, where you may experience uncertainty in love and friendship. Likely to do more than your share, but your very self sufficiency and individualistic nature can be a separative force. You may find this less a problem with those born on January 21, 23, 28; February 5, 13, 15, 19; March 24, 30; April 1, 9, 11, 15, 17; May 20, 26; June 5, 7, 11, 13, 18; July 22, 29, 30; August 1, 3, 7, 9, 14, 20; September 25, 26; October 3, 5, 10, 16, 23, 24; November 21, 22, 30; December 1, 6, 19, 20.

FEBRUARY 18 (1 + 8 = 9) 7♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

The materialistic aspirations suggested by your card are likely to be minimized by the sense of universality implied numerically in your birthday. You will be torn between ambition and the desire to be unencumbered by responsibilities. You are not easily dissuaded from pursuing your objectives.

The friendly quality of your Sun sign is amplified by the magnanimous King of Hearts, which symbolizes your ruling planet Uranus. While your forte may be in the material realm, this influence indicates a dramatic warmth that can help you to be equally effective in music and drama.

Born on the cusp of Aquarius and Pisces, you also have some of the imaginative traits associated with Neptune. Since this planet is represented by another King, the King of Diamonds, you obviously have the potential to excel at just about anything you choose to do. Since you are not particularly receptive to advice, you had better prepare yourself to occupy the driver's seat. You can be a most effective administrator; just guard against being overly dominant and critical. For some ideas as to what others have done with the potential of this birthday, note violinist Paganini, physicist Volta, tycoon Charles Schwab, guitarist Andres Segovia, writer Helen Gurley Brown, Russian leader Nikolai Podgorny, politician Wendell Wilkie, actors Zero Mostel, Jack Palance, Dane Clark, Adolph Menjou and musician Wayne King.

Your decanate ruler Venus, as represented by the Jack of Hearts, suggests that you are very sensitive and intense emotionally. Marriage may have to compete with your independent streak and inclination to argue. You may be more willing to make the adjustments that marriage may require with someone born on January 22; February 3, 4, 11, 14, 16; March 30, 31; April 7, 10, 12, 16; May 26, 27; June 3, 6, 8, 12; July 23, 30; August 2, 4, 8, 20, 21; September 26; October 4, 16, 17, 24; November 22, 28; December 1, 12, 13, 20.

FEBRUARY 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

The leadership attributes implied in your numerical one birthday will probably build on the sensitive and idealistic qualities suggested by your card. While you can excel in a wide gamut of possibilities, inertia, a lack of initiative may be the prime obstacle to your wonderful potential.

A child of the cusp of Aquarius and Pisces, you have the opportunities and the challenges represented in their ruling planets Uranus and Neptune. As symbolized by the Ace and Queen of Diamonds, these cosmic influences suggest that material ambition may supply the necessary incentive to keep you from completely withdrawing into the life of an ascetic. An individualist, you enjoy doing your own thing. The only problem — you may have difficulty in deciding what that thing may be. When you do decide, and this may take years, you may discover that you have a potential for success in physics and astronomy. But whether it be as a vocation or as an avocation, you probably should give your sensitive soul some sort of artistic outlet. Of course, before the world can enjoy one of your scientific discoveries, or hear your music, you may have to overcome an inclination to take the easy way out.

If you need any encouragement, you may find it in the following who have translated the attributes they gained from this birthday into success. The list includes astronomer Copernicus, physicist Svante Arrerius (electrolytic action), composer Luigi Boccherini, explorer Sven Anders, singer Adelina Patti, actors David Garrick and Lee Marvin, actress Merle Oberon, musician Stan Kenton and jockey Eddy Arcaro.

The Ten of Hearts, which symbolizes your decanate ruler Venus, suggests that your gregarious nature is likely to attract crowds of friends. The crush of people in your life may make it difficult for you to pick "the one and only." This is not likely to be helped by an inclination to indulge in diverse and unusual sexual experiences. Or you may go to the other extreme, becoming so overly dependent, that you need someone to direct your every move. In that search for the someone who will bring out the best in you, you might start with those born on January 3, 6, 19, 23; February 1, 4, 17, 21; March 2, 15, 19, 31; April 13, 17, 29; May 11, 15, 27, 28; June 9, 13, 25; July 7, 11, 23, 24, 31; August 5, 9, 21, 22, 29; September 3, 7, 19, 20, 27; October 1, 5, 17, 18, 31; November 3, 15, 16, 23, 29; December 13, 14, 21, 27.

FEBRUARY 20 (2 + 0 = 2) 5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

Exuding a dynamic warmth, you do a pretty good job of concealing the uncertainty suggested by your card. The numerical two factor of your birthday suggests that your great sensitivity can be an asset, providing that it does not cause you to be too vulnerable to the slights of others. In all probability, you will travel far in the quest for love and your true identity.

This quest and your self-confidence are likely to be helped by the positive, creative force represented in the Jack of Diamonds, symbolic of your ruling planet, Neptune. Idealism is another strong motivating force, which is likely to bring constructive overtones to both your personal life and work efforts. For the most part, you project a winning thoughtfulness, but at times those inner fears may feed an almost hostile, ambitious attitude, which can do much to minimize your delightful image. Although success appears to be in your cards, it probably will not be gained without your having to suffer some real heart breaks and setbacks.

In your willingness to work hard for your objectives, guard against pushing your fragile health beyond reason. A natural empathy suggests that you can be effective in the healing professions, counselling and in social-political activities concerned with human rights. This same perceptive sensitivity can also bring you success in art, music and drama. For some examples of these and other possibilities, you share this birthday with abolitionist Frederick Douglas, Russia's Alexei Kosygin, Indonesia's Suharto, ceramist Luca Della Robbia, artist Honore Daumier, singers Mary Garden and Nancy Wilson, entertainer Sandy Duncan, actor Sidney Poitier and television's John Daly.

An inherent emotional magnetism is likely to open the doors to all sorts of romantic opportunities. Just watch that your compelling need for love and friendship doesn't cause you to become careless in your choice of emotional involvements. Intellectual considerations should be high on your list of priorities in choosing a love partner. Success in love as well as friendship may be easier with someone born on January 7, 20; February 18, 22, 24, 27; March 3, 16, 20, 22; April 20, 23, 30; May 12, 16, 18, 21; June 26, 27; July 8, 12, 14, 17, 20; August 22, 23, 30; September 4, 8, 10, 13, 20, 21; October 26; November 4, 9, 16, 17; December 22, 28.

FEBRUARY 21 (2 + 1 = 3) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

The passion for self-expression implied numerically in your birthday is given substance through the practical influence of your card. But you may need all the sense of order suggested by your card to keep from wasting your energies in confusion.

The vivid imagination suggested by Neptune, your guiding planet, can inspire unusual concepts and artistic creations. With this celestial sphere symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, you could very well turn these concepts and creations into solid cash. Basically hard working and constructive, yet an inner conflict may feed your erratic temperament, turning these positive forces into forces of destruction. This same sensitivity, which may encourage chronic nervousness and moods, can also be a source of intuitive power that can add a touch of magic to your efforts. While you are usually thoughtful of others, you can be quite inflexible which may make it difficult for you to see both sides of a story, to recognize the truth in viewpoints which may differ from yours. This could also create those invisible barriers which produce misunderstandings.

Actually, you are apt to be happier working for yourself, or at least in directing the action. While your practical, diamond card suggests a fine business potential, according to the following, you might check for possible talent in writing, painting, music and drama. For example, you share this birthday with philosopher-writer Voltaire, religious leader Cardinal John Newman, author, painter-poet Thomas Flatman, composer Leo Delibes, sculptor Brancusi, Hall of Fame educational leader Alice Palmer, dress designer Givenchy, actresses Arlene Judge and Ann Sheridan, witch Sybil Leek and Tricia Nixon Cox.

Emotionally, you may just be more than one person can handle, so don't be too surprised if destiny holds more than one marriage for you. You have a lot of love to give, but a tendency to emotional restlessness and jealousy suggest that you might be a better friend than marriage partner. Whatever, friendship or love, you may fare better with someone born on January 8, 14, 16, 19, 21; February 19, 23; March 4, 10, 12, 15, 17, 21; May 6, 8, 11, 13, 17; June 28; July 2, 4, 7, 9, 13; August 24, 31; September 3, 5, 9, 22; October 27, 30; November 1, 5, 18; December 23, 26.

FEBRUARY 22 (Master Number) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

A dynamic image is projected by the merging of your card with the numerical attributes of your birthday. As your card can also represent weakness arising out of confusion, application of the concept of "mastery" symbolized numerologically in your birthday is essential, if you are to realize your true potential.

Neptune, your ruling planet, suggests that you are a sensitive idealist. But as this planet is symbolized by the Nine of Spades, your lofty aspirations may suffer serious obstacles beginning early in life with problems relating to your parents. A spiritual strength is also represented here, which can help you persevere through the despair and frustrations which may plague your efforts. A perfectionist, you are inclined to be intense and high-strung. Due to the dubious influence of Neptune in your cards, it is especially important that you resist the temptation to assuage your tensions and disillusionments in liquor and drugs. While the tremendous power symbolized in your birthday can bring you to the heights, undisciplined, it may lead to unreasonable obsessions, black moods, which can bring health problems and drop you to the depths of despair.

If the demands of your "master number" (22) birthday seem too great, you can choose to operate under the more mundane but practical influence of the number four. While this suggests that you can do very well in business, deep inside you may feel you've missed out on something very great. In truth, you will probably miss participating in the humanitarian vision associated with your birthday, which could make you a force in politics, music, literature and the theater. In this role, destiny may even call you out of obscurity and place you in the limelight of history. For example, you share this birthday with President George Washington, philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer, composers Chopin and Edna St. Vincent Millay, mystic Olney Richmond, scientist Hertz, singer Robert Weede, actors Robert Young and John Mills and Senator Edward Kennedy.

A magnetic personality assures you entree into the hearts of others. But with Neptune also your decanate ruler, you may have to watch that its illusionary influence does not lead to misunderstandings and self-deception in relationships. This may be less likely with someone born on January 4, 9; February 24, 25; March 5, 18; April 20, 21; May 1, 14, 18, 19; June 29; July 10, 14; August 25; September 6, 11, 23; October 28; November 2, 7, 19, 24.

FEBRUARY 23 (2 + 3 = 5) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

Your card suggests that your fortune and well-being is dependent on others either through partnerships, marriage or through some type of service. Great as this need to be involved with others may be, the numerical five of your birthday implies that you also are likely to insist on a certain amount of freedom to satisfy your restless spirit.

Although you are not particularly anxious "to set the world on fire," your ruling planet Neptune, as identified with the Eight of Spades indicates that you will work very hard at something that truly interests you. The combination of this card and planet suggests a sympathetic sensitivity, which can help you to be very effective in the healing arts. The intuitive ability to diagnose blended together with a positive, physical vitality implies that you might be a potent force in interests and activities related to health. While a desire to live a somewhat free and easy life may indicate a lack of initiative, you are more than likely to be found numbered with the constructive members of the community. A peaceable sort, you will go to extreme lengths to avoid confrontations and arguments. But your defensive sensitivity combined with a rather quick mind may actually attract some rather tense situations. Occupationally, you are likely to be happiest in activities which please or entertain others.

People-involvement plus a chance to travel in your work would probably suit you j fine. Your greatest success may involve travel, or distant interests, or moving to a place f from your birth. Perhaps the following who share this birthday with you will give you so incentive. Among them are the composer George Frederick Handel, pioneer in education f women Emma Hart Willard, artist Norman Lindsay, William Shirer of radio fame and act Peter Fonda.

Fundamentally a social being, at your best with that special someone, or a fun crow You have the sensual-sensitivity to be a great lover, but your love of variety may distu your emotional security. You may feel less inclined to wander if matched up with som one born on January 10; February 21, 25, 27; March 6, 19; April 21, 23, 26, 28, 29; May 19, 21; June 22, 24, 25, 30; July 15, 17, 20, 22, 23; August 26, 30; September 11, 13, 1 18, 19, 24; October 22, 26, 29; November 7, 9, 12, 14, 15, 20; December 22, 25.

FEBRUARY 24 (2 + 4 = 6) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

The numerological essense of your birthday implies a friendly warmth and perceptiv ness which should prove significant assets in realizing the ambition suggested by your car Responsible and most capable, but your love of a good time could sidetrack you from yo objectives.

The urge for action suggested by the Five of Diamonds, symbolic of your ruling plan Neptune, may supply just the impetus needed to get you going. This influence is also like to encourage dreams of far away places. In this respect, travel and related interests may b an integral part of your fortune and personal fulfillment. At times, you're apt to be so intr spective, your deep thoughts erect a barrier which excludes others. This might be fine whe you have some heavy concentrating to do, but watch that it doesn't become a source of mi understandings. While you are fairly intuitive, an inclination to get lost in daydreams su gests you might be better off emphasizing logic over more abstract thought processes.

Though you have a vitality which should benefit your health and help you enjoy an excel at sports, you are apt to be a slow starter when it comes to getting your life's purpo underway. Careerwise, you would be wise to avoid occupations which are too rigid an routine. And while you may have trouble managing your own money, your natural materi sense suggests that you could find success in businesses handling the money of others. Yo may also find that you have a special aptitude for dealing in liquids such as petroleum, pe fume and drugs. You might also enjoy the ego boost to be found behind the footlights. Fo some other possibilities, you share this birthday with the Revolutionary War's General Bu goyne, Admiral Chester Nimitz, Wilhelm Grimm of fairy tale fame, painter Winslow Home entomologist John Henry Comstock, actor Victor Moore, actress Marjorie Main and bas ball's Honus Wagner.

A strong domestic streak may help to minimize your emotional restlessness. In lo and friendship, your strong sense of fairness encourages you to be thoughtful of others. Yo may feel more like staying put with someone born on January 6, 11, 22; February 20, 22, 26; March 2, 7, 18, 20; April 22, 24; May 3, 14, 16, 20, 22; July 10, 12, 16, 18; August 29; September 6, 8, 12, 14; October 25, 30; November 2, 4, 8, 10; December 21, 26, 29.

FEBRUARY 25 (2 + 5 = 7) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

Symbolically, your card and the numerological attributes of your birthday suggest that you were born to rule. If not literally, then through some expression of your inspired wisdom, leadership and talents. If you will accept the responsibility of the opportunities available to you, yours can be a most fortunate destiny.

Mystical Neptune is your guiding star and crown jewel. As represented by the Six of Spades, this planetary influence suggests that your exceptional mental powers are enhanced by intuitive overtones, which may give you the gift of prophecy. The sensitive merging of spirit, mind and body implied here can make you the most effective healing instrument. This influence does warn against resting on your laurels, which could cause you to fail your high calling. You may also have to watch that you don't short-circuit your powers through erratic actions. Channeled, these radical energies combined with your keen mind could bring success in law or the halls of government.

Though your royal card gives you a certain independence, resist the temptation to go it alone. Jupiter, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Two of Spades, suggests that your fortune will depend somewhat on your ability to work in harmony with others. A natural for administrative positions and politics, but there is evidence that those born on your day can also be equally successful in artistic and musical expressions. To illustrate, you share this birthday with the founder of pathology Giovanni Morgangni, South American patriot Jose San Martin, John Foster Dulles, artist Renoir, singer Enrico Caruso, mystic Meher Baba, pianist Myra Hess, actors Jim Backus and George Harrison.

Unless you've taken a vow of celibacy, you're apt to be extremely romantic. Difficulties in attracting love and friendship are unlikely, but you may have to guard against involvement with burdensome relationships. You might minimize this possibility with one born on January 1, 7, 12, 13; February 23, 27, 29; March 3, 8, 9, 21; April 23, 25; May 4, 5, 17, 21; July 1, 13, 17, 19; August 27; September 9, 13, 15; October 23, 31; November 5, 9, 11, 21; December 27, 31.

FEBRUARY 26 (2 + 6 = 8) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

Sensitive mental power is suggested by the combination of your card with the number eight factor of your birthday. The rulership implied in your crown card may be best expressed through service. To accomplish your enlightening purpose, you have the royal scepter of wisdom, charm and talent.

Your ruling planet, Neptune, as represented by the Five of Spades, suggests a life filled with travel and a wide variety of action. This planetary influence also intensifies your sensitivity to such a degree that intuitive inspiration is apt to be an integral part of your thought process, the key to your success. In a lighter vein, it also gives you a feel for blending styles and colors both in clothes and decor for the most dramatic effect. A mental powerhouse, you have enough ideas to keep an army busy. And since you don't particularly care for details, you would probably appreciate having someone else help you complete your many projects. An overly generous nature is the one possible flaw in your otherwise good money and business sense. While you can achieve renown through music, writing and drama, you can be every bit as effective in the more subtle expressions of your nature. A significant spiritual-philosophical potential implies a happy blend of wisdom and compassion with which you can constructively counsel and inspire others.

You share this birthday with writer-philosopher Victor Hugo, psychotherapist Emile Cou'e, pianist Leonard Borwich, singers Donald Gramm, Betty Hutton and Johnny Cash, comedian Jackie Gleason, actors Tony Randall, actresses Madeline Carroll and Margaret Leighton, and from the Old West — Buffalo Bill Cody.

Although uncertainty and changes are apt to mark your love life, you are likely to do more than your share to make relationships work. Generous as you are with your affections, you also require a great deal in return. Others may find it very difficult to live up to your romantic expectations. You may be more likely to find your match with someone born on January 2, 12, 13, 14, 19; February 24; March 8, 9, 10, 15, 22; April 26, 29; May 4, 5, 6, 11, 18; June 25, 27; July 1, 2, 7, 14, 20, 23; August 23, 28; September 3, 10, 16, 19, 21; October 24, 29; November 6, 12, 15, 17, 22; December 25, 28.

FEBRUARY 27 (2 + 7 = 9) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

Multi-talented, well-endowed intellectually, yet your wonderful potential is jeopardized by a restless discontent. Cardwise, obviously you belong in positions of leadership, or at the top of your field. Numerologically, your birthday implies that an expression of universality, as well as perseverance are your "open sesame" to all to which you aspire.

You are able to draw on the psychic energy and creativity of Neptune, but with your ruling planet symbolized by the practical, materialistic Four of Diamonds, you're not too vulnerable to its web of illusion. You know what you want, and you are very likely to get it. Flourishing as you do on people and action, watch that a dependence on this stimulus does not become a crutch. Routine occupations can stifle your spark, but you do need something which will provide some type of stability. Otherwise, eccentric tendencies could cause you to drift aimlessly through life.

Part of your entree to success both socially and careerwise is due to a keen understanding of human nature. Don't allow willful impatience spoil this advantage. Considerable success and fame are strong probabilities through literature, law and in the entertainment world. Whether this will bring happiness or not depends largely on your ability to accept the responsibilities of your opportunities. Obviously, not the typical shy, retiring Pisces, so whether it be in politics, before the cameras or presiding over the local coffee club, you are very much at home in the limelight.

You share this birthday with the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, occultist Rudolph Steiner, Supreme Court justice Hugo Black, author John Steinbeck, electronic tycoon David Sarnoff, politician John B. Connally, singers Lotte Lehman and Guy Mitchell, actresses Joan Bennett, Joanne Woodward and Elizabeth Taylor, actor Franchot Tone and consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

In love you're likely to have everything your way, well almost! Even you might improve your romantic prospects by finding someone born on January 3, 7, 10, 15; February 20, 25, 29; March 3, 6, 11, 16, 18; April 21, 25; May 2, 7, 12, 14, 19; July 3, 8, 10, 15, 19; August 29, 30; September 4, 6, 11, 15; October 25, 26; November 2, 7, 11, 23, 24; December 21, 22.

FEBRUARY 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

Birthdaywise, the harmonious, cooperative quality of the two combined with the power of the eight are the key to the success implied in your card. This combination suggests a diplomatic gentleness that covers the aggressive expression of your mind and talents with a velvet glove.

Grand dreams, which could benefit mankind, or produce a fantastic ego trip are apt to be inspired by your planetary ruler Neptune. As symbolized by the restless influence of the Five of Clubs, this celestial planet suggests an inclination to pursue the will-o-the-wisp interests that may fail for lack of substance. You will probably seek work and pleasure that includes travel, which is likely to be your favorite escape mechanism. Inclined to do just what you want to do, and when you want to do it, suggests that failure to achieve the success implied in your card may not be due to lack of talent and ability, but to a lack of personal discipline and perseverence. A restless individualist, you should avoid subservient and restrictive positions.

A natural enthusiasm, combined with a good business sense plus a way with people suggests that you can sell ideas as well as products. You are likely to be happiest in some expression of your talents, which the record shows includes anything from writing philosophical discourses to singing, and dancing. To be more specific, you share this birthday with philosopher Montaigne, dancer Nijinsky, opera star Geraldine Farrar, director Vincente Minnelli, cartoonist Milton Caniff, actor Zero Mostel, physicist Linus Pauling and race car driver Mario Andretti.

An entertaining guest, or host, your life is likely to be filled with people. If only a few become true friends, it may be due to your own inconsistency. Very affectionate, and yet your changeable nature is apt to encourage unconventional relationships which will not tie you down. Compatibility to your peculiar needs may be more easily found in someone born on January 1, 8, 9, 18; March 4, 5, 14, 24; April 20, 26; May 1, 10, 18; June 22, 29; July 6, 14, 20; August 25, 29, 31; September 3, 10, 16; October 25, 27; November 6, 12, 19, 29; December 23, 31.

FEBRUARY 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) 9♣ NINE OF CLUBS

The key to the significant mental and creative potential suggested by your card is given numerologically in your birthday, which translates into the master number eleven. To truly realize the fulfillment symbolized in your card, discipline of your mind and abilities is an absolute must.

Neptune, your guiding planet, is likely to inspire idealism and some rather innovative ideas. It may also encourage a psychic potential, which is apt to prove a mixed blessing, suggesting that you apply great caution in occult matters and abstract thought. Happily, with the Two of Diamonds symbolizing this planetary influence, concern about mundane interests may prove stabilizing, helping you to constructively use your intuitive powers. Wonderful as your potential may be, a tendency to self-indulgence and laziness could turn your dreams into frustration. This, along with an erratic temperamental streak, emphasizes the great need for developing self-control.

While you may abhor formal learning processes, education and the development of a positive philosophy are likely to be the most effective way of channeling your potential power. In positions of authority, resist the temptation to be overly dominant and impatient with those who do not have the advantage of your perspective. The door to success may be found in the expression of your talents, but your great need for people involvement suggests that you may find even greater personal satisfaction in some type of service related activity. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with the French General Montcalm of the "Battle of Quebec," composer Gioacchino Rossini, painter John Costigan, inventor of the submarine John Phillip Holland, statesman Teofilo Sison, and actress Michele Morgan.

Important as love is to you, guard against indulging in pessimistic moods and activities which close out those who would give you the affection and friendship you so greatly need. You may be more willing to make this effort with someone born on January 1, 6, 9; February 25, 27; March 2, 5, 10; April 21, 23, 27, 29; May 1, 6; June 23, 25, 28; July 2, 15, 17, 21, 23; August 24; September 11, 13, 17, 19, 22; October 28; November 7, 9, 13, 15, 18; December 24, 29.

*Master Number

MARCH 1 (1 = 1) 9♠ NINE OF SPADES

An independent idealist is the image depicted in your birthday. The tremendous perspective indicated in your card combined with your number one birthday suggests that you have the potential to occupy that place in the grand scheme of life. No matter how justified, due to your inclination to go to extremes, indulgence in negativity could be disastrous.

As work appears to be an important part of your destiny, it is fortunate that you have the dynamic Jack of Spades representing your planetary ruler, Neptune. The combination of this card and your guiding planet implies both an exciting vitality and a charismatic quality, which can work miracles, bring success socially and in careers involving public contact. Whatever it may be, you are at your best in some type of leadership role. There is so much that you want to do, that despite your probable success, you may live with a sense of incompleteness and disappointment. This is apt to be especially true if you have allowed yourself to become too pre-occupied with mundane matters.

Actually, except for problems created by your own willful impatience and the inclination to indulge in nervous moods, your life pattern is not particularly difficult. You have so much to draw from. Direct the "cosmic energies" of your high Spade card and you can find success through science and philosophy. The great spiritual force implied here suggests that you have the power to accomplish mental healing. Though not really egotistical, you are apt to resent advice or pressure. If anything, you may even tend to minimize your abilities and achievements. According to those who share this birthday with you these can be rather impressive. For example, you share this birthday with sculptor August Saint-Gaudens, composer Frederic Chopin, conductors Dimitri Mitropoulos and Glen Miller, Cardinal Terence Cooke, actor David Niven, singers Dinah Shore and Harry Belafonte.

Imaginative, with a desire to please, you can be a great lover. Problems may arise from your desire to live on a rather broad scale emotionally. Romantically, you are inclined to enjoy a challenge, and are apt to lose interest when you've made a conquest. In that quest for someone who can hold your interest, you may have better luck with someone born on January 1, 3, 7, 8, 19, 20; March 3, 4, 15, 16; April 27; May 11, 12; June 23, 30; July 7, 8, 21; August 26, 28; September 3, 4, 17, 24; October 22, 24, 29; November 13, 20, 22; December 20, 25.

MARCH 2 (2 = 2) 8♠ EIGHT OF SPADES

The gentleness suggested by the numerical quality of your birthday belies the subtle power hidden in your card. While you can be very self-sufficient, don't overlook the advantages to be gained through sharing and cooperative efforts pointed out by your number two birthday.

Direct, hardworking, yet with Neptune, your planetary ruler represented by the Nine ripple on the surface. You may find it easier to express love with someone born on Januar 1, 3, 4, 6, 10, 22; February 20, 21, 28; March 2, 6, 18, 19; April 24, 30. May 14, 15, 2 June 26; July 10, 11, 18, 24; August 22, 31; September 6, 7, 14, 20; October 27; Nove ber 2, 3, 10, 16; December 23.

MARCH 5 (5 = 5) 5♠ FIVE OF SPADES

The double impact of the number five from both your birthday and the card suggest that you're a restless dreamer with a compelling need to be free to pursue those dream where you may feel that you can fulfill them. Fortunately, your ability to make them com true is aided by your easy adaptability, versatility and willingness to work hard for you objectives.

Due to Neptune, your planetary ruler, there is a good chance that your interests wi involve may changes and extensive travel. As represented by the Six of Hearts, your guidin planet suggests that one of your prime assets is a natural, intuitive charm, which enhance your ability to mix well with others. Combined with Neptune, this social influence als implies an inclination to overindulge in the "cup of good cheer." This easy rapport wit people combined with an ability to drive sharp bargains suggests that your earning powe may be at their best in some type of promotional activity. Variations on the theme of th "traveling salesman" might come pretty close to your ideal occupation.

Both generous and proud, you may be an easy mark to those who would flatter their way into your pocketbook. It may take some bitter lessons before you learn to curb a inclination to extravagance and reckless speculation. But it may take until your forties before you realize how fortunate you are in the good things of life. You may have a knac for business, but your sensual appreciation of beauty could lure you into expressing yourse in painting, music and drama. For a few examples, you share this birthday with Mercator an early scientist, artists Correggio and Howard Pyle, composer Villa-Lobos, author Frank Norris, actors Rex Harrison and Jack Cassidy.

Emotional involvement is so important to you, that it's apt to become more of a source of worry than a source of joy. Guard against creating unnecessary problems through jealousy and the inclination to absorb the "object of your affections" with your intens feelings. Relationships may be easier with someone born on January 7, 11, 18; February 22, 28, 29; March 3, 7, 14, 20; April 24, 25; May 3, 10, 16, 22; June 20, 21; July 6, 12, 1 19; August 29; September 2, 8, 14, 15; October 25, 28; November 4, 10, 11, 23; Decembe 21, 24, 29.

MARCH 6 (6 = 6) 4♠ FOUR OF SPADES

An intuitive builder is projected by your card and birthday. A constructive, down-to-earth practicality is suggested in your card, which can give substance to your imaginings. Watch that a preoccupation with material success does not obscure your spiritual vision. If you do, your great sensitivity may cause you to suffer grim, secretive, self-deceptive moods.

The urge to be on the go is suggested by the Five of Hearts, symbolic of Neptune, your planetary ruler. While this may keep you from getting into a rut, it may also make it difficult for you to put down roots. You will go to great lengths to be helpful, but if anyone mistakes this for weakness, or abuses your open, friendly manner, they are apt to find that you can be obstinate with a vengeance. Though your Sun sign, Pisces, inclines you to be on the gentle side, this is not due to any lack of vitality. Actually, you have one of the better health patterns, and because of it, you may find a fulfillment in sports and other types of outdoor activity.

Your decanate ruler, the Moon, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, suggests that you have excellent cerebral equipment. But restless as you're apt to be, you are more likely to develop your mental attributes through experience than through any formal academic process. Your subtle charm enhanced by an unusual speaking voice and empathetic nature suggest that you're particularly well suited for service oriented occupations. Of course, sharing a birthday with Michelangelo suggests that you should investigate your artistic potential. You also share this birthday with writers Cyrano De Bergerac, Elizabeth Barrett Browning, Ring Lardner and John Bojer, Civil War General Phillip Sheridan, actors Charles Ruggles, Guy Kibbee and Lou Costello, television's Ed McMahon, sport stars Lefty Grove and Willie Stargell.

A strong, sensuous sex drive is not going to allow you to linger for long without some sort of involvement. While you should have no real difficulty in finding romantic partners, you may have to watch that a certain inflexibility doesn't impair your personal pleasure. You may be less inclined to wander away from someone born on January 8, 12, 14, 17; February 23; March 4, 8, 10, 13, 21; April 19, 26; May 4, 6, 9, 17; June 22, July 2, 5, 13, 20; September 1, 9, 16; November 5, 12, December 30.

MARCH 7 (7 = 7) 3♠ THREE OF SPADES

The bright, personable facade suggested by your card probably conceals the more serious inner you hinted at numerically in your birthday. Confusion may result from the conflict of talents, material and spiritual values. Painful as this may be, your quest for answers may benefit others, as well as yourself.

The profound depths suggested numerically in your birthday is amplified by the Seven of Spades, which represents your planetary ruler, Neptune. This combination suggests that your interests may somewhat isolate you from others, as you probe the mysteries of life through science and philosophy. Your efforts in this direction are further helped by the fine intellectual potential suggested by the Ten of Clubs, which symbolizes your decanate ruler, the Moon. Though your health may be somewhat precarious, a remarkable recuperative ability keeps you going. While your perceptive powers are part of your secret in research, they are not likely to be of much help in gambling or speculative ventures.

Not afraid of work, but the greatest enemy to your accomplishments is apt to be procrastination. This may be equaled by an indecisiveness, which can place you in positions beneath your potential. Actually with your scope of awareness, you really are more suited for positions of responsibility. When you can put it all together, the record clearly shows that your efforts can prove a boon to mankind. To illustrate, you share this birthday with two celebrated horticulturists Andre Michaux and Luther Burbank, chemist-astronomer Sir John Herschel, Czech patriot Thomas Masaryk, the founder of Chiropractic treatment Daniel Palmer, composer Maurice Ravel, painter Sir Edwin Landseer, author Ben Ames Williams and actress Anna Magnani.

Successful as you can be careerwise, even socially, it may seem strange that your profound wisdom is apt to be helpless when it comes to affairs of the heart. Perhaps the real problem is that your desires take over the reins in romantic matters. You might minimize possible problems in love by refusing to indulge in self-deception and choosing someone born on January 2, 4, 7, 9, 13; February 24; March 3, 5, 9; April 20, 27, 30; May 1, 5, 18; June 23, 26; July 14, 21, 24; August 22, 31; September 10, 17, 20; October 27, 30; November 6, 13, 16; December 23, 26.

MARCH 8 (8 = 8) — 2♠ — TWO OF SPADES

No one should ever mistake your gentle diplomatic manner as a sign of weakness. Though you have your share of fears and self doubts, the power hidden in your number eight birthday suggests that they are not likely to keep you from going after what you really want – and getting it.

If you will accept the inspiring challenge of the King of Spades, which symbolizes your planetary ruler, Neptune, there are no limits to what you might achieve. But to fulfill this potential, you will have to overcome a reluctance to accept the responsibility of leadership roles. The first step towards that end could be the application of the concept of "self-mastery" symbolized in this high card. Also avoid detracting from your strength by indulging in moods or by being overly independent. Keep in mind, as a two, "cooperation" is a significant key word.

A strong probability of success is suggested by the Ten of Clubs which represents your decanate ruler, the Moon. The merging of the attributes of the Moon with this card indicates an imaginative intellect which can bring magic to your creative endeavors and intuitive wisdom to your philosophy. A tendency to become so intensely absorbed in your work and other interests suggests that you would be wise to schedule regular periods of relaxation.

Birthwise, you are particularly well equipped for business, especially those dealing with public interests. For some ideas, note the following who share this birthday with you. Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendel Holmes, evangelist William Booth, authors Kenneth Grahame and Gene Fowler, actor Sam Jaffe and actresses Claire Trevor, Cyd Charisse and Lynn Redgrave.

Independent, yet not really a loner, you may have to watch an inclination to become too easily bored and outspoken. Don't depend on your great charm to compensate for your tendency to blow hot and cold. In your great need for emotional security, you may be more apt to find that someone who can put up with your eccentricities born on one of the following birthdays. January 10, 14; February 25, 26; March 6, 10; April 21, 22, 28; May 2, 6, 19, 20; June 24, 27; July 2, 15, 16, 22; August 23, 27; September 11, 12, 18, 21; October 23, 29, 31; November 7, 8, 14, 17, 21; December 25, 27.

MARCH 9 (9 = 9) — A♠ — ACE OF SPADES

Extreme peaks and valleys are suggested by the combination of your card and the numerical complexion of your birthday. Inspired greatness and desperate despair may vie for expression through you. If you want to reach those heights, avoid the tendency to pettiness and preoccupation with self. Express the universality implied numerically in your birthday, and you should find it a key to your personal fulfillment.

As symbolized by the Two of Hearts, Neptune, your ruling planet, suggests that philosophical-idealism may become a moving force within you, encouraging an expression of service through teaching, religion and government service. Imagination can be one of your greatest assets providing you can keep from dissipating your mental energies through day dreams or destructively grim moods.

The Moon, your decanate ruler, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, suggests that your success may be found in combining your intuitive and intellectual powers. While you have the potential mental attributes to excel in cerebral endeavors, watch that nebulous ideas and abstract thoughts don't encourage misunderstandings. Your interests and potential for success may be so diversified that one part may seem like a stranger to the other part of you. To illustrate this point, you share this birthday with explorer Amerigo Vespucci, statesman Mirabeau, Britain's Ernest Bevin and Russia's Molotov, composer Samuel Barber, railroad builder Leland Stanford, architect Edward Stone, entertainer Eddy Foy, writer Mickey Spillane, chess champion Bobby Fischer and cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin.

Even though love may seem like some form of punishment, your strong sex drive may propel you into one involvement after another. Or you may react to the pain of it all and retreat into celibacy. A tendency to be somewhat vague as to what your emotional wants may be, combined with a lack of domesticity, is not likely to be of much help in sustaining a relationship. If you must marry, find someone who will play a supportive role and preferably one born on January 11, 15, 20; February 18, 25, 26; March 7, 11, 16; April 21, 22, 29; May 3, 7, 12, 19, 20; June 25; July 3, 8, 15, 16, 23; August 21, 27, 28; September 4, 11, 12, 19; October 23, 24; November 7, 8, 15, 21, 22; December 20.

MARCH 10 (1 + 0 = 1) K♦ KING OF DIAMONDS

The crown of leadership implied in your card is amplified by your number ten birthday which numerologically, takes on the independent, executive attributes of the number one. Combine the material strength and success shown here with your Pisces intuition and you should find that you have the power to create the life which you desire.

While the material realm is considered to be the domain of the Diamond King, mundane ambitions may be modified by the idealistic influence of Neptune, your ruling planet. As represented by the Four of Spades, your planetary ruler suggests that you are capable of the hard work needed to make inspired concepts come true. This influence also implies a natural aptitude for occupations dealing with liquids, such as oil, perfume and businesses related to distant interests and shipping. You are likely to be more comfortable working for yourself, or in some position where you can demonstrate your administrative abilities.

The crass call of materiality is further modified by your decanate ruler, the Moon. Symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, it suggests a creative intellect which might feel more at home in some expression of the arts or in occupations involved with public service, such as teaching and social work. With your tremendous potential, perhaps your greatest challenge will be in finding the initiative to take the necessary action to give substance to your lofty objectives.

You share this birthday with Alexander III of Russia, social worker Lillian D. Wald, composers Dudley Buck and Arthur Honegger, educator Charles Ernest Fay, actress Pamela Mason, actors Stewart Holmes and Barry Fitzgerald.

Surrounded by friends and admirers, yet you may find true love difficult to find. Some are attracted by your charm and strength, others threatened by it. If you are of the feminine gender, it is particularly important that you guard against being overly dominant. Compatibility in love and friendship may be more easily achieved with someone born on January 3, 10, 12, 16; February 26, 29; March 6, 8, 12; April 22, 25, 30; May 2, 4, 8, 20; June 26; July 4, 16, 19, 24; August 22; September 12, 15, 20; November 8, 11, 16; December 29.

He does not possess wealth
That allows it to possess him.
Benjamin Franklin

MARCH 11 (11 = "Master Number") Q♦ QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

The key to realizing the high aspirations implied in your crown card is to be found in applying the "mastery" symbolized numerologically in your birthday. The potential genius suggested by your birthday will need a wise balance of Pisces idealism with much practiced discipline.

A positive, productive quality is projected by the Queen of Spades, which symbolizes your planetary ruler, Neptune. This is reinforced by the intellectual power of the Ten of Clubs, which represents your decanate ruler, the Moon. While you're apt to have some of the extravagant, grand dreams associated with your card, modifying influences suggest that they are likely to be replaced by the idealistic projects. Rather than a preoccupation with self-adornment, you are more concerned in the well-being of others and in improving the environment through music, painting, drama and ecology.

Political activity, particularly that involved with social reforms are a natural for you. Determined as you can be, to bring your ideas to fruition, don't indulge in moods of rejection when your projects and efforts are not recognized and appreciated. In the cards, this often is the lot of those identified with the Queen of Diamonds. To you falls the responsibility to serve and show others the way. No cause could ask for a more dedicated and effective champion.

You share this birthday with King Fredrick I, scientist Vannevar Bush, architect-designer Donato Bramante, educator Francis Wayland, statesman Harold Wilson and Otto Grotewohl, actress Dorothy Gish, Johnny Appleseed, artist Kenneth Hayes Miller and black social reformer Reverend Ralph Abernathy.

Guard against the inclination to absorb your loved ones with your intense emotions. Use your extreme sensitivity to perceive their needs. Since at best, intimate relationships are likely to be challenging, you may find that the application of these considerations, plus selecting someone from one of the following birthdays a key to personal happiness. January 3, 13, 17, 19; March 9, 13, 15; May 5, 9, 11; June 27, 30; July 1, 5, 7; August 23, 26, 30; September 1, 3, 21, 24; October 22, 26; November 17, 20; December 22, 30.

MARCH 12 (1 + 2 = 3) J♦ JACK OF DIAMONDS

Personality plus is the image projected by the combined influences of your card and your numerological three birthday. You tend to bring a youthful enthusiasm to everything you do. Regarding the latter, watch that this exuberant nature doesn't encourage you to scatter your energies through too many interests.

The creative attributes associated with your card are accented by the imaginative influence of Neptune, your ruling planet. Since this celestial body is symbolized by the Queen of Hearts, a natural charm is likely to be one of your most significant assets. Although theatrical and political expression rank high as a source of recognition for those born on your birthday, other more subtle aspects suggest that you may also have a special mission in life. One which might be accomplished through some type of public service or through stimulating the minds of others through literature, religious and philosophical expressions.

With the vitality of Mars as the governing force of your birthday decanate, you're not likely to pine away in some moody Pisces closet. As represented by the Two of Spades, this planetary influence suggests that you can gain energy and impetus through combining your efforts with others. Don't let an edgy, independent streak minimize the benefits to be gained through cooperative endeavors. Impressive as your earning potential can be, willful, undisciplined tendencies suggest that you may have some problems in managing your resources. Be it through your career, church or fraternal organizations, you are likely to be a stimulating influence in the community. For some examples, you share this birthday with the first Turkish president, Kemal Ataturk, writers Richard Steele and Edward Albee, New York Times publisher Adolph Ochs, astronomer Simon Newcomb, dye inventor William Perkins, astronaut Walter Schirra, singers Gordon Mac Rae and Liza Minnelli.

An easy popularity may encourage you to be flirtatious. Unconventional ideas and emotional immaturity can cause love to become a nebulous fantasy. If you want to build a lasting relationship, accent responsibility and look for someone born on January 14, 18, 20; February 13, 21; March 10, 14, 16, 19; May 6, 12, 15, ; June 28; July 2, 6, 8, 11; August 24, 31; September 2, 4, 7, 22; October 27; November 3, 18 and December 23.

MARCH 13 (1 + 3 = 4) — 10♦ — TEN OF DIAMONDS

You are identified with a symbol of success. This is reinforced by the practical, organizational skills suggested by your numerical four birthday. But between you and the good fortune promised in your birthday may be a lack of self-confidence. Overcome your self-doubts and your endeavors are likely to reward you abundantly.

A strong urge for self-expression is suggested by the Three of Spades, symbolic of your ruling planet, Neptune. The combined influence of this card and planet also warns that nebulous attitudes and confusion in your objectives and in methods in bringing them about could prove a serious stumbling block. Discipline and concentration in your efforts appear to be essential if you are to realize the happier possibilities of the destiny spelled out by your card. In your attempts to focus, to pull things together, guard against the false stability to be found in inflexibility and stubbornness. Although you may have to work hard and long to realize the wonderful promises of your card, you do have the keen mentality and talents needed to place success within your reach.

The Ace of Diamonds, which represents your decanate ruler, Mars, implies that you're not likely to be satisfied with anything less than the best. Let this provide you with the necessary motivation to develop your potential. As you ignite your ambition, watch that it doesn't bring out those dictatorial traits, which can take the joy out of your achievements.

You need people, but you will probably prefer to fill this requirement in small doses. Intrigued, as you may be with travel, you may find even greater satisfaction in research, writing and composing. For examples of this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with chemist Joseph Priestly (discoverer of oxygen), astronomer Percival Lowell, restaurateur Lorenzo Delmonico, composer Hugo Wolf, scientologist Ron Hubbard and orchestra leader Sammy Kaye.

Despite a strong love nature, difficulty in giving voice to your feelings may take some of the fun out of your romantic quest. Nevertheless, the emotional security to be found in love and a home are extremely important to you. You may find it easier to build successful relationships with someone born on January 7, 10, 13, 19; March 3, 6, 9, 11, 15; April 26; May 2, 5, 7, 11; June 22, July 3, 7, 20; August 28; September 3, 16; October 24; November 12, 22; December 20, 30.

MARCH 14 (1 + 4 = 5) — 9♦ — NINE OF DIAMONDS

A peculiar blending of universal idealism and materialism is suggested by the combination of symbolical influences of your card and birthday. The ability to excel in a wide gamut of possibilities in implied through the broad scope of interests and versatility suggested by the occult attributes of your birthday. Just don't allow wanderlust to minimize your terrific possibilities.

Whether it be in science, artistic or humanitarian endeavors, the imaginative influence of Neptune, your guiding planet, should contribute to your productivity. Possibly due to a reluctance to adapt to others, you may attempt to go it alone. Keep in mind that the Two of Spades, which represents your planetary ruler, emphasizes the probability of gain, personally and otherwise, through sharing your dreams, partnerships and cooperative efforts. Lowly as your beginnings may be, a combination of fate with your intellectual and talent potential suggests that you can rise far above your original place in life. In the process of getting there, your adventures are apt to include extensive travel.

Don't let your natural luck discourage you from developing the fine mental and leadership potential suggested by the King of Clubs, symbolic of your decanate ruler, Mars. Accepting the responsibility of your abilities is the key to the many wonderful possibilities indicated in your cards. For some others, consider the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are two Italian kings — Humbert I and Victor Emmanuel II, politican Thomas Benton, writer Maxim Gorky, scientist Albert Einstein, explorer Osa Johnson, astronauts Frank Borman and Eugene Cernan, actress Tita Tushman and actor Michael Caine.

Sex may propel you into marriage and romantic experiments, but since you're inclined to tire of relationships, you had better find someone who is also mentally stimulating. Don't be too surprised if it takes more than one marriage to find what you are looking for. You might have better luck with someone born on January 2, 9, 14, 16, 20; February 18, 28; March 5, 10, 12, 16; April 24, 27; May 1, 6, 8, 12, 22; June 20, 23, 28; July 2, 4, 8, 18, 21; August 24, 29; September 4, 14, 17, 22; October 25; November 10, 13, 18, December 21.

MARCH 15 (1 + 5 = 6) 8♦ EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

A great desire for love, peace and harmony is implied numerologically in your birthday. Though inclined to be reserved and unpretentious, your card reveals that behind the modest facade dwells an intuitive strength and a force of constructive responsibility. A charming diplomat, you are likely to win many admirers both in public activities and privately.

Neptune, your ruling planet is likely to overcome your lack of ambition with idealistic incentives. But since your ruling planet is symbolized by the Three of Diamonds, you may have to guard against confusion and a tendency to scatter your energies in too many directions. Far away places are apt to hold a certain glamorous attraction for you. Just watch that these don't become indulgences in self-deceptive fantasies. You can be particularly effective in occupations which provide some type of service. In this respect, watch that others do not become too dependent upon you.

The Ace of Clubs, which represents your decanate ruler, Mars, suggests that one of your strongest motivating forces is apt to be curiosity, the desire to know. This could help you to be especially capable in occupations involving investigation and research. If humanitarian projects, or science do not particularly appeal to you, the record shows that you can do equally well in public oriented careers, as to be found in government service or entertainment. For example, you share this birthday with President Andrew Jackson, scientists Lacaille and Alexander Popov, musicans Harry James, Frankie Carle and Sly Stone, actors George Brent and MacDonald Carey.

The combination of your romantic idealism and a surprisingly passionate nature are apt to make for a rather stormy love life. You might improve your chances for personal happiness by using a less direct, a less emotional approach, such as sharing your quest for knowledge, and choosing someone born on one of the following birthdays. January 7, 15, 17, 21; February 19, 26; March 3, 11, 13, 17, 19; April 22, 28; May 7, 9, 13, 15, 20; June 24; July 3, 5, 9, 11, 16, 22; August 27, 28; September 1, 5, 7, 12, 18; October 24; November 1, 3, 8, 14, 21, 22; December 28.

MARCH 16 (1 + 6 = 7) 7♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

Behind your stoic smile or silly grin, values spiritual and mundane are apt to create an inner turmoil. A part of you seeking security in faith, the other in gold. This is the revelation of your diamond card and the thoughtful, mystical nature implied in the numerological seven of your birthday.

The King of Diamonds, symbolic of your planetary ruler, Neptune, suggests that prestige and wealth are strong motivating factors. A capability for inspired leadership is also symbolized here. While the power to acquire material affluence is shown, don't let your skepticism and worrisome attitudes minimize the pleasure of your accomplishments.

Mars, your decanate ruler, implies a certain vitality but, as represented by the Nine of Clubs, this celestial influence suggests that an inclination to introversion could short circuit this energy. An excellent mental potential, but you may have to watch that impatience does not minimize its effectiveness. This may also persuade you to gamble on luck. Although good fortune is spelled out in your Life Spread, games of chance and speculation are not likely to contribute much to your well-being. The material security so important to you is far more likely to be found through the development of your talents and natural business sense. As you are not particularly receptive to being told what to do, you might be happier being able to tell others what to do, or in working for yourself. For some possible career ideas, you share this birthday with President James Madison, Senator Mike Mansfield, astronomer Lucretia Herschel, physicist George Ohm, astronaut Walter Cunningham, former Ambassador Daniel Moynihan, actor Jerry Lewis and former First Lady Patricia Nixon.

With the exception of an occasional flirtatious fling, you're inclined to be somewhat aloof. Actually, since your intense sex drive and need for emotional fulfillment is apt to attract burdensome relationships, this may prove a somewhat protective barrier to problems. You might also find it easier to make sacrifices in the name of love for someone born on January 5, 6, 13, 16, 18, 22; March 1, 2, 9, 12, 14, 18; April 28, 29; May 5, 8, 10, 14; June 24, 25; July 1, 4, 6, 10, 22, 23; August 21, 28; September 2, 6, 18, 19; October 24, 30; November 2, 14, 15, 22; December 20, 26.

MARCH 17 (1 + 7 = 8) 6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

A sensual appreciation of the finer things of life may motivate you to use the power implied in your numerical eight birthday to overindulge all your senses. Fortunately, a conservative streak with mystical overtones, suggests that you are more likely to direct this intuitive energy into constructive channels.

Add the sensitive influence of Neptune to those associated with your card, and there is a good chance that you have a significant psychic potential. Since your planetary ruler is represented by the Queen of Diamonds, material considerations are likely to crowd your more profound aspirations. Friendly and easy going, but no one should be deceived into thinking that this means that you will be content to play a subordinate role. Actually, with your potential for organization and sense of timing, you belong in positions where you can direct or star in the action.

An ability to attract money and material success is accented by the Ten of Diamonds, which symbolizes your decanate ruler, Mars. It also points to a possible aptitude for counselling others regarding their investment and monetary problems. An inherent feeling for color, rhythm and sound suggest that you should investigate your talent possibilities in music and dance. Having a strong sense of balance and justice, you may be equally effective dispensing philosophical and legal guidance. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with statesman Sir John Ernest Hotson, composer Charlotte Elliot, artist Kate Greenway, hunter Frank Buck, dancer Rudolph Nureyev, singer Nat King Cole and golfer Bobby Jones.

A compelling social sex urge is likely to keep your life lively with people action. But since there is a strong probability that you may not have your emotional head altogether before your thirties, don't let your great need for affection rush you into marriage. Then, with the help of a more mature perspective, you're likely to have a better chance in sustaining a lasting relationship. These possibilities might be further enhanced by choosing someone born on January 3, 6, 7, 19; February 21; March 2, 3, 15, 19; April 29, 30; May 11, 15; June 25, 26; July 7, 11, 24; August 22, 29; September 3, 7, 20; October 25, 31; November 3, 16, 23; December 21, 27.

MARCH 18 (1 + 8 = 9) 5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

The sense of cosmic destiny suggested in the numerical nine factor of your birthday should help you transcend the limitations of mundane uncertainty implied in your card. Change and extensive travel both in actuality and in your mind are likely to be involved in your quest to give service and inspired leadership.

With the positive energies of the Jack of Diamonds representing the visionary influence of your planetary ruler, Neptune, you are likely to seek some type of creative expression. This influence particularly favors writing, composing and theatrical endeavors. Or you may feel moved to express your inherent idealism through philosophy or politics. Whether it be as a lawyer, statesman or minister, you have just the right balance of intellect and emotion to be an effective orator.

Although naturally modest, Mars, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Nine of Diamonds suggests that you do have a streak of extravagance. If your reckless moments cause you to become indebted, your highly conscientious nature will not allow you to ignore your debtors. A gentle manner conceals your courageous nature. It's when the chips are down that you're likely to display your true strength. Your normal reserve is likely to drop away when you become involved in intellectual discourses. In all probably, you can more than hold your own in any argument or debate. In selecting a career or major activity, remember, as a five you require a great deal of variety and action.

If you can use some inspiration regarding possible careers, consider the following who share this birthday with you. Statesmen: President Grover Cleveland, John Calhoun and Neville Chamberlain, philosopher Manley Palmer Hall, psychic Edgar Cayce, composer Rimsky Korsakov, scientist Rudolf Diesel (diesel engine), newscaster John Schubeck, actresses Anna Held and Wendy Barrie, actors Edward Everett Horton and Robert Donat.

In love and friendships, you need an intellectually stimulating companion. In close relationships, you may have to guard against being too mental and critical in your observations. Relationships may be easiest with those born on January 7, 20; February 22, 27; March 3, 16, 20; April 23, 30; May 12, 16, 21; June 26, 27; July 8, 12, 17, 24; August 22, 23, 30; September 4, 8, 13, 20, 21; October 26; November 4, 9, 16, 17; December 22, 28.

MARCH 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

Practical idealism is suggested by the combination of the attributes associated with your card and Sun sign. As a numerical one your birthday encourages expressions of leadership. Whether it be in the home, job, church or community, you are likely to be a moving and constructive force.

Neptune, your planetary ruler, as symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, suggests that you have the power to translate your inspirations and efforts into tangible and profitable expression. Keen as your material sense may be, you are also likely to be strongly motivated spiritually. This is probably the source of your persistent optimism, which gets you through all sorts of obstacles. It may also encourage an involvement in occupations and activities concerned with the morale and well-being of others.

Your gentle Pisces nature is almost obscured by the drive, direct and somewhat brusque manner encouraged by your decanate ruler, Mars. As represented by the Six of Clubs, this planetary influence suggests that your ability to accomplish a great deal is not only due to hard work, but also to your intuitive insight. It also suggests, despite a restless love of travel, that you may have a tendency to become bogged down in routine situations. Workwise, you are at your best in service-related activities, especially those which give you the opportunity to demonstrate your exceptional ability for organization.

For some examples of how others have used your birthday potential, consider philosopher George Palmer, missionary-explorer David Livingston, politician William Jennings Bryan, Justice Earl Warren, World War II director of home nursing Olivia Peterson, painter Albert Ryder, General Joseph Stillwell, actress Ursula Andress and the Wild West's notorious Wyatt Earp.

So many who are attracted to your dynamic emotional, social vitality may linger for such a short while, that you may feel like a railway station. When you do fall in love, your practical nature is likely to be swept aside by all the romantic, illusionary influences of your ruling planet, Neptune. Even though you may be shy of marriage, lasting relationships may be more easily achieved with those born on January 8, 14, 16, 19, 21; February 19; March 4, 10, 12, 15, 17, 21; May 6, 8, 11, 13, 17; June 28; July 2, 4, 7, 9, 13; August 24, 31; September 3, 5, 9, 22; October 27, 30; November 1, 5, 18; December 23, 26.

MARCH 20 (2 + 0 = 2) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

The compelling urge for self-expression, implied in your card should do much to help you overcome the timidity suggested numerically in your birthday. Even so, bright and personable as you can be, doubt, negative attitudes and confusion may become unnecessary hazards to your happiness.

As represented by the Nine of Spades, Neptune, your planetary ruler suggests a cosmic awareness, which may supply you with the inspiration to rise above the obstacles and frustrations on your path. Hard as you will probably have to work for your objectives, success need not be an "impossible dream." Just don't allow an obsession for success cause you to push your health too far. The use of liquor or narcotics could be devastating to the extremely sensitive individual hiding behind the brash, somewhat cocky facade you show the world.

Occurring on the cusp of Aries and Pisces, your birthday comes under a double impact from Mars, your decanate ruler. Due to the fact that this planet is represented by the Seven of Diamonds, material ambition is likely to be the prime motivating force in your life. As well as you can look in the limelight, your inspired efforts can look equally well on paper. You have an unique insight, which could help you unravel life's mysteries. While this may appeal to your serious, probing nature, you also have a lighter side, which might feel at home in the world of entertainment. For some examples, you share this birthday with playwright Heinrik Ibsen, educator-writer Charles William Eliot, director Edmund Goulding, singer Lauritz Melchior, conductors Paul Whiteman, Ozzie Nelson and Bobby Orr, actors Sir Michael Redgrave, Carl Reiner.

The numerical two of your birthday indicates that sharing is an important key word to your personal happiness. Watch that you don't jeopardize close relationships through a preoccupation with your own interests and a reluctance to give love. You may find a greater incentive to work out romantic problems with someone born on January 4, 22, 26, 27; February 2, 7, 20, 24, 25; March 5, 18, 22, 23; April 3, 16, 20, 21; May 1, 14, 18, 19, 31; June 12, 16, 17, 29; July 10, 14, 15, 27; August 8, 12, 13, 25; September 6, 10, 11, 23; October 4, 8, 9, 21, 28; November 2, 6, 7, 19, 26; December 4, 5, 17, 24.

MARCH 21 (2 + 1 = 3) — 2♦ — TWO OF DIAMONDS

A dynamic zeal, which can be particularly effective in cooperative endeavors is suggested by your card and birthday. But you may have to watch that your individualistic temperament doesn't jeopardize those ventures you share with others. Watch that inclination to scatter your forces.

A vitality, which is ready to take on the world is suggested by Mars, your planetary ruler. As represented by the Six of Diamonds, this celestial body warns against taking your good fortune for granted. Since you are likely to gain through participation with others, do not let your eccentricities and fears become an obstacle in relationships. As it is, you are apt to be somewhat of an enigma, vacillating between constructive enthusiasm and destructive moods, which can lead to nervous ailments.

Discipline this energy, especially into channels which will help develop your fine mind and talents. Though you usually can successfully promote ideas and win arguments, guard against being too opinionated. If you have a point to make, take up writing, you could find it a source of profit as well as good therapy for your somewhat hypersensitive nature. It also might be a good idea to combine your efforts with someone who will complete the many projects generated by your enthusiasm. While you might find success in the financial world, the record suggests that you may have a potential in music. For example, you share this birthday with composers Johann Sebastian Bach and Mussorgsky, Mexican statesman Benito Juarez, scientist Jean Fourier, showman Florenz Ziegfeld and John D. Rockefeller, III.

As a two obviously marriage and the home are extremely important. So much so that no matter how inadequate you may find a situation, your inflexible loyalty is apt to make it difficult for you to make any changes. But fate is likely to step in, giving you more than one chance at marriage. In that quest for someone who might fill your special requirements, keep in mind that stimulating mental companionship is just about as important to you as affection. You might find the best of both worlds in someone born on January 23; February 8; March 23, 25, 28, 30, 31; April 4, 17; May 21, 24, 26, 27; June 13, 17, 19, 22; July 20, 22, 23, 28; August 9, 13, 15, 18, 20, 21; September 7, 11, 13, 16, 18, 19; October 22, 26, 29; November 3, 7, 9, 12, 14, 15, 20; December 22, 25.

MARCH 22 (Master Number) — A♦ — ACE OF DIAMONDS

Numerologically, you have a choice. You can function under the practical influence of the number four or let the ambition symbolized in your card supply the motivation to aspire to the "mastery" implied numerically in your birthday. The latter could help you achieve just about anything to which you might aspire.

Astrologically, you have the vitality of Mars to add enthusiasm to your quest. Represented by the Three of Clubs, your ruling planet suggests that a magnetic personality may be one of your prime assets. It also warns of indecision, possibly arising out of a tendency to become involved in too many things may dissipate your energies. Direct and honest, don't spoil this advantage by indulging in impatient irritability. Impulsiveness, with an inclination to become over-stimulated suggests the wisdom of time-out for relaxation, preferably in some type of outdoor activity. Although your card suggests that you to be pretty much occupied with self-fulfillment, a humanitarian streak is indicated which might encourage you to respond to a higher calling. You mave an excellent leadership potential, but with so much power symbolized in your birthday, you may have to guard against abuses in high places and an inclination to be dictatorial.

Brash as you can appear, you have a certain sensitivity which might find successful expression in drama, in wielding a paint brush, or the scepter of leadership. For example, you share this birthday with two emperors, Maxillian the First of Rome and William the First of Germany, artists Van Dyke and Rosa Bonheur, cosmic ray physicist Robert Millikan, pantomimist Marvel Marceau, actors Karl Malden and William Shatner and actress May Britt.

While you are apt to have an aggressive, sexual vitality, possibly due to early difficulties with your parents, you're also apt to wear an invisible armor, making it difficult for others to get close to you. Even so, this barrier is not likely to substantially restrict your impulsive and restless heart. You might minimize your emotional quandaries by looking for someone born on January 22, 24, 28, 30; February 4, 9, 20; March 20, 24, 26; April 5, 16, 18, 22; May 20, 22; June 1, 12, 14, 18, 20; July 31; August 8, 10, 14, 16; September 27; October 4, 6, 10, 12, 25; November 23, 28; December 2, 6, 8, 21, 26.

MARCH 23 (2 + 3 = 5) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

Cardwise, you wear the crown of leadership, intellectual power and talent. Numerologically, your birthday suggests a versatility which can adapt to make the most of any one of these attributes, and the many opportunities which fate is likely to hand you. Perhaps this is why yours is among the luckiest of all birthdays.

Great as your capabilities are, they may suffer, not so much from laziness as from lack of incentive. Easy going and confident, it's fortunate that you have Mars to stir you into action. As represented by the Four of Diamonds, your ruling planet suggests that your efforts are likely to reward you handsomely. Identified with the top card in the mental (Club) suit, you can be particularly adept in law and science. Physically, you are also likely to be blessed. Even with your royal appetite, your appreciation of beauty and health suggest that you will make a valiant effort to keep trim. There is a wide variety of endeavors at which you can excel.

Your great healing potential is aided by your astute diagnostic powers. In business, considering that yours is a crown card, positions of authority are natural. Or you can wear your crown with equal success in the theatrical limelight. For a few examples of what others born on your day have done with its potential, consider famed botanist John Rartram, astrologer Dane Rudhyar, writer Erich Fromm, rocket scientist Werner Von Braun, actress Joan Crawford, singer Martha Wright, and actor George Harrison.

Socially-romantically the cards are stacked in your favor, yet more than one marriage is a strong possibility. Contributing factors to your inclination to change partners are apt to be a lack of patience and the inability for anyone to return as much as you can give and require. You might have a better chance for fulfillment in love and friendship with someone born on January 25, 28, 29, 31; February 5, 10, 11; March 21, 24, 25, 27; April 1, 6, 7, 19, 22, 23; May 20, 21, 23; June 3, 15, 18, 19, 21; July 29; August 11, 14, 15, 17; September 25; October 7, 10, 11, 13, 23, 31; November 21, 29; December 3, 6, 7, 9, 19, 27.

MARCH 24 (2 + 4 = 6) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

Aggressive, yet sensitive leadership is suggested by the combination of your card and your Aries birthday. A combination of robust energy, idealism and a strong sense of justice may just supply enough motivation to overcome your almost equal sensuous love of comfort and the easy life.

Mars, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Three of Diamonds, emphasizes the importance of finding a constructive outlet for your energies. Otherwise, your vitality may dissipate in confusion and nervousness. As choice of occupation and interests may not be easy, it may help to consider your potential, as symbolized in the cards. Keep in mind that you are identified with a sensitive crown card, which suggests that you are a natural for expressions of leadership in everything from teaching, counselling, business to politics. Though your extravagant nature may cause problems in managing your own funds, your astute observations may be able to provide valuable financial counsel to others.

Don't depend on your intuitive instincts to the point that you minimize the development of your intellectual powers. Do watch that your deep thoughts do not isolate you from others. You can be reasoned with, but if anyone questions your judgement, which is usually right, they are apt to find out how obstinate you can be. Avoid rigid routines when choosing work or other interests. Also, you are likely to find people related activities furnishing the kind of stimulus that turns you on. Multi-talented, success is yours for the taking. For some examples, you share this birthday with President Coty of France, Govenor Thomas Dewey, industrialist Andrew Mellon, geologist John Westly Powell, General Lauris Norstad, screen personalities Richard Conte, Rosco "Fatty" Arbuckle and Steve McQueen and hymn singer Fanny Crosby.

Emotionally restless and impulsive, but a strong sense of fair play combined with a love of home should do much to stabilize your relationships. Efforts in this area may be helped even further by selecting someone born on January 26; February 10, 11, 12, 17; March 22, 28, 31; April 6, 7, 8, 13, 20; May 24, 27, 29; June 2, 3, 4, 9, 16, 22; July 23, 25, 30; August 5, 18, 21, 23; September 26; October 1, 8, 14, 17, 19, 24; November 22, 27, 30; December 4, 10, 13, 15, 20.

MARCH 25 (2 + 5 = 7) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

The eager creativity suggested by your card may be both fed and challenged by the idealistic, introspective quality reflected numerically in your birthday. The latter translates into the mystical number seven, which may cause you to feel like you are "swimming up stream." Apply the responsibility and profound wisdom which it also represents and your efforts may be touched with genius.

The Two of Clubs which symbolizes Mars, your planetary ruler, adds a combustible quality, accenting your quick mind. While this could help win a legal debate, there is a danger of a willful, erratic behavior, which could cause you to waste your mental energies in trivialities and arguments. Channel this mental energy and your great talent potential, and you could accomplish something rather spectacular. If not in some literary, artistic or dramatic expression, perhaps some cause may be the beneficiary of your dynamic personality. Whatever, you're not likely to remain in the background for long. While your volatile temperament may be a detriment in intimate relationships, it can be an exciting asset theatrically and artistically. Just don't minimize all your wonderful possibilities by indulging in negativity and stubborn moods.

If you need some inspiration to encourage you to reach for your personal star, check the following who share this birthday with you. Composer Bela Bartok, writer A. Herzen, military leader Murat, Mount Rushmore sculptor Gutzon Borglum, actors Ed Begley and Jerry Colonna, actresses Nancy Kelly and Simone Signoret, singers Anita Bryant and Aretha Franklin, television's Howard Cosell and Gloria Steinem of "Women's Lib."

Popularity is not likely to be a problem. But when it comes to those "forever after" relationships, a strong, impulsive but vacillating sex urge is apt to keep relationships up in the air. You may find success in love and friendship easier with someone born on January 22, 27, 31; February 1, 5, 13, 25; March 23, 27; April 1, 9, 16, 21; May 23; June 5, 12, 17, 21; July 31; August 1, 8, 13, 17; September 27, 28; October 2, 4, 9, 13; November 23, 24; December 5, 9, 21, 22.

MARCH 26 (2 + 6 = 8) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

As a numerological eight your Aries birthday suggests that you have the drive and power to achieve the success implied in your card. But difficult as it may be, it is through the discipline of your superior mind that you're most likely to find your entree to all the things to which you aspire.

While your ruling planet, Mars, should give momentum to your efforts, as represented by the Three of Hearts, this planetary influence suggests that emotional quandaries or too many interests may confuse your efforts. An inclination to do what you feel like doing and only when you want to, is not likely to be of much help in overcoming your wanderlust. Uncertainty, as to what you want out of life is apt to compound the problem of sustaining your interests. With so many interests, you really need to be in a position where you can have others take care of the details and complete your various projects. Of course, there are those times when you are really turned on. You can then work without thought of time or health.

Impatient with smallness and narrow viewpoints, you need grand endeavors and concepts to fire your imagination. In spite of a somewhat liberal avant-garde point of view, you are apt to indulge in nostalgia and introspective probings. You can make big money, but your generosity and erratic financial attitude may make it difficult for you to hang on to much of it. When it comes to choosing an occupation, don't crowd yourself with work or interests which will restrict your actions or inhibit your thought processes. If you need some ideas, note the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes politicians Paul Douglas and Togliatti, General William Moreland, pianist Wilhelm Bachaus, writers Alfred Edward Housman, Robert Frost and Tennessee Williams, food coinnoisseur Duncan Hines, singer Diana Ross, actors Sterling Hayden and Leonard Nimoy.

A zest for life, plus a casual charm is likely to attract all sorts of friends, lovers and admirers. But your personal happiness may be somewhat threatened by your own emotional indecisiveness, independent nature and overwhelming personality. You may find it easier to minimize these problems with someone born on January 26; February 6, 7, 16; March 22, 28; April 2, 3, 12, 13, 20; May 24, 31; June 8, 16, 22; July 27, 31; August 4, 5, 12, 18; September 23, 27, 29; October 1, 8, 14, 21, 25; November 23, 25; December 4, 10, 17, 21, 23.

MARCH 27 (2 + 7 = 9) 9♣ NINE OF CLUBS

Practice the "universal-understanding" symbolized in both your card and the numerical nine of your birthday and you should find a lifetime of fulfillment. Efforts to apply this magnificent concept are likely to be challenged by an inclination to lock up your fine mind through impatience and mental laziness.

According to the King of Hearts, which represents your planetary ruler, Mars, you will probably prefer to win your way through some expression of your dynamic personality. If you do, keep in mind that this card is identified with the mythological "God of War," so there is a strong possibility that temperament, plus a tendency to dominate may minimize the gains won by your charming image. You're not likely to be content playing second fiddle. With your great potential in intellect and talent, you should have no real difficulty in achieving your rightful place.

Considering the possibility that life is probably going to hand you challenges equal to your potential for achievement, be grateful that inherent in your card is an inner strength which won't accept defeat. So if your way is filled with obstacles and delays, your innate inclination to keep plugging away should eventually bring you success. According to the record, if you can discipline your brain, you have the potential for leadership in science, education and law. Or if you choose to minimize your intensely serious nature, you might convert that cerebral energy into excitement both musically and dramatically. If you need any inspiration, you share this birthday with the discoverer of X-ray, Wilhelm Roentgen, lithographer Nathaniel Currier, composers Vincent D'Indy and Ferde Grofe, educator Sir Alfred Ewing, actress Gloria Swanson and singer Sarah Vaughan.

A natural magnetic charm is likely to make you the hub of social activity. But loneliness may result from an instinctive distrust of people and an insistence that everything be done your way. Curb that urge to be the center of attention, and you may find success in love, especially if that someone is born on January 1, 27, 29; February 4, 7, 12; March 23, 25, 29, 31; April 3, 8; May 21, 25, 27, 30; June 4, 17, 19, 23; July 23, 26; August 13, 15, 19, 21, 24; September 22, 30; October 9, 11, 15, 17, 20; November 26; December 5, 7, 11, 13, 26, 24, 29.

MARCH 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

The ambition to be up front, implied by your numerical one birthday, could not ask for a better tool to achieve that end than the aggressive mentality suggested by your card. Although success is a strong probability, a lack of perseverance and a tendency to be governed by rash, emotional impulses may sabotage your efforts.

In addition to the cerebral power indicated by your card, Mars, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Ten of Hearts suggests that you also have people-power. While this indicates the probability of success, especially in dealing with large groups, or with the public, watch that you don't undercut the attractive, dynamic personality suggested by this influence through indulging in impatience and sarcasm. A strong-willed individualist, you are willing to make great sacrifices to achieve your goals. Surprisingly, while you can spur others into action, your own efforts may suffer from procrastination.

Despite the urge for recognition, a part of you may be perfectly content to retreat to your own little exclusive world to meditate, write and probe the mysteries of life. While you have the mentality that can bring spectacular achievements from your introverted periods, you are more likely to find satisfaction in people related activities. Actually, you probably will be closest to your true expression in positions where you can lead and communicate the wisdom gained through your astute perspective. Considering some of the notables who share the birthday with you, obviously your potential includes everything from saintliness to debauchery. While we will not attempt to give any examples of the latter, your birthday mates do include Saint Teresa of Avila, composer Moussorgski, writer Maxim Gorki, astronomer Simon Pierre Laplace. actress Dame Flora Robinson, actors Freddie Bartholomew and Dirk Bogarde and Senator Edmund Muskie.

Flirtatious and affectionate, you can bring much fun and excitement to any gathering. Traditional modes are not likely to appeal to you, so your relationships may be somewhat unconventional. You may find greater success in relationships with your own sex. But whatever your emotional thing may be, don't let an argumentative nature spoil it for you. Emotional restlessness may be less of a problem with those born on January 25, 28, 30; February 8, 15; March 21, 24, 26, 30; April 4, 11, 19, 22; May 17, 20, 22, 26; June 7, 15, 18, 20; August 3, 11, 14, 16, 20; October 7, 10, 12, 16; November 27; December 3, 6, 8, 12.

MARCH 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) 7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

Numerically, your "master number" birthday suggests that the inspirational possibilities associated with your card may have a touch of genius. That is, providing you don't short-circuit your brainstorms by indulging in excessive worry. Idealism may encourage expressions of leadership, but negativity can undercut your best intentions.

As symbolized by the Jack of Clubs, your planetary ruler Mars, suggests you have a mental vitality which can create or make you a winner in intellectual discourses and debates. You may have to watch that this does not feed an apprehensive and argumentative nature. Positive as you can be at times, you are very vulnerable to disappointments, which can leave you with a lingering bitterness, which in turn can discourage future productivity. Fortunately, this tendency can be somewhat countered by a proud, courageous attitude, which conceals your defeats. In fact, you tend to be so secretive, that no one is likely to ever gain your full confidence.

Although not obsessed with the desire for money, you do appreciate its importance along with other sources of power as a means to gain your objectives. Intellectually, you are particularly well suited for the legal profession, design engineering and other occupations requiring technical skills, especially those involved with metals and machinery. Although you probably prefer to work behind the scenes, as the following who share this birthday with you clearly illustrate, you may also have a potential that can look good in the spotlight of politics or show business. For example, you share this birthday with President John Tyler, Senator Eugene McCarthy, Beria of Russia's secret police, actor Warner Baxter, organist E. Power Biggs, singer Pearl Bailey and basketball star Walt Frazier.

Impulsive and intense as you can be emotionally, your expression of love is likely to suffer from an inclination to hide your real feelings. Those gloomy moods are also not likely to be of much help to your romantic involvements. Love is likely to be far more successful if you will "accentuate the positive" and look for someone born on one of the following days: January 31; February 1, 9, 16; March 27, 31; April 5, 12; May 23, 27; June 1, 8, 21; July 23; August 4, 17, 21; October 13, 17; November 28; December 9, 13.

MARCH 30 (3 + 0 = 3) 6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

Static electricity is suggested by the combination of your card and your Aries birthday. While this combination is likely to produce energy, your numerical three birthday warns of an inclination to dissipate this force through too many interests. Under control this suggests that you can do many things well.

Although you may spin your wheels occasionally, the compelling urge of Mars, your planetary ruler, to be actively involved and on the go is not likely to let you stay in a rut for long. As this celestial influence is represented by the Ten of Clubs, your success will be found in some expression of intellect or talent. If it's the latter, your contact with the public theatrically is benefited by an inherent sixth-sense of what people want. This same intuitive insight may incline you to be overly suspicious and cause you to always expect a "joker."

Capable as you can be, many of your efforts may suffer, not for a lack of ability, but from a nervous lack of patience to gain the sufficient know-how and training. A dilettante view on life could cause you to leave many incomplete ideas and projects in your wake. This same impatience may also cause you to be somewhat accident prone. Though you are a natural for intellectual endeavors, such as to be found in teaching and research, a strong sensual appreciation of life may encourage you to seek fulfillment with paint brush or pen as did artists Goya and Van Gogh, and poet Paul Verlaine, who share this birthday with you. Or, as your birthday mates singer Frankie Laine, actress Shirley Jones and actor Warren Beatty, you may look for the excitement to be found in show business. This also is the birthday of historian John Fiske.

Whether it be professionally, or in your personal life, your easy charm and hospitality is likely to win you many friends and admirers. In contrast, your love life may suffer from communication problems and romantic fantasies beyond human fulfillment. Anyone getting through the protective barrier around your heart is likely to find you warm and passionate. Whether it be an intimate encounter or friendship, it may be better with someone born on January 25; February 10, 17; March 21, 28, 31; April 6, 13, 19; May 24, 27, 28, 30; June 2, 9, 15, 22; July 23, 24, 26, 29; August 5, 11, 18, 21, 22, 24; September 22, 25, 28; October 1, 7, 14, 17, 18, 20, 23; November 21, 24, 28, 29; December 3, 10, 13, 14, 16, 19, 22.

MARCH 31 (3 + 1 = 4) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

The restless mental energies suggested by your card due to the practical influence of the numerical four influence of your birthday are likely to be put to constructive use. This combination suggests a productive versatility, which may bring you both recognition and wealth.

It would be inaccurate to identify you with only the astute mental attributes associated with your card. As represented by the Seven of Hearts, your planetary ruler Mars also suggests that you have a vibrant charm. Your intense and sensitive feelings are likely to be important factors in both your successes and failures. The latter may be due to a streak of jealousy and vindictiveness. Fortunately, a predisposition to build, to improve, should do much to minimize the negative possibilities. Obstinate as you may be in personal matters, you can be quite flexible when it comes to adapting yourself to take advantage of an opportunity. While you seem to thrive on travel and change, be careful that this eternal quest for stimulus from new experiences does not contribute to your inherent feeling of insecurity. Lucky as you can be at times, you are not really cut out for speculative endeavors as a regular thing. Ambition is a significant motivating force in your life. But it may be a source of disappointment if impatience causes you to fail to prepare yourself adequately for your lofty goals. This could be the most serious obstacle to all that you aspire. Discipline your abilities, and as the following well illustrates, you have a widely diversified potential for success. For example, you share this birthday with philosopher-mathematician Rene Descartes, chemist Robert Bunsen, composer Joseph Hayden, artist John LaFarge, writers Nikolai Gogol and Edward Fitzgerald, union leader Cesar Chavez, musician Herb Alpert, and actor Richard Chamberlain.

Circumstances, as well as your own skeptical view on love could cause you to repress your emotional desires. Yet a strong sex drive is likely to prod you into some sort of action, probably of a clandestine nature. If you really want to improve your romantic outlook, look for someone born on January 21, 25, 28, 31; February 5, 11, 18, 19; March 24, 27, 29, 30; April 1, 7, 14, 15, 19; May 20, 23, 25, 26, 29; June 3, 10, 11, 15, 18; July 22, 25; August 6, 7, 11, 17, 19, 20, 23; September 21, 28; October 2, 3, 7, 10, 13, 15, 16, 19; November 24, 29, 30; December 3, 6, 9, 11, 12, 15, 22.

If man has good corn, or wood, or boards, or pigs to sell,
Or can make better chairs or knives, crucibles, or church organs,
Than anybody else, you will find a broad, hardbeaten road
To this house, though it be in the woods.

APRIL 1 (1 = 1) 7♠ SEVEN OF SPADES

At times the dynamic leadership attributes implied numerically in your birthday are likely to come into direct conflict with the more introspective, mystical you suggested by your card . While this may encourage an indulgence in eccentric moods, under control these seemingly opposing forces could bring inspired productivity.

A significant creative potential is suggested by the Jack of Diamonds, which represents your planetary ruler, Mars. This bright, up-front influence can bring a brash-sensitivity to your expressions in painting, music and drama. Combined with the independent, strong-willed sensitivity implied in your card and birthday, this influence suggests a feisty mystic who can promote anything from a song to a religious concept. If not caught up with a spiritual zeal, your strong sense of justice and idealism may find a cause or charity to champion.

Busy as you can be, an inclination to procrastinate still suggests that it may take some time for you to get your act together. When you do, your decanate ruler the Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds accents the probability that your efforts can bring money and fame. Don't look for that success in some subordinate role, you belong in the spotlight, or in some administrative position. Not one for halfway measures, your likes and dislikes are strong and definite. Your ability to excel is probably due as much to your determination and willingness to work hard as to your talents and abilities. For some ideas of your potential, you share this birthday with German statesman Otto von Bismarck, poet-dramatist Edmond Rostand, artist Edwin Abbey, blood circulation discoverer William Harvey, composers Sergei Rachmaninoff and Eddie Duchin, actor Wallace Beery, singer-actresses Jane Powell and Debbie Reynolds, and actress Ali MacGraw.

Although you thrive on people and activity, you may find that a certain amount of loneliness may be necessary for your personal growth. Emotionally intense, but brains and material considerations as well as passion are likely to be determining factors in your choice of mates. Success in your quest for productive relationships may be easier with someone born on January 22, 27, 29; February 1, 3, 7, 9, 15, 17, 19, 20; March 23, 25, 31; April 3, 5, 11, 13, 15, 16, 21, 23; May 19, 21, 27; June 1, 7, 9, 11, 12, 17, 19; July 23, 30; August 3, 5, 7, 8, 13, 15, 21; September 26; October 1, 3, 9, 11, 17, 24; November 22, 29; December 5, 7, 13, 20.

APRIL 2 (2 = 2) 6♠ SIX OF SPADES

The drive associated with your Aries Sun sign is likely to be subdued by the sensitive, gentle qualities suggested by your card and the numerical factor of your birthday (2). Even so, restlessness is likely to provoke you into action. If it is aimless or in a menial occupation, life may be rather dull. If your intuitive mind is ignited by these subtle energies, great achievements and fulfillment may be in your destiny.

Fortunately, the lack of initiative implied in your card is somewhat countered by the vitality represented in your planetary ruler, Mars. And since this heavenly body is symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, if you are willing to work, you could make a fortune. While the desire for worldly acclaim may not provide you with much incentive, a sensual appreciation of the good things of life, combined with an interest in the well-being of others, may provide that spark. Though your deep thoughts can spawn some very worthwhile ideas and products, don't let them or solitary interests isolate you from the people-contact you need so much. At the same time, since you are extremely responsive to your environment, avoid people and situations that can set you off on a depressive "bummer." Poetic and artistic as you may be, you still have a keen eye for business. This is likely to be enhanced by an inherent sense of order and an ability to handle many details.

According to the record, yours is a birthday of progressive, creative individuals. For example, you share this birthday with writers Hans Christian Anderson, Emile Zola and Nobel prize winner Nicholas Butler, sculptor August Bartholdi, artist William Hunt, actors Buddy Ebsen, Sir Alec Guinness and Jack Webb. And if you need any more inspiration — Emperor Charlemagne.

Both cardwise and numerically, your birthday suggests that you are a natural homemaker. The greatest hazard to your emotional happiness may come from a worrisome restlessness. Idealist that you are, you may come closer to realizing that romantic dream with someone born on January 30; February 1, 2, 4, 8, 20; March 26; April 4, 16, 17; May 22. 28; June 12, 13, 20; July 24; August 8, 9, 16, 22; September 29; October 4, 5, 12, 18; November 25; December 1, 8, 13, 23.

APRIL 3 (3 = 3) 5♠ FIVE OF SPADES

Cardwise and numerically (five), your birthday suggests that a restless quest for self-expression is going to press you into all sorts of interesting adventures. A bold, confident facade is likely to conceal any qualms that this pursuit may bring. Versatile as you are, guard against minimizing your effectiveness by scattering your efforts through too many interests.

Mars, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Nine of Spades, suggests that much hard work along with many frustrations is likely to be an integral part of your successes as well as your failures. It also warns that impatience could be the greatest source of problems. While this can bring disappointment in work, if you're not careful it can also indicate a proclivity to accidents. A dramatic vitality is pictured here, which could prove a significant asset theatrically or in the promotion of ideas and products. Although you can usually win, unless you enjoy tension, don't invite arguments by wearing a chip on your shoulder.

A strong determination to be somebody gets a profitable boost from the Eight of Diamonds which represents your decanate ruler, the Sun. While you are inclined to indulge in some pretty blue moods, this influence indicates that you're not likely to stay down for long. Do not allow uncertainty and concern about security trap you in a routine job, which will bore your free spirit to death. Instead, look for something that will supply an opportunity to indulge your need for a variety of experiences. If it includes travel, all the better. For some ideas, you share this birthday with writers Washington Irving and John Burroughs, Henry IV of England, inventor Simon Willard, composer Reginald DeKoven, politicians Leon Gambetta and Boss Tweed, first woman labor leader Sara Conboy, publisher Henry Luce, actors Leslie Howard, George Jessel and Marlon Brando, singers Doris Day and Wayne Newton.

Vocal as you can be in front of an audience or social group, intimate relationships may suffer from a lack of communication. This is likely to be due to intense emotions that may be more a source of worry than romantic fulfillment. This may be less of a problem with someone born on January 24, 30, 31; February 5, 9, 16; March 26, 27; April 1, 5, 12, 18; May 22, 23; June 1, 8, 14, 20, 21; July 31; August 4, 10, 16, 17; September 27, 30; October 12, 13; November 23, 26; December 8, 9, 21.

APRIL 4 (4 = 4) — 4♠ — FOUR OF SPADES

A concentration of practical-power is suggested by the double four influence of your birthday. If you are willing to work for it, just about anything you may desire is within your reach. Though you can move mountains, watch that inflexibility, does not "make mountains out of molehills."

The above attributes combined with those of your ruling planet, Mars, especially since that planet is symbolized by the Eight of Spades, suggests that you can be a real "human dynamo." If you need further encouragement, your birthday occurs in the decanate of Aries, ruled by the Sun, which, in your case, is represented by another eight, the Eight of Diamonds. With this combination of power cards, what could possibly stand in your way! Well, though unlikely, you may be tempted to take your good fortune for granted. Don't! Because your key to everything is work. Also, you would be wise to watch that your almost obsessive ambition doesn't minimize the joy of your success.

A physical vitality is indicated here, which suggests participation in sports and could prove both a healthy safety valve to your intense nature and a good source of income. Probably being far more sensitive than you are willing to admit, you would be wise to take off every so often to unwind. The practice of meditation could help you tune in to mystical awareness associated with your Spade card, but so often overlooked due to the preoccupation with matters mundane as indicated by the number four.

Either out in the limelight or behind the scenes, show business may give you the right combination of action to satisfy your hard working talents. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with master wood carver Grinling Gibbons, English physicist Sir

William Siemens, painter Maurice De Vlaminck, writer Dorothea Dix, composer Elmer Bernstein, dancer Anthony Tudor, dance instructor Arthur Murray, and sports stars Gil Hodges and Lawrence Hough.

Outspoken as you can be about most things, when it comes to matters of the heart, you are apt to become tongue-tied. Compelling as your need for love may be, when it comes to saying "I love you" words may fail you. You might find it easier to say them to someone born on January 25; February 6, 10, 15; March 21, 28; April 2, 6, 11, 19, 26; May 24; June 2, 7, 15, 22; August 3, 11, 18; October 7, 14; December 3, 10, 30.

APRIL 5 (5 = 5) — 3♠ — THREE OF SPADES

A dynamic-versatility is suggested by your birthday, which should help you fulfill the need for self-expression suggested by your card. An ability to do many things well may prove more of a hazard than a blessing, in that it may create confusion regarding your objectives.

With the vital influence of Mars, your planetary ruler, represented by the Five of Diamonds, you are not likely to stick with seemingly unprofitable situations. Watch that this does not encourage impulsive and expensive changes. While you may get a precarious thrill out of endeavors which include an element of chance, your sensitive nervous system is apt to suffer negative repercussions from your speculative impulses. The bright, positive face you show the world is likely to be an act of defiance to hide your insecurity. In an attempt to counter a basic indecisiveness, you're apt to develop a persevering tenacity, which can work miracles. Just watch that it does not deteriorate into unreasonable stubbornness. A willingness to work very hard for your objectives augmented by a compelling personal charm emphasizes the probability of your achieving your objectives.

As represented by the Eight of Diamonds, your potential for success, even fame is further enhanced by your decanate ruler, the Sun. While this particularly favors careers, which depend on public approval, the occult influences of your birthday also point out an aptitude for science, medicine, music and art. To illustrate, you share this birthday with surgeon Joseph Lister who introduced antiseptics into surgery, black educator and leader Booker T. Washington, statesman Chester Bowles and Viet Nam's Nguyen Van Thieu, writer Thomas Hobbes, artist Jean Fragonard, actors Spencer Tracy, Melvin Douglas, Gregory Peck and actress Bette Davis.

Your magnetic-charm is likely to give you all sorts of emotional opportunities, but your skepticism may make it difficult to accept love. Generous to a fault, yet you still demand too much in return. Love is not easy, but you may find it easier with someone born on January 26; February 2, 5, 7, 11; March 22, 29; April 1, 3, 7, 20; May 25, 28; June 3, 16, 23; July 24; August 12, 19, 22; September 29; October 8, 15, 18; November 25, 28; December 4, 11, 14, 23.

APRIL 6 (6 = 6) 2♠ TWO OF SPADES

A sensual-sensitivity is painted by your card and your number six birthday. Your innovative, pioneering nature is concealed by an easy charm. Although you will work hard for your objectives, if there is an easier way, you are likely to be the first to find it.

Mars, your planetary ruler, urges you on. But as represented by the Six of Spades, you may suffer from a tendency to resist changes. Though you are not particularly lazy, you may find it difficult to muster enough enthusiasm to push yourself out of those too easily found ruts. And when you do, progress is apt to be in a series of impulsive spurts. Intuitive power is also implied here, which apart from encouraging an interest in the occult, could give you the insight to overcome your material problems. Though intrigued by the mysteries of life, a preoccupation with mundane interests may deter you from seriously pursuing this quest.

With your birthday occurring in the decanate of Aries which has the Sun as a subruler, your talents and abilities are not to remain hidden for long. As this stellar influence is symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, the odds are that you will translate your attributes into profit. Whatever it may be, you have your own unique way of doing things. Even your clothes and the decor of your home are apt to be somewhat bizarre. While your great sensitivity implies a potential for success in the arts, your constructive nature suggests that you are well equipped to build anything from homes to airplanes. For example, consider the following who share this birthday with you. The artist Raphael, aircraft pioneers Anthony Fokker and Donald Douglas, newscaster Lowell Thomas, magician Houdini, actor Walter Houston, singer Mimi Benzell, and pianist-conductor Andre Previn.

Love and companionship are essential to your happiness, but moods and your extreme sensitivity to criticism could bring difficulties in close relationships. As far as you are concerned, sex and love are part of the same package. You may find an easier compatibility with those born on January 27, 28; February 8, 12; March 23, 24, 30; April 4, 8, 21; May 19, 20, 26, 29; June 4, 17, 18; July 22, 25, 29; August 13, 14, 20, 23; September 25; October 9, 10, 16, 19, 23; November 27, 29; December 5, 6, 12, 15, 19.

APRIL 7 (7 = 7) A♠ ACE OF SPADES

Such widely divergent possibilities are implied in your birthday, that if you're identified with its earthbound perspective, you may completely miss the profound vision also symbolized here. Even so, the latter is apt to encourage you to become a moving force in community and church efforts. Mundane secrets are likely to yield to your perceptive insight.

Physical vitality is suggested by Mars, your ruling planet. But since this planet is represented by the Five of Spades, you had better plan on doing some extensive traveling. As it is you are inclined to lose interest if things become too static. What you may lack in self-discipline, you more than make up with stubborn aggressiveness. You are a hard worker, sometimes to the point of seeming to insist on doing things the hard way. Capable as you are, your progress may suffer from procrastination, and an unwillingness to listen to advice.

While the jealousy of others may keep you from receiving the full recognition that your abilities merit, the Eight of Diamonds, which represents the Sun your decanate ruler, suggests that eventually you should find material success. Although this stellar light suggests that you can look good on stage or in front of a camera, your card suggests that you might be even more effective behind the scenes. For some ideas of your career potential you share this birthday with poet William Wordsworth, social and political reformer William Channing, botanist David Fairchild, C.I.A. director Allen Dulles, pianist Robert Casadesus, conductor Percy Faith, singer Billie Holliday, sitar player Ravi Shankar, detective William Pinkerton, television's Walter Winchell and David Frost.

Bold as your facade may be, it probably conceals a very sensitive and romantic individual. Love and marriage, usually are challenging for those born on this birthday, but you might improve your chances by finding someone born on January 20, 27, 28; February 9, 13, 16, 18; March 23, 24, 31; April 5, 9, 11, 14, 22, 29; May 20, 27; June 5, 7, 10, 18; July 23, 29, 30; August 1, 3, 6, 14, 21; September 25, 26; October 2, 10, 17, 23, 24; November 21, 22; December 6, 13, 19, 20.

APRIL 8 (8 = 8) K♦ KING OF DIAMONDS

You should feel fortunate; after all, you're a King of Diamonds, and you have the power of a number eight birthday to help you acquire and achieve all your royal appetites may desire. Dynamic as your potential is, guard against becoming obsessed with money and power — or even taking your luck for granted.

Astrologically, Mars, your ruling planet, is not likely to allow you to remain in the background. In fact, you may have to watch that you don't come on too strong. Happily, with the Two of Diamonds representing your ruling planet, you have a gentle, intuitive side, which helps subdue your brasher qualities and encourages the possibility of gain through joint endeavors. One thought, as a King it is important that you tactfully retain the upper hand in all partnerships.

Your money making power is further accented by the Eight of Diamonds, which represents your decanate ruler, the Sun. This dynamic influence suggests a flare for promotion and exploitation, for success in merchandizing and big business, especially if you are occupying the driver's seat. Anyone trying to relate successfully with you should realize that one never tells a king what to do, as that royal essence within you will resist. While you can succeed at just about anything, you depend on external stimulus, so avoid jobs and situations that are too routine and uninteresting. For some ideas, you share this birthday with two kings — Albert I of Belgium and Christian of Denmark. This is also the birthday of brain surgeon Harvey Williams Cushing, pathologist and bacteriologist William Henry Welch, actresses Mary Pickford, Ilka Chase and Sonja Henie, actor Walter Connolly and composer Jacques Brel.

Romantic as you may be, material considerations are apt to be synonymous with sex appeal. Although you are not really fickle, your vaccillating emotional moods may give that impression. In close relationships, you need someone who appreciates your need to withdraw every so often, and who is not turned off by your arbitrary comments. You might come closer to finding that certain someone born on January 31; February 1, 8, 10, 14, 16; March 24, 27; April 4, 6, 10, 12; May 20, 23, 28; June 2, 6, 8, 18, 21; July 24; August 2, 4, 14, 17, 22; October 12, 13, 18; December 9, 14.

APRIL 9 (9 = 9) Q♦ QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

Dynamic emotional and material power are suggested by the combined influences of your card and birthday. A preoccupation with mundane values may minimize the universal awareness implied numerically in your birthday. Nevertheless, you do have the potential to be a truly great humanitarian.

Drive and ambition are indicated by your planetary ruler, Mars. But since this celestial influence is represented by the Three of Spades, guard against dissipating your energies through too many activities. Mix-ups and misunderstandings can be a serious hazard. You are inclined to be a hard worker, but indecision and emotional attitudes can devitalize your best intentions.

Happily, the positive aura of your decanate ruler, the Sun, should do much to help you achieve the material success so important to you. While you are capable of giving inspired leadership, guard against abusing your power through excessive dominance. Though you are apt to suffer some rather rough knocks, be grateful for your inherent resiliency, which makes it possible for you to bounce right back into action. Not lack of talent or ability, but lack of patience to persevere may be your real challenge.

Though your material-intuitivity may be the key to your fortune, your great sensitivity suggests that you can also excel in music and drama. For example, you share this birthday with Russia's Lenin, King Leopold II of Belgium, inventor Charles Steinmetz, politician Leon Blum, comedian W.C. Fields, impressario Sol Hurok, Senator William Fulbright, violinist Efrem Zimbalist Sr., singer Paul Robeson, publisher Hugh Hefner, actor Brandon DeWilde and playboy Tommy Manville.

Emotionally intense and willful, love is apt to be more of a trauma than a source of joy. No matter how many heartbreaks, you keep looking for that perfect lover. That pursuit may have a greater chance for success if you will apply some of your inherent wisdom and seek someone born on January 19, 29; February 1, 11, 15, 17; March 25; April 7, 11, 13; May 29; June 3, 7, 9, 19; July 25, 28; August 3, 5, 15, 23; September 21, 24, 28; October 1, 11, 19, 22; November 20, 24; December 7, 15, 18, 22.

APRIL 10 (1 + 0 = 1) J♦ JACK OF DIAMONDS

The bright, youthful zeal suggested by your card and Aries birthday, makes it easy for others to respond to your aggressive enthusiasm. Add the numerical one factor of your birthday, and you show the potential for idealistic-leadership, which suggests whether it be a concept or product, if you believe in it — you can sell it.

Independent, yet Mars, your planetary ruler as represented by the Two of Spades, suggests that it is to your advantage to combine your forces with others. In joint endeavors, you'll probably have to take the lead and direct the action. An inborn sense of restlessness is likely to encourage an aura of uncertainty and change. This could be fine, if you're a traveling salesman, but it could interfere with the development of opportunities and stability. You are perceptive enough to know "what makes the wheels go around," but impatience and a tendency to act on impulse are apt to cause you to ignore this intuitive wisdom.

Jupiter, your decanate ruler, as portrayed by the Eight of Hearts, indicates that both happiness and your fortune are linked to people related activities. Whether it be as a preacher, actor, salesman or statesman, you are at your best in dealing with the public. If not professionally, you are still likely to attract friends and admirers in church activities, clubs and groups concerned with community affairs. Your popularity is not even minimized by your headstrong inclinations. Of course, this is due in part to your natural gift of gab and willingness to give unstintingly of yourself.

While you usually can find something to do, if you need some career ideas, note the following who share this birthday with you. Admiral Perry, father of international law — Hugo Grotius, founder of the Pulitzer prize — Joseph Pulitzer, Salvation Army's founder William Booth, Congresswoman Clare Booth Luce, actors George Arliss, Tim McCoy, Chuck Connors and Omar Sharif.

In love, you will give generously and then risk spoiling it all by impatience and brusque, thoughtless comments. You may be more willing to control your restless, changeability with someone born on January 20, 23; February 12, 16, 18, 21; March 19; April 8, 12, 14, 17; May 30; June 4, 8, 10, 13; July 26; August 4, 6, 9, 24; September 22, 29; October 1, 5, 20; November 25; December 1, 16, 23.

APRIL 11 (Master Number) 10♦ TEN OF DIAMONDS

"Success," according to your card, is part of your natural birthright. To fully realize this happy potential, you will have to apply some of the "personal mastery" implied in your number eleven birthday. Your challenge is to lead, if you fail this responsibility and opportunity, success may become an impossible dream.

The aggressive drive needed to extract every drop of that sweet nectar of success is suggested by the Ace of Diamonds, which represents your ruling planet, Mars. No doubt about it, you do have the ambition to catapult you to the heights. In that climb, resist the temptation to be ruthless. Do your own buying and selling, as your financial manipulations are aided by your own intuitive sense of values and timing.

The probability that luxury and the other good things of life are extremely important to you is indicated by the Queen of Diamonds, which symbolizes your decanate ruler, Jupiter. Your dual nature can sparkle like a diamond, winning friends and audiences with your magnanimous charm. But you can also drop to the depths of melancholy, filled with irritability and a temper filled with streaks of violence. Master the powerful forces contained in your birthday and there should be no prize beyond your reach.

The record for those born on your day illustrates a potential for success in song, design and poetry. But your great need for action may find even greater satisfaction in promotional activities and the world of money and merchandise. For a few examples of what others have done with your birthday's potential, consider Supreme Court Justice Charles Evans Hughes, statesman Dean Acheson, poet John Davidson, tycoon Quentin Reynolds, designer Oleg Cassini, entertainers Lou Holtz and Joel Grey, and Ethel Kennedy.

Your desperate need for love is apt to be complicated by an equally strong desire for freedom. Many emotional experiments are likely before you find that someone who will allow you to possess them and yet let you keep your liberty. You might just find that someone born on February 5, 8, 11, 13, 17; March 28; April 1, 4, 7, 9; May 24; June 3, 5, 9, 22, July 30; August 1, 5, 18; September 26; October 1, 14; December 10, 20.

APRIL 12 (1 + 2 = 3) — 9♦ — NINE OF DIAMONDS

A desire to live "high, wide and handsome" is projected by your card. Happily, an urge for self-expression aided by the winning personality implied numerically in your birthday is likely to make this desire come true. Although basically materially oriented, a philanthropic quality is implied, which could help you fulfill the universality associated with your card.

Action and a lot of it is implied by your planetary ruler, Mars. So much so, that restlessness suggests that changes and travel are likely to be an integral part of your life. Symbolized by the King of Clubs, this planetary influence also implies an astute mind and an excellent potential for leadership. If not expressed in some executive capacity, then possibly in the expression of your talent.

Jupiter, your decanate ruler as represented by the Jack of Diamonds suggests that your appreciation of the finer things, along with a natural lucky streak, could bring beautiful homes, fine cars and "all sorts of trinkets Woolworth doesn't sell." You are also apt to have a special knack in dealing with people, so you should be able to promote just about anything — especially yourself. While your inherent understanding of finances could help you gain a fortune, your extravagant indulgences may make it difficult to hang on to it. When you choose to seriously apply the creative energy symbolized here, you can excel in writing, art, dancing, singing and even politics. For example, you share this birthday with statesmen Henry Clay and Warren Magnuson, painter C. Meunier, surgeon John Billings, dancers Arthur Hines and Ann Miller, actress Jane Withers, singers Tiny Tim and David Cassidy.

Gregarious and flirtatious, your life should not be dull. An abundance of sexual energy and a genuine need for companionship encourages you to make all sorts of adjustments for the sake of love. When you decide to build an enduring relationship, you may find greater compatibility with someone born on January 30; February 7, 12, 14, 18; March 26, 29; April 3, 8, 10, 14; May 22, 25, 30; June 4, 6, 10; July 26, 31; August 2, 6, 16, 19, 24; September 22, 27; October 2, 12, 15, 20; November 23; December 8, 11, 16, 21.

APRIL 13 (1 + 3 = 4) — 8♦ — EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

Power, almost more than you may be able to cope with is suggested by your card and the numerological four of your birthday. You obviously have the potential for constructive leadership, but particularly in positions of authority, guard against the temptation to be arbitrary and dictatorial.

According to the Ace of Clubs, which represents your planetary ruler, Mars, ambition inspires you to aim high and work very hard for objectives. Early contact with the sober realities of life are also likely to encourage a stubborn determination to achieve material success. In this pursuit, don't overlook your fine mental potential. Happily, a compelling desire for knowledge and self-improvement is likely to minimize this possibility. In a sense, you have a mission, and that may be to help bridge the gap between the mundane and the sublime for those less perceptive.

The possible preoccupation with material concerns is likely to be minimized by your decanate ruler, Jupiter. As symbolized by the Queen of Clubs, it suggests that while you may use your intuitive power to find success as a tycoon in the mercantile world or as a captain of industry, you may also seek to find it in some form of service. In this respect, you may bring sensitive leadership in government service, science, medicine, publishing or music. To illustrate, you share this birthday with President Thomas Jefferson, Governor Harold Stassen, physicist John Hammond, singers Lily Pons and Howard Keel.

The dynamic charm which contributes to your public success can all too easily become overwhelming in your more intimate encounters. Memories of early loneliness along with your Aries passions may plunge you into an impulsive, but confusing quest for emotional fulfillment. In all probability, you'll find that this approach will only complicate your problems. Happiness in love and friendship is going to require much patience and wisdom. You might also help your cause by looking for someone born on January 21, 23, 28; February 5, 13, 15, 19; March 24, 30; April 1, 9, 11, 15, 17, 22; May 20, 26; June 5, 7, 11, 13, 18; July 22, 29, 30; August 1, 3, 7, 9, 14, 20; September 25, 26; October 3, 5, 10, 16, 23; November 21, 22, 30; December 1, 6, 12, 19, 20.

APRIL 14 (1 + 4 = 5) 7♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

The restless drive for success reflected in your card and in the numerical five of your birthday may seem almost like a game to you. This may minimize the ulcers and breakdowns, but it can also cause you to quit short of your objectives. In your zest for life, watch a tendency to "bite off more than you can chew."

Mars is the volatile force which presses you impatiently from one project to another. Identified with the Nine of Clubs, your ruling planet implies that you do have the brain power, but that you may be too lazy to use it. Instead, you may be tempted to gamble that one of your many speculative ventures will make it for you.

Perhaps this inclination to trust to luck is due in part to your decanate ruler, Jupiter. True, this is the planet of good fortune, but as it is symbolized by the Nine of Spades, the road to that fortune is likely to include a lot of good old fashioned hard work, and quite a few frustrations. Jupiter does place the prize within your reach, but in this case, perseverance is a likely prerequisite.

While you would probably be wise to avoid the legal profession, a strong money sense suggests that the financial world could be your oyster. If you don't acquire your money through handling it, you may pile it up through writing, promoting or acting. These possibilities are well demonstrated by your birthday mates, such as author Arnold Toynbee, actors Sir John Gelgud, Rod Steiger, Tony Perkins, Bradford Dillman and actress Julie Christie.

Due to the demands that others are likely to make on you, it may be fortunate that you can be somewhat casual about love. You enjoy sharing with loved ones and will make sacrifices for them, yet your expression of love is likely to be subject to capricious moods. In other words, at times you can be most passionate, then without warning, you can become cold. You may find a greater understanding of your vacillating heart from someone born on February 4, 3, 11, 14, 16, 18, 20; March 30, 31; April 7, 10, 12, 16, 17; May 26, 27; June 3, 6, 8, 12, 13; July 22, 23, 30; August 2, 4, 8, 9, 21; September 26; October 4, 5, 17; November 22, 28; December 1, 13, 20.

APRIL 15 (1 + 5 = 6) 6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

The double six influence of your card and the numerical factor of your birthday imply a spiritual sensuality, emphasizing your "karmic mission." To you falls a challenge to help others realize that they are responsible for their fate, that their thoughts and attitude of being, as well as their actions is their investment in the future.

Fortunately, the vitality of Mars, your ruling planet, is likely to keep you from completely succumbing to the inertial influences of your birthday. But the temptation to relax into a rut can be a real hazard. The Ten of Diamonds, which symbolizes your ruling planet, suggests that your appreciation of life's little and big luxuries may supply you with just enough motivation to make the necessary effort to acquire some of the abundance within your reach. While this promise is available to you at any time, that old bugaboo procrastination points to the possibility that these benefits may be delayed until after forty.

While marriage, inheritance and fairy Godmothers may pay the way for you, the Eight of Spades, which represents your decanate ruler, Jupiter, suggests the real key to your fortune is to be found in your own productivity. How? Well, a sixth-sense about spiritual and mundane values suggests that you might find it as a stock broker, banker, merchant, teacher or preacher. Scientific interests might benefit from your intuitive perspective. A sensual delight in color and form indicates that you may find an even greater satisfaction in the arts. After all, you share this birthday with artists Leonardo da Vinci, Pierre Rousseau, Charles Peale and Thomas Hart Benton, writer Henry James, department store tycoon Al Bloomingale, India's ambassador Mehta, labor leader Tom Mann and actress Claudia Cardinale.

Marriage and the home are extremely important to you. A natural knack for meeting people and making friends would suggest that it shouldn't be too difficult for you to find the right one. But, as with everything else, tying the wedding knot is apt to be delayed. You might improve your chances for romantic bliss by finding someone born on January 23; February 1, 4, 5, 17; March 26, 31; April 1, 13, 17; May 24, 27, 28; June 9, 13; July 23, 24, 31; August 5, 9, 18, 21, 22; September 27; October 1, 5, 14, 17, 18; November 23; December 1, 13, 14, 21.

APRIL 16 (1 + 6 = 7) 5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

A likeable modesty conceals your nervous restlessness. According to your card, your favorite therapy or escape is likely to be change and travel. You might find an even more successful treatment for tensions spawned by your doubts and skepticism through a pursuit of the spiritual truths hidden in your numerological seven birthday.

Luckily, Mars, your planetary ruler, is likely to give you a certain courage, even ambition to overcome your inner fears. As represented by the Nine of Diamonds, this celestial influence suggests that these fears, for the most part, are likely to relate to concerns about money, and the seemingly impossible obstacles involved in achieving your goals. Time is likely to prove that these fears are groundless. This influence does caution against gambling and speculative ventures, that is, unless you're building a flying machine.

Your birthday occurs in the decanate of Aries, which has the benevolent Jupiter as its guiding star. As symbolized by the Seven of Spades, this planetary influence suggests that the "open sesame" of your fortune may include tempering your impulses with philosophical concepts and reaching high into your analytical mind for some innovative ideas. In the process, you are apt to find the more positive you, and the peace of mind you so desperately need. You may also find the inspiration to transcend a preoccupation with mundane and material matters. When you accept the responsibility you are so capable of carrying, whether it be as an accountant, executive, basketball player, actor or homemaker, you are likely to be among the hardest working of all. For some examples, you share this birthday with the arctic explorer Sir John Franklin, author Anatole France, pioneer plane builder Wilbur Wright, comedian Charles Chaplin, music commentator Milton Cross, actors John Hodiak and Peter Ustinov, musician Henry Mancini and actress-singer Edie Adams.

A craving for the security of love may cause you to make all sorts of compromises, getting you involved in some strange situations. Curb your stand-offishness and look for someone born on one of the following days and you just might find romantic happiness. January 20, 24, 26, 29; February 5, 18; March 20, 22, 25; April 1, 14, 18, 20, 23; May 21, 28, 29; June 10, 14, 16, 19; July 24, 25; August 15, 23; September 21, 28; October 11, 19; November 24; December 7, 15, 22.

APRIL 17 (1 + 7 = 8) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

A positive, aggressive nature is suggested by the combination of your card and the numerological eight quality of your birthday. Your desire to get ahead is likely to be backed up with a practical, disciplined determination. Be careful that you're not too hard-headed and inflexible in your quest.

Although you are action oriented, Mars, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Six of Clubs also suggests an intuitive insight, which could be one of your prime assets. So don't let a preoccupation with mundane affairs and a willingness to work hard cause you to overlook this subtle attribute. Wrong or right, once you've set your course, you are likely to stick with it. While this may indicate stability, it can also get you into a rut.

This latter possibility is not helped any by the fact that your decanate ruler, Jupiter, is also symbolized by another six, the Six of Spades. Lucky as this planetary influence can be, remember that the number six is a "karmic number," so your fortune is likely to be largely dependent on the effort you invest. You're sort of a paradox. On one hand agressive and gregarious, then at times so retiring that you appear like a recluse. A strong money-material sense suggests that you may be most successful in occupations dealing with financial interests or products. You are very much of an individualist who belongs at the top of whatever you are doing. To illustrate, you share this birthday with Russia's Khrushchev, pianist Arthur Schnabel, cellist Gregor Piatigorsky, singer Maggie Teyte, banker J.P. Morgan, television's Clifton Fadiman and Harry Reasoner, actors William Holden and James Garner.

Emotionally dynamic, so you will probably attract many romantic opportunities. While you enjoy variety in love, despite appearance to the contrary, you are inclined to stick with your emotional commitments. You may find this easier to do in both love and friendship with someone born on January 21, 25; February 6, 12, 14, 17, 19; March 21; April 2, 8, 10, 13, 15, 19; May 30; June 4, 6, 9, 11, 15; July 26; August 2, 5, 7, 11; September 29; October 1, 3, 5, 7, 20; November 25, 28; December 1, 16.

APRIL 18 (1 + 8 = 9) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

Expression, or confusion! Mediocrity is the probable consequence of the latter. But the numerical nine of your birthday points to the possibility of greatness. To enjoy this potential, you will have to overcome a preoccupation with self, and express leadership in interests which serve humanity.

Probably due to Mars, your ruling planet, your normally cautious manner is likely to be interrupted by sporadic recklessness, which in turn may make you somewhat prone to accidents. The fact that this planetary influence is represented by the Seven of Diamonds suggests that this is also apt to bring financial upsets every so often. Discipline your erratic tendency to scatter your energies through too many interests and you may be surprised at the power you really have. A model of integrity, you are the ideal person to be entrusted with the money of others, which suggests that you might be well suited for a career in banking, accounting and other financial enterprises. You are apt to have a philanthropic streak, which may motivate your support of church and civic organizations, or anyone who can gain your sympathetic ear. Vulnerable as you are to disappointment in people, watch that you don't encourage others to abuse your generosity.

As symbolized by the Five of Spades, Jupiter, your decanate ruler, suggests that travel and changes are likely to prove beneficial and the source of worthwhile contacts. While you are very capable of handling many details, and various interests simultaneously, watch that this doesn't feed your intrinsic nervousness. Almost in spite of a lack of appreciation of your efforts, your potential for considerable success is well demonstrated by the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are attorney Clarence Darrow, philanthropist Huntington Hartford, orchestra conductor Leopold Stokowski, actresses Wendy Berrie and Hayley Mills.

No lack of passion or attractiveness, yet emotional hang-ups, misunderstandings, and jealousy suggest difficulties in close relationships. You might improve your luck in love and friendship by looking for someone born on January 22, 26, 27; February 2, 7, 20; March 21, 23; April 3, 16, 21; May 31; June 12, 16, 17; July 27; August 8, 13, 25; September 23, 30; October 4, 8, 21; November 26; December 4, 17, 24.

APRIL 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

Be careful that the advantages that you have to gain through cooperative efforts are not minimized by the independent attitude suggested in the numerical one factor of your birthday. This latter influence suggests a potential for leadership. Don't let a fear of responsibility jeopardize this possibility.

Mars, your ruling planet, adds an aggressive confidence which should do much to minimize the quiet timidity associated with your card. In fact, at times it may even encourage an overly reckless attitude. With your ruling planet symbolized by the Six of Diamonds, be particularly careful that this recklessness does not extend to monetary matters and obligations. Symbolically, this card is a "karmic" influence, suggesting "what you sow, you will reap." In this light, neglected debts and obligations could be a source of serious concern. Likewise, this influence can also work in your favor, both in that it can give you an intuitive sense about values and also good returns on wise investments.

Work, according to the Four of Spades, which represents Jupiter, your decanate ruler, is your special entree to all the things that you want. While this influence, particularly favors practical and stable type obligations, avoid employment and activities, which may smother your free spirit. A need to be involved with people along with an instinctive understanding of their wants suggests that you can find both pleasure and profit through selling, counseling and entertainment. For a few other possibilities, you share this birthday with statesmen Roger Sherman who helped draft the Declaration of Independence, Benjamin Disraeli and President Vargas of Brazil, early economist David Ricardo, writer Jose Echegaray, psychologist Gustav Fechner, actor Hugh O'Brian and actress Jayne Mansfield.

A desire for liberty and romantic variety either will play havoc with your love life, or make it very interesting. As a two you have a great need for emotional security. You may be less inclined to wander if involved with someone born on January 23, 27, 29; February 8; March 23, 25, 28, 30, 31; April 4, 17, 21; May 21, 24, 26, 27; June 13, 17, 19, 22; July 22, 23, 28; August 9, 13, 15, 18, 20, 21; September 24, 28; October 5, 9, 11, 14, 16, 17, 22; November 24, 27; December 1, 5, 7, 10, 12, 13, 18, 22.

APRIL 20 (2 + 0 = 2) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

An interesting blend of ambition and sensitivity are suggested by your card and the numerical two of your birthday. While this combination can supply the impetus and perception to produce greatness, it can also beget a tyrannical temperament.

The drive and vitality to overcome early setbacks and scale the heights is suggested by Mars, your planetary ruler. As this planet is symbolized by the Three of Clubs, guard against jeopardizing your aspirations through becoming involved in too many projects and interests. The fact that your decanate ruler, Jupiter, is also represented by another three, the Three of Spades, emphasizes the importance of learning to focus your efforts. One of your prime assets is a natural, magnetic personality. While you may have a reluctance to make commitments to others, you have much to gain by joining forces. You are really not the loner you think you are. Insisting that everything be done your way may be one of the greatest hazards to your partnerships and other joint endeavors.

The urge to be rich and powerful along with a natural feel for money and material interests, suggest that your special arena may be the financial world. Actually, as an emotional-idealist, you may find an even greater fulfillment for your compelling need for self-expression in politics, music and drama. To illustrate, you share this birthday with Roman Emperor Marcus Antonius, Napoleon III, Adolph Hitler, sculptor Daniel Chester French, musician Lionel Hampton, actress Nina Foch, actors Harold Lloyd and Ryan O'Neal.

Born on the cusp, you also have the benefits of Venus, the planetary ruler of Taurus. Symbolized by the Five of Hearts, this planetary ruler influence suggests that your capricious charms are likely to bring many involvements. Whether it be transitory romances or an endeavor to build a lasting relationship, you are likely to have better luck with someone born on January 6, 11, 22, 24, 28, 30; February 4, 9, 20, 22; March 2, 7, 18, 20, 24, 26; April 5, 16, 18, 22, 24; May 3, 14, 16, 20, 22; June 1, 12, 14, 18, 20; July 10, 12, 16, 18, 31; August 8, 10, 14, 16, 29; September 6, 8, 12, 14, 27; October 4, 6, 10, 12, 25, 30; November 2, 4, 8, 10, 23, 28; December 2, 6, 8, 21, 26.

APRIL 21 (2 + 1 = 3) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

A crown of love and fire are suggested by the combination of your co-ruling planets, Venus and Mars, with your card, the King of Clubs. Add to this the personable force implied in the numerical three of your birthday, all of which suggest you can be a very dynamic individualist.

Born on the cusp of Aries and Taurus, you have the blessings and challenges of two ruling planets. Mars, as represented by the Four of Diamonds, implies a strong, practical, material drive, which could bring you an abundance of the Earth's treasures. Venus, as symbolized by the Four of hearts, could do as well for you in the people department, bringing love and admiration. While some of your advantages are due to the hand of fate, you do have the diversified abilities to help you make the most of the opportunities when they appear. Basically constructive, but if set off on a negative tangent, your dominant and stubborn nature can be equally destructive. While you're usually under control of your situation, an inner intensity suggests that some type of outdoor activity, sports or gardening might be the most suitable remedy for your nervous temperament. Identified as you are with the top card in the Club, or mental, suit, education is extremely important if you are to truly fulfill the wonderful potential of your excellent mentality.

Obviously, as a King, your natural role in pleasure as well as in business would be in some form of leadership. In choosing your life work, this is an important consideration to keep in mind. Perhaps in the following who share this birthday with you, you will find some inspiration as to your possibilities. The list includes Queen Elizabeth II of England, Politicians Joe McCarthy and Governor Pat Brown, naturalist John Muir, author Charlotte Bronte, actor Anthony Quinn, and founder of the kindergarten system, educator Friedrich Froebel.

Love and a secure home are essential to your happiness. The latter may be jeopardized by a certain aloofness, which may create barriers in communication with loved ones. You may minimize the probability of more than one marriage by starting with someone born on January 1, 7, 12, 13, 25, 29, 31; February 5, 10, 11, 23, 27, 29; March 3, 8, 9, 21, 25, 27;

April 1, 6, 7, 19, 23, 25; May 4, 5, 17, 21, 23; June 2, 3, 15, 19, 21; July 1, 13, 17, 19, 29; August 11, 15, 17, 27; September 9, 13, 15, 25; October 7, 11, 13, 23, 31; November 5, 9, 11, 21, 29; December 3, 7, 9, 19, 27, 30.

APRIL 22 (Master Number) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

Cardwise, you wear a crown that suggests "service through knowledge" may be your scepter of power.This potential is further amplified by your "master number" birthday. apply the personal discipline suggested in the latter, and you should find this will help you realize the tremendous possibilities shown in your card.

With your birthday on the cusp of Aries and Taurus, you have, in a sense, two ruling planetary influences. In other words, you have the vital drive of Mars to help you make a productive use of the emotional sensitivity of Venus. Since these planets are represented by the Three of Diamonds and the Five of Clubs respectively, it will probably take much self-control to channel these bright but restless energies. A strong, sensual appreciation of beauty, both in the arts and in the comforts of life, may cause an overindulgence in both.

Your cerebral potential as well as your talent possibilities are tops. Tie down that restless spirit and you might find a gift for writing. If not in the realm of literature, you may find that your thing is to be found in music. You may hit even closer to the mark in some role of public service in government and humanitarian organizations. Remember, your card implies: the more you live your life for the well-being of others, the more likely you are to realize the fulfillment represented in your birthday. If you need further inspiration consider the following who share this birthday with you. Queen Isabella I of Spain, statesman Alexander Kerensky of Russia, metaphysician Immanual Kant, writers Ellen Glasgow, Madame De Stael and Henry Fielding, violinist Yehudi Menuhin, actors Eddie Albert and Jack Nicholson and singer Glen Campbell.

A strong, restless emotional nature may give your desire for security in love a hard race. You need someone who is both mentally as well as physically stimulating and who can share a wide variety of interests with you. You might have better luck in finding that special someone born on one of the following birthdays. January 2, 12, 13, 14, 19; February 24; March 8, 9, 10, 15; April 26, 29; May 4, 5, 6, 11; June 22, 25, 27; July 1, 2, 7, 14, 20, 23, 25, 30; August 21, 28; September 3, 10, 16, 19, 21; October 24, 29; November 6, 12, 15, 17, 22; December 20, 25, 28.

APRIL 23 (2 + 3 = 5) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

The creative fire suggested by the combination of your card and your Aries birthday can bring exceptional success in a wide variety of artistic and intellectual endeavors. The hitch here is that there is also a restless influence implied numerically in your birthday, which might throw an irresponsible monkey-wrench into your mental machinery.

As represented by the Seven of Spades, Venus, your planetary ruler, can bring an inspired sensitivity to your imaginative efforts. Watch that this emotional-mystical influence doesn't cause you to jeopardize everything through indulgence in eccentric behavior patterns. Work with personal overtones is pointed out by this influence to be your source of true fulfillment. Although you enjoy the excitement and suspense, speculative ventures are not particularly healthy for your high-strung temperament.Considering the travel and varied experiences, which are likely to be part of your destiny, you should not want for adventure.

The confident face which you show the world may conceal from even yourself, your vulnerability healthwise. If you heed this word of caution and take the necessary steps to retain your well-being, you should be able to enjoy the youthful quality of your card throughout your entire life. Neither shy nor retiring, so whether it be through your typewriter, political platform, in front of or behind the cameras, or in your own livingroom, you will dominate the scene. Your considerable potential is well demonstrated by the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes President James Buchanan, scientist Max Planck, artist Joseph Turner, composer Sergei Prokofieff, film director Frank Borzage, actresses Shirley Temple, Janet Blair and Sandra Dee.

Love and close relationships might be helped by your intense energies being somewhat absorbed by a career or some other important interests. Otherwise, marriage partners — even close friends — may be overwhelmed by your strong personality. You mean well, but you should let others run their own lives. Your chances for personal happiness may be more likely with someone born on January 7, 15, 20; February 20, 25, 29; March 3, 11, 16, 18; April 21, 25; May 7, 12, 14; June 21; July 3, 8, 10, 15, 19; August 29, 30; September 4, 6, 11, 15; October 25, 26; November 2, 7, 11, 23; December 21, 22.

APRIL 24 (2 + 4 = 6) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

No cold intellect here. Your fine mental attributes and talents are warmed by the sensual attributes implied in your numerological six birthday. Even your most practical efforts are likely to have a touch of fantasy. Lack of self-discipline and confidence may be the prime obstacles to the success promised in your card.

Due to the double impact of Venus, which represents both your planetary and decanate ruler, romantic-idealism is part of the secret of your success and possibly your downfall. With this planetary influence symbolized by the King of Spades, you certainly have the latent potential to reach the top in any undertaking. As the essence of this card (mastery) can represent the key to your success, it is extremely important that you learn to apply the discipline and responsibility that it embodies. Tremendous power spiritually, as well as mundane is suggested in this card, providing you will accept the challenge of moral leadership.

Historically, others have used this power to become significant influences politically and militarily. In a lighter vein, you may choose to express this force as a catalyst to your colorful imagination through pen and brush. Of course, people-related activities are likely to appeal to your Venus related nature. Routine occupations are likely to be an anathema to your free spirit. For some ideas as to how you might best use your potential, note the following who share this birthday with you. Statesman Oliver Cromwell, military leaders include France's Philip Petain and Germany's Erich Raeder of World War II submarine fame, dendrologist Charles Sprague, architect John Russell Pope, writer Anthony Trollope, puppeteer Tony Sarg, actresses Shirley MacLaine and Barbra Streisand.

A natural color sense is likely to be very much in evidence in both your home and wardrobe. You seek to build an atmosphere of harmony, but an inclination to dominate is likely to create nervous tensions which can lose the battles that your charms have won. This may be less likely with someone born on January 1, 8, 9, 18; February 24; March 4, 5, 14; April 20, 26; May 1, 10, 18; June 22, 29; July 6, 14, 20; August 25, 29, 31; September 2, 10, 16, 23; October 25, 27; November 6, 12, 19; December 21, 23.

APRIL 25 (2 + 5 = 7) — 9♣ — NINE OF CLUBS

"Reasoning power" second to none is implied by the merging of your card and the mystical seven factor of your birthday. Yet, there is a real danger that indulgence in worry, impatience and procrastination may impair this cerebral force. Frustration in finding a way to express this tremendous potential may cause self-depreciation and melancholy. Faith combined with perseverance is part of your answer.

Venus, ruler of both your Sun sign and birthday decanate, as symbolized by the Two of Hearts, suggests that you are more likely to be stirred into action by your feelings than by ambition. While not lazy, you may give a good imitation. In part, this may be due to the feeling that thinking is such a chore. When you truly apply yourself in the mental realm, you might just prove to be a creative genius.

Almost in spite of yourself, you are likely to acquire more than your share of honors and the good things of life. While lady luck is inclined to bless you with some unearned breaks, you also may earn your good fortune through research and by accepting the mantle of responsibility and leadership, which is likely to be dropped on your shoulders. You can do well in the limelight, but you may be even more effective running the whole show behind the scenes. Your high Club card implies that you are naturally suited for intellectual activity but Venus, your ruling planet, may bend these mental energies toward writing, singing and drama. For this and other examples, you share this birthday with statesman Richard Cromwell, inventor Marconi, television commentator Edward R. Murrow, singer Ella Fitzgerald and actor Al Pacino.

Romantic and affectionate, yet your irresistible charm may have a way of getting you into burdensome relationships. This is likely to be further complicated by your vacillating emotions and erratic temperament. You may feel a greater incentive to control your eccentricities with someone born on January 1, 6, 9, 14; February 25, 27; March 2, 5, 10; April 21, 23, 27, 29; May 1, 6, 19, 21; June 23, 25, 28; July 2, 15,17, 21, 23; August 24; September 11, 13, 17, 19, 22; October 28; November 7, 9, 13, 15, 18; December 24, 29.

APRIL 26 (2 + 6 = 8) — 8♣ — EIGHT OF CLUBS

The double eight of your card and birthday suggests that you can have just about anything you really want. Since you're likely to have the mental talent potential to gain this end, resist the temptation to resort to ruthless power. A strong desire for peace and harmony can make you a natural diplomat.

You are not apt to have much time for dilettantes. As represented by the Four of Spades, Venus, your guiding planet suggests that in pleasure as well as work, you are productively oriented. You have the persevering determination to accomplish the impossible. Just don't let your inflexibility blind you to other possibilities. So many ideas and interests grab your attention that when you're turned on, time and health are forgotten. You are apt to work with such enthusiasm that you can inject life into any endeavor. With your physical endowments running your mental and talent attributes a close second, you could find a refreshing change from all your self-made pressures by participating in sports or some other type of outdoor activity.

A basic practicality, plus organizational ability suggests that you can find success in industry, financial institutions and merchandizing, especially relating to products for the home or personal use. Your creative intellect mellowed by Venus implies that you can also make it in artistic expressions, particularly in writing. To illustrate, you share this birthday with writers David Hume, Daniel Defoe and Anita Loos, also Lady Emma Hamilton, artist Delacroix, ornithologist John Audubon, munition maker Alfred Krupp, politicians Rudolph Hess and Paul Hoffman, and comedienne Carol Burnett.

As a parent, you are apt to be a stern taskmaster, but your no-nonsense attitude is likely to prove wise in the long run. In close relationships, a touch of romantic idealism brings out the softer and generous you. As practical considerations are likely to play a part in your choice of mate and friends, you might find greater success with those born on January 10, 17; February 23, 26, 28; March 6, 13, 17; April 22, 24, 28; May 2, 17, 20, 22; June 24; July 5, 13, 16, 18, 22; September 1, 9, 12, 14, 18; October 29; November 5, 8, 10, 14; December 25.

APRIL 27 (2 + 7 = 9) 7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

The more practical attributes associated with your Sun sign,Taurus,may somewhat offset the worrisome tendencies suggested by your card. Challenging as life is likely to be, you have an inherent tenacity, which helps you persevere until you've achieved the grand dreams inspired by your numerical nine birthday.

The true key to the potential hidden in your card may be found by applying the self-mastery symbolized in the Queen of Spades, which represents your ruling planet, Venus. A hard worker, yet your achievements may be minimized by an inclination to indulge in negative thought patterns. Your gray matter is supposed to be your prime asset, but it may take some unusual idea or urge to turn it on. You may find the necessary mental stimulus in philosophy, social reforms and other humanitarian projects. Although fate may toss some problems at you in the way of physical afflictions or negative mental habits, fortunately, you are not inclined to give up easily. In your attempt to improve your lot in life, don't allow your impatience to lure you into those "get rich quick schemes," or money motivated marriages. What luck you have, is more likely to be found through a combination of your talents and intuitive mind. You can make it, but it is more than likely to be through some expression of your own abilities.

In considering your career possibilities, your cards suggest that occupations which cater to the needs of women or supply products and services for the home could be the source of your fortune. Also indicated is a potential for success in teaching, writing and research. If you can overcome an innate fear of responsibility, you should also be able to excel in leadership positions. For additional possibilities, you share this birthday with President Ulysses S. Grant, historian Edward Gibbon, composer Felix White, philosopher Herbert Spencer, inventor of the telegraph Samuel Morse, industrial designer Norman Bel Geddes and actress Sandy Dennis.

A hardheaded practicality helps you overcome disappointments and succeed in marriage. While your clever strategies can win you love, a preoccupation with work and other interests may jeopardize your romantic conquests. Love and friendship may be more successful with someone born on January 2, 3, 11, 18; February 29; March 7, 14; April 25, 29; May 3, 10; June 23, 27; July 6, 19, 23: September 2, 15, 19; October 30; November 11; December 26.

APRIL 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

Ambition and inertia are the strange bedfellows mirrored in your card and the numerical factor of your birthday. Your desire to be number one is backed up with much talent and an intuitive brain. About the only real obstacle to your success may be a lack of initiative.

With your ruling planet Venus symbolized by the Queen of Hearts a compelling need for love and approval may get you into a lot of emotional hot water, or supply the necessary push to make things happen. Though you may be lazy, when you are really turned on, you tend to go to the other extreme, running the risk of burning yourself out. Whatever, even your occasional ruts are not likely to be dull. While it may contribute to your downfall, part of your power is in your strong emotional nature, which can charm constituents, audiences, lover and friends. If not contained, it can also be a consuming force, driving you to excessive indulgences in food, drink and sex. The sensual sensitivity which helps you to express and respond with such great pleasure to color and music also implies a great empathy for the needs of others.

Indifference may place you in subordinate positions, but you really belong on top. If you need any inspiration, consider the following who share this birthday with you. For example, President James Monroe, President Salazar of Portugal, politician Maurice Thorez, playwright Robert Anderson, actor Lionel Barrymore and singer-actress Ann-Margret.

In love, you are inclined to make your own rules. At times, you can be the life of the party, and then on other occasions surprisingly cool and dignified. Likewise, you tend to vacillate from extreme generosity to petty selfishness. Despite a strong flirtatious streak, when you find that special someone you are likely to stick to them faithfully. Attracting opportunities in love and friendship should present no real problems, but you may be happier with those born on January 12, 19; February 23; March 8, 15; April 26, 29, 30; May 4, 11, 17; June 22, 25, 26, 28; July 7, 13, 20, 23, 24; August 22, 24, 27, 30; September3, 9, 16, 19, 20, 22; October 23, 26, 30; 31; November 5, 12, 15, 16, 18, 21; December 22, 26, 27.

APRIL 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

Restless power is suggested by the combination of your card and your master number eleven birthday. Hopefully the solid reliable qualities of your Sun sign, Taurus, will help you to use the attributes symbolized here constructively. But you are apt to find your freedom loving spirit encumbered with the burden of responsibility.

With the Ace of Spades symbolizing your ruling planet, Venus, secrecy may be a major factor in your personal life and other activities. Stubbornness, combined with a resourceful imagination, gives you the persistence to acquire the personal treasures which mean so much to you. Clever and versatile, you can be very effective in many areas, especially as a leader. As you may be inclined to make the rules fit whatever is expedient, watch that you do not abuse your powers. Even though you are so well equipped for success in the business world, remember you are ruled by Venus, so check for talent in the arts. With an inclination to become uptight, you might find some sort of artistic expression a healthy safety valve. A tendency to become lost in your thoughts and moods may cause you to be somewhat absentminded. As your card suggests, you have the potential for success in a wide variety of occupations. You may be especially suited to act as mediator or director of groups and projects. For examples of what others have done with the potential of this day, check the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes Alexander II of Russia, publisher William Randolph Hearst, Emperor Hirohito, musicians Thomas Beechum and Duke Ellington, poet Rod McKuen, actors Tom Ewell and Richard Carlson, actresses Celeste Holm and Jeanmaire.

Home and the security of love are very important to you, but work and other interests may minimize your time in your home scene. Your expression of love may be hindered by an inclination to hide your real feelings. A restless, emotional curiosity may also bring secret involvements which can be a source of heartaches. For success in love and secret passions, you may fare better with someone born on January 7, 13, 20, 21; February 19, 23, 26, 29; March 5, 9, 16, 17, 21; April 22, 25, 27, 28; May 5, 12, 13, 17, 20; June 23, 24, 27; July 1, 8, 9, 13, 16, 19, 21, 22; August 6, 7, 11, 19, 20, 23; September 4, 5, 12, 15, 18, 21; October 26, 31; November 1, 5, 8, 11, 13, 14, 17; December 22, 27 and 28.

APRIL 30 (3 + 0 = 3) 4♣ FOUR OF CLUBS

The personable numerical three quality of your birthday warms the stoic, practical image projected by your card. Capable and versatile, yet an inner uncertainty is probably the greatest threat to your wonderful potential. When in doubt, remember: "you have one of the best life patterns shown in the cards."

Hard-working, imaginative leadership is the potential suggested by the Jack of Spades, which symbolizes your planetary ruler, Venus, Basically constructive, seeking to make improvements, you are likely to be the asset to any business or community. While you want recognition and power, a rebellious streak may cause you to shy away from the burden of responsibility. To the world you appear as secure as the Rock of Gibraltar. This apparent self-sufficiency has probably been acquired as the result of suffering from lack of self-confidence in the earlier part of your life. Just when everyone has you pegged as a quiet conservative, you are apt to jar them through involvement in some unusual interest. Although the peace of mind symbolized in your card may not do much to minimize your worrisome tendencies, it does imply a natural sense of order. This organizational ability could prove a boon in occupations concerned with details such as to be found in research, computer-data and accounting. At times, you can even muster up enough dramatic excitement to look good on stage, selling real-estate or giving orders to the kids.

You share this birthday with scientist Karl Gauss, composer Franz Lehar, politicians Homer S. Cummings and Germany's Von Ribbentrop, newscaster Fulton Lewis Jr., Queen Juliana of Holland, actresses Eve Arden and Corinne Calvet.

More than likely, it will be in your personal life that you will reveal that you are not quite the staid, traditional Taurean that you appear to be. No run of the mill involvements for you. You want something different, something which will stimulate you mentally as well as romantically. You may have better luck in this particular quest with someone born on January 3, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21; February 19; March 4, 7, 10, 17; April 28; May 3, 6, 13; June 24, 28; July 2, 9, 22; August 31; September 5, 18, 22; October 27; November 1, 14, 18; December 23, 28 and 29.

The important thing is not to stop questioning.
Curiosity has its own reason for existing.
One cannot help but be in awe when he Contemplates the mysteries of eternity, of life, of the marvelous structure of reality.
It is enough if one tries merely to comprehend
A little of this mystery every day.
Never lose a holy curiosity.

MAY 1 (1 = 1)

5♠ FIVE OF SPADES

Despite a compelling desire to put down your Taurus roots, the changeable qualities suggested by your card, plus the ambitious drive implied numerically in your birthday is likely to keep you on the move. You will probably have that comfortable home, but an eventful life filled with travel and all sorts of interesting experiences may not allow you to spend much time in it.

Venus, your ruling planet, represented by the Nine of Clubs, suggests a challenging blend of intellect and emotions. While this could give your thinking an intuitive sensitivity, it can also make you overly vulnerable to slights and criticisms. Don't let this drive you to drink or pills. Find the patience to develop your fine mind, and your efforts may not only produce a life-saving philosophy, but also reveal hidden literary and artistic talents.

A dynamic charm is suggested by the Jack of Hearts, symbolic of your decanate ruler, Mercury. Although this may accent a strong ego, it also implies an empathy, which may encourage you to subordinate your needs for the welfare of others. Willing as you are to make sacrifices, there is a possible emotional tyrant hidden in this powerful Heart card. A wide gamut of possibilities is suggested by the versatility implied in your birthday. While you can excel in cerebral endeavors such as writing and philosophy, your beguiling personality also suggests that you may find an even greater satisfaction in occupations which include public contact. To illustrate this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with U.S. Capitol architect Benjamin Latrove, writer William Lilly, painters William Innes and Cecilia Beau, General Mark Clark, singer Kate Smith, actresses Danielle Darrieux and Judy Collins, actor Glenn Ford, television's Jack Parr, and astronaut Scott Carpenter.

Although you crave affection, a difficulty in expressing your feelings may create problems and misunderstandings in relationships. Another source of worry may be a quandary as to what you really want romantically. You may come closer to fulfilling "your impossible dream of love" with someone born on January 7, 11, 18; February 22, 28, 29; March 3, 7, 14, 20; April 24, 25; May 3, 10, 16, 22, 23; July 6, 18, 19; August 29; September 2, 8, 14, 15; October 25, 28; November 4, 10, 11; December 21, 24, 29.

4♠ FOUR OF SPADES

A practical, friendly warmth is suggested by your card and the numerical quality of your birthday. Your positive nature and willingness to work hard for your objectives is well camouflaged behind an almost shy and easy-going facade. This is not only likely to get you where you want to go, but also likely to win you friends along the way.

With your ruling planet, Venus, represented by the Ten of Diamonds, your home and the interests in which you become involved are likely to reflect a touch of luxury and an appreciation of the arts. The merging of this planetary influence and this auspicious material symbol suggests that your fortune may be found in occupations, activities and interests which cater to the personal needs of others or in dealing with products for the home. While you cannot be hurried, your systematic thoroughness gets things done. There are no phony frills about you, honest and direct, possibly sometimes too much so. Fortunately, an inherent diplomatic manner makes it easy to take.

An aura of success permeates all you do. And, according to the Ten of Hearts, which symbolizes your decanate ruler, Mercury, this should prove particularly true in people-related activities. Whether it be in a desire to share your ideas or musical talent, you should have no real difficulty in finding a receptive audience. If not through some artistic endeavor, your practical nature is likely to be equally successful in business, medicine and farming. Some might call you square, this may or may not be so, but you're likely to be one of the most stable and reliable citizens of the community. To illustrate how others have used the potential of your birthday, check the following who share this natal day with you. Catherine the Great of Russia, Doctor Benjamin Spock, social worker Graham Taylor, dancer Vernon Castle, World War I pilot Baron von Richtofen, actor Brian Aherne, singers Bing Crosby and Engelbert Humperdinck.

Although a magnetic quality attracts many to you, an aloof and discriminating nature allows only a few to join your inner circle. Companionship is especially important to you, be careful that moodiness doesn't create unnecessary loneliness. You might most happily avoid this possibility with someone born on January 8, 12, 14, 17, 20; February 21; March 4, 8, 10, 13, 16, 19; May 4, 6, 9, 12, 15, 17; June 22; July 2, 5, 8, 13, 20; September 1, 4, 7, 9, 16; November 3, 5, 12; December 30.

3♠ THREE OF SPADES

A serious brightness is suggested by the double three influence of your card and birthday. While this tends to minimize the somber outlook of your Spade card, you're still likely to be looking for the "joker." You're also apt to have an off-beat sense of humor, with a slight twist, which is part of your unique charm. Indecisiveness can be your worst bugaboo!

As with all who are ruled by Venus, emotional considerations are very important. In your case, since this celestial planet is represented by the Seven of Clubs, they can be downright disturbing. A cool, clear head will be needed to keep them from interfering with all your other activities. Guard against wearing a chip on your shoulder. Your defensive skepticism may produce a remoteness which spawns misunderstandings. Spade you may be, but you're not likely to put your hands on the real thing, manual labor is just not for you. Happily you have all sorts of other possibilities to fall back on. Among them is an exceptionally keen mind. Though you may be tempted to use it to ferret out secrets, combined with your methodical and analytical approach it could be a productive tool for political and scientific research. The strong desire for expression symbolized in your birthday along with your great sensitivity, suggest that music and drama might prove to be both good therapy as well as a source of revenue. For some other possibilities, consider the following who share this birthday with you: politicians Niccolo Machiavelli, Krishna Menon and Golda Meir, journalist Jacob Riis, organists Marcel Dupre and Virgil Fox, actresses Mary Astor, Betty Comden and Samantha Eggar, actor Walter Slezak and boxer Sugar Ray Robinson.

It appears that you may like a little intrigue so, romantically, you're apt to get yourself into some strange entanglements. You might save yourself some tears if you learn to look before you leap. At least, find out first if they belong to someone else. At best, love is not easy but you might have better luck with someone born on January 2, 4, 7, 9, 13; February 24; March 3, 5, 9; April 20, 27, 30; May 1, 5, 18; June 23, 26; July 1, 14, 21, 24; August 22, 31; September 17, 20; October 27, 30; November 6, 13, 16; December 23,26

MAY 4 (4 = 4) 2♠ TWO OF SPADES

Symbolically, your card suggests that co-operative efforts in work and play are the key to your personal fulfillment. Your number four birthday implies that you will work very hard to achieve your objectives. Just don't let your dedicated devotion to work cause you to lose sight of your objectives.

Outwardly, you appear reserved, even stubborn. But Venus, your guiding light, reveals that this remoteness and inflexibility is apt to be a defense mechanism for an extremely sensitive you. Since this planetary influence is represented by the Six of Clubs, this sensitivity could have intuitive possibilities worth investigating. Develop this insight and you may gain the vision which can raise your awareness above your mundane fears and limitations. This influence also indicates an inclination to become involved in routine and monotonous jobs and situations. As you are particularly vulnerable to moods and depression, watch that this doesn't create frustrations which encourage you to retreat into a shell. When you do express yourself, you can be painfully honest and direct. Having exceptionally good work habits, you should have no real worry regarding money and should be able to indulge in some of life's little luxuries. Some of your best bets for obtaining these means may be found in teaching, manufacturing, business, construction, real estate and anything which will bring you close to nature. The more sensitive you should come to life in the arts. For this and other possibilities, consider the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are artists Gerard and Sir Thomas Lawrence, educator Horace Mann, historian William Prescott, biologist Thomas Huxley, actress Audrey Hepburn and singer Roberta Peters of the New York Metropolitan Opera Company.

Obviously, with the Eight of Hearts symbolizing your decanate ruler, Mercury, you can attract romantic opportunities. If your strong craving for affection lacks fulfillment, check to see whether you're turning others off with a cool, unemotional manner. Maybe someone born on one of the following days can overcome your short interest span: January 10, 14; February 25, 26; March 6, 10; April 21, 22, 28; May 2, 6, 19,20; June 24, 27;

July 2, 15, 16, 22; August 20, 23, 27; September 11, 12, 18, 21; October 23, 29, 31; November 7, 8, 14, 17, 21; December 19, 25 and 27.

MAY 5 (5 = 5) A♠ ACE OF SPADES

The potential for profound awareness with mystical overtones suggested by your card is likely to have to compete with the restless, earthy nature implied numerically in your Taurus birthday. Ambition, plus a desire to escape the pressures of the immediate reality, is likely to crowd your life with many changes and unusual experiences.

The precarious thrill that you may get from taking chances plus the fact that your ruling planet, Venus, is represented by the Seven of Diamonds, suggests that your quest for love and pleasure is likely to be expensive. It appears that you may have to learn about economics and just about everything else the hard way. But when you finally get your reckless impulses under control and that sixth-sense working for you, you'll probably win that high life style you so strongly desire. While stubbornness can be one of your prime hang-ups, at times it may supply the very perseverance you need to keep going. Although you are primarily concerned with self-interests, there's a part of you which is intrigued by the problems of humanity. Possibly to the extent that you may come up with some exciting answers. Another consideration in choosing a possible occupation or major interest is your need for variety and action. According to the notables who share this birthday with you, you may find that outlet through politics, selling or in the entertainment industry. To illustrate, you share this day with political philosopher Karl Marx, statesman Ho Chi Minh, writer Soren Kierkegaard, actors Freeman Gosden and Tyrone Power and actress-singer Alice Faye.

The magnetic charm suggested by the Seven of Hearts, symbolic of your decanate ruler, Mercury, implies that you have no difficulty in winning audiences or lovers. Regarding the latter, jealousy, encouraged by a proclivity for secret trysts may make your romantic involvements somewhat stormy. Unless you enjoy this sort of thing, you may find things less turbulent with someone born on January 1, 11, 15, 17, 20; February 25, 26; March 7, 11, 13, 16; April 21, 22, 27, 28; May 3, 7, 9, 12, 19, 20; June 25; July 3, 8, 15, 16, 23; August 21, 28; September 4, 11, 12, 19; October 23, 24; November 7, 8, 15, 21, 22 and December 20.

MAY 6 (6 = 6) K♦ KING OF DIAMONDS

Although you don't exactly believe in democracy, you are the advocate of fair play. You believe in and will champion the rights of others, that is, as long as they understand that you are the king or boss. A sensual-materialist, you will probably thoroughly enjoy all the pleasures of this planet.

Governed by Venus, you rule with a passionate warmth. As represented by the Four of Clubs, this planetary influence suggests that you insist that your subject, friends and associates be stimulating and productive. Basically lucky, you are apt to enjoy gambling and anything that has an element of chance. An inclination to indulge in excesses in everything from food and drink to sex could be a serious detriment to your health and fortunes. Personal discipline is apt to be minimal at best, so it's fortunate that you can absorb knowledge without textbooks. As befitting your crown card, there's nothing ordinary about you. Your clothes, home and life style, if not exactly bizarre, are different. Because you feel so intensely, your depths are likely to equal your heights. These broad dimensional experiences may produce valuable insights that not only benefit you but others as well.

Career-wise, leave the details to others. You belong in the front office, the director's chair or center stage. Businesses supplying services and products for the home could also be your thing. Your striking appearance and exceptional speaking voice could be quite an asset in the theater, in politics or in the pulpit. Note the following who share this day with you for other possibilities: French politician Robespierre, explorer Robert Peary, writers Rabindranath Tagore, Christian Morgenstern and Mary Anita Loos, Psycho-analyst Sigmund Freud, actors Rudolph Valentino, Stewart Granger and Orson Welles, pianist Carmen Cavallaro, film producer Ross Hunter and baseball's Willie Mays.

Your decanate ruler, Mercury, symbolized by the Six of Hearts, emphasizes your love nature. While you tend to dominate, your natural hospitality and inclination to provide well for those you love make you an attractive catch. Intimately, you might find greater success with those born on January 2, 3, 10, 12, 16, 18; February 26, 29; March 6, 8, 12, 14; April 22, 25, 30; May 2, 4, 8, 10, 20; June 21, 26; July 4, 6, 16, 19, 24; August 22; September 2, 12, 15, 20; November 8, 11, 16 and December 29.

MAY 7 (7 = 7) Q♦ QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

A somewhat proud, aristocratic bearing is suggested by your royal card. The profound spiritual qualities associated with your number seven birthday may find some conflict with the more social, materialistic attributes of your diamond card and Taurus birthday.

Appearances are very important to you, so you're likely to be among the best-groomed of all. Fortunately, Venus, your ruling planet, is likely to help this along by endowing you with an attractive appearance and probably also a beautiful voice. While this planetary influence suggests a natural charm, as represented by the Three of Clubs, it also indicates that the expression of your talents may be hindered by much indecisiveness. To cover your confusion, you tend to procrastinate or assume inflexible attitudes, hoping something will happen to make up your mind for you. There are times when your stubborn will can accomplish impossible tasks. You may have to watch that unreasonable pride doesn't cause you to jeopardize your otherwise robust health. The inspired emotional inclinations of your sensitive mind suggests that your most rewarding expressions may be found in music, poetry, painting and drama. To illustrate, you share this birthday with composers Johannes Brahms and Peter Illyitch Tchaikovsky, poets Robert Browning, Tagore and Archibald MacLeish, Eva Peron of Argentina, actor Gary Cooper, actress Anne Baxter and singer Teresa Brewer.

Much uncertainty in relationships is suggested by the Five of Hearts which symbolizes your decanate ruler, Mercury. Although you may attract unstable individuals, this influence suggests that some of your emotional problems are likely to arise from your own restless emotional nature which causes you to vacillate in your values and desires. You would be wise to seek out those who, like yourself, enjoy a wide variety of social and artistic activity. You may find both love and friendships easier to build with individuals born on January 3, 13, 17, 19; February 27; March 9, 13, 15; April 23; May 5, 9, 11, 21; June 27, 30; July 1, 5, 7; August 23, 26, 30; September 1, 3, 13, 21; October 22, 26; November 9, 17, 20 and December 22 and 30.

MAY 8 (8 = 8) J♦ JACK OF DIAMONDS

Bright, effervescent leadership is suggested by your card. You are likely to bring a youthful enthusiasm to just about anything that you do. With the power of your number eight birthday backing up the creative ambition shown in your card, the only real obstacle to your success is a possible brash immaturity.

With another Diamond, the Four of Diamonds, representing your ruling planet, Venus, one of your most profitable assets is likely to be your friendly, direct manner. You have a thing for money and the material niceties of life, so it's fortunate that your ability to spend money is equaled by your ability to earn it. One possible hitch may be an inclination to work as the mood strikes you. Conscious of appearance, you not only keep yourself well-groomed but can make a profit by helping others to do likewise. While a natural exuberance is part of your charm, be careful not to let it make unreasonable demands on your health. An inclination to burn a lot of energy, both physically and nervously, suggests that you would be wise to plan times for relaxation. Straight-forward, you have little time for petty intrigues. Your feelings and beliefs are so close to the surface that everyone about you is likely to know how you feel. If anyone is injured in the subsequent verbal barrage, it is usually unintentional. Whether you choose to be a salesman, actor or president, your ability to relate successfully with the public is one of your prime assets. To illustrate, you share this birthday with President Harry S. Truman, Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen, mystic Krishnamurti, composer Oscar Hammerstein II, singers Ezio Pinza and Rick Nelson, producer Roberto Rossellini, actress Carroll Baker, actors Fernandel and Lex Barker and comedian Don Rickles.

The instant charm suggested by your decanate ruler, Mercury, as symbolized by the Four of Hearts should provide you with an entree to many social and romantic opportunities. Unfortunately, this same influence may incline you to lose interest, reluctant to take on the responsibilities of marriage. This may be less likely with someone born on January 14, 18, 20, 23; February 18, 21; March 10, 14, 16, 19; May 6, 10, 12, 15; June 28; July 2, 8, 11; August 24, 31; September 2, 4, 7; October 27; November 3, 18; December 23, 29.

MAY 9 (9 = 9) 10♦ TEN OF DIAMONDS

Card-wise, especially in matters material and monetary, number one is your proper place. Numerically, your birthday suggests that perseverance through all sorts of obstacles will be a prerequisite to fulfilling this destiny. In the process, you may also learn to appreciate the breadth of understanding encompassed in your number nine birthday.

Ambition, according to the Ace of Hearts, which symbolizes your planetary ruler, Venus, will supply the incentive to get you there. That is if love and temperament don't knock you off the ladder of aspiration. Probably due to a lack of affection in your childhood, the need for approval and love is a very strong motivating force.

Besides accenting your fine mind, Mercury, your decanate ruler, symbolized by the Eight of Spades, implies that you have all the attributes needed for success, with the possible exception of self-discipline. And yet, when you put it all together, you can usually do a pretty good job of faking it. Extremely exalting highs and equally devastating depressing lows appear to be among the cards you hold. Fortunately, you have what it takes to spring back into action. Earthy practicality and the capacity for leadership assures you a good chance at the success implied in your card. While you are particularly well-suited for the business world, your need for people-involvement and sensitivity should also be right at home in show business. As you are at your best in personal contact, avoid occupations which tend to isolate you from others. For some ideas, consider the careers of the following people who share this birthday with you: politician James Hagerty, industrialist Henry Kaiser, writer Sir James Barrie, abolitionist John Brown, tennis star Pancho Gonzales, actors Richard Barthelmess and Albert Finney and actress Candice Bergen.

Although you're not particularly domestic, an ability to entertain and mix business and social activities successfully suggests that your home is likely to be one of your arenas of success. With your natural charm, you're likely to have many romantic involvements, so your prime difficulty in matters of the heart may be in making a selection. You might narrow the field by starting with those born on January 7, 10, 13, 15, 19; March 3, 6, 9, 11, 15; April 26; May 2, 5, 7, 11; June 22; July 1, 3, 7, 20; August 28; September 3, 16; October 24; November 12; December 20 and 30.

MAY 10 (1 + 0 = 1) 9♦ NINE OF DIAMONDS

The treasures and pleasures of earth may supply the initial motivation, but in your efforts to gain them, you may uncover the cosmic urge hidden in your card. Combined with the leadership attributes implied in your numerological one birthday, it appears that you do have the ingredients with which you can find fulfillment.

A quick mentality is suggested by the Two of Clubs, which represents your ruling planet Venus. Combined with this emotional planet, this card implies your interests should benefit through an emphasis on partnerships and cooperative endeavors. In these efforts, your potential capabilities along with the fact that you are better at giving orders than in receiving them, suggests that you retain the upper hand.

With your diamond image further modified by the spiritual influence of the Seven of Spades, representative of your decanate ruler, Mercury, you're apt to be somewhat of a mystical materialist. Mundane interests, as well as the pursuit for more profound enlightenment, are likely to benefit from this intuitive influence. At times bright and extremely generous, at other times you can be pessimistic, penurious, even fearful. This tendency to vacillate may be one of the most serious impediments in your climb up the ladder to success.

While delay may be part of your destiny, your perseverance will pay off. In your quest for the right career, keep in mind your ability to succeed in people related endeavors. For some examples of this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with novelist Benito Galdos, political-scientist James Bryce, explorer Sir Henry Stanley, Speaker of the House Carl Albert, tea tycoon Sir Thomas Lipton, dancer Fred Astaire, actress Nancy Walker and actor William Demarest.

Socially, you should flourish in groups involved with creative or philosophical interests. Almost in spite of a compulsive need for companionship, your independent streak is not likely to allow very many to join your inner circle of close friends. In your quest for that perfect marriage and friendship, you may have better luck with someone born on January 2, 9, 14, 16, 20; February 18, 28; March 5, 10, 12, 16; April 24, 27; May 1, 6, 8, 12, 22; June 20, 23, 28; July 2, 4, 8, 18, 21; August 24, 29; September 4, 14, 17, 22; October 25; November 10, 13, 18; December 21.

MAY 11 (Master Number) 8♦ EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

Apply the mastery symbolized in your birthday and you can translate the power represented in your card into a force that can make the impossible possible. Be careful that you don't miss out on this opportunity by interpreting the power of your number eleven birthday as a meek two or by going to the other extreme, as a bullish tyrant.

With your ruling planet, Venus, represented by the Three of Hearts, the great potential of your birthday may be minimized by indecisiveness regarding your objectives. In other words, your very versatility may prove as much a curse as a blessing. The personable charm also reflected in this influence is likely to prove a significant asset in dealing with groups and the public. Regarding the latter, this may involve some expression of musical or of dramatic talent.

Saturn, your decanate ruler, should do much to help stabilize your efforts and, as represented by the Ten of Spades, this planetary influence points to the possibility of outstanding success. Though inclined to be a hard worker, don't allow your mental and physical capabilities to completely obscure your psychic potential. You could find your perceptive powers a most valuable assist in everything from creative inspiration to the manipulation of money and other material assets. Not one for half-way measures, so guard against those obsessional tangents which can dissipate your energies, leaving you with nothing but despair. Discipline the power symbolized in your birthday and you will be able to find success in many realms. For example, look at the varied careers of those sharing your birthday: linotype inventor Ottmar Mergenthaler, composer Irving Berlin, singers Alma Gluck and Bidu Sayao, dancer Martha Graham, artist Salvador Dali, comedians Phil Silvers and Mort Sahl and actor Doug McClure.

You are inclined to attract strong emotional experiences which can be as devastating as they may be exciting. Some of the difficulties may arise from your wanting a greater commitment from others than you are willing to give. A desire to retain your personal freedom is not likely to contribute much to your emotional stability. You may have better luck in building a relationship with someone born on January 7, 15, 17, 21; February 19, 26; March 3, 11, 13, 17, 19; April 22, 28; May 7, 9, 13, 15, 20; June 24; July 3, 5, 9, 11, 16, 22; August 20, 27, 28; September 1, 5, 7, 12, 18; October 23, 24; November 1, 3, 8, 14, 21, 22; December 19, 20, 28.

MAY 12 (1 + 2 = 3) 7♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

The numerical three of your birthday adds a dynamic brightness to the mystical introspective qualities implied in your card. A concern for the well-being of others as well as your own material ambitions are likely to contribute to your persistent drive for success.

Compassionate emotional considerations, according to the Jack of Hearts, symbolic of your planetary ruler, Venus, may stimulate you to seek fulfillment in service-oriented activities. The intestinal fortitude implied in this card suggests that you're likely to be a pillar of strength which your family and friends will lean on. Incidentally, this also suggests that you can be quite inflexible; once your mind is made up, you're not inclined to change it. While this can help you accomplish wonders, be careful that this doesn't manifest itself as just plain stubbornness.

Your adventurous nature may feel somewhat restricted by the burdens which Saturn, your decanate ruler, is apt to place on you. As represented by the Two of Hearts, this planetary influence suggests that these burdens are likely to relate to sacrifices required of you by loved ones. Resist the temptation to indulge in self-pity and martyrdom. Happily, you have a mischievous streak which tends to minimize your seriousness and may even cause you to do some rather outrageous things.

Important, as the home is to you, you may find a rewarding career relating to services and products for the home or personal use. If not in decorating, you may find fulfillment for your artistic nature in painting, writing and composing. For this and other examples, you share this birthday with heroic nurse Florence Nightingale, artist Dante Rossetti, composers Jules Massenet and Burt Bacharach, actresses Margaret Rutherford and Millie Perkins, writer Philip Wylie, television commentator Howard K. Smith and baseball's Yogi Berra.

Intuitively feeling that love may be a burden, you may be inclined to keep emotional involvements at the flirtatious level. When you do fall, be careful that your strong emotions don't dominate and smother the object of your affections. Love and friendship may be better with someone born on January 5, 6, 13, 16, 18, 22; February 20, 21; March 1, 2, 9, 12, 14, 18; April 28, 29; May 5, 8, 10, 14, 15; June 24, 25; July 1, 4, 6, 10, 11, 22, 23; August 21, 28; September 2, 6, 7, 18, 19; October 24; November 1, 3, 14, 15, 2 and December 20.

MAY 13 (1 + 3 = 4) 6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

The stoical expression which masks your joys and sorrows also conceals a warm heart. Although not particularly ambitious, your numerical four birthday certainly implies you will do your utmost when turned on by work, project or cause. The latter may arise out of your strong sense of values and justice.

While Venus, your ruling planet softens your diamond edges, especially as represented by the Ten of Hearts, this planetary influence implies that you've got the sparkle that attracts. People gravitate to you, and are extremely important in your scheme of things. So while you may not aspire to fame and renown, your desire to share and to win approval may spark great achievements. In spite of your natural, easy success with people, loneliness may be a haunting specter. Sensitive and intuitive, knowing how to please. And then there are those times when memories of childhood hurts may explode, causing you to behave in the most eccentric and dictatorial manner. Some of these inner frustrations may find release through working with your hands in sculpting, in the garden or with machinery. Your Sun sign also points to the probability of your finding peace of mind, as well as profit, in occupations dealing with the products of the earth such as farming, mining, and in building and selling homes. Your imagination combined with a sensual delight in sound, color and form may encourage you to bring a message through music and writing. For some examples, you share this birthday with early glass manufacturer Henry Stiegel, writers Alphonse Daudet and Daphne du Maurier, composer Sir Arthur Sullivan, boxing champion Joe Louis and singer Stevie Wonder.

Sharing the prizes won through your labors and other endeavors, whether they be great or small, is reflected in the home you create for your family and friends. In spite of this, your decanate ruler Saturn, as symbolized by the Ace of Hearts, suggests you may find it difficult to fulfill your yearning for love. Watch that you do not attract those unworthy of your love and generosity. This may be less likely with someone born on January 3, 6, 7, 19; February 21; March 2, 3, 15, 19; April 29, 30; May 11, 15; June 25, 26; July 7, 11, 23, 24; August 21, 22, 29; September 3, 7, 19, 20; October 24, 31; November 3, 15, 16, 23; December 21, 27.

MAY 14 (1 + 4 = 5) 5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

If anyone should be happy as a "wandering minstrel" or traveling salesman, the double five influence of your card and the numerical five factor of your birthday implies that you are the one. Except for those qualms about security, your love for action suggests that travel and the wide variety of experiences projected as part of your destiny should really turn you on.

With Venus, your ruling planet, represented by the Jack of Clubs, emotional considerations are likely to take a back seat to career and other interests. The aggressive, creative mentality suggested here, along with the discipline learned early in life should help you exploit your talent and intellect. The obstacle to your probable success may be a tendency to get mixed up with those who would distract you from your objectives.

Saturn, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Two of Clubs, indicates that you have a quick mind and tongue, which could get you into arguments as readily as they help you solve problems. It also suggests that the fear of not having enough of the necessities of life may prove a hard taskmaster, driving you to seek security and success. In directing these mental energies into constructive channels, you may produce ideas and products which will benefit others as well as find peace of mind for yourself. An ability to conceal your true feelings suggests that you should be effective in sales or in undercover operations. If it were not for your constant battle with uncertainty, your straight face might even make you a good gambler. Routine occupations are taboo, you need work and interests which appeal to your free spirit. For some ideas, you share this birthday with artist Thomas Gainsborough, labor reformer Robert Owen, scientist Gabriel Fahrenheit (mercury thermometer), singers Patrice Munsel and Bobby Darin.

Socially, you prefer mentally stimulating activities which fit your ever-changing moods. Not really fickle, but you don't like any emotional fences around you. You might find the love, security and personal freedom you need with someone born on January 7; February 18, 22, 24, 27; March 3, 16, 20, 22; April 20, 23, 30; May 12, 16, 18, 21; June 19, 26, 27; July 8, 12, 14, 17, 24, 25; August 22, 23, 30; September 4, 8, 10, 13, 20, 21; October 26; November 4, 6, 9, 16, 17, 24, 30; December 22.

MAY 15 (1 + 5 = 6) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

The solid, practical attributes suggested by your card and Sun sign are highlighted by a touch of sensitivity from the numerical six factor of your birthday.Capable of success in just about anything, but a tendency to get into ruts may keep you from realizing the advantages available to you.

Obviously, with Venus, your planetary ruler represented by the Eight of Hearts, charm is likely to be one of your strong points. You have what it takes to win friends, constituents and audiences. This along with your natural hard-working ways are likely to win the respect and admiration of your peers and friends. Though well equipped mentally, you would rather gain knowledge through experience than through the discipline of study. Fortunately, your perceptive abilities are likely to be a great help in anything from scientific research to dealing with peole.A strong sense of balance, of right and wrong can add to your effectiveness in the legal profession and occupations that can make good use of your natural diplomatic flair. While not too ambitious, helpful friends and much luck are likely to bring you position and recognition. There also is material power in your birthday, which suggests that you are likely to know and enjoy the good things of life. Since you are rather stubborn and not too receptive to orders, you would be wise to put yourself in a position to give them, or find a solo or star spot in your field. As the following will illustrate this can cover many possibilities. For example, you share this birthday with scientists Metchnikoff and Pierre Curie, former Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, television's Clifton Fadiman, actors Joseph Cotten and James Mason, singers Anna Maria Alberghetti, Trini Lopez and Eddie Arnold.

Fickle in your youth, yet numerically your birthday suggests that matrimony is your natural state. With your decanate ruler Saturn represented by the Queen of Hearts, marriage and close emotional relationships can be challenging but also constructive. You may be more apt to find these positive relationships among those born on January 8, 14, 16, 19, 21; February 17, 19, 23; March 4, 10, 12; May 6, 8, 11, 13, 17; June 28; July 2, 4, 7, 9, 15; August 24, 31; September 3, 5, 9, 22; October 20, 27, 30; November 1, 5, 18; December 23.

MAY 16 (1 + 6 = 7) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

The friendly, extrovert qualities reflected in your card helps to minimize the serious introspective nature suggested by your numerical seven birthday. While you are apt to procrastinate, your perfectionist attitude requires that you do whatever you do, the very best that you can do.

The challenge of the seven is repeated, in the Seven of Hearts, which represents your ruling planet Venus. The emotional force this influence symbolizes is apt to prove a mixed blessing. Professionally it can indicate a dynamic charm, which can win the hearts of the public. Privately, it can too easily indicate emotional disturbances, jealousy, envy, conceit, even betrayal. Perhaps the true challenge here for you is, to sound out the depths of your inner aspirations. The spiritual awareness which you may uncover, may answer your great need for peace and purpose. The blend of your sensitive intellect and perceptive powers can be a significant tool both spiritually and materially. Combined with your ambition, it can be the key to phenomenal success. Your money sense suggests that your fortune can be found in businesses concerned with the handling of money such as banking, investments and merchandising. The ham in you can be equally successful on stage or before the cameras. For a few examples, you share this birthday with the novelist Honore de Balzac, Secretary of State William Seward, Senator Lowell Weicker, actor Henry Fonda, actress Margaret Sullivan orchestra leader Woody Herman and pianist Liberace.

The Jack of Hearts, symbolic of your decanate ruler Saturn, accents your strong need for love. It also suggests that emotional involvements are apt to require many sacrifices. Since disappointment in love, even friendship is a too likely possibilitiy, it is important that you choose lovers and friends very carefully. You might start by looking for someone born on one of the following birthdays. January 4, 9; February 20, 24, 25; March 5, 18, 22; April 20, 21; May 1, 14, 18, 19; June 29; July 10, 14; September 6, 10, 23; October 21, 28; November 7, 19; December 24.

MAY 17 (1 + 7 = 8) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

Your fortune and well-being, according to your card, depends largely on your ability to express yourself through cooperative endeavors. With the power suggested in your numerical eight birthday, you have the necessary latent ingredients to turn marriage and partnerships into truly productive ventures.

Sociable as your ruling planet Venus suggests that you may be, as represented by the Eight of Clubs, this planetary influence implies a preference for social activities with a purpose. So church, clubs and group activities which are constructively oriented are likely to find your active support. While this influence also indicates that you have a good head on your shoulders, fixed attitudes and strong opinions emphasize the importance of supporting your viewpoints with knowledge. An almost paranoid hypersensitivity combined with a strong sense of individuality may prove a serious obstacle to the benefits that you can gain through working closely with others. Pride prods you to work very hard and strive for self-improvement, but it may also cause you to place too much importance on position and prestige. Blessed with a fundamentally good health pattern, so any problems in this area are likely to be due to abuse and neglect. Despite innate fears regarding money, a streak of extravagance suggests the wisdom of having someone else help you manage your finances. Functioning best in the stimulus to be found in working with others, business activities involving groups and public contact may be your key to success. Paint brush or song may provide the peace and profit needed by your sensitive, artistic soul.For some examples, you share this birthday with early artist Sandro Botticelli, King Alfonso XIII of Spain, inventor of vaccination

Edward Jenner, singers Zinka Milanov and Bridget Nilsen, actors Jean Gabin and Dennis Hopper.

With the Ten of Hearts symbolizing your decanate ruler, Saturn, you are likely to be a rather gregarious individual. But marriage, or some close relationship is essential to your personal happiness. You are likely to wither from within without that special companion. In your quest for someone who can fill your romantic bill, you fare better with those who are born on January 10, February 21, 25, 27; March 6, 19; April 21, 23, 26, 28, 29; May 2, 19, 21; June 22, 24, 25, 30; July 15, 17, 20, 22, 23; August 20,21, 30; September 11, 13, 16, 18, 19, 24; October 22, 26, 29; November 7, 9, 12, 14, 15, 20; December 22,25.

MAY 18 (1 + 8 = 9) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

Friendly, forward in fact or fiction, you usually occupy the center stage. Born to excel and lead, yet the prerequisite of perseverance suggested by the numerical nine factor of your birthday may cause you to give up and go fishing. At times the "cosmic urge" symbolized here is apt to surface and encourage interest in more profound expressions.

The desire for wealth and prestige suggested by your card, according to Venus, your ruling planet, will find stiff competition from your need for love and people involvement. As represented by the Five of Hearts, this celestial planet indicates that emotions and aspirations are likely to keep you on the move. Restless, easily bored, your attempts to fulfill that inner unsatisfied longing will bring travel and many changes. Ambitious as you may be, it still is likely to take a real challenge to set you into action. Then you will accept only the challenges that you are sure you can win. Even with your natural caution, failures, circumstances and crazy impulses are apt to require that you rebuild your life several times. Although not fond of details, you have the critical eye and money instinct which can bring success in business. Mentally bright, you enjoy the stimulation of a good debate. Whether it be in the senate, on stage, in the pulpit, at an easel or typewriter, you have the dramatic knack for getting your message across. To prove a point, you share this birthday with writers Bertrand Russell and Richard English, Czar Nicholas II of Russia, pioneer-missionary Sheldon Jackson, architect Walter Gropius, Senator Jacob Javits, film director Frank Capra, composer Meredith Wilson, dancer Margot Fonteyn, singer Perry Como and actor Robert Morse.

Saturn, your decanate ruler, as represented by the Nine of Hearts, suggests that your emotions are likely to present you with heavy challenges. Your intense feelings are likely to keep you looking for the "impossible romantic fantasy," trying over and over again to find the one who can make it come true. In that quest, you might have better luck with someone born on January 6, 11, 22; February 20, 22, 26, 28; March 2, 7, 18, 20; April 22, 24; May 3, 20, 22; July 10, 12, 16, 18; August 27; September 6, 8,12, 14; October 25, 30; November 2, 4, 8, 10, 23; December 21, 26.

MAY 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

Cardwise and numerically fortune smiled upon you when she bestowed you with a crown card and a birthday which numerically suggests that you can lead the pack in just about anything. Of course, this could also prove to be your greatest challenge. With no apparent necessity to prove yourself, you could "blow the whole opportunity."

Although your card places you on top of the mental heap, Venus, your ruling planet, as represented by the Four of Hearts, suggests that emotional considerations are likely to strongly influence your thinking. Physically blessed, as well, but an inclination to overindulge in sex, food, drink and all the goodies of life could be a very real threat to your good fortune, as well as to your well-being. The perspective implied in your potentially superior mind gives you the inside track in coming up with solutions to problems through innovative business ideas.

With your decanate ruler Saturn symbolized by the Eight of Hearts, you obviously have the persuasive charm to inspire trust and win others to your point of view. This influence also suggests that you radiate a healing force which could prove to be a most wonderful asset in the healing professions.

Identified as you are with a crown card, expressions of some type of leadership is the key to the real you. In positions of authority, you demand much from those who work for you, but in return, you also are generous and sincerely concerned about the welfare of others. A natural in the role of boss, but the following illustrate your potential to excel in other areas as well. For example, you share this birthday with opera singer Nellie Melba, inventor-explorer Carl Akeley, entertainer Beatrice Lilly, actor David Hartman, actress Nancy Kwan and Lady Astor.

In love and friendship, you have things pretty much your way. In all probability, there will be no lack of contenders for your affections, but your exclusive nature is likely to allow only a few from the many who fill your life to enter your heart. In efforts to narrow down the field to the most likely prospects, you might start with those born on January 1, 7, 12; February 23, 26, 27, 29; March 3, 8, 21; April 22, 23, 25; May 4, 12, 20, 21; June 19, 21; July 13, 16, 17, 19; August 27; September 9, 12, 13, 15; October 23, 31; November 5, 8, 9, 11, 21; December 27, 30.

MAY 20 (2 + 0 = 2) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

No one should mistake your gentle, unobtrusive manner as a sign of weakness. True, your card and birthday do suggest extreme sensitivity. Numerically, the two of your birthday implies a love of harmony and the need to share your gifts with others.

The intellectual attributes associated with your card are modified by the warm emotional influence of Venus, your planetary ruler. Symbolized by the Five of Clubs, this celestial influence suggests that work, relationships and other interests are likely to be disturbed by your ever-changing moods. Possible upsets may be minimized through much self-discipline and becoming involved in activities which include enough excitement and variety to absorb your restlessness. Capable as you can be with large groups, projects and in expressions of leadership, do not let these endeavors obscure your more subtle genius. The occult factors of your birthday suggest remarkable intuitive faculties, which could prove a tremendous assist to your exceptional mentality in scientific and philosophical research. So almost in spite of your Earth Sun sign, this cerebral potential implies, not by the labor of your hands, but through the expression of your fine mind will you find your true place.

This has been well demonstrated by the scientists, philosophers, writers, politicians who share this birthday with you. For example, you share this birthday with the early Greek philosopher Socrates, philanthropist Stephen Girard, inventor of the microphone Emile Berliner, writers John Stuart Mill, Balzac, Robert Watson and Sigrid Undset, politician Earl Browder, Israel's Moshe Dayan, actor James Stewart, singer Cher, financier John Jacob Astor and First Lady Dolly Madison.

The Seven of Hearts, symbolic of your decanate ruler, Saturn, implies that emotional matters are apt to be somewhat turbulent. Intensely affectionate, yet your passions may be more mental than physical. Generous to a fault with loved ones, but you may jeopardize close relationships through possessive domination. Your uncertain, eccentric emotional attitudes may find easier rapport with someone born on January 2, 12, 13, 14, 19; February 24; March 8, 9, 10, 15, 22; April 20, 21, 26, 29; May 4, 5, 6, 11, 18; June 22, 25, 27; July 1, 2, 7, 14, 20, 23; August 21, 23, 28; September 3, 10, 16, 19, 21; October 24, 29; November 6, 12, 15, 17, 22; December 25, 28.

MAY 21 (2 + 1 = 3) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

The talented, brainy attributes suggested by your card are enhanced by the bright personable quality reflected in your numerical three birthday. Part of your charm is your youthful exuberance. Just do not allow it to minimize your efforts by becoming an expression of audacious immaturity.

Born on the cusp of Taurus and Gemini, you have a wedding of the sensual influence of Venus with the mental attributes of Mercury. With these planets represented by the Seven of Spades and Nine of Diamonds respectively, your more profound thoughts are apt to be disturbed by materialistic considerations. This combination of influences also suggests that you can be very exciting and somewhat willful. No one can honestly accuse you of being dull. Your clever wit and quick repartee probably have saved many a party. Nothing halfway about you, either you are caught up in exalting highs, or indulging in black moods and blinding anger. Decidedly on the nervous side, it is extremely important that you channel your energies into constructive expressions of your many talents and abilities. Your internal conflicts can erupt in temperamental and destructive outbursts.

The most important steps towards taming your power are education and that word, which probably is an anathema to you,"discipline." Cardwise, you are among the best equipped to enjoy the fruits of mental activity. If your gender is feminine, you may find greater fulfillment in replacing procreativity with creativity. Whatever your gender, the record shows that yours is the birthday of artists, writers, musicians and entertainers. For example, you share this birthday with artist Albrecht Durer, writers Alexander Pope and Harold Robbins, Grace Dodge, developer of Y.W.C.A., aircraft pioneer Glenn Curtis, actors Robert Montgomery and Raymond Burr, singers Dennis Day, Fats Waller and Peggy Cass and psychic Peter Hurkos.

Emotional matters are apt to be complicated by jealousy and multiple involvements. So it is apt to take two or more marriages before you know what you want and can make it work. This effort may be helped by choosing someone born on January 3, 7, 15, 22, 23, 27, 31; February 1, 5, 13, 20, 25; March 3, 11, 18, 23, 27; April 1, 9, 16, 21, 25; May 7, 14, 19, 23; June 5, 12, 17, 21; July 3, 10, 15, 19, 31; August 1, 8, 13, 17, 29, 30; September 6, 11, 15, 27, 28; October 4, 9, 13, 25, 26; November 2, 7, 11, 23, 24; December 5, 9, 21, 22.

MAY 22 (Master Number) — 10♣ — TEN OF CLUBS

To have a birthday identified with "success" and "mastery" may be almost too much of a good thing. The challenge to be a superperson may be more than you want to try and live up to. So you may be tempted to coast along, getting by on your natural brightness, never recognizing the possibilities available to you.

The early years may bring difficulties with parents, requiring you to find your own strength. Fortunately, born on the cusp, you have the positive, King of Spades symbolic of Venus and a practical influence of the Eight of Diamonds, representative of your co-ruling planet Mercury to help you find the way. The push suggested in this influence may prod you into developing the potential suggested in your birthday. It may also contribute to the quarrel between material ambitions and a mind-boggling awareness which may intrigue you to seek a more profound expression. Watch that this conflict does not cause you to fail in both the sublime and mundane. If you choose to follow a secular path, a sincere effort on your part should be able to find success in almost any field.

Although an individualist, indications are that you have much to gain through cooperative endeavors and activities which involve you with people. If you choose to accept the responsibility to develop the tremendous perspective symbolized in your day, your efforts may uncover your hidden genius. If not involved with a career, it is very important that you find some expression of your great potential, otherwise, you may have psychological repercussions. Your star is apt to shine the brightest in the creative-mental realms where you can find successful expression in drama, music and writing. For example, you share this birthday with composer Richard Wagner, poet Francoise Sagan, novelist Arthur Conan Doyle, and actor Lawrence Olivier.

In love, marriage and close relationships, your dynamic personality may be more of a hazard than a help. While you can be a wonderful lover and parent, it is difficult for a superbeing to scale down to mere mortals. This frustration may cause erratic behavior, excesses in drink and drugs, which can bring you down from your Olympian heights. You may come closer to finding your match with someone born on January 1, 8, 9, 18, 26; February 6, 7, 16, 24, March 4, 5, 14, 22, 28; April 3, 12, 20, 26; May 1, 10, 18, 24, 31; June 8, 16, 22, 29; July 6, 14, 20, 27, 31; August 4, 12, 18, 25, 29, 31; September 2, 10, 16, 23, 27, 29; October 8, 14, 21, 25, 27; December 4, 10, 17, 21, 23.

MAY 23 (2 + 3 = 5) — 9♣ — NINE OF CLUBS

The "universal" quality of your nine card implies a great capacity for living, but you may have to check a reluctance to direct that capacity into practical channels. Numerically, your birthday emphasizes versatility and implies that restlessness is likely to propel you into all sorts of adventures, travel and changes.

Mercury, your ruling planet, highlights your mental potential and, as represented by the Nine of Spades, your deep insight. It also suggests that early frustrations may encourage a worrysome negativity and a tendency to be too easily discouraged. Well equipped in the brain department, but the pain of thinking may cause you to pursue activities which do not require much mental exercise. As you can be quite outspoken, this can be unfortunate as you may fail to support your strong opinions with facts. Endowed with a certain physical vigor, you are likely to enjoy demonstrating your prowess in sports. You may give the impression of being lazy, but the truth is more likely to be that you are not easily motivated. Almost in spite of yourself, whatever you do, designing a house, appearing before the cameras or playing a game of tennis, you can excel. Yet if someone recognizes your ability, you are likely to depreciate its importance. Happily, this is overlooked by those who appreciate what you have to offer. Though you do have a lucky streak, gambling and speculative ventures are not really for you. Your luck is to be found in the persistent development of your natural gifts. To illustrate, you share this birthday with botanist Carl Linnaeus, cooking expert Fannie Farmer, actors Douglas Fairbanks Senior and Herbert Marshall, musician Artie Shaw, singer Rosemary Clooney, actress Joan Collins and tennis star John Newcomb.

Love and a home base are essential to your happiness. So you are likely to make all sorts of compromises to achieve emotional security. Once accomplished, difficulties are apt to arise over your impatience and the reluctance to adjust to the restrictions of marriage. Your peculiar needs may be more understood by someone born on January 27, 29; February 4, 7, 12; March 23, 25, 29, 31; April 3, 8, 21; May 21, 25, 27, 30; June 4, 17, 19, 23; July 23, 26; August 13, 15, 19, 21, 24; September 22, 30; October 9, 11, 15, 17, 20; November 26; December 5, 7, 11, 13, 16, 24, 29.

8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

Energy and brainpower merge in your birthday to produce an exciting mental-physical force. One which can inspire and build, or if short-circuited by erratic temperament, destroy. Hopefully, the sensitivity revealed in the numerical six factor of your birthday will stabilize this vitality and direct it into productive channels.

Mercury, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Six of Diamonds, suggests a strong sense of justice, with a compelling desire to set things right. Though tinged with a touch of "self righteousness," your efforts are likely to stimulate a higher awareness. A great curiosity about life and all its aspects may tempt you to scatter your energies in all directions. While your investigations will eventually contribute to your productive expressions, it may take years before you decide what you really want to do. You have the talents, brain and strength, the real question is do you have the patience to develop your potential.

Naturally lucky, impatience is apt to cause you to push this asset at the expense of neglecting your true possibilities. Routine occupations and activities are not favored by your nervous temperament. So when choosing a job or course of action, look for something which will provide the opportunity for a variety of experiences and action. The restless gypsy in you thrives on people contact and travel. A great talker, you can be a spellbinder as a politician, preacher, teacher and salesman. For example, you share this birthday with Queen Victoria, inventor George Washington Carver, statesmen Jan Marat and Jan Christian Smuts, minister Harry Emerson Fosdick, writer Arthur Pinero, sculptor Archipenko, musician Bob Dylan and Elsa Maxwell.

Loaded with charm, yet an invisible semi-barrier seems to separate you from even those you love. The least bit of opposition is likely to turn you off. When it comes to matters of the heart, companionship is likely to win over romance. You may find your unique emotional needs more easily realized with individuals born on January 25, 28, 30; February 8, 15; March 21, 24, 26, 30; April 4, 11, 19; May 20, 22, 26; June 7, 15, 18, 20; July 22; August 5, 11, 14, 16, 20; October 7, 10, 12, 16; November 27; December 3, 6, 8, 12.

MAY 25 (2 + 5 = 7)

7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

A potential for profound inspiration is suggested by the double seven influence of your card and birthday. But the tremendous vision and reasoning power symbolized here may be somewhat jeopardized by an inherent skepticism and doubt.

Mercury, your ruling planet as represented by the Five of Diamonds implies a quick, restless, curious mind, seeking everywhere for answers and yet almost too impatient to listen. Your quest for knowledge and experience will prod you to travel and participate in a wide variety of diverse activities. All of which add to your natural skill with words in writing and conversation. The glib personality you present to the world will be a mask concealing a worrisome nature. If these mental quandaries do not drive you to drink, they may spur you to look for answers in religion, philosophy, science and humanitarian interests. The latter may find expression in community and political efforts and bring improvements and social reforms.

Destiny seems to saddle you with the burdens of others, if not through the family, then probably on a larger scale. In this light, the legal and medical professions may hold a sort of fulfillment. Though it may try your Gemini patience, writing may not only be an entree to your fortune, but it may also be good therapy for your nervous mental aggravations. Speculative ventures may appeal to your lack of patience and desire for quick solutions, but your luck is really to be found through development of your talents and intellectual powers. This is well demonstrated by the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are three writers Ralph Waldo Emerson, Walter Durante and Bennett Cerf, missionary-statesman John Mott, aircraft scientist Igor Sikorsky, President Tito of Yugoslavia, prizefighter Gene Tunney, actress Jeanne Crain, singers Beverly Sills and Leslie Uggams.

A poetic or musical approach may turn you on as fast as "hearts and flowers." Sharing intellectual, artistic interests and other activities are apt to be just as important to you as romantic games. You may be able to find a more successful blending of these qualities with someone born on January 31; February 9, 16, March 27, 31; April 5, 12; May 23, 27; June 1, 8, 21; July 23; August 4, 17, 21; October 13, 17; November 28; December 9, 13, 26.

MAY 26 (2 + 6 = 8)

6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

You do not crave attention, but the natural charm suggested by your card will probably draw it to you. Not really ambitious, but the "lucky- power" implied numerically in your birthday should help you to climb to the top of your personal mountain.

Both your card and guiding planet Mercury suggest no lack in the brain department. But with your ruling planet represented by the Six of Spades, you are not particularly anxious to show how smart you are. A slow start in life will probably linger as an easygoing manner, which may become one of your trade marks. Fundamentally honest, intrigue is just not your game. If you feel it, you say it. Not inclined to be malicious, so if your remarks hurt anyone, it is accidental. Conversationally you can more than hold your own in any crowd. Content with your lot, except on those occasions when your Gemini restlessness rebels at the seeming monotony of it all. There is real danger that your satisfaction with the status-quo may cause you to be somewhat superficial, concerned only with trivia. This can be unfortunate, in that you will miss the sublime possibilities to be gained by tapping the intuitive awareness symbolized in your card. Hopefully, a curious, idealistic streak may prod you to look for some real answers.

Symbolically you show a potential for success in writing, teaching and business, especially those involved in handling money. As the following well demonstrate, you certainly should consider your talent possibilities, especially relating to the entertainment world. For example, you share this birthday with Queen Mary III of England, writers Alexander Pushkin and Lady Montagu, banker Lawrence Rockefeller, singers Al Jolson and Peggy Lee, actors Paul Lucas, John Wayne, Robert Morley and James Arness.

The social-romantic arena is one place in which you are second to none. Even when your choice is not wisest, you are inclined to make the most of a commitment. You might improve your chances for emotional success with someone born on January 25; February 10. 17; March 21, 28, 31; April 6, 13, 19; May 24, 27, 28, 30; June 2, 9, 15, 22; July 23, 24, 26, 29; August 5, 18, 21, 22, 24; September 22, 25, 28; October 1, 7, 14, 17, 18, 20, 23; November 21, 24, 29; December 3, 10, 13, 14, 16, 19, 22.

MAY 27 (2 + 7 = 9) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

The curious, restless charm suggested by your card is apt to bring many involvements and keep you on the move. Happily a sense of universality combined with a natural diplomatic flair implied numerically in your birthday is likely to open doors, making you welcome wherever you go.

Mercury, ruler of both your Sun sign and decanate, highlights your conversational skill at getting your point across through your bright repartee. As this planetary influence is represented by the Three of Diamonds money and material considerations are apt to be prime motivating factors behind your decisions and actions. In your attempts to achieve that secure haven, you are likely to experience some serious setbacks. Luckily, not one to accept defeat, you keep climbing out of those valleys through pluck and guts. Eventually your struggles should bring considerable success and recognition. In your middle years there is also a strong probability of considerable material affluence.

A major asset in your success with the public is your quick insight into people. This should serve you beautifully as a salesman, performer and politician. You have a less apparent quiet introspective side, which combined with your keen mind could turn those private moments into productive expressions in writing. While concentration may pose a problem, your strong willpower should be able to control your wandering mind. If you need any inspiration as to what you might accomplish, consider the following who share this birthday with you. Wild Bill Hickok, Vice President Hubert Humphrey, authors Dashill Hammett Charles Adams, Arnold Bennett, Rachel Carson and Julia Howe, dancer Isadora Duncan, artist Rouault, actor Vincent Price, golf pro Sam Snead and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

Although you are very interested in what makes others tick, regarding your personal life, you are the very acme of secrecy. Your quick temper and inclination to jealousy could minimize some of the terrific advantages won by your delightful personality. You may find greater success in love and friendship with somone born on January 20, 21, 25, 28, 31; February 11, 18; March 21, 24, 27, 29, 30; April7, 14, 19, 22; May 20, 23, 25, 26, 29; June

3, 10, 11, 15, 18, 23, 24; July 21, 22, 25; August 6, 7, 11, 14, 17, 19, 20, 23; September 21, 28; October 2, 3, 7, 10, 13, 15, 16, 19; November 24, 30; December 3, 6, 9, 11, 15, 22.

MAY 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 4♣ FOUR OF CLUBS

The tranquility associated with your card is likely to be disturbed by an underlying restless desire to be involved in some type of action. With the power and success symbolized numerically in your birthday, these energies constructively channeled could make your birthday one of the luckiest of all.

A double impact from Mercury, which is both your planetary and decanate ruler, accents your quick and perceptive mind. As represented by the Two of Diamonds, this planetary influence suggests that your thoughts and actions could be worth money. It also emphasizes the importance of not allowing your strong, independent nature to interfere with the advantages to be gained through working and sharing your fortunes with others. The fine physique and agility suggested in your cards indicate that sports could prove to be a healthy and profitable outlet for your nervous energies.

If an exciting and eventful life is what you desire, you picked the right day to be born. Actually, at times the pace may become so fast, that there is real danger of your skipping superficially from one thing to another, never really involving yourself with anything of substance. This may be an attempt to escape from an overly sensitive, vulnerable you hidden under a "devil-may-care" facade. The one who can write beautiful poetry and make sweet music. And when your impatience does not get in the way, you also are apt to have exceptional business judgment and the ability to organize and give inspired leadership. To illustrate, you share this birthday with statesmen William Pitt and Edvard Benes, poet Thomas Moore, violinist Leopold Auer, artist Carl Larsson, zoologist Jean Agassiz, author Ian Flemming, sports stars James Thorpe and Jerry West and actress Carroll Baker.

In love you make your own rules. In spite of attempts at a casual life-style, watch an inclination to be too easily slighted, to hold grudges. A strong social-party instinct may tempt you to play games rather than run the risk of intense emotional commitments. But when you do commit yourself, you will probably make every effort to build a lasting relationship. You may find this easier with someone born on January 21; February 1, 2, 6, 9, 12; March 30; April 5, 8, 15; May 26, 30; June 1, 3, 11; July 22, 26; August 7, 20, 24; September 22, 29; October 3, 16,20; November 25, 30; December 12, 16, 23.

MAY 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) 3♣ THREE OF CLUBS

The bright, personable idealist reflected in your card will probably have to struggle with indecision, even weakness in an attempt to fulfill the great promise of this birthday. Undoubtedly, you will have to apply some of the discipline implied in your master number birthday before you can fully realize your potential.

These disciplines should do much to minimize the quandaries regarding work and purpose suggested in the Three of Spades, which represents your planetary ruler Mercury. You want to go everyplace and try everything; you may have to watch that your many interests do not diffuse your efforts. Perhaps the only satisfactory solution is for you to become so super-organized, that you will be able to do all the things which intrigue your fancy. Usually you only show the world your charming witty side, doing such a good job of concealing the real you, that you may even deceive yourself. But the cards suggest a depth, which may surprise even those who think they know you well.

Though good fortune appears to smile upon you, secret sorrows are also shown. You may find it difficult to talk about anything personal of a serious vein. Master the power implied in your birthday, and combine it with the versatile expression suggested in your card and you should find success just about wherever you look for it. Your best bet is likely to be found in some public role, and in something which will probably include a great deal of action and travel. To more clearly illustrate your possibilities, you share this birthday with Statesmen Patrick Henry and President John F. Kennedy, writer Gilbert Chesterton, philosopher Oswald Spengler, composers Isaac Albeniz and Erich Korngold, actress Beatrice Lillie and comedian Bob Hope.

A magnetic charm is likely to bring you a lot of romantic activity, and also some heartaches. Verbal as you can be, when it comes to true love, your tongue may not be so glib. You may find love, even conversation easier with someone born on January 22, 28; February 10, 13, 20; March 24, 31; April 6, 9, 16, 22; May 20, 27, 31; June 2, 5, 12, 18; July 23, 27, 29; August 1, 8, 14, 21; September 23, 25, 28; October 4, 10, 17, 21, 23; November 21, 24, 27; December 6, 13, 17, 19, 22.

MAY 30 (3 + 0 = 3) 2♣ TWO OF CLUBS

The strong urge for self-expression suggested by your birthday is apt to propel you into the limelight. You have the charm, talent, all the attributes for success, but doubt and suspicion could be the Joker in your deck.

Leadership and the ability to excel are emphasized by the King of Clubs, which symbolizes your ruling planet, Mercury. This combination of card and planet suggests that your imaginative potential is among the very best. Guard against the temptation to use this power to manipulate people and facts. Being somewhat touchy, you may have to watch that you do not waste your mental energies in useless arguments. This extreme sensitivity, which can put magic into the expression of your talents, unfortunately can provoke erratic and destructive moods. When things are going well, you can be the most magnanimous, but almost without reason, your mood can switch drastically and you end up hiding in a shell.

This tendency to vacillate can prove to be one of your most costly indulgences. Like a pendulum, you are apt to swing from super-highs to desperate lows. When on top, resist the inclination to become lazy, do not forget that lack of incentive can set you off on another down-swing. Whether it be for work or just plain escape, travel is likely to be one of your favorite tonics. You also flourish on people related activities, so do not hide away in some isolated office or cave. Both your personality and gift of gab suggest that you give a good account of yourself in sales, politics and show business. For example, you share this birthday with politician James Farley, bandleaders Ben Bernie and Benny Goodman, sculptor James MacGillivray, newscaster Frank Blair, singer George London and actors Douglas Fowley and Clint Walker.

As a Two of Clubs, companionship is essential, but preoccupation with self-interests can lose the battles won by your charms. Flirtation and fantasy are likely to lead you through a series of romantic adventures. When you are ready to get serious, you might shorten that quest for someone who can live up to your dream of love by looking for someone born on January 23, 31; February 4, 14, 16; March 27, 30; April 10, 12, 17; May 23, 26, 28; June 6, 8, 13, 21; July 22, 24, 28, 30; August 2, 4, 9, 20, 22; September 24, 26; October 5, 13, 16, 18, 22, 24; November 22; December 1, 9, 12, 14, 18, 20.

MAY 31 (3 + 1 = 4) A♣ ACE OF CLUBS

An inspiration for elusive ideals and the practical wherewithal to make them all come true are implied in your card and the practical numerical four of your birthday. When you reach for those heights, remember to keep your feet firmly planted in reality.

Both Mercury and the Queen of Clubs, which symbolizes your ruling planet, indicate that your prime attribute is your analytical mind. It also suggests a knack for handling volumes of details and facts. Just try to keep enough variety in your work as boredom may cause you to become a restless wanderer in fact and in daydreams. Inherently constructive, you want to build and make improvements for others as well as for yourself. This makes you a natural for service-oriented careers. You are also likely to get calls for assistance from family and friends who appreciate your sympathetic nature. The security found in love and in your own home are extremely important but you have a streak of non-conformity that "hears a different drummer." A willingness to work very hard for your objectives combined with a touch of luck can make some seemingly impossible things come true for you.

Usually on the bright, aggressively positive side, but you do have spells of indulgence in self-deprecation and despondency. Fortunately, ambition will not allow you to stay down for long or in situations which do not contribute to your progress. A way with words in speech and writing along with an attractive and provocative personality suggests that you are at your best in people-related occupations and activities. To illustrate, you share this birthday with Pope Pius XI, Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, poet Walt Whitman, Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, Prince Rainier of Monaco, actors Don Ameche and Clint Eastwood and football star Joe Namath.

Witty and eloquent except when it comes to love. The repression of your strong feelings is apt to make you tongue-tied. Rather than suffer, you may choose to play social romantic games. But when you finally commit your heart, that cold, mental facade melts under your affectionate nature. You might find this easier to realize with someone born on January 24, 30; February 2, 8; March 26; April 4, 18; May 22, 29; June 14, 20; July 25, 31; August 10, 16, 23; September 27; October 6, 12; November 23; December 2, 8, 15, 21.

JUNE 1 (1 = 1) — 3♠ — THREE OF SPADES

Your number one birthday clearly implies that you want to be up front. Luckily, your card suggests that you have the personable charms to put you there. The real challenge may involve making up your mind as how you want to get there. If you are not careful you could all too easily end up with a lot of incomplete projects and unfulfilled relationships.

Personal magnetism plus, according to the Nine of Hearts, symbolic of your ruling planet Mercury, is your prime asset for getting your message across. You may find that this is like sitting on an emotional powder keg, one which can bring as many heartaches and disappointments as triumphs. Your nervous energy is likely to keep you on the go, meeting new people, bringing new experiences and probably never truly quenching your thirst for that elusive unknown objective. Your virtues are likely to include a strong sense of justice and honesty: vices are likely to include a lack of self-discipline and a tendency to scatter your energies through too many interests. Being extremely sensitive, it is difficult for you to accept advice or criticism. You can lead, but it had better be in something which requires much zeal and action, otherwise you are apt to lose interest.

Though you aspire for a place in the limelight, your efforts towards this end may suffer from too much modesty. Even so, it is interesting to note how many of the following notables who share this birthday with you have found it through some type of theatrical expression. For example, you share this birthday with actresses Molly Picon and Marilyn Monroe, actors Clive Brooks, Werner Janssen, Andy Griffith and Pat Boone, also Mormon leader Brigham Young, explorer Jacques Marquette, writer John Masefield and the composer Michael Glinka.

With Venus as your decanate ruler,you may be ensnared in your own romantic web. As this planet is represented by the Seven of Clubs, look before you fall in love, as you could find love more worry than pleasure. No clinging vines for you, rather, you need someone with enough mystique to appeal to your love of fantasy. You might find that someone born on January 26; February 2, 5, 7, 11; March 22, 29; April 1, 3, 7, 20; May 25, 28; June 3, 16, 23; July 21, 24; August 12, 19, 22; September 29; October 8, 15, 18; November 25, 28; December 4, 11, 14.

JUNE 2 (2 = 2) — 2♠ — TWO OF SPADES

Cooperative endeavors, partnerships and the sharing of your work and other interests are strongly emphasized by the two quality of both your card and birthday. Fears regarding close involvements may prove to be a serious obstacle to the benefits you can gain through combining your forces with others.

Mercury, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Eight of Hearts, certainly implies that you have the charm and conversational proficiency to win friends and confidences.

Regarding the latter, resist the temptation to abuse this power. Not only for moral reasons, but because the cards clearly indicate that you will "reap what you sow." Your ability to see both sides of a question or problem can make you effective in mediating differences and bringing harmony. Be it poetry, inventing or "wheeling and dealing," your vivid imagination could prove to be your most valuable tool. Sensitive as you are, choose your environments carefully, as your surroundings can affect your health. Responsive as you are to music and color suggests that they could prove to be your best therapies.

A sixth-sense about money and work is implied by the Six of Clubs, symbolic of Venus your planetary ruler. This along with an inherent thoroughness in handling details suggests that banking, accounting, research and writing may prove to be "your stack of chips." As you draw energy from people contact, dealing directly with the public or supplying them with gadgets, sermons and entertainment could prove most rewarding. For a few other ideas, you share this birthday with John III Sobieski — King of Poland, King Constantine of Greece, Pope Pius X, inventor George Henry Corliss, writer Samuel Harwick, Composer Sir Edward Elgar, Governor Grover Whalan, columist Hedda Hopper and actors Johnny Weissmuller and Stacy Keach.

A hunger for affection and a domestic streak suggest that marriage should be high on your list of priorities. A capricious emotional nature could jeopardize your romantic happiness by encouraging you to flit from conquest to conquest. Look to your own creative powers for that special magic which can make your marriage exciting. This may be easier with someone born on January 27, 28; February 8, 12; March 23, 24, 30; May 26, 29; June 4, 17, 18; July 22, 25, 29; August 13, 14, 20, 23; September 25; October 9, 10, 16, 19, 23; November 27, 29; December 5, 6, 12, 15, 19.

JUNE 3 (3 = 3) A♠ ACE OF SPADES

The strong intuitive hunches implied in your card may find voice through the compelling urge for expression suggested by your number three birthday. Personable, yet your mystical aspirations in headlong conflict with your mundane desires may cause you to be as much of an enigma to yourself, as you are likely to be to others.

Due to the Seven of Hearts, which represents your ruling planet Mercury, social-sexual-curiosity mingle with spiritual yearnings. This combination of mental and emotional influences also indicate a colorful, dramatic charm which could enhance your powers of communication. All too easily involved in bizarre situations, your magnetism is likely to prove a mixed blessing. Liquor, especially drugs can trigger your sensitive mechanism with disastrous results. Restless, so you are inclined to travel, seeking new people and new experiences. Watch that this does not become an obsession and a means of avoiding reality. Almost in spite of your fine physical endowments, you are reluctant to become involved with manual labor. Unfortunately you are also inclined to resist educational efforts. But for you, the development of mental discipline is an absolute must, not only to overcome your inner confusion, but also as a means to tap your inherent psychic powers. In this respect, writing and research could be helpful and prove a rewarding outlet for your perceptive abilities. Intensely emotional, your strong need for self-expression could find it in music and drama. For this and other examples you share this birthday with Jefferson Davis,President of the Confederacy, two kings, Frederick VIII of Denmark and George V of England, singer Roland Hayes, actors Maurice Evans and Tony Curtis, actress Paulette Goddard and writer Allen Ginsburg.

With your decanate ruler Venus symbolized by the Seven of Diamonds, emotional involvements are likely to be expensive. Strange romantic situations are likely to result from your intense passions. As these can be most devastating, you might minimize this danger by using your intuitive insight and looking for someone born on January 20 27, 29; February 9, 13, 15, 18; March 23, 24, 31; April 5, 9, 11, 14, 21, 22; May 20, 27; June 1, 5, 7, 19, 20; July 23, 29, 30; August 1, 3, 6, 13, 14, 21; September 25, 26, October 2, 9, 17, 23, 24; November 21, 22; December 5, 13, 19, 20.

JUNE 4 (4 = 4) K♦ KING OF DIAMONDS

Although your birthday makes you a King, numerically it suggests that you will probably have to earn some of the good fortune that goes with it. Since you are likely to be gifted with talent and other abilities, this should be no great problem. A lack of incentive may actually prove to be your greatest obstacle to success.

The easy-going attitude encouraged by the Six of Hearts, representative of your ruling planet, Mercury, is not likely to add much push to your efforts. A clever, persuasive conversationalist, you may try to gain your ends through your gift of gab. Lucky as you tend to be, you may try to make it in speculative enterprises. While you can be a winner, Kings make lazy gamblers, so in the long run games of chance are likely to prove disastrous. While you abhor discipline, you will work very hard when you are really turned on to an interest or job. If you are truly going to make the most of the wonderful possibilities available to you, education is most essential to polish up your natural assets. A study in contrasts, outwardly you tend to reflect an almost cocky confidence, yet inwardly so surprisingly sensitive that you may have to retreat to regain your composure. If anyone mistakes those introspective moments as signs of weakness, they are apt to find how stubborn you can be. There is not much chance of anyone riding rough shod over you.

Venus, your decanate ruler as symbolized by the Four of Clubs,suggests that you are a social–intellectual. It also implies that you should be particularly successful in businesses and activities dealing with the public. For some examples, you share this birthday with King George the III of England, actresses Alla Nazimova and Rosalind Russell, singers Robert Merrill and Morgana King, and commentator Charles Collingwood.

In both love and business, success with people is almost a foregone conclusion. Don't spoil this advantage by arbitrary attitudes. Demonstration of your affections may be difficult, but you may find it easier to say "I love you" to someone born on January 28, 31; February 1, 8, 10, 14, 16; March 24, 27; April 4, 6, 10, 12, 22; May 20, 23, 28, 31; June 2, 6, 18, 21; July 24; August 4, 14, 17, 22; September 20, 23; October 10, 13, 18, 21; November 28; December 6, 9, 14, 17.

JUNE 5 (5 = 5) Q♦ QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

If anyone appreciates power and the better things of life, your royal Diamond card implies that you are the one. Numerically your birthday indicates that you are likely to have many possible paths through which you can achieve the prestige so important to you. Do not allow your opportunities to be diffused through uncertainty.

Mercury, your ruling planet, as represented by the Five of Hearts, warns that your endeavors may suffer from an inclination to vacillate and to indulge in emotional distractions. Fortunately, you are not likely to let anyone or anything stand in your way for long.All that glitters has strong appeal to you, that you will probably have to learn the value of money through bitter experience. When you are able to apply the wisdom gained through these experiences, and discipline your extravagant spirit, you should be able to provide very well for yourself and your loved ones. Whether it be buying clothes, jewelry or stocks and real estate, your shrewd bargaining ability and manipulative skills are likely to bring you out ahead. In planning your life, or choosing an occupation, keep in mind your inherent restlessness. Work and interests which will supply you with a wide variety of experiences and the opportunity to get around are more likely to bring out the best that is in you. For some ideas and inspiration, you share this birthday with scientist Helen Lucretia, economist Adam Smith, anthropologist Ruth Benedict, Spanish poet Federico Garcia Lorca, composer Igor Stravinsky, Madam Chiang Kai Chek and actor Bill Boyd.

It is in the realm of social activity that you are likely to come closest to relaxing your normal tense nature. In your efforts to relax, be particularly guarded in the use of liquor, as your sensitivity suggests that you can suffer serious repercussion. Cool as you may appear to strangers, you are likely to make great sacrifices for loved ones. Vulnerable as you are to disappointment in people, it is especially important that you choose your romantic partners wisely and resist the tendency to indulge in jealousy and changeability. You may feel a greater desire to remain true to someone born on January 29; February 11, 15, 17; March 25; April 7, 11, 13; May 21, 29; June 3, 7, 9, 19; July 25, 28; August 3, 5, 15, 23; September 24, 28; October 1, 11, 19, 22; November 20, 24; December 7, 15, 18, 22.

JUNE 6 (6 = 6) J♦ JACK OF DIAMONDS

The eager–creativity symbolized in your card is enhanced by the sensual-sensitivity of your number six birthday. Whether you use this power in the arts, politics or to promote a product or project, do not let your zeal "try to put the cart before the horse."

A charming, diplomatic gift of gab is suggested by the Four of Hearts, symbolic of your ruling planet Mercury. Be it through a symphony, poem or sales pitch, you should find very little resistance to your message. Not one for formal schooling, so it is fortunate that you are able to acquire knowledge you need through observation and experience. Full of ideas and inspirations, but you would be wise to find someone else to take care of details.

Venus, your decanate ruler as symbolized by the Four of Diamonds, suggests that money and material considerations vie with idealism as prime factors. Born under a lucky star, no matter how rough it gets, you seem to get by. This may prove a mixed blessing in that it may encourage you to press this natural luck to the point of becoming a gambler. If you decide not to use your talents for painting and writing masterpieces, maybe you would prefer to exploit your possibilities in occupations and activities which bring you in contact with the public. You have also the natural fervor to excel in the pulpit, podium or stage. For example, you share this birthday with patriot Nathan Hale, the Czarina of Russia, artists Valasquez and John Trumbull, writers Pierre Corneille, Thomas Mann and Pushkin, explorer Robert Scott, composer Aram Khachaturian, physician Paul Dudley White, actor Walter Abel and the Dalai Lama.

A light hearted optimist, you are not likely to burden others with your problems.There is nothing average about you including your love life. The inclination to be somewhat bizarre is likely not only to affect what you wear and the decor of your home, but also your lovemaking. Traditional modes seem to be inadequate for your intense, imaginative feelings. You might have better luck in matching your eccentricities with someone born on January 20, 23; February 12, 16, 18; April 8, 12, 14, 17; May 30, June 4, 8, 13; July 26; August 4, 5, 9; September 29; October 2, 5, 20; November 25; December 1, 4, 16.

JUNE 7 (7 = 7) 10♦ TEN OF DIAMONDS

According to your Diamond card, all that glitters is your realm. So any sincere effort should find you that proverbial "pot of gold." One possible catch—the introspective influence implied numerically in your birthday may conflict with your ambitious, albeit carefree, attitude, leaving you holding a superficial, skeptical, do-nothing bag.

The Eight of Spades, which represents your ruling planet Mercury, suggests that part of your good fortune is due to your tremendous physical vitality. Watch the inclination to minimize this advantage through an over-indulgence in everything from food, drink, sex and worry. A lack of self-discipline combined with impatience and stubborn procrastination may cause you to appear lazy, but once triggered into action, you are likely to work long hours without sparing yourself or anyone else.

Numerically, your card indicates that you require a certain amount of independence. Subordinate positions and equal partnerships are not likely to do much for your morale. In that quest for the success symbolized in your card, you have many possibilities through which you can achieve the fame and fortune so important to you. Among them, a natural money sense, which can win big for you in financial enterprises or help you translate your talents into profit. For a few ideas, you share this birthday with Empress Carlotta of Mexico, artist Paul Gaugin, fashion plate Beau Brummell, prize fighter James Braddock, actress Jessica Tandy, singers Dolores Gray and Tom Jones.

A gregarious nature with a strong compulsion for love is suggested by the Ace of Hearts, symbolic of Venus, your decanate ruler. While your light hearted romantic ventures should find no lack of prospects, your more serious emotional relationships are likely to prove challenging. Difficulties may arise out of a quest for that elusive romantic something, which no one can live up to. But you may come pretty close in someone born on February 5, 8, 11, 13, 17; March 28; April 1, 4, 7, 9, 15; May 24; June 3, 5, 9, 22; July 20, 30; August 1, 5, 18; September 26; October 1, 14, 24; November 22; December 10, 20, 30.

JUNE 8 (8 = 8) — 9♦ — NINE OF DIAMONDS

A cosmic awareness touches the materiality of your Diamond card suggesting the potential of inspired genius. Though nervous tension may be a hazard from trying to realize this profound possibility, numerically your birthday suggests that you do have the power to turn your visions into tangible expression.

Spiritual overtones to your thinking are implied by the Seven of Spades, symbolic of your ruling planet, Mercury. Idealistic and constructive as this influence can be, much discipline will be needed to keep your thought from deteriorating into negative and worrisome attitudes. As these can have a very detrimental influence on your health, it is important that you learn mental control. Scheduling times for relaxation in forest glades, by mountain lakes and under clear desert skies could prove your best medicine.

Occurring in the decanate of Gemini governed by Venus, your birthday suggests that your materialistic urges may be tempered by an artistic soul. Since this planetary influence is represented by the Two of Clubs, intellectual endeavors such as writing and composing — even occult research may appeal to you. The perceptive powers hidden in your birthday combined with a strong sense of values suggest that you may find success in building, manufacturing and merchandising. Note some of the unique possibilities through which your birthday-mates have found renown and fortune. For example, you share this birthday with that ancient master wizard Cagliastro, composer Robert Schumann, artist Millais, lighthouse builder Robert Stevenson, violin maker Guarnerius, architect Frank Lloyd Wright, astrologer Grant Lewi and actor Robert Preston.

A sense of emotional incompleteness may propel you into marriage and all sorts of unusual emotional arrangements. Important as companionship is to you, guard against jeopardizing relationships by indulging in erratic moods and insensitive remarks. An inclination to become too easily bored suggests that you look for someone who can share intellectual interests with you. You might further improve your chances for building successful relationships by looking for someone born on January 30; February 7, 12, 14, 18; March 26, 29; April 3, 8, 10, 14; May 22, 25, 30; June 4, 6, 10, 20; July 26, 31; August 2, 6, 16, 19; September 27; October 2, 12, 15, 20; November 23, 25; December 8, 11, 16, 21.

JUNE 9 (9 = 9) — 8♦ — EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

The prime threat to the power revealed in your card is the possibility that you may be so hardheaded that you will not accept guidance. If you can realize that self-insistence is not wisdom or strength, you may be able to fully enjoy the tremendous scope of possibilities and fulfillment suggested numerically in your birthday.

Mercury, your ruling planet as represented by the King of Spades, suggests that the responsibility of some type of leadership is likely to seek you out. This influence also suggests a magnanimous idealism, which may motivate you to play a benevolent role. Guard against an inclination to be overly dominant and arbitrary. Since you are likely to swing between peaks of exhultation and valleys of depression, it is fortunate that you are also likely to have a positive spirit, which will not allow you to stay down for long.

Despite the strength you project, you need to surround yourself with individuals who will boost your self-confidence. Personal mastery is essential if you are to truly tap the tremendous possibilities symbolized in your birthday. This discipline should prove especially helpful when fate moves you into those destined positions of authority. Combined with an inherent money-material sixth sense, expressions of leadership in financial endeavors, the legal profession and government service could prove to be areas of significant success. If all this sounds too stuffy, you do have a lighter side. In fact, according to the record, you might even make that fortune writing and making music. To illustrate this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with Peter the Great of Russia, horticulturist Peter Henderson, steam locomotive inventor George Stephenson, writer Bertha Suttner, composer Cole Porter, playwright George Axelrod, musician Fred Waring, newscaster Jerry Dunphy, civil rights leader Roy Wilkins, banker Robert McNamara, actor Robert Cummings and singer Nancy Sinatra.

A personable charm suggested by the Three of Hearts, representative of Venus, your decanate ruler, is likely to be one of your prime assests. Unfortunately, while it can make you a winner with groups and the public, this same influence implies the probability of quandaries in love. You might minimize your emotional uncertainties by looking for someone born on January 21, 23, 28; February 5, 13, 15; March 24, 30; April 1, 9, 11, 15, 17, 22; May 20, 26; June 5, 7, 11, 13, 18; July 29, 30; August 1, 3, 7, 9, 14, 20; September 25, 26; October 3, 5, 10, 16, 23; November 30; December 6, 12, 19, 20.

JUNE 10 (1 + 0 = 1) 7♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

The introspective qualities suggested by your card are likely to conflict with the independent, leadership attributes of your numerical one birthday. There is an aura of success projected by your birthday. Do not minimize the pleasure it can bring by indulging in your proclivity to skepticism and impatience.

A restless discontent, according to the Five of Spades, symbolic of your ruling planet Mercury, may be your prime challenge. Mentally sharp, you should be able to assimilate knowledge readily. Due to the distraction of too many interests, you may find it difficult to retain what you have learned. Curiosity about people and life, plus a desire to be part of the action suggests that you are not likely to waste much time sitting alone at home. While this may constantly prod you to seek new experiences and new involvements, watch that this does not deteriorate in erratic behavior patterns, minimizing the good luck associated with your birthday. You may have to wait, possibly to your middle years, but fortune is likely to eventually smile very abundantly upon you. Though fate will play a strong role in determining your destiny, where you do have a choice, keep these considerations in mind. Occupations and activities which provide people contact and a wide variety of action and travel are likely to be pretty close to your ideal. You are likely to find service-oriented occupations particularly rewarding. And according to the following list of notables who share this birthday with you, you are likely to have a dramatic flair, which could be right at home in the limelight. For example, your birthday mates include composer Josef Kolbrooke, actresses Mrs. Leslie Carter and Judy Garland, actors Sessue Hayakawa and Gardner McKay and Prince Phillip, the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Jack of Hearts, symbolizing your decanate ruler, suggests that behind your cool facade hides a very warm heart. Though many are attracted to you, a certain aloofness may keep most of them at a distance. In this respect, your great need for love may be disturbed by an equally great need for personal freedom. Giving up some of that independence may be one of the many sacrifices which you will have to make for love. This may be easier with someone born on January 23; February 3, 4, 11, 14, 16, 20; March 30, 31; April 7, 10, 12, 16, 17; May 26, 27; June 3, 6, 8, 12, 13; July 22, 23, 30; August 2,4, 8, 9, 20, 21; September 26, October 4, 5, 16, 17, 24; November 22, 28; December 1, 12, 13, 20.

JUNE 11 (Master Number) 6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

An image of subtle-power is suggested by the combination of the sensitive attributes of your card with your master number birthday. While this may just produce a certain shyness or eccentric behavior, constructively channeled the force represented here could be your "key to everything."

With your ruling planet Mercury symbolized by the Four of Spades, you do have the practical, reasoning power to give productive expression to your idealistic concepts. But before these ideas can be shared with others, they will probably have to overcome your inherent reticence to express yourself. Usually on the quiet side, except for those rare occasions when you can be a real chatterbox. As you really are likely to have something important to say, make it a point to develop your ability to articulate your unique perspective. If not in the spoken or written word, the sensual-sensitivity suggested in your card suggests that you might do it through music or painting.

While you tend to be a slow starter, Uranus, your decanate ruler as represented by the Ace of Diamonds, suggests that once you are turned on to an interest or cause, you are inclined to work with an almost obsessive passion to accomplish your objective. Material desires and ambition may crowd your less worldly interests. In this respect, even your mundane concerns should benefit from your intuitive powers. So even if you do not use this insight to explore the more profound realms of consciousness, you could find this perspective a boon to your business efforts, politics and other interests. For some examples, you share this birthday with the first king of Hawaii, Kamehameha, first woman member of congress, suffragist Jeanette Rankin, Russian statesman Bulganin, composer Richard Strauss, writer Ben Jonson, artist John Constable, singer Rise Stevens and actor Chad Everett.

One way or another, it appears that you must be involved romantically. Since your strong feelings are likely to cloud your judgement, it may take many emotional experiments before you find that certain someone who can fill your unusual romantic requirements. You might shorten this quest by looking for someone born on January 23; February 1, 4; March 31; April 1, 13, 17; May 27, 28; July 23, 24, 31; August 5, 9, 21, 22; September 27, 31; October 1, 5, 17, 18; November 23, 26, 29; December 13, 14, 21.

JUNE 12 (1 + 2 = 3) 5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

Cardwise you have a touch of wanderlust which will probably keep you on the move. Fortunately, the numerical essence of your birthday implies a personable quality which will win your friends wherever your restless spirit may take you. Just watch that your versatility does not tempt you to scatter your energies through too many interests.

Symbolized by the Queen of Spades, Mercury, your ruling planet suggests that you may be motivated by an idealistic philosophy which will encourage you to seek ways to help others. Even though a high mechanical aptitude is suggested, you are inclined to prefer mental action to that requiring you to use your hands. Despite an inherent feel for math and money, much of it is likely to slip through your fingers before you gain the knack of hanging on to some of it. You are people-oriented, so avoid anything that tries to stick you away into some cubbyhole by yourself. This, along with a lack of patience to sit still long enough to put your ideas on paper, is likely to minimize a natural talent for writing. Actually since you are more adept at speaking and entertaining, you may have to use this means for getting your ideas across. For other career ideas check the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are statesman Anthony Eden, ornithologist Frank Michler Chapman, bridge builder John Roebling, banker David Rockefeller, actors Jean Hersholt and William Lundigan, actress Uta Hagen and singers Vic Damone and Jim Nabors.

The unpredictable influence of your decanate ruler Uranus is likely to mark your love life. Loyal, and yet you are likely to be tempted to flirt with various emotional possibilities. Though you tend to be mental in your emotional involvements, you can also be quite physical when the occasion requires it. While you enjoy variety in everything including people, your inner being craves emotional security. You just might find what you are looking for with someone born on January 20, 24, 26, 29; February 5, 18; March 20, 22, 25; April 1, 14, 18, 20; May 21, 28, 29; June 10, 14, 16, 19; July 24, 25; August 6, 10, 12, 15, 23; September 28; October 2, 6, 8, 11, 18, 19; November 24, 30; December 2, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22.

JUNE 13 (1 + 3 = 4) — 4♦ — FOUR OF DIAMONDS

Practical determination is suggested by the double four influence of your card and the numerological four quality of your birthday. While this force suggests that you can overcome just about any obstacle, it can also indicate hardheaded stubbornness.

Although Mercury, your planetary ruler, accents your quick mind, as represented by the Two of Spades, it also suggests an aggressive vitality. One which will bring you through the difficult early years, and may even help you to find pleasure and profit through sports. An innate ability to organize suggests that you belong in the driver's seat. A self-starter, just watch in your push to get things done, you do not become too bossy. Identified with one of the most practical material influences symbolized in the cards, your eventual success is a strong probability, and one which can be quite substantial.

Appearances suggest that you are likely to be numbered among the more solid-stable members of the community. With Uranus, your decanate ruler represented by the Ten of Clubs, material considerations have to compete with interests more sublime. It may take years, but this urge may ultimately lead to the study and expression in philosophy and metaphysics. Mundanely, this wider perspective along with your willingness to work very hard should contribute to your material success. This is well demonstrated by the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are William Butler Yeats, composer Carlos Chavez, Statesman-economist Sidney Webb, singer Elizabeth Shumann, sports figures Red Grange, Paavo Nurmi and Don Budge, the Aly Khan, actors Basil Ratbone and Richard Thomas and television's Dave Garroway.

Bright lights and social activities may give love stiff competition. But when you decide to get serious, your charms should find little resistance. Any difficulties that might arise are likely to be due to your inherent inflexibility and reluctance to give affection. You may find this less of a problem with someone born on January 21, 25; February 6, 12, 14, 17, 19; March 21; April 2, 8, 10, 13, 15, 19; May 30; June 4, 6, 9, 11, 15; July 26; August 2, 5, 7, 11, 24; September 22, 29; October 1, 3, 7, 20; November 25, 28; December 3, 16.

JUNE 14 (1 + 4 = 5) — 3♦ — THREE OF DIAMONDS

Numerologically, the versatility suggested by your birthday can provide you with many possible outlets for the urge for "self-expression" symbolized in your card. Do not allow this opportunity of choice to contribute to your basic indecisiveness.

Although Mercury, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Ace of Spades suggests secretiveness, this does not mean that you have nothing to say. Quite to the contrary. Actually, you probably have much to say, but in doing so you are not likely to reveal very much about yourself. Bright and friendly, appearing almost superficial, yet in identifying with this image, you probably are hiding from your own deep thoughts. Occasionally when they do surface, they may bring sudden depressions and sour your outlook. The development of your inherent and philosophical potential could do much to minimize these possible down periods.

Reasoning and intuitive power are underscored by the Nine of Clubs, which represents your decanate ruler Uranus, suggesting a tremendous capacity for research. Unfortunately, thinking may prove such a chore and a source of negativity that you may be reluctant to develop your brain power. Instead, you may prefer to seek careers and activities which depend primarily on personality. Happily, you do have natural gifts in the realm of self-expression which can bring success theatrically, or through selling and other public oriented activities. Observe in the following who share this birthday with you. Note what they have done with its possibilities. Scientist Charles Coulomb, writer Harriet Beecher Stowe, politician Robert LaFollette, magician Carter the Great, singers John McCormack and Burle Ives, photographer Margaret Bourke-White, actress Dorothy McGuire, actor Gene Barry and newscaster John Chancellor.

Due to those uncertainties within yourself, and a proclivity to secretive involvements, love may be the weakest link in your chain. This is not likely to be helped by a tendency to vacillate from a warm charm to an almost hard-hearted coldness. Perhaps your more noble, devoted nature can be inspired and sustained by someone born on January 22, 26; February 2, 7, 20; March 22; April 3, 16, 20; May 31; June 12, 16; July 27, August 8, 12, 25; September 23, 30; October 4, 8, 21; November 26; December 4, 17.

JUNE 15 (1 + 5 = 6) — 2♦ — TWO OF DIAMONDS

A desire for harmony and the joy of sharing the sensual delights of color, form and sound are suggested by the combination of your card and the numerical value of your birthday. This urge may spawn spectacular artistic expressions or an overindulgence in all that life has to offer.

The quiet image which you usually present may be jarred from time to time by the self-determined restlessness projected by the Jack of Spades, symbolic of your ruling planet, Mercury. The creative energy associated with this influence encourages you to check for latent artistic talent. The perceptive, quick mentality also implied here suggests that you can be an able debater, even argumentative, if someone pushes the wrong button. Bold as you may appear at times, in all probability you are quite tender-hearted. It is fortunate that you can learn from observation, as a lazy streak suggests experience, rather than any academic process, is likely to be your teacher.

Material protection and the probability of success are indicated by the Ten of Diamonds, which symbolizes your decanate ruler Uranus. Add this lucky influence to your instinctive way with people, and you could turn a profit from careers involving you with the public. If you need any encouragement to seek your fortune through the arts, note the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are the artists Rembrandt, Malvina Hoffman, Hablot Browne and Andrew Loomis, singers Shuman-Heink and Johanna Gadski and composer Edvard Grieg.

As a two you certainly are not likely to be happy as a loner, but an independent streak combined with a reluctance to accept responsibility may make sharing difficult. Since numerologically your birthday becomes a marriage number, you have much to gain in combining your life with someone else. When you tire of being fickle, as in all probability you will, you may find greater success in the state of matrimony with someone born on January 23, 27, 29; February 8; March 23, 25, 28, 30, 31; April 4, 7, 21, 23; May 19, 21, 24, 26, 27; June 13, 17, 19, 22; July 23, 28; August 9, 13, 15, 18, 20, 21; September 24, 28; October 5, 9, 11, 14, 16, 17, 22; November 24, 27; December 1, 5, 7, 10, 12, 13, 22.

JUNE 16 (1 + 6 = 7) — A♦ — ACE OF DIAMONDS

Values, spiritual and material meet head-on in your card and in the mystical, numerical seven factor of your birthday. While this combination might motivate you to aspire to heights sublime or material affluence, it could also cause you to "spin your wheels aimlessly," short-circuiting your efforts in either realm.

Mercury, your ruling planet, indicates no lack of intellect, but as represented by the Queen of Diamonds, this planetary influence implies that the good things of life are likely to be the spur to encourage the development of your talents and mentality. A potential for leadership is implied here, especially in service oriented roles. Sensitive as you can be, you may still have to guard against an inclination to be overbearing in positions of authority. On the other hand, anyone fortunate enough to have you in their employ is likely to get more than their money's worth, especially if they recognize your need for independent action.

Beautiful clothes, luxurious homes and a high-life style are high on your list of priorities, but a serious side to your nature is also suggested by the Seven of Clubs, symbolic of your decanate ruler, Uranus. While this can be a philosophical influence, it also indicates a tendency to be worrysome and hyper-critical. Keep in mind, disciplined, these cerebral energies can be a source of profound inspirations. Overcome that inclination to procrastinate and you might find success in writing, lecturing and singing. For some examples, you share this birthday with theosophist Alice Bailey, writer Erich Segal, singer Helen Traubel and King Gustavus V of Sweden.

Emotional traumas are all too likely to result from your own unpredictable nature. Others may find it very difficult to relate to your intermittent desires. So, if you find love disappointing, check to see if your own changeability and high-handed ways are the source of your problem. Your chances for a more satisfactory relationship may be more likely with someone born on January 22, 24, 28, 30; February 4, 9, 20; March 20, 24, 26; April 5, 16, 22; June 1, 12, 14, 18, 20; July 31, August 8, 10, 14, 16; September 27; October 4, 6, 12; November 23, 28; December 2, 6, 8, 21.

JUNE 17 (1 + 7 = 8) — K♣ — KING OF CLUBS

It appears that you chose a fortunate day on which to get yourself born. Cardwise, it makes you a king. Numerologically, your eight birthday indicates that you have the power to realize your royal destiny. Just because it appears that you have it made, does not let carelessness and a lack of discipline lose you a crown.

The brain power suggested by your card is amplified by the fact that you are ruled by Mercury. Since this planet is represented by the Jack of Diamonds, it appears that your intellectual attributes are augmented with a significant creative potential. The youthful, dynamic quality suggested by this influence could prove a tremendous asset in dealing with the public. As it can also indicate a streak of immaturity, you may have to watch that you do not waste your potential in trivia and the pursuit of pleasure. Channel the energies represented here wisely and they can bring success in the arts.

The Six of Clubs, which symbolizes your decanate ruler Uranus, may prove a mixed blessing. Negatively expressed, it can indicate inertia, or just plain laziness. On the other hand, positive application of the forces symbolized in this card suggests you have an intuitive-magic which can bring you to the top of whatever you choose to do. While cardwise, you appear particularly suited to intellectual endeavors, such as writing, teaching, law and scientific research. The organizational capabilities suggested numerologically in your birthday, could also serve you well in executive capacities both in business and government. As the record shows, this is not only a birthday of kings, but also of musicians and actors. For example, you share this birthday with at least two kings. Edward I of England and Charles XII of Sweden, church leader John Wesley, scientist Sir William Crookes, composers Gounod and Stravinsky and actor Ralph Bellamy.

In love, as in almost everything else, the cards are stacked in your favor. So any problems that may arise are more likely due to an abuse of your emotional powers. With so many opportunities you may have difficulty in making a wise choice. You might Narrow the field by looking for someone born on January 25, 29, 31. February 3, 5, 10, 11; March 21, 25, 27; April 1, 6, 7; May 21, 23; June 2, 3, 19, 21; July 29, August 15, 17; September 25; October 11, 13, 23; November 29; December 7, 9, 19.

JUNE 18 (1 + 8 = 9) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

Brilliance and extreme sensitivity are suggested by your card. Combined with the numerical nine factor of your birthday, the mental-talent potential associated with your card is likely to find expression in a wide range of possibilities. Do not jeopardize this advantage by being overly independent and temperamental.

The probability of success finding you at an early age is suggested by the Ten of Spades, symbolic of your ruling planet Mercury. Do not let it discourage the development of the discipline and patience needed to develop your great potential. Bright as you are, you will not likely be very receptive to advice from anyone. Happily for the most part, you seldom need it. But remember, even you can use a friendly counselor, someone who might help you discover the real you. They might also help you cope with the feeling of apprehension hidden behind your bold, positive facade. Since you like to travel and move fast, this inner uncertainty may encourage enough caution to protect you from risky undertakings and a tendency to be somewhat accident prone.

Your decanate ruler Uranus, as represented by the Seven of Diamonds implies an appreciation of the finer things of life. While money is important to you, the excitement of achievement is likely to mean more to you than financial reward. Although the inner you may feel more at home in intellectual pursuits, such as writing, teaching, law, and research, your talents and personable appeal may force you out into the spotlight of politics and show business. To illustrate, you share this birthday with statesman Edouard Daladier, composers Louis Atler and Sammy Cahn, musicians Kay Kyser and Paul McCartney, singer-actress Jeanette MacDonald, Television's Bud Colyer and actor Richard Boone.

You have the magnetic charm to attract love, but your own uncertainty and emotional restlessness may make one to one situations somewhat stormy. While you can be intellectually stimulating, be careful that your mental gymnastics do not cool your lover's passions. Changes and moves are likely to mark your home and personal life. You may feel less inclined to change partners with someone born on January 26; February 10, 11, 12, 17; March 22, 28, 31; April 6, 7, 8, 13, 20; May 24, 27, 29; June 2, 3, 4, 9, 16, 22; July 23, 25, 30; August 5, 12, 18, 21, 23; September 26; October 1, 8, 14, 17, 19; November 22, 27, 30; December 4, 10, 13, 15, 20.

JUNE 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) J♣ THE JACK OF CLUBS

The creative mentality symbolized in your card suggests that knowledge certainly can be your wand of power. The odds are that you may either possess an unusually brilliant mind, verging on genius or be just a charming dilettante. Accept the responsibility of your potential and the numerical one factor of your birthday can bring you to the pinnacle of success.

In your cards, Mercury, your ruling planet is represented by the Nine of Diamonds, so concerns about money and material matters are likely to underlie your most profound thoughts and choice of occupations. While you do have both luck and good earning ability, your impatience and indifference regarding financial responsibilities can prove very costly.

The third decanate of Gemini, in which your birthday occurs, is governed by Uranus. As symbolized by the Four of Hearts, this planetary influence suggests success in people related activities. Whether it be in work or through group intellectual activities relating to science and the occult, you appear to benefit if you share your experiences and quest. You have a serious, unusual outlook with a touch of melancholy. No one can accuse you of being conservative or traditional in your thinking or life style. An almost casual attitude may leave you with no driving motivation to do anything. Then instead of disseminating your knowledge, you may join those of this birthday who have become merely intelligent and talented bums, wandering through a life of wasted opportunities. Perhaps the following who share this birthday with you can provide inspiration for productive activity. Scientist-mystic Blaise Pascal, publisher Alfred Hugenberg, mayor Jimmy Walker, the Duchess of Windsor, writer Elbert Hubbard, musician Guy Lombardo, actors Charles Coburn and Louis Jordan, singer Pier Angeli and baseball's Lou Gerhig.

Romantic, yet your unconventional ideas of love suggests that you do not really want the responsibilities of marriage. But you will probably try again and again to prove otherwise. You might improve your chances for emotional happiness by choosing someone born January 22, 27, 31; February 2, 5, 8, 13; March 23, 27; April 1, 4, 9, 16, 21; May 23; June 5, 17, 21; July 30; August 1, 8, 13, 17; September 27, 28; October 4, 9, 13; November 23, 24; December 5, 9, 21, 22.

JUNE 20 (2 + 0 = 2) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

According to your card, you have the attributes mentally and talentwise to truly achieve success. The numerical two factor of your birthday suggests that your success both personally and professionally will depend somewhat on your ability to relate and work harmoniously with others.

With the Eight of Diamonds symbolizing your ruling planet Mercury, your brain children could prove very profitable. You have a spontaneous enthusiasm, which can get ideas and projects underway, but restlessness and fears of the restrictions associated with responsibility may cause you to fail to follow through. While you have the urge and the ability to do big things, you will probably find greater satisfaction in dealing on a more intimate scale with individuals and in working with personal projects.

You may find that being multi-talented is a dubious blessing. All those interests and choices may just add to your confusion. Apply the necessary concentration and self-discipline, get it all together and your decanate ruler Uranus, as represented by the Ten of Spades, assures you of success. Though you have a capability to do very well in business and the world of finance, this realm may seem rather crass and dull to your free-venturesome spirit. The real you is more apt to be found writing a play, probing the occult, acting in front of a camera or holding forth in the halls of government. Among the absolute musts in considering occupations and activities are, do they meet your requirements for freedom of action, travel and people contact. In the careers of the following notables who share this birthday with you, note how they have attempted to answer these needs for themselves. George Carpenter head of the Salvation Army, Commander Royal E. Ingersol, writers Lillian Hellman and Andre Watts, actors Errol Flynn and Audie Murphy.

In spite of an almost obsessive need to be involved with someone, marriage, partnerships and other close relationships are likely to be complicated by your vacillating interests. Affectionate, but surprisingly your expression of love may be more platonic than physical. Your unique emotional needs may be more closely met in someone born on January 26, February 6, 7, 16; March 22, 28; April 2,3, 12, 20; May 24, 31; June 8, 16, 22; July 27, 31; August 4, 12, 18; September 23, 27, 29; October 8, 14, 21; November 23, 25; December 4, 10, 17, 21, 23.

JUNE 21 (2 + 1 = 3) 9♣ NINE OF CLUBS

The perplexities suggested by your card tend to be well hidden behind the fun-loving facade implied in the numerical three factor of your birthday. If you can harness the broad scope of awareness symbolized in your card, you could contribute something significant to man's understanding of himself.

Born on the cusp of Gemini and Cancer, you have the benefits of the highly imaginative mental qualities suggested by the combination of Mercury and the Moon. Of course, with Mercury represented by the Nine of Spades, thinking may be more a source of pain than pleasure. Persist through the obstacles and disappointments and you should find the success identified with the Ten of Clubs, symbolic of the Moon. Depressions are a hazard of your deep thoughts, but perseverance could replace your gloomy outlook with tremendous insight.As your erratic nervous moods can be every bit as destructive as your positive moments are constructive, it is most important that you get your eccentric mentality under control.

Your decanate ruler Uranus, as represented by the Four of Clubs suggests that the quandaries, psychological problems which may plague your earlier years are likely to diminish with the years. In the process of getting your own head together, you may find you are able to help others to do the same. In other words, counselling and other forms of personal service may also bring answer to your own inner needs. For other possibilities consider the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are scientist Simeon Poisson, Martha Washington, Boy Scout founder Daniel Beard, composer Offenbach, artist Rockwell Kent, writers Jean Paul Sartre and Mary McCarthy, architect Robert Stacy Judd, actresses Dorothy Stickney, Judy Holiday and Jane Russell.

Though you are an individualist, love is extremely important. Even so, the odds suggest that it may take more than one marriage before you learn how to relate successfully in a close relationship. Do not allow jealousy and temperamental attitudes to create unnecessary barriers between you and those you love. You might improve your romantic chances by conquering your overly intense feelings and looking for someone born on January 1, 6, 9, 14, 27, 29; February 4, 7, 12, 25, 27; March 2, 5, 10, 23, 25, 29, 31; April 3, 8, 21, 23, 27, 29; May 1, 19, 21, 25, 27, 30; June 4, 17, 19, 23, 25, 28; July 2, 15, 17, 21, 23, 26; August 13, 15, 19, 21, 24; September 11, 13, 17, 19, 22, 30; October 9, 11, 15, 17, 20, 28; November 7, 9, 13, 15, 18, 26; December 5, 7, 11, 13, 16, 24, 29.

JUNE 22 (Master Number) 8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

The cerebral vitality in your card is amplified by your master number birthday. To fully capitalize on the wonderful possibilities suggested by this terrific combination of influences you will need to apply much self-discipline, otherwise these mental energies could dissipate in erratic tangents.

Even your Cancer Moon, as represented by the Ten of Clubs suggests success through activities which exploit your mental potential. With so much emphasis on your brain, you probably will have to guard against being too head strong.

Born on the cusp, you also have the benefits symbolized in Gemini's ruling planet Mercury. As this planet is represented by the Six of Diamonds, which symbolizes "the karma or responsibility in values," you may have to guard against a too casual attitude regarding money and obligations. With all that you have going for you, it may still take until your middle years before you truly realize how fortunate you are. The quest to find your special thing may be complicated by your capacity to enjoy and do so many things well. A natural physical vitality may encourage you to develop your skills in dance and sports. But the overwhelming indications associated with your birthday indicate that your best bet is to be found in interests which exercise your creative imagination, such as writing, composing, research, etc. To illustrate, you share this birthday with writers Sir Henry Rider Haggard, Erich Maria Remarque and Anne Morrow Lindberg, composer Puccini, scientist Minkowski, singer Jennie Tourel, director Billy Wilder, dancers Katherine Dunham and Gower Champion singer-actor Kris Kristofferson and baseball's Carl Hubbell.

In love, you might just outsmart yourself. With so many attracted to you, you may trust to luck rather than using your head to choose lovers, spouses and friends. Not many can keep up with your broad, somewhat unusual, lifestyle. But you could come up with a winner in someone born on January 10, 17, 28, 30; February 8, 15, 23, 26, 28; March 6, 13, 21, 24, 26, 30; April 4, 11, 19, 22, 24, 28; May 2, 5, 9, 17, 20, 22, 26; June 7, 15, 18, 20, 24; July 5, 13, 16, 18, 22; August 3, 11, 14, 16, 20; September 1, 9, 12, 14, 18; October 7, 10, 12, 16; November 5, 8, 10, 14, 27; December 2, 6, 8, 12, 25.

JUNE 23 (2 + 3 = 5) 7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

Worry! plus a lack of initiative may prove to be serious obstacles to the development of the fine mind indicated by your card. The diversified potential suggested by the numerological five of your birthday may also feed a restless, nervous temperament, which may be the source of most of your ills and disappointments.

A child of the cusp of Gemini and Cancer, your planetary rulers the Moon and Mercury imply a blending of imagination and intellect. Do not let the success potential, promised by the Ten of Clubs, symbolic of the Moon to be minimized by the moody tendencies also associated with this lunar planet. Represented by the Five of Diamonds, Mercury suggests that an underlying current of uncertainty may disturb your financial picture, making it difficult to decide on a course of action. This likely to encourage an urge to travel and to become involved in speculative ventures. Curb your impatience and develop your keen mentality and you may translate your perception of how things work into an asset through working with machinery, analyzing business problems, diagnosing ailments or researching the mysteries of science. Modest and reticent, but an inner strength is revealed in the firmness of your convictions. While you are not likely to impose your beliefs on anyone else, given the opportunity, you can articulate them with passion. Although a desire for prestige and the better things of life may not supply you with much incentive, a desire to help others may supply the necessary motivation. If you need further encouragement, you may find it in the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are Josephine Bonapart, archbishop James Cardinal Gibbons, The Duke of Windsor, sculptor Carl Milles, humorist Irwin S. Cobb and Russian scientist Aleksandr Bogolomets.

An almost desperate need for affectionate support and encouragement indicates that you have everything to gain by controlling your wandering heart and building stable relationships. If your gender is feminine, you are likely to try harder to make a marriage work. Ideally, whatever your gender, you need someone mature enough to stimulate your intellect as well as your sex drive. You may find someone more willing to put up with your eccentricities born on January 2, 11, 18, 31; February 9, 29, March 7, 14, 27, 31; April 5, 25, 29; May 3, 10, 23 27; June 21, 25; July 6, 19, 23; August 17, 21; September 2, 15, 19; October 13, 17, 30; November 11, 15; December 9.

JUNE 24 (2 + 4 = 6) 6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

An easygoing, conservative attitude is suggested by your card and numerical six birthday. A natural diplomat, you are likely to go to great lengths to avoid confrontations and anything which will disturb your peace of mind. No one should ever mistake your gentle manner to be a sign of weakness.

While your card implies intuitive ability, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, the Moon your planetary ruler suggests that your perceptive insights are reinforced with superior reasoning powers. You also are likely to be blessed with a great deal of physical vitality, which due to lack of initiative may be wasted. True to your Sun sign, Cancer, you may all too easily become trapped in the comfortable confines of your home. Generally even-tempered, but since your birthday is on the cusp, some of the nervous, restless quality of Gemini may occasionally send ripples through your complacency. When it does, it may encourage a productive involvement with fraternal organizations, churches or with metaphysical study groups. If it be the latter, you may be most effective as a teacher or counselor. A strong feel for color, form and harmony not only encourages you to keep everything in its proper place, but it also accents a talent for music and decorating. With two of history's greatest military heroes John Churchill, the Duke of Marlborough, and General Kitchener and one of the most famous prize fighters, Jack Dempsey, sharing this birthday, you certainly are not all tranquillity. You also share this birthday with navigator John Cabot, manufacturer Eleuthere DuPont, writer Ambrose Bierce, clergyman Henry Ward Beecher, columnist Norman Cousins, sports star Billy Casper and musician Phil Harris.

A natural inclination to be considerate of others is probably the prime reason for the happy prospects shown for your love life. Even so, your personal happiness may be disturbed by introspective moods and needless worry. Serene as you may be to the world, your mate and family may be subjected to your emotional extremes, While the cards and numerological factors of your birthday favor marriage for you, you might improve your chances by looking for someone born on January 12, 19; February 23; March 8, 15, 21; April 19, 26, 29, 30; May 4, 11, 17; June 22, 25, 26, 28; July 7, 13, 20, 23, 24; August 21, 22, 24, 27, 30; September 3, 9, 16, 19, 20, 22; October 23, 26, 30, 31; November 5, 12, 15, 16, 18, 21; December 19, 22, 26, 27.

JUNE 25 (2 + 5 = 7) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

Together, your card and the numerical seven factor of our birthday suggest a keen mind, curious about all the aspects of life, but troubled by a restless skepticism. Spiritually aware, but despite your conservative nature, you are apt to be discontented with traditional religious and social concepts.

The quick mentality implied in your card is enhanced by the Ten of Clubs, symbolic of your celestial ruler, the Moon. Imagination and perceptive sensitivity are shown,which should help you in the role of a parent, physician or as counselor to assist others in overcoming physical or mental problems. Unfortunately, this very sensitivity is also likely to leave you vulnerable to the tactless unkindness of others. While travel may be your safety-valve, the best therapy for your nervous tension is likely to be found in your own home. Creature comforts, good company, food and drink not only are a source of delight, but are also likely to have a healing effect on your spirit. Except when emotional attitudes impulsively cause you to abandon your inherent wisdom, your analytical brain suggests that you can more than hold your own in any discussion, or debate. These cerebral powers should serve you well in intellectual pursuits, research and teaching. An interest in the well-being of others, plus a desire to set things right suggest that religion, law or the healing professions may bring the most satisfactory personal fulfillment. For some other ideas, you share this birthday with Nicholas I of Russia, Cardinal McIntyre, military leaders General Hap Arnold and Louis Mountbatten, physicist and chemist Walther Nernst, doctor Francis Hillman, producer George Abbot, actress June Lockhart and actor Peter Lind Hayes.

A charming conversationalist, you can easily win friends and lovers. It is your vacillating moods and jealousies, which may jeopardize your personal happiness. Most generous to your loved ones, yet misunderstandings may arise from a self-protective aloofness. Perhaps love and friendship may be easier with someone born on January 7, 13, 20, 21; February 19, 23, 20, 21; March 3, 9, 16, 17, 21; April 22, 25, 27, 28; May 5, 12, 13, 17, 20; June 21, 23, 24, 27; July 1, 8, 9, 13, 16, 22; August 23, 30; September 4, 5, 9, 15, 17, 18, 21; October 26, 31; November 1, 5, 8, 11, 14; December 22, 27, 28.

JUNE 26 (2 + 6 = 8) — 4♣ — FOUR OF CLUBS

Although your card symbolizes "peace of mind," this happy state may be somewhat eroded by an underlying restlessness. If this becomes an urge to do something constructive, the numerical eight power of your birthday suggests that you have got what it takes to overcome the obstacles and express yourself in a most productive and profitable life.

While the Moon, your ruling planet, may encourage daydreams, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, this lunar light suggests that your fantasies may be the key to your good fortune. Fastidious, you are likely to be very conscious of style, and maybe somewhat of a style-setter yourself. A sort of paradox, like a true Cancerian, you enjoy and want the security of a home, but a part of you wants very much to be out where the action is. The resulting conflict may encourage a tendency to be somewhat high-strung, with an inclination to let off steam in temperamental outbursts. Resist the temptation to use food and liquor as tranquilizers. Channel this energy, and reach into that vivid imagination of yours and pull out a dream project. You should find that you have got the drive as well as the ability to make it come true. You enjoy big challenges, and have the ability to organize others to help you get them done. While patience may be a problem, the mental attributes of your card suggest a latent talent for success in writing or research. Or if you want something more exciting, you might follow the lead of your birthday-mates actresses Jeanne Eagles and Eleanor Parker, actor Peter Lorre and singer Anna Moffo. If show business is not your thing, you also share this birthday with scientist Lord Kelvin and Peter Kapitza, writer Pearl Buck, politician Sir Godfrey Collins, Senators William Knowland and John Tunney.

While inclined to be true to your emotional commitments, in all likelihood you probably will need something else to absorb your dynamic drive, if not work, a hobby. Otherwise, relationships may suffer from your hyper-critical tensions. That quest for happiness in love and friendship might be more succesful with someone born on January 3, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21; February 19; March 4, 7, 10, 17; April 28; May 3, 6, 13; June 24, 28; July 2, 9, 22; August 24, 31; September 5, 18, 22; October 27, 29; November 1, 14, 18; December 23, 25, 28, 29.

JUNE 27 (2 + 7 = 9) — 3♣ — THREE OF CLUBS

Although fate is likely to hand you a rather challenging path, a bright, never-say-die optimism helps you to overcome and persevere. Be they physical or psychological handicaps, you are not likely to accept defeat. This suggests that you have got the stuff from which leaders are made.

Perhaps your positive outlook is due in part to the fact that your planetary ruler, the Moon is represented by a symbol of success, the Ten of Clubs. This powerful mental influence is likely to act as a catalyst, bringing out the constructive side of your nature. True, you do have those moments when your disappointments are likely to cause you to retreat into a deep introverted shell. Eventually, the extreme ups and downs, which appear to be part of your destiny, are likely to contribute to your great understanding of human nature. Though the compassion gained from these experiences may cause you to be especially vulnerable to disappointments, they can help you to be a most effective teacher and counselor. This people insight combined with the personable quality reflected in your card suggests that you can be particularly successful in any kind of public activity. Since your vitality seems to grow through your association with others, never cut yourself off from this source of energy. You belong in public life, and are likely to find that your unique perspective can be of help to others through teaching or politics. For some examples, you share this birthday with Irish statesman Charles Parnell, blind educator Helen Keller, poet Paul Dunbar, actor Gary Crosby and James Smithson, founder of the Smithsonian Institution.

The same natural charm which can win you admiration from audiences and constituents can also bring romantic involvements so easily, that you may have to worry about "repenting in leisure." A great need for affection and reassurance, may cause you to be overly solicitous. As it is all too easy for you to attract emotional problems, accent your self-worth and emphasize discrimination. Disappointments in both love and friendships should be less likely with those born on January 12, 15; February 20, 26; March 8, 11, 18; April 22; May 4, 7, 14, 20; June 25, 29; July 3, 10, 16, 23; August 21, 25, 27, 30; September 6, 12, 19, 23; October 23, 26, 29; November 8, 15, 19, 21; December 22, 25, 30.

JUNE 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 2♣ TWO OF CLUBS

About all that stands between you and the extraordinary success implied in the numerical one factor of your birthday may be fear and the possible lack of self-confidence revealed by your card. You really do have a choice between obscurity and the opportunity to achieve significant leadership in your chosen field.

The superior mental attributes symbolized in your card are underscored by the Ten of Clubs, symbolic of the Moon, your ruling planet. You may have to watch that the moody somewhat erratic tendencies encouraged by this lunar globe do not become an impediment to your happiness and progress. Providing that you can overcome your fears of the unknown, your extreme sensitivity can add psychic overtones to your shrewd reasoning powers. Undisciplined, this same influence may incline you to be edgy and argumentative. Although you have a shy streak, you really are likely to be unhappy with anything less than the top spot. Just watch that in the process of fulfilling this role, that you do not win more enemies than friends. Do not let an inclination to dwell on the past and negative experiences interfere with your making the most of the present. Once your stubborn zeal is set afire, you can be a dynamic force in religion, science and politics. And as the record shows, you can also more than hold your own in music and literature. For example you share this birthday with Giuseppe Mazzini, biologist ALexis Carrel, producer Max Gordon, politician Pierre Laval, composer Richard Rogers, actor Otis Skinner and the founder of Methodism John Wesley.

When you want to be, you can be an excellent host and the life of the party. If you feel any lack of love, it may be due to an inclination to surround yourself with acquaintances rather than friends and potential lovers. You also may prefer superficial relationships, that is, until your Cancerian need for emotional security takes over. Then you can be among the most imaginative of lovers. You may be more inspired to play this role with someone born on January 1, 2, 6, 16, 18; February 21, 29; March 2, 12, 14, 19; April 25, 23, 30; May 8, 10, 15; June 21, 24, 26, 30; July 4, 6, 11, 19, 22, 24; August 22, 26, 28; September 2, 7, 15, 18, 20, 24; October 22, 24, November 3, 11, 14, 16, 20, 22; December 20.

JUNE 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) A♣ ACE OF CLUBS

Your card suggests a half-mystical, half-materialistic urge to know and to participate in all the aspects of living. If you can apply the concept of mastery symbolized in you birthday, your aspirations for that elusive something has a good chance of becoming a tangible something.

Combined with the attributes of your card, the Moon, your ruling sphere, suggests ambitious dreams. While these visions may not always be the most practical, your ruling planet, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, implies that they could be the source of your inspired fortunes. Basically a constructive idealist, yet occasionally your reasoning powers, upset by emotional perspectives may take you off on erratic tangents, encouraging you to take on more than you can handle. Although your Cancer sun sign suggests that a secure home base is essential to your happiness, restless impulses may not allow you to spend much time by your comfortable fireside. Both work and pleasure are apt to involve travel. In fact, you may have to watch that the tendency to become involved in too many interests does not minimize your powers of concentration. You do not exactly worship money, but you do get a kick out of the better things of life, so you are not about to be caught wanting. Whether it be in science, medicine, the arts or social reforms, your sensitive intellect gives you an edge. This is well demonstrated by the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are the artist Paul Rubens, builder of the Panama Canal, George Goethals, surgeon William James Mayo, astronomer George Hale, sculptor John Ward, child welfare leader Julia Lathrop, Prince Bernard of Holland, singers Luisa Tetrazzini and Nelson Eddy and actress-comedienne Joan Davis.

Possibly due to your intense feelings, love is not one of your easier expressions. The less intimate the involvement, the better. You are likely to be at your best in social gatherings and in groups associated with work or some productive endeavor. Do not let the inclination to indulge in reveries and personal interests isolate you from those you love. Love and friendship may be easier with those born on January 1, 4, 10; February 22, 28; March 6, 20; April 24; May 2, 16, 22; June 20; July 12, 18; August 23, 29; September 8, 14, 21; October 25; November 4, 10, 17, 23; December 21.

JUNE 30 (3 + 0 = 3) K♥ KING OF HEARTS

The emotional power represented in your card combined with the expressive, dynamic influence of your numerical three birthday suggests that you can excel in just about anything, especially if it brings you before the public. Your real challenge may be to find something that is truly worthy of your potential. Otherwise, you may just fritter away your great gifts.

The imaginative sensitivity implied in your planetary ruler the Moon, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, indicates significant intellectual possibilities. Much discipline will be needed to constructively express this sensitive, electric package of intellect and heart. In a sense, you are sort of an"emotional time bomb." Channeling these energies can help you to be the most compassionate parent, teacher and counselor. Out of control these same forces suggest that you can be a wilful, emotional tyrant. Whether it be on the podium, in a pulpit, on a stage, or in charge of the church bazaar, you belong in positions of leadership. While you may have the dramatic power and a way with music to shine in the spotlight, your true place is more likely to be in the role of director. Where you are concerned, there are no halfway measures. You can be extremely generous, or equally selfish. If you choose the latter, you run the risk of short circuiting "the power of love" symbolized in your card, and losing all of its benefits. You thrive on love and appreciation. But you may have to learn to give before you can receive.

You share this birthday with meteorologist Cargill Knott, German statesman Walter Ulbright, actor Walter Hampden, actress Susan Hayward and singer Lena Horne.

Identified with the top heart card, it would seem that matters of the heart would be your strongest area. Unfortunately this is not necessarily so. Emotional indecisiveness along with doubts and suspicions may create subtle barriers between you and those you would love. There is also the probability that no one can really live up to your grand romantic expectations. You might come closer with someone born on January 2, 5: February 23; March 1, 21; May 17; June 28; July 13, 30; August 24, 28, 30; September 9, 22; October 24, 25, 29; November 5, 18, 22, 23; December 22, 25, 28.

Love is a canvas furnished by Nature
And embroidered by imagination.

JULY 1 (1 = 1)

A♠ ACE OF SPADES

Although both your card and the numerical one factor of your birthday suggests that you are ambitious, the desire to be a private person causes you to pursue your objectives so discreetly that your achievements run the risk of going unnoticed. Even when recognition finally catches up with you, you will probably reveal nothing more of yourself than you absolutely have to.

The mystic aura suggested by your card is amplified by your ruling planet, the Moon. Your secretive inclinations may be a protective device encouraged by your extreme sensitivity. Fortunately, your lunar light as symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, suggests that your unique blend of intellect, spirituality and talent may not allow you to remain in total obscurity.

Another force likely to press you into action is Mars, ruler of the decanate of Cancer in which your birthday occurs. Not only does this influence give you the energy to overcome an inherent inclination to procrastinate, but, as represented by the Five of Spades, it suggests that destiny has a wide variety of interesting action in store for you. Among them is travel which, due to the contacts you are likely to make, will prove to be a significant catalyst in your development. The prime obstacle to your expression of leadership may be found in an inclination to depreciate your own abilities.

Channel your perceptive sensitivity and you may find fulfillment in research, especially if it has humanitarian overtones, and in healing both through traditional and spiritual methods. A subtle dramatic sense suggests that you can also bring a certain magic to theatrical expressions. For some other ideas, you share this birthday with writer George Sand, inventor of the monoplane Louis Bleriot, philosopher-mathematician Gottfried Leibnitz, film director William Wyler, actors Charles Laughton and Farley Granger, actresses Olivia DeHavilland and Leslie Caron.

A sensitive sensuality can qualify you as quite a lover. Watch that inclination to use sex with ulterior motives. Your quest for love or romantic adventure could prove less expensive and disappointing with someone born on January 1, 11, 15, 17, 20; February 18, 25, 26; March 7, 11, 13, 16; April 21, 22, 29; May 3, 7, 9, 12, 19, 20; June 25; July 3, 5, 8, 15, 16, 23; August 21, 27, 28; September 1, 4, 11, 12, 19; October 23, 24; November 7, 8, 15, 21, 22; December 19, 20.

K♦ KING OF DIAMONDS

A conservative, tender-hearted monarch is suggested by the combination of your card with the attributes implied numerically in your birthday. You seek to rule through harmony and will probably go a long way to avoid arguments. Most capable, yet an almost apathetic lack of drive may cause you to miss the tremendous possibilities promised in your crown card.

That you do not lack the potential as indicated by the Ten of Clubs, sumbolic of the Moon, your ruling planet. But talent and other abilities are probably going to have to compete with your pursuit of pleasure and love of physical comforts. In a sense, you are the ultimate sensual Cancerian with a comfortable home filled with nostalgic objects and furnishings suitable to your royal tastes.

Your decanate ruler Mars, as represented by the Two of Diamonds, points out a keen money and material awareness. Whether it be managing a budget for the house, or running a bank, an instinctive sense in handling money puts you ahead. This same influence also accents the probability that you are likely to gain through partnerships, activities and occupations which bring you in contact with the public. You are not a loner, so you should find working with others a source of happiness as well as profit. Of course, as a king, you really should be running the show. But if you prefer not to be boss, as the following well illustrate, you have a great wealth of possibilities to draw upon. For example, you share this birthday with composers Christoph Gluck and Edward Elgar, physicist Sir William Henry Bragg, King Olaf of Norway, singers Silva Margurite and Lotte Lehmann, writer Franz Kafka Patrice Lumumba of the Congo, comedian Dan Rowan and auto racer Richard Lee Petty.

You are a social being, at your best in group activities. Since many find you attractive, you may be somewhat fickle. Eventually, your own need for personal security and a stable home scene will cause you to take steps to build lasting marriages and relationships. Warm-hearted, but not particularly demonstrative. You may find it easier to express your emotions with someone born on January 2, 3, 10, 12, 16, 18; February 26, 29; March 6, 8, 12, 14; April 22, 25, 30; May 2, 4, 8, 10, 20, 23; June 21, 26; July 4, 6, 16, 19, 24; August 22; September 2, 12, 15, 20; October 21; November 8, 11, 16; December 29.

JULY 3 (3 = 3) — Q♦ — QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

Your royal card and the personable quality reflected numerically in your birthday suggest that social events and humanitarian activities are likely to benefit from your dynamic, determined but sensitive leadership. Watch that a tendency to become involved in too many things doesn't cause you to lose sight of your purpose.

Success in endeavors which depend on a creative intellect is accentuated by the Ten of Clubs, which represents your planetary ruler, the Moon. As this is also likely to encourage an interest in appearance and decor, designing clothes, jewelry and homes could prove an ideal outlet for your talents. Rich tastes in diet and just about everything else suggests a need to watch that over-indulgence doesn't make you poor and fat. Happily, your card also indicates a rather strong willpower, which could help to minimize this possibility, and help get you through some of the extreme ups and downs on destiny's agenda. Both your crown card and your great sensitivity suggest that you are not especially suited for manual labor. You are more likely to find your place in the arts, the professions or in some type of public service.

Difficulty in making up your mind as to what you want to do is suggested by the Three of Spades, which symbolizes your decanate ruler, Mars. When you find something which appeals to your desire for self-expression, or a cause which you feel is truly valid, you are likely to work with a passionate drive. In this respect, you can be very effective in promoting ideas and special projects. This also suggests that you are a natural for the expression of ideas in music and drama. For this and other examples, you share this birthday with King Louis XI of France, explorer Samuel de Champlain, statesman-patriot Henry Grattan, artist John Copley, architect-designer Robert Adam, actor George Sanders, actress Susan Peters, columnist Dorothy Kilgallen and singer Paul Anka.

Though you can be "the belle of the ball," you are not particularly lucky in love. Problems will arise from your own emotional instability and from misunderstandings arising out of your elusive-remoteness. You may find less confusion in love and friendship with those born on January 3, 13, 17, 19; February 27; March 9, 13, 15; April 23; May 5, 9, 11, 21; June 27, 30; July 1, 5, 7, 25; August 23, 26, 30; September 1, 3, 13, 21, 24; October 22, 26; November 9, 17, 20, 24; December 22, 30.

JULY 4 (4 = 4) — J♦ — JACK OF DIAMONDS

No birthday holds a greater potential for achievement and fame. Numerically, your birthday suggests that hard work is an integral part of your good fortune. This positive, practical influence can turn the bright creativity symbolized in your card into productivity and profit.

According to the Moon, your celestial ruler, imagination and a charismatic charm are your personal open sesame. With your lunar orb symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, you have what it takes to put you up front in everything from the school play to the highest office in the land. The prime obstacle to all this may be your objection to do anything that will inhibit your free spirit, especially work. You may have to contend with an immature, willful streak that just wants to travel and play. About the only answer is to find something that really turns on your enthusiasm. Then you'll probably work so hard that you'll succeed beyond your fondest expectations.

Mars, your decanate ruler, will supply the push but, at times, it may also encourage a brash and forward manner which may all but obscure your sensitivities. As represented by the Two of Spades, this planetary influence suggests that you really have much to gain through co-operative efforts, so guard against being overly independent. The call of that "patriot's dream" may appeal to your idealism and inspire you to pursue politics. Activities and occupations which involve you with people are likely to be the source of your greatest satisfaction. Many born on your day have found that answer in the arts and entertainment. For example, you share this birthday with writers Nathaniel Hawthorne and Neil Simon, composers Stephen Foster and George M. Cohan, President Calvin Coolidge, Italian patriot Garibaldi and Senator-actor George Murphy, pianist Alex Templeton, cartoonist Rube

Goldberg, musicians Mitch Miller and Louis Armstrong, actresses Gertrude Lawrence, Eva Marie Saint and Gina Lollobrigida, actor Stephen Boyd, television's Virginia Graham and bull fighter Manolete.

No lack of appeal but your "make believe" love-making may be better than the real thing. You love deeply but may find difficulty in expressing your true feelings. You may find it easier with someone born on January 14, 18, 20; February 18, 21; March 10, 14, 16, 19; May 10, 12, 15, 16; June 28; July 2, 6, 8, 11; August 24, 31; September 2, 4, 7, 22; October 27; November 3, 18; December 23 and 29.

JULY 5 (5 = 5) 10♦ TEN OF DIAMONDS

The versatility suggested numerically in your birthday may prove to be a mixed blessing. While it suggests that you may have possibilities through which you can pursue the success symbolized in your card, it also indicates that uncertainty and ambiguous attitudes may leave you dangling short of all those wonderful promises.

Your prospects of success are reinforced by the Ten of Clubs, symbolic of your ruling planet, the Moon, which implies a multi-talented potential and psychic sensitivity. This may inspire productive expression in the arts or in philosophy and metaphysics. Sensitive and imaginative as you are, you may be tempted to try and escape reality through your fantasies. Work and self-discipline may seem so distasteful that you may even look to others to make your extravagant dreams come true. A good voice, musical amd literary talents may all remain unexpressed due to a lack of patience and perseverance.

Happily, your decanate ruler, Mars, as represented by the Ace of Diamonds, suggests that an inherent appreciation of the nicer things of life may supply you with enough ambition to go after them. Once you get down to business, your innate money-material sense suggests a shrewdness which can bring success in banking, accounting and the stock market. A compelling urge for freedom of action may cause you to feel desk-bound occupations are too restrictive. Flourishing as you do on people-related activity, work with social overtones could be a pleasure as well as profitable. An instinctive sense of values in people, ideas and products suggests that you can find success in promotion, selling or in government. To illustrate, you share this birthday with circus impresario Phineas Taylor "P.T." Barnum, Admiral Farragut, empire builder Cecil Rhodes, film maker Jean Cocteau, Russian diplomat Andrei Gromyko, Henry Cabot Lodge, President George Pompidou of France, writer William Stead and Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

Your dream of settling down with that special somebody forever after is likely to run headlong into an underlying emotional restlessness. Your efforts to build a stable, lasting relationship may be helped by involvement in social activities which will supply a variety of contacts, yet not compete with your personal commitments. Love as well as friendship may be more successful with someone born on January 7, 10, 13, 15, 19; March 3, 6, 9, 11, 15; April 26; May 2, 5, 7, 11; June 22; July 1, 3, 7, 20; August 28; September 3, 16; October 24; November 12, 22; December 20 and 30.

JULY 6 (6 = 6) 9♦ NINE OF DIAMONDS

Though your diamond card accents a sense of materiality, the spark of universality also shown here may inspire values more sublime. Numerically, your birthday suggests that you have a sensitive, diplomatic quality which can win you love and admiration in your professional life as well as in your more intimate relationships.

An idealistic visionary is implied here by your ruling planet, the Moon, suggesting that principle and patriotism are high on your list of priorities. With this lunar light symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, your superior intellect helps you to be a constructive influence in education, business and in the community. Despite a lucky streak, your achievements are likely to be earned through persevering through many obstacles and disappointments. It may not be until your middle years that you will realize you're one of destiny's favorite children. Eventually both abundance and recognition are likely to result from your persistent efforts. Then you'll find your streak of extravagance and gambling instinct the greatest challenge to your hard-earned fortune. You may think that you're a conservative, but your clothes, the decor of your home, even your life style are likely to reveal little traces of the bizarre inner you.

The challenge of leadership, as indicated by the King of Clubs, symbolic of your decanate ruler, Mars, is likely to be your true key to fulfillment. This indicates that you have the talent and ability to excel in almost any field. Capable as you can be in directing the action, you probably should leave the details to someone else. For some ideas as to what your possibilities might be, look at the list of people who share this day with you: naval hero John Paul Jones, Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, educator Daniel Gilman, theosophist Katherine Tingley, singers Dorothy Kirsten and Della Reese, actresses Janet Leigh and Nancy Davis Reagan as well as television personality and singer Merv Griffin.

Cool as you may appear, you have such a compelling need for love that you may be all too easily propelled into unhappy marriages and emotional entanglements. A quest for the impossible romantic ideal may encourage a tendency to keep changing partners. You may come closer to that ideal in someone born on January 2, 9, 14, 16, 20; February 18, 28; March 5, 10, 12, 16; April 24, 27; May 1, 6, 8, 12, 22; June 23, 28; July 2, 4, 8, 18, 21; August 24, 29; September 4, 14, 17, 22; October 25; November 10, 13, 18, 23; December 21

8♦ EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

In seeking your true expression, note that the material power symbolized in your card is modified by the mystical seven of your birthday. It may take years before you can fully integrate these seemingly contradictory forces. But when you do, you may find that you have the means to bridge the gap between heaven and earth.

You can be quite hard-headed, but your guiding planet, the Moon, suggests that this bold facade conceals an extremely sensitive individual. With your lunar ruler represented by the Ten of Clubs, your potential for success will be found through your creative imagination. If procrastination is one of your sins, then perseverance is likely to be one of your virtues. An awareness that your well-being is linked to the well-being of others may stimulate an interest in spiritual and civic groups. An ability to promote ideas, to organize, suggests that any group or business should be fortunate in having you direct their action.

Mars, ruler of the second decanate of Cancer in which your birthday occurs, is represented by the Ace of Clubs and indicates that a desire to know and to express yourself will feed your ambitions and self-improvement programs. In doing so, guard against arbitrary, bullish tactics. Illness and other obstacles are likely to yield to your power to overcome. Undisciplined, the powerful forces represented here can be just as devastating as they might be normally constructive. A knack for turning almost anything you do into cash suggests that you can earn money whenever you really make your mind up to do so. Your materialistic drive may be mellowed by an even stronger interest in music, writing, painting, film making, philosophy and metaphysics. For some illustrations, you share this birthday with composers Gustav Mahler and Gian-Carlo Menotti, artist Marc Chagall, film directors George Cukor and Vittorio De Sica, actors Vincent Edwards and Ringo Starr and baseball's Satchel Paige.

If you are to know any success in the realm of love, a degree of personal mastery is absolutely essential. Even then, the responsibility for success in marriages and close relationships are likely to rest heavily on your shoulders. You might minimize an inherent uncertainty in love and friendships with someone born on January 7, 15, 17, 21, 23; February 19, 21, 26; March 3, 11, 13, 17, 19; April 22, 28; May 7, 9, 13, 15, 20; June 24; July 3, 5, 11, 16, 22; August 20, 27, 28; September 1, 5, 7, 12, 18; October 24; November 1, 3, 8, 14, 21, 22; December 19, 20 and 28.

JULY 8 (8 = 8)

7♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

Material ambition and security for loved ones are the motivating forces suggested by your card. Numerically, your birthday indicates that you have the power to achieve your objectives. Be careful that, in doing so, you don't compromise your integrity to the point of losing the spiritual dimensions also symbolized in your card.

That you have the attributes, talent and keen mentality to achieve your aspirations is indicated by the Ten of Clubs, symbolic of your celestial ruler, the Moon. If you prefer to achieve your ends through a different route, the maternal qualities of your sun-sign suggest that you could find fulfillment in activities concerned with home and social improvements.

Even if you obtain the luxurious environment you desire, the restless drive of your decanate ruler, Mars, is likely to press you on relentlessly in a quest for more power and success. As represented by the Nine of Clubs, this planetary influence warns of an inclination to indulge in worrisome moods and impatient attitudes. It also suggests a lazy streak which might encourage you to resort to dubious tactics to gain your ends. The strong money material sense implied in your card should help you to find your personal pot of gold in financial enterprises or in home furnishings. Or, as the following notables born on your day suggest, you might look for your fortune in politics or entertainment. For these and other examples, you share this day with designer of the dirigible Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, writers La Fontaine and Alex Waugh, astrologer Alan Leo, composer Percy Granger, tycoon John D. Rockefeller, politicians Wendell Willkie, Governor George Romney and Vice-President Nelson A. Rockefeller, actress Faye Emerson, singers Billy Eckstine, Jerry Vale and Steve Lawrence.

Emotionally dynamic and aggressive, you are likely to have many romantic opportunities. Problems in marriage may arise over competitiveness with your mate and a tendency to use sex with ulterior motives. Since loved ones are likely to demand much from you, it is especially important that you choose your potential mate most wisely. You may find greater success in relationships with someone born on January 5, 6, 13, 16, 18, 22; February 20; March 1, 2, 9, 12, 14, 18; April 28, 29; May 5, 8, 10, 14; June 24, 25; July 1, 4, 6, 10, 22, 23; August 21, 28; September 2, 6, 18, 19; October 24; November 2, 15, 22, 24; and December 20.

JULY 9 (9 = 9)

6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

Your diamond card and sun-sign emphasize a concern about material values, but the universality implied numerically in your birthday is likely to encourage a broader perspective and a concern for the welfare of others. While this may encourage involvement in community affairs and humanitarian endeavors, inertia and procrastination may prove a serious obstacle to the benefits you can bring to the world.

Basically conservative, you're not particularly interested in setting the world on fire. Rather, you prefer the comforts of your own fireside and the many friends who are likely to seek your counsel there. This is not necessarily due to a lack of interest, as you are concerned about what's going on in the world, but more to a lack of aggressiveness fed by an inclination to depreciate your own abilities. Your ruling planet, the Moon, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, indicates that the intuitive possibilities suggested by your card are re-inforced by an exceptional intellectual potential.

Disciplined, the innovative imagination implied by this combination may produce significant contributions to science, society and the arts. A lack of initiative may cause these wonderful possibilities to remain figments of your imagination. Fortunately, once turned on, you will persevere until your ideas and creations become reality.

Material protection is suggested by the Ten of Diamonds, which symbolizes your decanate ruler, Mars. While this may bring money through marriage or inheritance, Mars indicates that your most substantial rewards will come through your own productivity. In that respect, your intuitive intellect suggests the possibilities of success in science, engineering or perhaps even greater pleasure in products for the home. For other career ideas, you do share this birthday with inventors Elias Howe and Nikolas Tesla, industrialist-philanthropist Daniel Guggenheim, composer Ottorino Respighi, English statesman Edward Heath, newscaster H.V. Kaltenborn and football superstar, O.J. Simpson.

A great need to be loved will probably attract many romantic encounters. Guard against the tendency to attract free-loaders. You may improve your romantic prospects by emphasizing discrimination and looking for someone born on January 3, 6, 7, 19; February 21; March 2, 3, 15, 19; April 29, 30; May 11, 15; June 25, 26; July 7, 11, 20, 23; August 21,22, 29; September 3, 7, 19, 20; October 25, 31; November 3, 15, 16, 23; December 21,27.

JULY 10 (1 + 0 = 1) — 5♦ — FIVE OF DIAMONDS

Ever wonder why you can't spend as much time as you'd like at home? Well, it may just be due to the restless, changeable nature revealed in your card. This urge is not likely to be minimized by the ambition implied by the numerical one of your birthday to find that certain something through which you can excel and lead the pack.

Even your ruler, the Moon, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, will probably inspire thoughts of distant places. But, whenever you do travel, your strong homing instincts will cause you to hurry back home, only staying long enough to get ready to chase another distant dream. Quick in mind and body, you can excel in both cerebral and physical activities. You're also likely to be a perceptive judge of people, things and ideas. A natural inclination to work hard suggests that it's unlikely, but if you should ever fail at anything, lady luck will probably give you many chances to try and try again.

Mars, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Nine of Diamonds, suggests that the uncertainty which can be the bane of your existence is likely to stem from a concern about money. Don't allow self-doubts to multiply your anxieties! The potential for success spelled out in your birthday could be lost through a lack of self-confidence and cause you to fail to aspire to your true place of excellence and leadership. You prefer to work and live in familiar surroundings, but fate will probably spice up this picture with a wide variety of backgrounds and experiences. The diversified possibilities of your birthday are well-evidenced by the following who share it with you: religious reformer John Calvin, English jurist

Sir William Blackstone, artists James Whistler and Camille Pissarro, humorist Finley Dunne, author Marcel Proust, news commentators Graham McNamee and David Brinkley and tennis star Arthur Ashe.

As a rule, you're very discriminating in your choice of those who compose your inner circle of love and friendship. While you want affection, problems may arise from your reluctance to give love. Relationships are likely to be more successful with those who can share your work and interests. In your search for emotional security, you may have better luck with someone born on January 7, 20; February 18, 22, 24, 27; March 3, 16, 20, 22; April 20, 23, 30; May 12, 16, 18, 21; June 26, 27; July 8, 12, 14, 17, 24, 25; August 22, 23, 30; September 4, 8, 10, 13, 20, 21; October 26; November 4, 6, 9, 16, 17, 24; December 22 and 28.

JULY 11 (Master Number) — 4♦ — FOUR OF DIAMONDS

Whether you identify with the spectacular possibilities implied in your master number birthday or the more modest numerical two influence, you are still inclined to be productive. The conflict resulting from an inborn reticence and the urge to lead the action may produce nervous repercussions.

Don't try to force things to happen. Use your head! The Ten of Clubs, symbolic of your ruling planet, the Moon, suggests that you have the cerebral powers to make your dreams come true. While, as a four, your good fortune will require some effort on your part, guard against being overly aggressive. Patience and much personal discipline are likely to be pre-requisites to the effective use of your great potential. Refreshingly honest, you have no time for phony frills, but resist the inclination to be too direct and blunt. Tactlessness is not going to win you much co-operation.

As symbolized by the Six of Clubs, Mars, your decanate ruler, denotes a yearning for the peace which never seems to come. In part, this is probably because you never spare self or your adversaries, frequently working or pursuing an objective until you almost drop from exhaustion. In this regard, your health problems and psychological depressions can usually be traced to the fact that you don't know when to quit. Happily, you don't stay down for long. Career-wise, the practical attributes of your diamond card imply a knack for merchandizing and financial enterprises. For other possibilities, you share this birthday with Scottish hero Robert the Bruce, President John Quincy Adams, scientist Joseph Lalande, merchant-tycoon John Wanamaker, Doctor Charles Menninger, film producer Walter Wanger and actor Tab Hunter.

Strong as your love nature and desire for a home may be, you are not likely to let these considerations tie you down. While you should have little difficulty in attracting romance, you may prefer to socialize, especially in groups which are spiritually or intellectually stimulating. Love and friendship may be more satisfactory with someone born on January 8, 14, 16, 19, 21; February 19, 23; March 4, 10, 12, 15, 17, 21; May 6, 8, 11, 13, 17; June 28; July 2, 4, 7, 9, 13; August 24, 31; September 3, 5, 9, 22; October 27, 31; November 1, 5, 18; December 23 and 26.

JULY 12 (1 + 2 = 3) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

"Expression" is the keyword to your personal success, according to both your card and the numerical three factor of your birthday. Your greatest challenge may be an inclination to scatter your energies through too many interests. Focus your forces, and you can bring a dynamic-vitality to everything you do.

The indecisiveness implied in your card may be complicated by the dreamy, imaginative quality of your ruling planet, the Moon. But since this sphere is represented by the Ten of Clubs, you do have the potential mentality to turn those dreams into creative success. Guard against too great a dependence on others. As you may have a tendency to drift into spells of gloom when not constructively occupied, it is very important that you learn to practice self motivation.

Your birthday occurs in the decanate of Cancer governed by both Jupiter and Neptune. As these planets are represented by the Five and Nine of Spades respectively, your good fortune is likely to involve long hours of work and much travel. Your own personal "pot of Gold" may be found in some distant land. According to the record it may be found through the expression of your talents, or through your philosophical or political capabilities. The unique combination of imagination and scientific insight shown for your birthday has produced scientist Claude Bernard and photography pioneer George Eastman. Your birthday has also given the world the greatest English potter Joshia Wedgewood, writer Henry Thoreau, artists Modigliani and Andrew Wyeth, religious leader Toyohiko Kagawa, composer Oscar Hammerstein, singer Kersten Flagstad, actors Jean Hersholt and Bill Cosby, comedian Milton Berle, architect Buckminister Fuller, Governor Mark Hatfield, pianist Van Cliburn, and Julius Caesar.

A natural gift of gab feeds your flirtatious impulses. Vulnerable as you are emotionally, be careful that you don't talk yourself into relationships which can only bring you disappointment. If love is a heartache, check to see if it is due to your moods or to communition problems arising out of nebulous attitudes. You might improve your chances for personal happiness by looking for someone born on January 4, 9; February 20, 24; March 5, 18, 22; May 1, 14, 18; June 29; July 10, 14; September 6, 10, 23; October 21, 28; November 2, 6, 19; December 24.

JULY 13 (1 + 3 = 4) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

Card-wise, you have everything to gain through co-operative endeavors. But these possibilities may be jeopardized by a hypersensitive inflexibility which, fed by subtle fears, may make joint efforts almost impossible. Apply the practical nature implied in your numerical four birthday and translate your sensitivity into an asset!

A defensive, worrisome attitude, especially during the earlier years, may cause you to overlook the wonderful mental potential indicated by your ruling planet, the Moon. As represented by the Ten of Clubs, this celestial light certainly suggests a cerebral potential which can bring success, especially in education, philosophy and religion. Initially, your efforts may be hindered by a lack of self-confidence. Overcome this by developing your fine mind and by changing your stubborn streak into perseverance. As you acquire confidence and power, resist the inclination to replace your charming modesty with dictatorial attitudes. Much of the opposition you're apt to meet is likely to arise from a tendency to insist that everything be done your way.

Jupiter and Neptune govern the decanate of Cancer in which your birthday occurs. As represented by the Four and Eight of Spades, these planetary influences suggest that a blend of imagination and hard work is an integral part of your good fortune. Although your life-pattern indicates a material protection, you will probably have to earn it. Sensitive as you are, it's especially important that you avoid occupations which are uncongenial and which isolate you from people-contact so important to you. For some possible career ideas, you share this day with statesman-economist Sidney Webb, educator Mary E. Wooley, actor Sidney Blackmere, television's Dave Garroway and boxer Mickey Walker.

Basically a social being but an element of loneliness may haunt you. If this be the case, check to see if petty attitudes and erratic temperament are spoiling your love life. You have the natural charm to win love and friendship. Use it! You might also help your romantic possibilities by looking for intellectual companionship and someone born on January 10; February 21, 25, 27; March 6, 19; April 21, 23, 26, 28, 29; May 2, 19, 21, 24; June 22, 24, 25, 30; July 11, 15, 17, 20, 22, 23; August 20, 21, 26, 30; September 7, 11, 13, 16, 18, 19; October 22, 26, 29; November 3, 7, 9, 12, 14, 15, 20, 24; December 22 and 25.

JULY 14 (1 + 4 = 5) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

Vulnerable, as any Cancerian, to the comforts of home but the aspirations suggested by your card, combined with the restlessness implied numerically in your birthday, will probably minimize the time that you can spend by your own fireside. Don't let this urge for change foster a nervous discontent and over-indulgence.

Although your ambitions may be more apparent, the Moon, your ruling planet, suggests that the inner you is far more sensitive than appearances indicate. This sensitivity may in fact prove a major hurdle, causing you to reinforce your confidence with food and drink. With your lunar ruler symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, success is no improbable fantasy. But the hard work involved in making it a reality may be just enough to turn off your enthusiasm. As you're apt to enjoy the element of chance, you may be tempted to fulfill your lofty desires through gambling and speculation.

As represented by the Three of Spades and the Five of Diamonds, your decanate rulers, Jupiter and Neptune denote that happiness consists of activities which will provide you with the opportunity for self-expression and give you a chance to indulge your many interests. The latter may also give you a hard time deciding just what you really want to do. In this respect, you might get some ideas from the following who share this birthday with you: writers Owen Wister, Ann Landers and Abigail Van Buren, entertainer Ken Murray, producer Ingmar Bergman, singer Irene Bordoni, actresses Annabela and Polly Bergen, actors Terry Thomas and Dale Robertson, newscaster John Chancellor and President Gerald Ford.

What you may lack in domesticity, you more than make up for in hospitality. This same gregarious drive may also encourage many romantic involvements. So, despite your Cancerian need for emotional security, it may take more than one marriage before you'll be truly ready to settle down. This possibility might be minimized with someone who enjoys the wide variety of action you require. And if they happen to be born on one of the following birthdays, you can add another significant plus factor to your relationship: January 6, 11, 22; February 20, 22, 26, 28; March 2, 7, 18, 20; April 22, 24; May 3, 14, 16, 20, 22; July 10, 12, 16, 18; August 29; September 6, 8, 12, 14; October 25, 30; November 2, 4, 8, 10, 23; December 21, 26 and 29.

JULY 15 (1 + 5 = 6) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

The wonderful potential suggested by your crown card is enhanced by the harmonious and diplomatic qualities of your numerical six birthday. Watch that your inherent good fortune doesn't feed a non-productive indolence.

The probability of success is amplified by the Ten of Clubs, which represents your ruling planet, the Moon. Combined with the powerful attributes of your card, this top-heavy potential can prove a mixed blessing. It can bring such significant success in almost anything you attempt with so little effort that you may fail to learn the fundamental disciplines essential to your well-being. This, along with your royal tastes and the appetites of your sun-sign, Cancer, can put fat on mentally as well as physically.

Your decanate rulers, Jupiter and Neptune, as symbolized by the Two and Six of Spades, add intuitive overtones to your mental powers. A sensitive blending of spiritual and mundane forces is implied which could help you find a compassionate expression as a minister, physician, counsellor and teacher. A sensuous appreciation of color, sound, form and ideas adds a pleasurable dimension to your enjoyment of the arts and philosophical concepts, suggesting that you might add your own personal magic through paint brush, pen or typewriter. Whatever you choose to do, you really belong at the top, in positions of authority or in some expression of exceptional excellence. For some examples, you share this birthday with artists Rembrandt and Reinhold Begas, writer Pareto, publisher Viscount Alfred Harmsworth Northcliffe, politician Proudhon and Saint Frances Cabrini.

Even though your charismatic charms are likely to attract many into your life, a concern about prestige combined with a reserved aloofness may inhibit you emotionally. This barrier may frustrate the marriage destiny suggested numerically in your birthday, causing you to content yourself with romantic experiments or completely sublimating your emotional energies in other interests. Anyone gaining your love and friendship will find that they have acquired a real prize. Love and friendship may be easier with someone born on January 1, 7, 12, 13; February 27,29; March 3, 8; April 23, 25; May 4, 21; June 19, 21; July 1, 13, 17, 19; August 27; September 9, 13, 15; October 23, 31; November 5, 9, 11, 21; December 27 and 30.

JULY 16 (1 + 6 = 7) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

Profound possibilities are suggested by the combination of forces represented by your crown card and the numerical seven of your birthday. Symbolically, this blend of inspirational and practical attributes suggest that you can bring sensitive leadership to whatever you do. Do not minimize this noble image through pettiness.

According to the Ten of Clubs, which represents your ruling sphere, the Moon, you lack nothing in talent or brain power. But you may lack the discipline to develop this potential. Fortunately, your keen perceptive powers enable you to acquire wisdom through experience. Since you are able to grasp things quickly, you may have to guard against being impatient with those less gifted. Particularly if your gender is masculine, be careful that your extreme sensitivities do not cause you to overindulge at the expense of your waistline.

Jupiter and Neptune co-rulers of your Cancer decanate, as represented by the Ace and Five of Spades, suggest a mental restlessness with mystical overtones. This may encourage an interest in the realms of philosophy and metaphysics, where your own intuitive-intellect could make significant contributions. This same sensitive nature can bring you success in painting, writing and acting. You should not find it difficult to gain recognition for sincere effort. For a few examples, you share this birthday with the founder of "Christian Science" Mary Baker Eddy, artists Andrea Del Sarto and Joshua Reynolds, explorer Roald Amundson, actresses Barbara Stanwyck, Ginger Rogers and Elaine Barry and tennis star Margaret Court.

The prime obstacle to your strong craving for affection is apt to be your own intense emotional nature. Actually, you will probably find light, flirtatious relationships safer and easier to cope with. Normally thoughtful and concerned about others, but you may have to resist an inclination to dominate and run their lives. Preoccupation with your own interests could cause you to fail to recognize the love extended to you. You may be more apt to find someone approaching your idealistic desires born on January 2, 12,13, 14, 19; February 17, 24; March 8, 9, 15, 22; April 20, 26, 29; May 4, 5, 6, 11, 18; June 22, 25, 27; July 1, 2, 14, 20, 23; August 21,23, 28; September 3, 10, 16, 19, 21; October 24, 29; November 6, 12, 15, 17, 22; December 20, 25, 28.

JULY 17 (1 + 7 = 8) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

A youthful enthusiasm sparks the creativity suggested by your card. Add the dynamic vitality implied numerically in your birthday and it appears that you have all the ingredients "to make your most impossible dreams come true." One possible hitch, temperament and erratic moods can be your most serious hazards.

The creative mentality in your card is enhanced by the imaginative influence of your ruling planet the Moon. As symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, this celestial influence indicates that you have the mental power to breathe life into all your efforts. Luckily, you also have the practicality to extract the most from your many opportunities. Whether it be in the expression of your talents or in business, you have a money sense which can make your endeavors most profitable. Appearance is important to you, so your wardrobe is likely to be one of your major extravagances. Many friends and admirers are likely to be won by your open, direct but friendly manner.

Your talents may put you in a theatrical or political spotlight, especially since the King of Clubs and the Four of Diamonds represent your decanate rulers Jupiter and Neptune. This combination of influences suggests that you can do equally well performing-directing the action or being the head of state. A dreamer, but in your case these fantasies will probably contribute to your fortune. As the following list of notables well testify, your potential for success covers a wide range of possibilities. For example you share this birthday with artists Corot and Feininger, capitalist John Jacob Astor, statesmen Emperor Haile Selassie and Maxim Litvinov, James Cagney, singers Eleanor Steber and Diahann Carroll, television's Art Linkletter and comedienne Phyllis Diller.

Clever except when it comes to love, then romantic idealism replaces wisdom. A tendency to be caught up in your own thing to the exclusion of your mate along with an inclination to be hypersensitive does not make you very easy to live with. Actually when you can get it all under control, you can be an exciting lover. Perhaps, you will find the inspiration to make that extra effort in someone born on January 3, 7, 10, 15, 20, 22; February 20, 25, 29; March 3, 6, 11, 18; April 21, 25; May 2, 7, 19, 23; July 3, 15, 19; August 29, 30; September 6, 11, 15; October 25, 26; November 2, 7, 11, 23; December 21, 22.

JULY 18 (1 + 8 = 9) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

A wide range of possibilities through which you can achieve the "success" symbolized in your card is emphasized by the numerical nine quality of your birthday. You will probably learn that your good fortune is likely to require much of you, long hours of work and perseverance through setbacks and disappointments. Both your birthday and your ruling planet, the Moon are represented by the same card, the Ten of Clubs. This double dose of "success" suggests that only indifference or abuse of your opportunities can cause you to fail.

The discipline of the talent and mental potential associated with your card is apt to be your prime challenge. A perfectionist with an inclination to think big suggests that you watch that your efforts do not suffer from an inclination to ignore details, or to act on impulse. Due to a natural luck, this may work for most of the time, but it may also cause unnecessary anxieties and even a tendency to be somewhat accident prone. With the years, probably through enlightening disillusionment, you may gain the wisdom which will help you to transcend a preoccupation with self and inspire you to use your wonderful gifts to the benefit of others.

According to your decanate rulers Jupiter and Neptune, as represented by the Ace and Five of Clubs, ambition and restlessness will keep you on the move, filling your life with changes and travel. You may have to watch that this does not become an unending search for the "Blue Bird of Happiness." Not only is there a possibility that you will gain through inheritance, but no one is more richly endowed with innate abilities than you are through which you can find both happiness and success. If you need any ideas of how this might be accomplished, you share this birthday with writers William Thackeray anf Clifford Odets, scientist Lorentz, industrialist Charles Wilson of General Motors, actors Richard Dix and Hume Cronyn, comedian Red Skelton and astronaut Senator John Glenn.

Marriage and the home are extremely important but you may jeopardize them by a tendency to treat others, including loved ones, as part of your supporting cast. An inclination to demonstrate your brilliance through intellectual discourses and arguments is also no way to win in love. The responsibility for success in relationships will depend largely on you. It might also help if that special someone is born on January 1, 8, 9, 18; February 24; March 5, 6, 14, 22; April 20, 26; May 1, 10, 18; June 29; July 6, 14, 20; August 29, 30; September 2, 10, 16, 23; October 25, 27; November 6, 12, 19, 23; December 21, 23.

JULY 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 9♣ NINE OF CLUBS

The constant urge to excel, to lead suggested by the numerical one quality of your birthday may prove a source of frustration, or it may provide the incentive to find the fulfillment associated with your card. You have destiny in your corner, so you certainly have the potential to reach the heights. But as the saying goes,"the higher you go, the further you can fall."

Mental, emotional qualities blend through the imaginative influence of the Moon, your guiding light. With your ruling planet represented by the Ten of Clubs, success is certainly not denied you. Just watch that the melancholy moods which it can also inspire do not become unnecessary obstacles. Inertia, a tendency to vacillate along with an inclination to overindulge in socializing, food and drink may interfere with the greatness that can be yours It may take a lot to get you really turned on, but when you are, you have an obsessively stubborn tenacity which can work miracles.

Devastating as some of your disappointments are apt to be, the King of Diamonds symbolic of one of your decanate rulers, Jupiter, suggests that you are also slated for some exceptionally good fortune. Besides the opportunity to enjoy some of the luxuries of life this may also bring recognition and status careerwise. While the idealist influence of Neptune, your other decanate ruler, may inspire the urge to be of service, do not let its illusionary influence cloud your sense of reality. Obviously a people person, so you can be particularly effective as a physician, club leader and politician. For some examples, you share this birthday with two kings, Charles the I of Austria and George the II of Greece, gun inventor Samuel Colt, artist Degas, author A.J. Cronin, Dr. Charles Mayo, politicians Senator George McGovern and convicted spy Anna Rosenberg, tennis star Ilie Nastase and singer Vikki Carr.

Socially inclined, but emotionally you prefer one to one relationships. When you find the right person, and that may involve several tries, you not only are likely to be faithful, but you may even become dependent on them. Romantically the cards are stacked in your favor, so do not abuse this advantage through selfishness and temperamental behavior. Love and friendships may prove more successful with someone born on January 1, 6, 9, 14; February 25, 27; March 2, 5, 10; April 21, 23, 27, 29; May 1, 6, 19, 21; June 23, 25, 28; July2, 15, 17, 21, 23; August 21, 24, 26; September 11, 13, 15, 17; October 22, 28; November 7, 9, 13, 15, 18, 20; December 24, 29.

JULY 20 (2 + 0 = 2) 8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

The harmonious, friendly influences associated with the numerical two of your birthday sweetens the aggressive quality implied in your "mental power card." Possibly too much so, in that you may lack the incentive to truly develop the tremendous possibilities suggested in your card.

The dynamic cerebral attributes of your card are amplified by the Ten of Clubs, which represents your ruling planet the Moon. The compassionate wisdom which may be produced by this sensitive combination of influences suggests that you could be an empathetic counselor, teacher and inspirational leader. One big hitch, these profound possibilities may have competition from your strong desire to indulge in all the comforts of the flesh. Traumatic setbacks in earlier efforts, and the fact that you can get by rather comfortably no matter what you do, may contribute to a lack of push.

The delight in earthy treasures suggested by the Ten of Diamonds and the ambition to acquire them implied in the Ace of Diamonds, cards representative of your decanate co-rulers Jupiter and Neptune may just be enough to stir you into action. If they do, you should find that you have a natural ingenuity and keen business sense which will help you to obtain all those cars, houses and other trinkets so important to you. Though you may be tempted to take on big projects, you are likely to be happier in smaller, more personal type businesses, especially if they provide the opportunity to exploit your social-intellectual abilities. For some other possibilities, consider the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are the poet Francesco Petrarch, aircraft pioneer Alberto Dumont, Thurston the magician, industrialist Benson Ford, mountaineer Sir Edmund Hillary, actress Natalie Wood and former Ambassador Elliot Richardson.

Your birthday clearly indicates that you are not a loner. A desire for stimulating intellectual companionship, someone with whom you can share all sorts of interests equals your strong sex drive. As a sort of mental-sensualist, you probably could write love poetry. You might just find that inspiration in someone born on January 10, 13, 17; February 26, 28; March 6, 9. 13, 21; April 22, 24, 28; May 2, 5, 9, 17, 20, 22; June 24; July 1, 5, 13, 16, 18, 22; September 1, 9, 12, 14, 18; October 29; November 1, 8, 10, 14; December 25.

JULY 21 (2 + 1 = 3) 7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

The potential for inspiration suggested by your card may be helped or confused by the expressive quality represented in your numerical three birthday. Keep in mind, your introspective moments are capable of profound awareness. Do not allow this mental energy to dissipate through indulgence in worry and anxiety.

The Ten of Clubs, which symbolizes your ruling planet, the Moon, suggests that your success could be found in some expression of your fertile mind. Stress clarity in thinking as this lunar influence may also encourage erratic and willful tendencies which can become obstacles to the expression of your talents. Your strong opinions and intense feelings may make you an exciting individual, but these inclinations are likely to encourage nervousness and a temperamental disposition.

Jupiter and Neptune, as represented by the Nine of Diamonds and King of Clubs are your decanate rulers. This combination of influences suggest an inclination to live on a rather grand scale, with your earning ability receiving stiff competition from your ability to spend. Not one to linger in the background, you enjoy being the center of attention. Combined with your need for self-expression and a good voice, you should be right at home on the stage. Or perhaps your intellectual nature would find the literary and educational fields even more suitable channels through which to express your ideas.. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with balloonist Jean Picard, writer Ernest Hemingway, violinist Isaac Stern, actress Leonore Ulric, singers Chancey Olcott and Kay Starr.

Your bright repartee can brighten any party and provide the most stimulating companionship. Your domestic and artistic sensitivity is likely to be reflected in your beautiful home. Just do not spoil it all through moods, and your clever but critical tongue. Independent, and yet you are very concerned about the well-being of loved ones. Concerning the latter, you may find love and friendships easier with someone born on January 2, 11, 18; February 22, 29; March 7, 14; April 27, 31; May 3, 10; June 21, 25; July 6, 19, 23; September 2, 15, 21; October 30; November 11, 15; December 26.

JULY 22 (Master Number) 6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

The quiet tenacity implied in your card combined with your master number birthday suggests a sleeping giant. So even if you elect to pass your time indulging the creature comforts in which your Cancerian nature delights, fate may not allow you to remain in obscurity. You have much to give, so do not waste your powers.

If you accept your destined responsibility, the Ten of Clubs, symbolic of your ruling planet, the Moon, suggests that you have the mentality to secure success. Though this influence favors intellectual endeavors, it also implies a significant talent potential. In fulfilling the demands upon you, nervous tension may be a principal hazard. So it is important that you schedule times alone to regain your strength. Due to your extreme sensitivity, liquor and drugs are more likely to complicate rather than help this problem.

Your decanate rulers, Jupiter and Neptune, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds and the Ace of Hearts, suggest that money should never present any serious problems. If not through your own abilities, you are likely to acquire it through gifts and inheritance. Occurring on the cusp, your birthday suggests that your conservative Cancerian ways are likely to be warmed by the glow of Leo. This combination implies a magnetic quality which can win friends, lovers and audiences. The latter may be also helped through your ability to express yourself through music. Alexander the Great, who is supposed to have been born on this day, found his expression in conquering the world, Pope Clement XI as a spiritual leader. Gregor Menal through science, Ely Culbertson through the mastery of playing cards, boss Pendergast through politics, Licia Albanese and Bobby Sherman through singing and Rose Kennedy through being the mother of statesmen.

You wield a wand of charm which can create romantic and social magic. Be careful you do not become caught in your own spells. Do not allow your eager heart to overrule your intuitive wisdom. While you can and probably will win the hearts of many, you may find relationships even more successful with someone born on January 12, 19; February 23; March 8, 15, 21; April 26, 29, 30; May 4, 11, 17; June 22, 25, 26, 28; July 7, 13, 20, 23, 24; August 21, 22, 24, 27, 30; September 3, 9, 16, 19, 20, 22; October 23, 26, 30, 31; November 5, 12, 15, 16, 18, 21; December 22, 26, 27.

JULY 23 (2 + 3 = 5) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

The double five impact of your card and the numerical factor of your birthday suggest that an urge for action and change are likely to be your principle motivating forces. While this can supply the power to achieve success, watch that this does not cause you to dissipate your energies through too many impossible schemes.

Born on the cusp of Leo and Cancer, you have both the Sun and the Moon working for you. Since celestial influences are represented by the Eight of Diamonds and the Ten of Clubs, you certainly can make money, providing you have the patience to use your head. Blessed with a quick mind, you may get an almost perverse pleasure in trying to beat the odds in work, play, and those little romantic games that people play. Although, you can be quite ambitious, you do seem to need someone, or some cause to turn you on. While you are likely to add a unique touch of originality to just about anything you do, you may have to learn that perseverance is also an essential ingredient in your personal quest for success.

Another obstacle to your good fortune is likely to be an eccentric temperament, which may create unnecessary problems with your associates. The symbolical and numerological indications of your birthday imply a versatility which can help you in a wide variety of occupations and interests. Part of your criteria in choosing a career or interest should be determined by how it appeals to your love of freedom and travel. Perhaps in the following who share this birthday with you, you may get some idea of your potential. Among them are philosopher Max Heindel, Mayor Norris Paulsen of Los Angeles,actor Michael Wilding, actresses Charlotte Cushman and Gloria De Haven, baseball's Pee Wee Reese and Don Drysdale.

You may not be really fickle, but a volatile nature causes you to run through lovers, friends and experiences, as if you were afraid you might miss somebody or something. Once hooked, if your gender is female, you are likely to convert this energy to constructive domestic and social activity. But if you are a member of the masculine sex, settling down to anything resembling a conventional marriage is likely to be difficult. You may find a greater incentive to build a relationship with someone born on January 13, 20, 25, 28; February 11, 18, 23, 26; March 9, 16, 21, 24, 29, 30; April 7, 14, 19, 20, 22, 27, 28; May 5, 12, 17, 20, 25, 26; June 10, 15, 18, 23, 24; July 1, 8, 13, 16, 21, 22, 25; August 6, 11, 14, 19, 20, 30; September 4, 9, 12, 17, 18, 19, 21; October 7, 10, 15, 16, 19, 26; November 5, 8, 13, 14, 17, 24, 30; December 3, 6, 11, 12, 15, 22, 28.

JULY 24 (2 + 4 = 6) 4♣ FOUR OF CLUBS

The sense of service and responsibility suggested by your numerical six birthday is reinforced by the practical mentality symbolized in your card. Direct and outspoken, but also sympathetic; an enigma, possibly even to yourself. Driven by an inner idealistic restlessness you tend to be a constructive force.

Astrologically, a Leo, so your ruling planet really is a star. The Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds, suggests a potential for dramatic leadership, and the economic know-how to provide yourself with the good things of life.Occurring on the cusp, you may have to watch that the Cancer part of you does not encourage an overindulgence in all the good things of life. The sensitive Sun sign also suggests an almost zealous interest in the well-being of others, encouraging you to do something about their problems through politics, welfare programs or philanthropic action.You will listen to reason, but if anyone becomes too aggressive in trying to influence your viewpoint, they will find how obstinate you can really be.

Although you enjoy peace and serenity as much as anyone, an underlying, restless energy is likely to encourage action, changes and travel. Constructively directed, this force motivates you to bring improvements in business, the community and the nation. A knack for promotion and handling money suggests that you should feel right at home in politics, real estate, merchandising and banking. Sort of a paradox, you have a strong craving for adventure, with an equally strong sense of poetry. To illustrate these and other possibilities, you share this birthday with South American liberator Simon Bolivar, dictator Francisco Lopez, writers Alexander Dumas and poet Lord Dunsany, composer Ernest Bloch, pilot Amelia Earhart and Congresswoman Bella Abzug.

You are likely to be a better companion than lover, but a strong sense of fair play, plus the beautiful environment which you are likely to provide for your loved ones should do much to make up for any lack of demonstrated affection. Ideas, more than romance, are likely to turn you on. You may find someone more compatible to your emotional viewpoint born on January 21; February 1, 2, 6, 9, 12, 19; March 30; April 2, 5, 8, 9, 15; May 26, 30; June 1, 4, 11; July 22, 26; August 7, 24; September 29; October 3, 16, 20; November 25, 30; December 12, 16.

JULY 25 (2 + 5 = 7) 3♣ THREE OF CLUBS

A dynamic extrovert according to your card, but the numerical seven of your birthday hints at an introspective depth,which may encourage a more profound outlook. While these extremely different viewpoints may produce confusion, blending them could reinforce your bright facade with a philosophical strength.

With your guiding star, the Sun, symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, the only real obstacle between you and financial success may be making up your mind as to how you want to make it. The inclination to vacillate in your efforts and to depreciate your own abilities may be the greatest obstacles to your success. You can excel in people related activities, especially if they include some opportunity to express leadership. In positions of authority resist the temptation to be bossy. If you resort to charm and gift of gab, you are likely to find that others will do just about anything you ask of them. This attribute combined with your curious, ever probing mind suggests that you can also do well in the legal profession or the diplomatic service.

A compelling need for self-expression, plus a natural dramatic sense suggests that theatrical enterprises could provide just the right outlet for your talents and temperaments. While you can look good up front, you may even be effective in the role of director or producer. Control your nervous restlessness and you might find paint brush and easel a perfect channel for expressing your varied moods. To illustrate, you share this birthday with artists Thomas Eakins and Maxfield Parrish, English statesman Sir Arthur Balfour, producer David Belasco, actor Walter Brennan and actress Lila Lee.

A natural charmer, so lovers, friends and strangers are likely to seek you out. Unfortunately, you have a tendency to attract those with problems. This along with the fact that you are not particularly lucky in love suggests the need for much caution in affairs of the heart. Due to your own great need for emotional security, once you have made an emotional commitment, be it good or bad, you are likely to stick to it. You might improve your romantic prospects by choosing someone born on January 22, 28; February 10. 13, 20; March 24, 31; April 6, 9, 16, 22; May 20, 27, 31; June 2, 5, 12, 18; July 23, 27, 29; August 1, 8, 14, 21; September 23, 25, 28; October 4, 10, 17, 21, 23; November 21, 24, 27; December 6, 13, 17, 19, 22.

JULY 26 (2 + 6 = 8) 2♣ TWO OF CLUBS

Gifted with a curious, perceptive mentality, according to your card sharing ideas and knowledge could be your entree to personal fulfillment. Numerologically, the eight factor of your birthday suggests that your critical insights are enhanced by the creative power of wit and charm.

Your ruling sphere, the Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds is not likely to allow you to hide your genius. The combination of this radiant stellar body and your diamond card accents the probability that your brain children will reward you handsomely. A possible catch in this bright picture may be an inclination to let subtle fears grow into self-doubts and negative moods. This same influence also suggests that you can more than hold your own in debates and arguments. Be careful that the latter does not become a habit. Actually, if you keep your cool, you might discover an inherent knack for bringing people together, and an ability to mediate differences.

Blessed with a super imagination, you will probably need help in putting many ideas in action. In this respect do not overlook the advantages of cooperative endeavors pointed out by your card. The pleasure which you derive from living first class and in sharing your abundance with others is likely to provide the incentive to develop your exciting potential. Fortunately, your capabilities are equal to your grand dreams. You can excel in research, teaching,writing and composing. Be it in a bank or behind a camera, you should be right at home directing the action. Need some inspiration? Well, you share this birthday with psychoanalyst Carl Jung, writers George Bernard Shaw and Aldous Huxley, composer Serge Koussevistsky, Senator Estes Kefauver, actors Emil Jannings and Jason Robards, comedienne Gracie Allen, producer Stanley Kubrick, singer Mick Jagger and golfer Doug Sanders.

Sexually magnetic, you can be the "Queen of the Hive," or "King of the Mountain." In spite of the availability of romantic adventures, you would probably prefer to establish a lasting friendship, so that you can concentrate on doing your thing. That special relationship might be more succesful with someone born on January 23, 31; February 4, 14, 16; March 27, 30; April 10, 12, 17; May 23, 26, 28; June 6, 8, 13, 21; July 24, 28, 30; August 2, 4, 9, 17, 20, 22; September 24, 26; October 5, 13, 16, 18, 22, 24; November 22; December 1, 9, 12, 14, 18, 20.

JULY 27 (2 + 7 = 9) A♣ ACE OF CLUBS

Concealed by a warm, friendly manner is a strong streak of ambition. According to your card this is the motivating force which provides the incentive to develop your talents and to persevere in your efforts to improve your lot in life. The numerical nine factor of your birthday suggests a broad range of interests and a possibility that you may have to contend with a physical or psychological handicap.

Your will to overcome, to succeed is encouraged by the positive influence of your ruling star, the Sun. As symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, this bright celestial influence implies that while you will probably have to work for it, material well-being is likely to be part of your good fortune. Although you aspire high, your greatest pleasure will come from sharing the prizes you have won with your loved ones.

Basically a diplomat, but you can be bossy, and when you have decided that you really want something, you will go to great lengths to get it. Fortunately, idealism usually is an integral part of your determination to succeed. You can be most capable in positions of leadership, but you may have to guard against simmering discontent when you can not occupy the top spot. All too often, when things do not go your way, you may tend to withdraw and "nurse your bruised ego." Since you are vulnerable in this respect, you may find that those hard to diagnose illnesses have a psychological root. If you can keep from being undone by your sensitivity, you should find your greatest satisfaction in people related activities. High on your list of determining factors in choosing an occupation or interest should be what does that job or activity have to offer in the way of opportunity to share your quest for knowledge. This suggests that you may be especially suited for teaching, writing and research. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with the writer Alexander Dumas Jr., scientist Bernouilli, actors Donald Crisp and Keenan Wynn, dancer Anton Dolin, baseball's Leo Durocher, singer Bobby Gentry and skating star Peggy Fleming.

Except for causing you to be almost too cautious, a sixth sense regarding people will pay off in marriage and friendship. You may find greater appreciation of all you have to offer in someone born in January 24, 29, 30; February 2, 8; March 25, 26; April 4, 18; May 21, 22, 29; June 14, 19, 20; July 25, 31; August 10, 15, 16, 23; September 27; October 6, 11, 12, 19; November 23; December 2, 7, 8, 15, 21.

JULY 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) K♥ KING OF HEARTS

A dramatic individualist with tremendous magnetism is suggested by the combination of your royal crown card with the numerical one factor of your birthday. You should find no real difficulty in achieving pre-eminence in just about any endeavor you undertake. In all probability, you may find it hard to stay out of the limelight.

The regal attributes of your card are amplified by your royal Sun sign, Leo. Your celestial ruler, the Sun, further accents the probability that your proper place is to be found in some expression of leadership. Accept this challenge and responsibility, and the Eight of Diamonds, representative of your ruling planet, suggests that you will have all the means needed to support your elegant and expensive tastes. Multi-talented and lucky, yet the prime source of your strength is your "emotional power." While its dynamic charm can win you the multitudes, it can also lose it all for you, if you yield to its self-indulgent passions.

Identified with the top Heart card, you are likely to have a humanitarian perspective, which, when expressed, can reveal your true greatness. Vitality, both intellectually and physically, suggests that you do not have to depend on your magnanimous charms for success. One significant hurdle may be a tendency to take things for granted, dreaming of all the wonderful things you could do, but doing nothing to make them happen. Perhaps the following notables who share this birthday with you will provide the necessary incentive. Among them are the artist Jean Corot, writer Ludwig Fenerbach, "freedom of the press" champion John Zenger, pioneer palentologist Edward Cope, labor leader Harry Bridges, actor Joe E. Brown, singer Rudy Vallee, sports stars Bill Bradley, Barbara Ferrell and Vida Blue and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis.

In love, you are likely to make your own rules. A dignified facade conceals your mischievous inclination to lead others romantically. Exciting, a fun companion, even a great lover, yet, if you are not careful, streaks of petty selfishness and a tendency to carry grudges can mar this beautiful image. Though in affairs of the heart, you usually can pick and choose, your best bets for love may be born on January 25; February 3; March 21; April 19; May 30; June 15; July 26, 30; August 11, 24; September 22, 26, 28; October 7, 20, 24; November 22, 24, 27, 30; December 3, 16, 20, 22.

JULY 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) Q♥ QUEEN OF HEARTS

The sensitive, emotional power suggested by your crown card combined with your master number birthday may be too much of a good thing. While it can bring a touch of genius to your efforts, without self-discipline and humility, all this power could go to your head, leaving you with an aching heart and unfulfilled promises of greatness.

The spectacular possibilities implied in your birthday are certainly not minimized by your ruling planet, the Sun. As symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, your guiding star suggests that your talents and abilities can be translated into hard cash. A creature of extremes, others are likely to respond to your vacillating moods. This power to move suggests that you can set them on fire with your visions. If you do not use this power in politics or some type of spiritual ministry, you are likely to find it every bit as compelling in expressions of music and drama. Fundamentally constructive, but your strong emotional nature warns of the danger of getting off on negative tangents. The unfortunate consequences of dubious involvements and activities are likely to far surpass your normal good fortune.

An innate sense of grandeur encourages you to think big and aesthetically, so avoid routine occupations and situations which are likely to frustrate your creative spirit. Take on those grand projects, especially those with humanistic or artistic overtones. For inspiration, you share this birthday with composers Enrique Granados and Sigmund Romberg, writer Booth Tarkington, dictator Benito Mussolini, statesman Dag Hammersjold, attorney Melvin Belli, actresses Clara Bow and Thelma Todd, actors William Powell and Robert Horton and pianist Peter Duchin.

On stage, before the cameras, even in the pulpit, you can be very sentimental and expressive. Unfortunately, your more intimate involvements may suffer from the rigid discipline that you tend to place on your emotions. Personal happiness may require that you learn how to give love and affection, and avoid a tendency to dominate and to be preoccupied with your own interests. You may find a greater incentive to make these efforts for love with someone born on January 22, 27, 30; February10, 17; March 23, 26, 30; April 6, 13, 16, 21; May 22, 26, 29; June 2, 9, 12, 17, 20, 24; July 22, 25, 31; August 5, 8, 16, 20, 23; September 21, 27; October 1, 4, 9, 12, 16, 19; November 23, 30; December 5, 12, 15, 21.

JULY 30 (3 + 0 = 3) J♥ JACK OF HEARTS

The noble attributes symbolized in your card are enhanced by the personable influence suggested in your numerical three birthday. This suggests a dynamic emotional power, which can be a tremendous force for good or evil. Fortunately, except for possible temperamental outbursts, you are inclined to use these heart energies constructively.

The creative power reflected in your card is reinforced astrologically by the Sun, your ruling body. With the Eight of Diamonds representing this stellar influence, you have the potential to turn that power into profitable productivity. Though you may be extravagant with your own resources, a suspicious skepticism encourages you to be very shrewd when it comes to business. No lack in the brain department, but its potential may be minimized by egotistical attitudes or insufficient development.

Since you can be quite outspoken, it is particularly important that you make a point of backing up your opinions with facts of wisdom. Prestige is likely to be important, so you will enjoy public functions, especially those in which you can demonstrate your leadership capabilities. In this respect, you could be particularly effective directing efforts to bring social and civic improvements. A passionate sensitivity suggests that you probably could give a good account of your abilities in the arts. Or you might prefer to bring your creative energies into manufacturing and businesses involved with the public. For some more ideas, you share this birthday with writer Emily Bronte, economist Thorsten Veblen, auto manufacturer Henry Ford, artist Henry Moore, singer Paul Anka and baseball's Casey Stengel.

Socially a star, but those one to one emotional situations may cause you to lose your savoir-faire. Embarrassed by your own intense feelings, romantic involvements may be sort of awkward. In order to maintain your composure, you may become so exclusive that even those whom you love may find it difficult to get close to you. You may feel more relaxed with someone born on February 3, 5, 11, 15, 17, 18; April 1, 7, 11, 13, 14; May 30; June 3, 7, 9, 10; July 26, 28; August 3, 5, 6; September 22, 24, 28; October 1, 2, 20; November 24; December 16, 18, 22.

JULY 31 (3 + 1 = 4) 10♥ TEN OF HEARTS

Your high heart card suggests that you are a visionary, a dreamer of grand dreams. Fortunately, the numerical four quality of your birthday suggests that you have the practical ability to give substance to your wonderful ideas. An inherent ability to succeed in people related activities implies that you can be particularly effective in group and community endeavors.

Your potential for success is enhanced by your Leo sun. As this brilliant body is represented by the Eight of Diamonds, it implies the probability that you can turn the products of your imagination and public appeal into profit. Positive as you can be, there are times when you may have to guard against a tendency to indulge in self-depreciation. Although fundamentally lucky, you are not afraid of hard work. When you achieve your destined success, you wiil probably find relatives and friends you never knew you had, calling on you for help. Generous as you are inclined to be, when that generosity is abused, you tend to withdraw into a protective shell.

While you have a potential for success in many areas, your heart card suggests that you are likely to be happiest in occupations and activities involving you with the public. Being rather thin skinned, you may prefer to hide behind a typewriter, as an author, or in the laboratory as a scientist. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with John Erickson, designer of the battleship"Monitor," philosopher MadameHelena Blavatsky, merchant tycoon S.S. Kresge, Hall of Fame jurist James Kent, pathologist Theobald Smith, artist George Baxter, actresses France Nuyen and Geraldine Chaplin, actors Don Murray and Jack Lord and tennis star Evonne Goolagong.

Whether it be a crowd or that special someone, you can win through your charms.Intimate relationships may be disturbed by a tendency to be rather outspoken, and an extreme sensitivity, which fears the critical appraisal of loved ones. You need love, but the responsibilities of marriage may conflict with your independent spirit. You may come closer to finding someone compatible to your eccentricities born on January 21, 26, 29, 30; February 4, 7, 16, 19; March 25, 26; April 3, 12, 15, 20; May 21, 31; June 8, 11, 16, 19. 20; July 27, 29; August 4, 7, 12, 15, 16; September 23, 25, 29; October 3, 11, 12; November 21, 25, 27; December 4, 7, 8, 19.

AUGUST 1 (1 = 1) Q♦ QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

It may not be on a throne, but your royal card and number one birthday suggest that an expression of leadership or the top spot in your field is likely to be in your cards. Since you can excel in just about anything you choose to do, be careful that your head doesn't become too big for your crown.

The regal magic of your crown card is further enhanced by the Sun, your crown jewel and ruling planet. As represented by the Eight of Diamonds, this bright planet accents your power to acquire those baubles and other treasures so dear to your heart. Somewhat of an adventurer, your energies are revitalized by new people, ideas and places. If things become too static, you'll probably find some way to liven them up. Driven by ambition, there is a strong probability that you will achieve whatever you aspire to. Just don't assume that success and authority are your divine right. Prepare to handle the leadership you seek, and guard against shirking your responsibilities.

As you enjoy being the center of attention, some phase of showbusiness could bring out your inner sparkle. Although possibly somewhat obscured by your aggressive brilliance, you've a sensitive intellect, which suggests that you may find your particular brand of success in science and in the literary field. To illustrate your diversified potential, note the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are the naturalist Jean Lamark, explorer William Clark, writers Richard Dana Jr. and Herman Melville, astronomer Maria Mitchell, architect Claude Bragdon, tennis star John Kramer, clothes designer Yves St. Laurent, and television's Maria Cole.

A natural magnetism feeds your extravagant social urges, according to the Nine of Hearts representative of your decanate ruler, Jupiter. Since your natural wisdom seems to abandon you in affairs of the heart, watch that you don't complicate things further through arrogance and temperamental attitudes. You may find greater stability in romance and friendship with those born on January 29; February 1, 11, 15, 17; March 25; April 7, 11, 15; May 21, 29; June 3, 7, 9, 19; July 25, 28; August 3, 5, 15, 23; September 21, 24, 28; October 1, 11, 19, 22; November 20, 24; December 7, 15, 18, 22.

AUGUST 2 (2 = 2) J♦ JACK OF DIAMONDS

A "creative optimist" is the image suggested by your card. The cocky enthusiasm which it also implies is sweetened by the friendly sensitivity of your number two birthday. This combination points out the possibility that your good fortune is likely to be enhanced through some sort of cooperative endeavor.

With your guiding star, the Sun, represented by the Eight of Diamonds, you are not about to spend much time starving in some garret with your talents unrecognized. Not only should your efforts bring you success and renown, but during your lifetime while you are still around to enjoy the fruits of your achievements. Imagination, whether it be expressed in the arts or in business, is the key to your success. As a diamond this creative visionary ability should help you dream up some profitable schemes. It should also enable you to find success in the old tried and true money making enterprises, such as banking and the stock market. Despite a streak of youthful restlessness, you are really most dependable. Actually, your conscientious desire to meet all your responsibilites may prove to be a breeder of nervousness.

Jupiter, ruler of the decanate of Leo in which your birthday occurs, symbolized by the charming Eight of Hearts, suggests that your strong personality will help make your fortune. So while your talents can be demonstrated in poetry and philosophical discourses, they may be even more effective in front of a camera. For a few examples of this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with city planner Pierre L'Enfant, philosopher-physicist John Tyndall, theosophist Henry Steel Olcott, film producer Jack Warner, sports columist John Kieran, actress Myrna Loy, actors Gary Merrill, Carrol O'Connor and Peter O'Toole and writer James Baldwin.

You crave affection and companionship, yet, in spite of your innate idealism, you may not be too careful where you find it. Socially, you are a lot of fun, but an inclination to self-indulgence and eccentric moods may make you difficult to live with. Fortunately, you have a warm nature which can make up for a lot of vices. And since you really need to share, you might just find that someone born on January 23, 30; February 12, 16, 18; March 26; April 8, 12, 14, 17; May 22, 30; June 4, 8, 10, 13, 20; July 26; August 4, 6, 9, 12, 16, 24; September 22, 29; October 2, 5, 10, 20; November 25; December 1, 8, 16, 23.

AUGUST 3 (3 = 3) 10♦ TEN OF DIAMONDS

The bright, personable quality suggested numerically by your birthday should contribute significantly to the success (10) symbolized in your card. Making up your mind as how to best use the wonderful possibilities implied in your card may actually prove to be one of your more difficult challenges.

Not content with second best, you'll aim for the top, using your keen eyes to discern who and what will contribute to your getting there. The positive power of the Eight of Diamonds, which represents your ruling planet, the Sun, adds impetus to the probability of achieving your high objectives. When you make it, it should be no surprise to find that you have both the talent and the ability to effectively sustain your achievements and handle the responsibilities of leadership. While you can do many things well, you are not likely to be well-suited for manual labor. An inclination to look for the easy way suggests that you may discover labor-saving devices and profitable short cuts.

The fact that your birthday occurs in the decanate of Leo, ruled by Jupiter, doesn't hurt the fortunate aspects of your birthday one bit. This planet of fortune, as symbolized by the Queen of Diamonds, suggests that you should benefit from occupations and products which cater to the fairer sex. It also suggests that you have an extravagant streak, which is going to give your ability to acquire money some competition. If you decide that you don't want to be head of state, bank president, merchant, or producer, you can be every bit as successful as an entertainer. For some examples, you share this birthday with King Haakon of Norway, statesman Stanley Baldwin, poet Rupert Brooke, actress Dolores Del Rio, producer Richard Adler, and singer Tony Bennett.

Socially, you're apt to be a ball. So much so, that your one to one relationships may become a crowd. A generous lover, yet your aura of success may incline you to be too dominant in close relationships. An inclination to hide your emotional uncertainties behind a curtain of remoteness is not likely to help understanding. In trying to find that perfect lover you might start by looking for someone born on February 5, 8, 11, 13, 17; March 28; April 1, 4, 9, 13; May 24; June 3, 5, 9, 22; July 30; August 1, 5, 18; September 26; October 1, 14; November 22; December 10, 20.

AUGUST 4 (4 = 4) 9♦ NINE OF DIAMONDS

"All that money can buy" is the motto suggested by your card. Numerologically, you have the practical wherewithal to acquire and enjoy the finer things of life artistically as well as materially. Preoccupation with the latter may be softened by a sense of universality, which may encourage your involvement in humanitarian endeavors.

The ability to translate your aspirations into cash is suggested by the Eight of Diamonds, which represents your stellar ruler, the Sun. This power is aided by a stubborn tenacity which presses you to persevere until you've gained your objectives. Organizational skills, plus the ability to direct the work efforts of others suggests that you are capable of running the whole show, especially if it's your own business. In this role, guard against being too arbitrary and bossy.

Your money making powers are enhanced by the imaginative influence of the Jack of Diamonds, which symbolizes your decanate ruler, Jupiter. Besides sparking your efforts with a youthful vitality, unfortunately this influence also suggests an inclination to spend your money as fast as you make it. Since this is a creative influence, check for possible talent in the arts. Who knows, rather than be a statesman or boss, you might be more contented writing poetry and singing songs. To illustrate, you share this birthday with the poet Percy Shelley, writers Walter Pater and Knut Hamsun, artist S. Stinding, singer Sir Harry Lauder, Queen Mother Elizabeth of England, politicians Ezra Taft Benson and Governor John Alsop.

Great as your need for love and companionship may be, it is apt to be impeded by pride and an inability to say "I love you." Even the warmth suggested by your Sun sign is apt to be hidden behind an outward coolness. Overcome your emotional inhibitions and you might find some personal happiness, especially if that someone is born on January 20, 30; February 7,12, 14, 18; March 26, 29; April 3, 8, 10, 14; May 22, 25, 30; June 4, 6, 10, 20;

July 21, 26, 31; August 4, 16, 19, 24; September 22, 27; October 2, 12, 15, 20, 25; November 23; December 16, 21.

AUGUST 5 (5 = 5) 8♦ EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

The power symbolized in your card can turn the versatility implied numerically in your birthday into profitable expression. A restless vitality could win for you in sports. Just do not allow the uncertainty that it might also encourage to minimize your achievements.

The positive determination to get ahead reflected in your card is emhasized by the fact that your card, the Eight of Diamonds, also represents your ruling star, the Sun. This dynamic combination suggests that you can make it in just about any arena you choose. In spite of your superior earning capabilities, an inclination to be intrigued by speculative ventures suggests that you may have to learn the value of money through bitter experience. Remember, your luck depends on your productive efforts. Also resist power tactics and the temptation to get your way at any price.

With a birthday occurring in the decanate of Leo sub-ruled by Jupiter, it appears that the planets as well as the cards are stacked in your favor. Since this planetary influence is symbolized by the Queen of Clubs, some of your good fortune is likely to be linked with the association with women, and/or in occupations which serve their interests. This sensitive influence may also direct some of your materialistic drive into the arts and intellectual pursuits. So while you can find success in financial enterprises, you may also find it through painting, writing and in various aspects of the entertainment industry. For example, you share this birthday with artists Repin, cartoonist Clare A. Biggs, author Guy De Maupassant, model-executive Anita Colby, film director John Huston, actor Robert Taylor, politician Richard Kleindienst, astronaut Neil Armstrong and football's Roman Gabriel.

Socially, your charm can be an asset, but intimate associates may feel intimidated by it. True, you can be most generous, but watch that you do not demand too much in return. Uncertainties in love and friendship may be less likely with someone born on January 21, 23, 28; February 5, 13, 15, 19; March 24, 30; April 1, 9, 11, 15, 17, 20; May 20, 26; June 5, 7, 11, 13, 18, 24; July 22,29, 30; August 1, 3, 7, 9, 14, 20; September 25, 26; October 3, 5, 10, 16, 23, 24; November 22, 30; December 1, 6, 12, 19, 20.

AUGUST 6 (6 = 6) 7♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

A romantic materialist is the image painted by your card and the numerological factor of your birthday. Through the use of philosophy, color and music, you seek to bring an aura of harmony into your home, work and play, yet even in the midst of abundance, a compulsive urge for more money, recognition and love is likely to disturb the serenity you try to create.

If you do not use the power represented in the Eight of Diamonds, symbolic of your stellar ruler the Sun, to earn your material well-being, you will probably acquire it through marriage, gifts and inheritances. Although once turned on, you are likely to be a very hard worker, all through your life, but you will probably have to buck a sense of inertia. This may be the prime obstacle standing between you and achievement.

Do not let the good fortune associated with your decanate ruler Jupiter tempt you to trust to luck. As represented by the Nine of Spades, this planetary influence clearly indicates your good fortune is going to require something of you. If not long hours of hard work, then it may be a marriage or an association which will demand its pound of flesh. A tendency to indulge in impatience and over-reacting to frustrations warns of your vulnerability to nervous ailments. Your peace of mind is also not likely to be helped by an inclination to become involved in dubious schemes and intrigues. Careerwise, your diamond card suggests you are a natural for merchandizing, banking and investment corporations. A compelling need to be appreciated combined with a natural dramatic sense may encourage you to find your fulfillment theatrically. For a few examples of how others have used the potential of this day, you share this birthday with the poet Alfred Lord Tennyson, politician Daniel O'Connell, Wallace Sterling, president of Stanford, columnist Luella Parson, actresses Lucille Ball and Ella Raines and actor Robert Mitchum.

You will go to just about any length to gain the object of your desire. But the joy to be found in your conquests may be minimized by an unreasonable idealism, complicated by jealousy and possessiveness. Compatibility with your bizarre tastes may be most easily found with someone born on January 22; February 3, 11, 14, 16, 20; March 30, 31; April 7, 10, 12, 16; May 26, 27; June 3, 6, 8, 12; July 22, 30; August 2, 4, 8, 20, 21; October 4, 16, 17, 24; November 22, 28; December 12, 13, 30.

AUGUST 7 (7 = 7) 6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

A strong intuitive sense of values and introspective nature are suggested by your card and the numerical essence of your birthday. Quiet and easy going, a part of you might just prefer to spend your life socializing. But there are those grand dreams, which are likely to prod you into either earning or marrying the means to make them come true.

Your Leo Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds, certainly implies that you have the potential to support your fondest design for living. This might be accomplished by translating your dream power and inherent analytical abilities into productive expression of innovative ideas. Inertia and procrastination are likely to be the only real obstacles to all that you aspire to.

Another eight, the Eight of Spades, which symbolizes your decanate ruler, Jupiter, indicates the strong probability that work or some other type of productive activity is likely to be an integral part of your good fortune. It need not be such a chore, especially if you use your imagination and find something that acts as a catalyst to your enthusiasm. In this instance, your inclination to think big, to become involved with large undertakings and organizations may truly pay off. While you are not particularly suited to gambling, you may find your money sense a significant attribute in banking, stocks and bonds and other money related enterprises. Almost too subtle to be a boss, yet you do have leadership attributes, which might encourage you to bring your solid insight into some expression of authority. For some ideas, you share this birthday with Revolutionary War General Nathaniel Greene, statesman Ralph Bunche, infamous World War I spy Mata Hari, astrologer Alan Leo and actress Billie Burke.

A lavish and generous lover and host you are, but a lack of discrimination may cause social and emotional problems. Romantic fantasies incline you to pick the goodlooking guy who turns out to be weak and irresponsible, or the gal who wants to run the whole show. You might improve your prospects in love and friendship by looking for someone born on February 1, 4, 5, 17; March 31; April 1, 13, 17; May 27, 28; June 9, 13; July 23, 24, 31; August 5, 9, 21, 22; September 27; October 1, 5, 17, 18; November 23, 29; December 1, 13, 14.

AUGUST 8 (8 = 8) 5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

A restless urge for self-expression, to be in the limelight is suggested by the combination of your card with your Leo birthday. Numerologically the latter indicates you do have the power to find your place in the sun.

Although your card implies uncertainty regarding money and material circumstances, the Eight of Diamonds,which represents your ruling star, the Sun, indicates a potential to overcome any limitations. This dynamic influence indicates that persistent efforts can win over impossible odds. A productive individualist, you are likely to be happier working for yourself. Avoid occupations and activities which are too routine, or which frustrate your need to move around. You thrive on new people and change. While you may deceive others, do not fool yourself into thinking that you have unlimited energies to draw upon. Due to the tendency to keep going on nervous energy, it is important that you plan on quiet periods for recuperation, preferably outdoors, where you can absorb the healing energies of nature.

Mundanely, the Seven of Spades, symbolic of your decanate ruler Jupiter, implies that your work will be demanding A higher interpretation of this same influence suggests that peace for your restless spirit may be found through some spiritual expression, For an idea of your diversified potential, note the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are pioneer editor Charles Dana, paleontologist Henry Osborn, inventor of the cyclotron Ernest Lawrence, geologist Sir Francis Ogilvy, politician Arthur Goldburg, actress Esther Williams, actors Rory Calhoun and Dustin Hoffman and producer Andy Warhol.

You attract strong affection from family and friends. At times this love may seem confining, inhibiting your free spirit. The inclination to vacillate is likely to be most evident in your people involvements, at times seeking intellectual companionship. Then there are those times when you are all hearts and flowers. Basically not fickle, but your changing moods and temperament suggest a need for a very flexible mate. You might find that someone born on January 24, 26, 29; February 5, 6, 18; March 22, 25, 28; April 1, 2, 14, 18, 20, 23, 26; May 21, 24, 29; June 10, 14, 16, 19; July 24, 25; August 6, 10, 12, 15, 18, 22, 23; September 20, 21, 28; October 2, 6, 8, 14. 18. 19; November 24, 30; December 2, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22.

AUGUST 9 (9 = 9) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

The hard-driving materialist suggested by your card may be somewhat softened by the broad scope of awareness implied numerically in your birthday. While this may just increase the range of your ambitions, it may also inspire a philanthropic interest in the well-being of others. Whether it be in the pursuit of your fortune or some humanitarian endeavor, your efforts are likely to entail many changes and much travel.

The determination to make life worth all the bother receives added impetus from the Eight of Diamonds, symbolic of your guiding star. This stellar card influence clearly implies that you have no lack in earning potential, and probably an abundance of physical vitality. Manufacturing, anything which involves direct contact with the public, such as selling and entertainment could prove to be your personal Eldorado. You have a strong will which can work miracles, but it also can create opposition when you impose on others. Temper and self-insistence may be at the base of most of your mix-ups and misunderstandings.

Jupiter, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Six of Spades, points out the probability that inspired productive action is vital to your peace of mind as well as to your prosperity. The intuitive power represented here should enhance your spiritual expression as well as sharpen your analytical abilities. Fortunately, you have the tenacity to persist through all the ups and downs handed to you.You also have a wide choice of possibilities through which you can achieve the good fortune associated with your birthday. For some examples you share this birthday with King Henry V of England, early dental surgeon William Morton, one of the first to use ether, physicist Avogadro, writers Isaak Walton and John Dryden, dancer Leonide Massine, actor Leo Genn, singer Connie Stevens and tennis star Rod Laver.

A desire to love the whole world can bring all sorts of romantic involvements. But since you can be somewhat of a romantic masochist, be careful that your strong feelings do not involve you in relationships which can bring more pain than pleasure. This may be less likely with someone born on January 21, 25; February 6, 12, 14, 17, 19, March 21; April 2, 8,10,13,15,19; May 30; June 4, 6, 9, 11, 15; August 2, 5, 7, 11, 24; September 22, 29; October 1, 3, 7, 20; November 25, 28; December 3, 16, 23.

AUGUST 10 (1 + 0 = 1) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

The urge to be on top suggested by your numerical one birthday combined with the desire for self-expression implied in your card is likely to get you into the spotlight one way or another. A tendency to scatter your energies through too many interests may prove the greatest hazard to your high aspirations.

With the Eight of Diamonds symbolizing your ruling planet the Sun, there's little doubt that you can turn your personable force into profit. While your dynamic appearance suggests that you are a natural for show business, this same quality can help you to promote yourself or any cause which truly captures your interest. Be careful that the sensitivity and secret moods hidden by your optimistic facade do not become your undoing. In spite of your moneymaking powers, you may not hang on to much of it until your middle years.

According to the Five of Spades, symbolic of your decanate ruler Jupiter, your good fortune is likely to include a great deal of travel and many changes. Do not fight it, as contacts made in these journeys could contribute significantly to your success. While you may find success in engineering, banking and politics, expression in writing and drama could also prove most rewarding. For example, among the notables who share this birthday with you are President Herbert Hoover, aeronaut Hugo Eckener, television inventor Farnsworth, actresses Norma Shearer, Rhonda Fleming and Martha Hyer, singers Eddie Fisher and Jimmy Dean.

Surrounded by people, yet you are inclined to have just a few real friends. Due to disappointments in love and friendship, you may tend to isolate yourself emotionally. Since this is not a particularly good solution to your need for love, you might improve your chances for personal happiness by overcoming those negative attitudes and by selecting lovers and friends most carefully. Your effort in this respect might be helped by looking for someone born on January 22, 26; February 2, 7; March 22; April 3, 16, 20; June 12, 16; July 27; August 8,12,25; September 23, 30; October 4, 18, 21; November 26; December 4, 17, 24.

AUGUST 11 (Master Number) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

The spectacular possibilities suggested by your master number birthday may be enhanced by the sensitivity or sabotaged by the subtle fears associated with your card. You have the choice. Self-discipline and cooperation are the prime key words to the wonderful potential represented in your birthday.

Since the vital influence of the Eight of Diamonds represents your guiding star, the material and monetary world should present no real challenges which you can not overcome. With the tremendous energies symbolized here, you have got the potential for success in more than one endeavor. Very idealistic, yet an inclination to go to extremes suggests that you may be vulnerable to spells of egocentricity and delusions of grandeur.

Jupiter, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Four of Spades adds a practical stability which can turn your high aspirations into productivity and profit. Healthy as you are likely to be, do not take your health for granted, or you may end up depleting your vitality, bringing on depressions which can be devastating as your positive expression can be constructive. The following demonstrate the diversity of your potential. For example, you share this birthday with the famous psychic Andrew Jackson Davis, statesman Sadi Carnot, first forester and Governor Gifford Pinchot, composer Carrie Jacobs Bond, actor Lloyd Nolan, actress Arlene Dahl and television's Mike Douglas.

While you are inclined to love with your whole being, you also insist on retaining a sense of personal freedom. You are among the few who "can have their cake and eat it too." One of the keys to your emotional success is probably your ability to see and understand the other person's point of view. Your prospects for success in love and friendship may be even further improved by choosing someone born on January 23, 27, 29; February 8, March 23, 25, 28, 30, 31; April 4, 17, 21; May 21, 24, 26, 27; June 13, 17, 19, 22; July 22,23, 28; August 9, 13, 15, 18, 20, 21; September 24, 28; October 5, 9, 11, 14, 16, 17, 22; November 24, 27; December 1, 7, 10, 12, 13, 18, 22.

AUGUST 12 (1 + 2 = 3) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

The compelling urge for self-expression and recognition suggested by your numerical three birthday is likely to feed the fires of ambition implied in your card. The probability of your achieving those lofty objectives is enhanced by your naturally optimistic and aggressive nature.

Your stellar ruler, the Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds, suggests an aura of affluence, which will attract good fortune to you. Although you are inclined to be materially oriented, you have a subtle idealism, which encourages you to look beyond the limitations of the mundane. Whether it be in work or some community effort, all your endeavors are likely to benefit from this positive, constructive view of life. Proud as you are you are no shrinking violet, so you are likely to insist on full recognition for your contributions. Be it in business, pleasure or on a sound stage, no one is more capable of directing the action.

Jupiter, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Three of Spades indicates a need for an activity worthy of your dynamic powers Otherwise, your tremendous vitality may dissipate itself in confusion and triviality. Quandaries in choosing an occupation or direction are likely to arise from your great versatility. Among the prime determining factors in choosing a career or interest is what does it offer in the way of opportunity for creative expression. To illustrate, note the following who share this birthday with you, how important this consideration appears to have been. The list includes writer-philosopher Helena Blavatsky, writer Robert Southerly, artists Thomas Bewick, Abbott Thayer and George Bellows, Diamond Jim Brady, philanthropist Julius Rosenwald, film director Cecil B.

DeMille, actors James Carey and Barry Sullivan.

Due to emotional uncertainty, you may prefer to play romantic games until you can make up your ever changing heart. You might minimize this inclination to fickleness by finding social activities which will supply enough variety of action to satisfy your emotional reslessness with someone born on January 22, 24, 28, 30; February 4, 9; March 20, 24, 26; April 5, 16, 18; May 20, 22; June 1, 12, 14, 18, 20; July 29, 31; August 8, 10, 14, 16; September 25, 27; October 4, 6, 10, 12, 23; November 23, 28; December 2, 6, 8, 19, 21.

AUGUST 13 (1 + 3 = 4) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

As it makes you a King, number thirteen should be your lucky number. The practical strength to realize your high calling is suggested by the numerological four of your birthday. Cardwise, you obviously belong in positions of authority or at the top of your chosen field.

The probability of renown is further accented astrologically by your Leo sun. As represented by the Eight of Diamonds, your ruling planet implies that you have the power to achieve whatever you aspire to. The only question may be whether you have the necessary self-discipline and push to develop and make the most of the potential symbolized in your birthday. Ideally, you are probably best suited for some role of spiritual or political leadership. Though less spectacular, you probably can be every bit as effective as a physician scientist or teacher. Hovering like a cloud, the pleasures of youth may have been somewhat sobered by a sense of destiny. While the burden of responsibilities fated for you may seem heavy, you are fortunate in that you are likely to have the good health and physique not only to carry them, but to find success through them.

Although constantly tempted to get into a comfortable rut, Mars, your decanate ruler, as represented by the Four of Diamonds, suggests that an inherent contempt for limitations intellectually and materially is likely to contribute to your drive for success. Not only honors, but abundant material rewards are likely to result from your efforts. Unless it is swinging golf clubs for money, your fortune is not likely to be found working with your hands. To illustrate, you share this birthday with scientists Anders Angstrom and John Baird, sharpshooter Annie Oakley, social reformer Lucy Stone, Archbishop Makarios, Cuba's leader Fidel Castro, director Alfred Hitchcock, actors Regis Toomey, Bert Lahr, Buddy Rogers and Gene Raymond and golf star Ben Hogan.

Naturally magnetic, so love and friendship are likely to seek you out. Your enjoyment of love may be minimized by an ego which may put a straightjacket on your expression of affection. So despite your popularity and matrimonial state, you may know a touch of loneliness. This may be less likely with someone born on January 25, 29, 31; February 5, 10, 11; March 21, 25, 27; April 1, 6, 7, 19, 23; May 21, 23; June 2, 3, 15, 19, 21; July 29; August 11, 15, 17; September 27; October 7, 11, 13, 23; November 21, 29; December 3, 7, 9,19.

AUGUST 14 (1 + 4 = 5) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

According to the numerical five influence of your birthday the superior mental potential implied in your card will be stimulated into action by a wide variety of interests and experiences. Since you have the inborn versatility to excel in many endeavors, a lack of patience and perseverance is likely to be the only obstacle to your success.

Were your interests to encourage a retiring role, your ruling sphere the Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds, suggests that the products of your creativity and a desire to enjoy the good things of life would probably force you out of hiding. While you may not start out with much, the expression of your talents and abilities are likely to reward you handsomely. You have a perceptive awareness capable of spanning the gap between the mundane and spiritual realms. Through research, writing and lecturing, you may become a source of enlightened consciousness for those less gifted.

While Mars, your decanate ruler, may encourage speculative undertakings, as represented by the Three of Diamonds, this planetary influence warns against pressing your natural luck too far. You can make money, but your expensive tastes and impatience with details, suggests that managing it may be a real problem. Thriving as you do on a constant flux of activity, new people, new experiences, do not let yourself become stuck in some isolated cubby hole. So while you may be at your best in some intellectual pursuit, or in the role of an executive of a service oriented organization, you should also consider some interest that will allow you to indulge your urge for travel. For a few career possibilities, you share this birthday with one of Italy's foremost statesman Paolo Sarpi, physicist Hans Oerstad, astrologer J.T.Chitnis, writers F.T. Seaton and John Galsworthy, John Ringling North of circus fame and entertainer Buddy Greco.

Socially and intimately, you need those who can excite you intellectually as well as romantically. Those ever-changing moods and a tendency to run through lovers and friends suggests the probability of more than one marriage on your agenda. This romantic quest may be more fun with someone born on January 26; February 10, 11, 12, 17; March 22, 28; April 6, 7, 8, 13, 20; May 24, 27, 29; June 2, 3, 4, 9, 16, 22; July 23, 25, 30; August 5, 12, 18, 21, 23; September 21, 26; October 1, 8, 14, 17, 19. November 22, 27, 30; December 4, 10. 13, 15, 20.

AUGUST 15 (1 + 5 = 6) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

The numerical six influence of your birthday suggests that a quiet, diplomatic manner masks the strength and temperament implied in your card. This combination also suggests a creative intellect with intuitive overtones. You usually are right,but minimize the temptation to be arbitrary and obstinate.

Material protection is suggested by the Eight of Diamonds, symbolic of your guiding star, the Sun. While some of your good fortune is likely to come from family and helpful friends, in all probability your talents and other abilities will be the prime source of your good fortune.. With your prophetic intellect, you are likely to prefer bypassing the academic process, acquiring your knowledge through vision and experience. Except for neurotic complaints, you are likely to be blessed with a good physique and stamina.

An introspective streak may encourage you to be a loner, but Mars, your decanate ruler, as represented by the Two of Clubs, suggests that you have much to gain through cooperative endeavors, especially the sharing of stimulating intellectual activity. Guard against jeopardizing relationships through arguments and erratic behavior. Identified with a creative crown card, it appears that your destiny should include some expression of leadership, either politically or in the arts. Your's is a birthday of monarchs, writers and theatrical personalities. Among them are Frederick Wilhelm of Prussia, Napoleon Bonaparte, Emperor of France, writers Sir Walter Scott, Thomas De Quincy and T. E. Lawrence, illustrator Walter Crane, sculptor Ivan Mestrovic, singer Emma Calve, actress Ethel Barrymore, cooking expert Julia Child and Princess Anne of England.

Numerologically, your birthday is considered to be a marriage number, but close relationships may prove a chore. Though it is likely to earn you the reputation of being fickle, you may prefer transitory involvements with no encumbrances. A preoccupation with career and other interests is likely to be another hazard to your domestic picture. Success in matrimony is going to take someone who can put up with your eccentricities. You might just happen to find that someone born on January 22, 27, 31; February 1, 5, 13; March 23, 27; April 1, 9, 16, 21; May 23; June 5, 12, 17, 21; July 31, August 1, 8, 13, 17; September 27, 28; October 4, 9, 13; November 23, 24; December 5, 9, 21, 22.

AUGUST 16 (1 + 6 = 7) — 10♣ — TEN OF CLUBS

The philosophical and aloof quality suggested by the numerical seven factor of your birthday may find a conflict with the aggressive, up-front nature associated with your card. Integrate these attributes and your profound, somewhat mystical perspective could contribute significantly to the dimension of your success.

Your Leo Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds, suggests that an urge for money and power is likely to propel you out of your melancholic introversion. This may not be easy, as procrastination combined with a lack of self-discipline can make this a major struggle. Travel, many moves and changes are likely to encourage an aura of uncertainty, which in turn may spawn irritability and chronic nervousness. Basically serious, but you do have a mischevious streak which can surface at the most inopportune moments. As you begin to uncover your true identity, you are likely to find that you have a genuine interest in the well-being of others. So much so, that you can be very effective in the role of counsellor, teacher and labor leader. And as you dig deeper into your bag of talents, you should not be too surprised to find an aptitude for being able to do just about anything from writing, singing to running financial organizations. Just to give you an idea of what others born on your day have done, note Labor leader George Meany, actress Ann Blyth, singer Eydie Gorme, actor Robert Culp and sports star Frank Gifford.

Mars, your decanate ruler, adds a certain vitality to everything that you do, including romance. Symbolized by the Three of Hearts, this planetary influence implies that your expression of love, even friendships may be rather ambiguous. So do not try to find your entire fulfillment in love. Actually, marriages in particular may benefit your being caught up with other interests, which would help to minimize the demands that you might otherwise make on your spouse. So for personal happiness, keep it light and look for someone born on January 1, 26; February 6, 7, 16; March 22, 28; April 2, 3, 12, 20; May 24, 31; June 10, 18; July 27, 31; August 4, 12, 18; September 23, 27, 29; October 14, 21; November 23, 25; December 4, 17, 19, 21.

AUGUST 17 (1 + 7 = 8) — 9♣ — NINE OF CLUBS

The power to fulfill the grand schemes encouraged by your card is indicated by the numerical eight factor of your birthday. A sense of universality may motivate an involvement in humanitarian endeavors. Do not allow fixed attitudes and indulgence in negative tangents jeopardize your wonderful possibilities.

Obviously with the Sun as your guiding star, you are not likely to hide either your talents or opinions. With the Eight of Diamonds representing this bright planet, both could prove profitable. A possible obstacle towards the realization of your great potential may be an inclination to vacillate from a positive, somewhat dogmatic faith to pessimistic despair. While you will worry a lot about it, money is not likely to be a real problem. Your leadership potential suggests that you could do well in politics or in running a business. A sincere desire to help others may encourage you to go into counselling, the legal profession or nursing. The latter may be helped significantly by a natural gift of healing.

Mars, the ruler of your Leo decanate, as identified with the King of Hearts, implies that you are apt to be an impulsive, dynamic individual. It also suggests a temperamental impatience with a reluctance to be bothered with details. A potential for success in writing and science is indicated, but a desire for something less rigid and more dramatic may put you on a stage or in front of, or behind a camera. To illustrate, you share this birthday with frontiersman Davy Crockett, scientist Pierre Fermat, missionary William Carey, writer Theodor Daubler, politician Harry Hopkins, producers Samuel Goldwyn and Richard Aldrich, actresses May West, Julia Marlowe, Ann Harding and Maureen O'Hara.

A compulsive urge to be emotionally involved may cause you to completely ignore the cautions of wisdom. Marry before thirty and there is a good chance that you will do it again. Loyal and generous to those who touch your heart, yet relationships may suffer from your extreme sensitivity and critical tongue. Love and friendship may be more fulfilling with someone born on January 27, 29; February 4, 7, 12; March 23, 25, 29, 31; April 3, 8, 21; May 21, 25, 27, 30; June 4, 17, 19, 23; July 23; August 13, 15, 19, 21, 24; September 22, 30; October 9, 11, 15, 17, 20; November 26, December 5, 7, 11, 13, 16, 29.

AUGUST 18 (18 = 1 + 8 = 9) 8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

The determined aggressiveness implied in your card may be just what you need to overcome the obstacles and fulfill the spectacular possibilities suggested by your numerological nine birthday. You are likely to find that challenges will supply you with the incentive to find your place in the sun.

The power of eight indicated by your card is amplified by the Eight of Diamonds, which symbolizes your Leo sun. This powerful combination of influences certainly implies that fame and fortune are a strong probability. So much so, that your more idealistic values may be jeopardized by a drive for material success. Your restless spirit is likely to heed the call of adventure, which will involve you in all sorts of exciting experiences. Naturally courageous, you face danger calmly and arguments with gleeful anticipation. Frequently saved only by an innate conservatism, which keeps you from making drastic moves without much forethought. Just the same, you will have to watch that your reckless streak does not encourage you to be accident prone. Since you do not like to take orders, you had better put yourself in a position to give them. Although you abhor details, you do have a natural aptitude for organization. Obviously, as the following clearly demonstrate, you have the potential to make it big. For example, you share this birthday with department store tycoon Marshall Field, composer Gus Edwards, explorer Meriweather Lewis, actress Shelley Winters and actor Robert Redford.

According to the Ten of Hearts, which represents your decanate ruler, Mars, success in dealing with the public and other people-related activities is almost a sure thing. On the other hand, intimate relationships may suffer from your dynamic intensity. And an inclination to overindulge in everything from food and drink to irritability and impatience is not likely to contribute much to domestic bliss. But if you learn to keep your cool, you can have just about anything or anybody. Regarding the latter, your best prospects may be found born on January 25, 28, 30; February 8, 11, 15; March 21, 24, 26, 30; April 4, 7, 11, 19, 22; May 20, 22, 26; June 3, 7, 15, 18, 20; July 22; August 3, 11, 14, 16, 20; October 7, 10, 12, 16; November 27; December 3, 6, 8, 12.

AUGUST 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

Not only the worrisome, but also the mystical attributes associated with your card are apt to be crowded out by the positive, somewhat materialistic character of your Leo birthday. Numerologically a one, your birthday suggests an urge for self-expression, which will probably motivate you to seek positions of leadership.

A bright personality is suggested by your stellar ruler, the Sun. With your ruling planet symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, you could turn this asset into profit, particularly through occupations dealing directly with the public. Money and an appreciation of the nicer things are likely to be a significant stimulus to your ambition. It will probably take some time for your earning abilities to catch up with your capacity for spending. The quest for your personal Eldorado will probably include a great deal of travel. Fortunately, you are likely to have the good health and the physique to support your adventurous spirit.

Occurring in the third decanate of Leo, your birthday has Mars as a sub-ruler. As represented by the Jack of Clubs, the vital energies of this planetary influence are likely to manifest in a quick, aggressive mind. While it also suggests that you can be temperamental, argumentative, you are not likely to carry grudges. A tendency to swing from exhilarating highs to spells of depression is somewhat minimized by your perseverance and optimistic outlook. While you are particularly suited for directing the action, success may also be found in service related endeavors. To give you an idea of your diversified possibilities, you share this birthday with clock manufacturer Seth Thomas, scientist John Flamsteed, Madame DuBarry, writer Ogden Nash, statesman Bernard Baruch, inventor-flyer Orville Wright, actor Alfred Lunt, actress Jill St.John and jockey Willie Shoemaker.

Personally magnetic, so you will probably attract all sorts of opportunities. Cool and calculating, you are not likely to commit yourself very easily to marriage. Practical considerations are likely to be important in your choice of mates and companions. Your strong sex drive is matched by a desire to associate with unusual and intellectually stimulating people. You may more readily find your peculiar requirements met in someone born on January 31; February 9, 16; March 27, 31; April 5, 12; May 23, 27; June 1, 8; July 23; August 4, 17, 21; October 13, 17; November 28; December 9, 13.

AUGUST 20 (2 + 0 = 2) 6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

The inherent intuitivity suggested by your card is enhanced by the sensitive numerical two of your birthday. These influences imply that you are a natural diplomat, and are likely to go to great lengths to achieve peace and harmony. While this may give you an easy rapport with people, do not allow the sacrifices it may entail encourage a martyr complex.

Though your earlier years may be somewhat of a struggle, the power to overcome and find success is clearly shown in both your cards and the astrological aspects of your birthday. Your Leo sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds certainly suggests that you can earn your way out of those earlier limitations. In your effort to move up the ladder of success, resist the temptation to take on more than you can handle, as you could lose the peace of mind so essential to your well-being. As you may have an inclination to sell yourself short guard against going to the other extreme by drifting into a do-nothing, lethargic limbo.

Mars, your decanate ruler, as represented by the Ten of Clubs accents the possibilities of success, especially through the expression of your perceptive intellect. While your keen mentality and ability to verbalize your thoughts imply that you can be quite capable in the role of attorney, preacher or actor, you may feel more at ease in behind-the-scenes activity. In this regard, you might find greater fulfillment in research and literary endeavors.

For some examples, you share this birthday with President Benjamin Harrison, chemist Jons Berzelius, statesmen Bernardo O'Higgins and Raymond Poincare, poets John Stephen McGroarty and Edgar Guest, writer Jacqueline Susann and actor Van Johnson.

Charming and among the most affectionate, yet you may experience far more than your share of disillusionment in love. Some of this may be due to a complex emotional nature , torn between sensuality and an almost platonic ideal. Since the need to express love is written all over your birthday, you may improve your romantic prospects by looking for someone born on February 10, 17; March 21, 31; April 6, 13, 19; May 27, 28, 30; June 2, 9, 15, 22; July 24, 26, 29; August 5, 11, 18, 21, 22, 24; September 22, 25, 28; October 1, 7, 14, 18, 20, 23; November 24, 28, 29; December 2, 10, 13, 14, 19, 22.

AUGUST 21 (2 + 1 = 3) — 5♣ — FIVE OF CLUBS

A bright, restless, somewhat willful individualist is suggested by the occult attributes of your birthday. The need for self-expression suggested numerically in your birthday combined with the versatility and need for freedom implied in your card is likely to encourage extensive travel and many experiments in the quest of your special thing.

You are not likely to be satisfied with the second best, so it is fortunate that your ruling planet the Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds , gives you the potential to excel at just about anything you might undertake. Mentally quick and responsible, you can be particularly effective in administrative positions. In authoritative roles guard against being a too severe taskmaster. It is those inner uncertainties, possibly based on a sense of incompleteness, that are apt to create unnecessary worry and nervousness. Since this may encourage a tendency to be somewhat erratic, even destructive when opposed, it is extremely important that you develop self-discipline and a positive philosophy.

Although action oriented, your exceptional mental potential suggests that it would be a great waste for you not to pursue some sort of educational program. Although well suited to intellectual occupations and activities, such as teaching, engineering, and writing, you are apt to be happier, if your work includes people contact and the opportunity to move about. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with renowned mechanical engineer John Fritz, artist Jean Greuze, Archduke Rudolf of Hapsburg, musician Count Basie, basketball star Wilt Chamberlain and Princess Margaret.

Your many interests and ability at clever repartee suggests that you can be a very stimulating companion. As a guest, you can brighten any party, but it is as a host, where you really shine.With the Seven of Hearts representing your decanate ruler Mars, intimate relationships have a couple of strikes against them. Your changeable moods and skepticism, spilling over as sarcastic commentary, can make a nervous wreck of your mate. Jealous and possessive as you can be, yet you see nothing wrong in demanding freedom to do as you please. Maybe you will minimize the probability of more than one marriage, if you watch this tendency to double standards and look for someone born on January 25, 28, 31; February 5, 11, 18, 19; March 21, 24, 27, 29, 30; April 1, 7, 14, 15, 19; May 20, 23, 26, 29; June 3, 10, 11, 15, 18, 21, 23, 24, July 21, 22, 25; August 6, 7, 11, 17, 19, 20, 23, September 28,October 2, 3, 7, 10, 13, 15, 16, 19; November 24, 29, 30; December 3, 6, 9, 11, 12, 15, 22.

AUGUST 22 (Master Number) — 4♣ — FOUR OF CLUBS

Hidden behind the conservative facade suggested by your card is a potential for brilliance revealed by your master number birthday. Although this combination does imply exceptional talent, your practical, disciplined approach is likely to be largely responsible for your success.

The magic suggested by your birthday with the help of your Leo sun can bring success and fame. The productive power of your birthday is further enhanced by the double eight of the Eight of Diamonds, and the Eight of Clubs, which symbolize your planetary and decanate ruling planets respectively. There is a mental-material vitality suggested in this combination which could bring profit through your pen, typewriter or inventive genius. Although a natural leader, rather than be head of state,you would probably prefer to demonstrate that leadership through research and creative efforts. A strong streak of idealism may encourage you to champion some humanitarian cause. Despite the good fortune associated with your birthday, your enjoyment of it may be minimized by an inclination to indulge in needless worry. Due to your intense nature, alcohol and tranquilizing drugs are not likely to be the best answer to anxieties and nervousness. On the other hand immersing yourself in music could prove to be good therapy and a source of material rewards. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with astronomer -physicist Samuel Pierpont Langley, chemist Willis Whitney, television pioneer Charles Jenkins, composer Claude Debussy,columnist Dorothy Parker, producer Daniel Frohman, science fiction writer Ray Bradbury,and hobo king Jeff Davis.

A certain rigidity arising from possible unpleasant childhood experiences may make it difficult for you to express love. Close relationships may also suffer from your preoccupation with other interests and an inclination to dominate. While you may find it difficult to express affection, you can be an imaginative lover. You may feel more inspired to curb your eccentricities with someone born on January 21; February1, 2, 6, 9, 12, 19; March30; April 2,5,8,15; May 26, 30; June 1, 4, 11; July 22, 26; August 5, 20, 24; September 22, 29; October 3, 16, 20; November 25, 30; December 12, 16, 23.

AUGUST 23 (2 + 3 = 5) 3♣ THREE OF CLUBS

The easy going, personable extroverted image projected by your card may be a cover-up for the restless uncertainty implied by the numerical five of your birthday. A need for self-expression is spelled out by your card. Quandaries may arise over having to choose which aspect of your multi-talented potential could most completely fulfill that need.

Occurring on the cusp, your birthday implies that you have the benefit of a Leo sun, as well as Mercury, the planetary ruler of Virgo. The Sun, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds, not only sparks your optimistic nature, but also indicates a significant earning potential. While Mercury may accent your intellectual attributes, as represented by the Three of Spades it emphasizes the possibility that your personality may be one of your strongest points. To do all the things that you want to do successfully, discipline and organization are an absolute must. Impatience, plus the kick that you get out of taking chances, may tempt you to fulfill your grandiose schemes through gambling and speculation. Lucky as you can be, your good fortune in the long run is to be found in the development and expression of your talents and keen mind. In fact, once you get it all together, you should be able to star in just about anything from entertainment to merchandizing, from medicine to mechanical engineering. To elaborate, you share this birthday with pioneer surgeon Sir Astley Cooper, pioneer paleontologist Baron De Cuvier Georges, King Louis XVI of France, General Jonathan Wainwright, Historian Arnold Toynbee, composer William Primrose, restaurateur Howard Johnson, dancer-actor Gene Kelley, singer Bob Crosby, Actress Barbara Eden and tennis star Nancy Gunther.

A winner with the multitudes and at parties, but your great charm is no guarantee of romantic happiness. While you can be a real fun companion, your dearly beloved is not likely to appreciate having to compete with all your gregarious activities. You should not lack for romantic opportunities, but this is one area in which you cannot trust to luck. So to avoid the possibility of disappointment choose most wisely. To start with, you might do better with someone born on January 12, 15, 22, 28; February 10, 13; March 8, 11, 18, 31; April 6, 9, 16, 22; May 4, 7, 14, 20, 27, 31; June 2, 5, 12, 18, 25, 29; July 3, 10, 16, 23, 27, 29; August 8, 14, 21, 25, 27; September 6, 19, 23, 25, 28; October 4, 10, 17, 21, 23, 26, 26, 29, November 2, 8, 15, 19, 21, 24, 27; December 6, 13, 17, 19, 22, 25, 30.

AUGUST 24 (2 + 4 = 6) 2♣ TWO OF CLUBS

A quiet, confident attitude is likely to mask the inner qualms suggested by your card. This conservative impression is underscored by the numerical six factor of your birthday. Only occasionally, when pushed too far, do your pointed retorts reveal an edgy disposition, so that your serene appearance may be deceptive.

Your potential for leadership is emphasized by the King of Clubs, which represents your ruling planet, Mercury. While this suggests that you might be effective wielding the scepter of authority at the country club or as chairman of the board, your somewhat reticent nature may prefer to use the superior mental potential implied here in some intellectual endeavor. Though your sensitivity is likely to enhance your perception,it may also nourish a shyness which may become an obstacle in relationships and in the development of your great potential. While you can appear lethargic, even downright apathetic, the truth may be that you are just waiting for a catalyst to pull the cork on all that hidden energy. And if you are looking for something worthy of all that vitality, your best bet is likely to be found in the communication of ideas. The record suggests that you might do this effectively from a pulpit, through the arts or through the promotion of ideas. To give you some examples, you share this birthday with English statesman William Wilberforce (opponent to slave trade), preacher and social reformer Theodore Parker, William the First of the Netherlands, architect Charles McKim, Cardinal Richard Cushing, columnist Jimmy Fiddler and composer-singer Mason Williams.

The two influence of your card implies that love and companionship are extremely important. You should have no serious difficulty in attracting romantic possibilities, but despite an intense sensual nature, a self-protective remoteness and nervous temperament may hinder emotional expression. Anyone penetrating this invisible barrier should find that you have the imagination to be an exciting lover and the ability to build a happy home. You may find it easier to achieve such a relationship with someone born on January 1, 2, 6,16, 18; February 21, 29; March 2, 12, 14, 19; April 25, 28, 30, May 8, 10, 15; June 21, 24, 30; July 4, 6, 11, 19; August 22, 26, 28; September 2, 7, 15, 18, 20; October 22, 24, November 3, 11, 14, 16, 20, 22.

AUGUST 25 (2 + 5 = 7) A♣ ACE OF CLUBS

The thirst for knowledge implied in your card is likely to be motivated by an equally strong urge for self-expression. Your quest is likely to be helped by the profound vision associated with your numerical seven birthday. You have the potential to achieve high aspirations. Do not spoil it all by a too narrow viewpoint.

According to the Queen of Clubs, which represents your planetary ruler, Mercury, you have both talent and an intuitive intellect to assist in gaining your objectives. The latter is likely to spawn a curiosity which may help you to find fulfillment in scientific research. Your analytical mind and quick comprehension suggest that you can more than hold your own in debates, arguments or just about anything else. Actually, your toughest adversary is likely to be those moods which take over when things do not go your way. A doer, so it is important that you have something constructive to absorb your nervous energy. When something really fires your zeal, you will work with a tireless enthusiasm. There is a good chance that you will be called on to help others, so in considering possible occupations, you may find that you can be paid well for your services as an attorney or counselor. While your sharp mentality suggests an aptitude for mathematics and engineering, be careful not to tie yourself down to anything that is too restrictive. According to the record, yours is a birthday of saints and sinners.To illustrate, you share this birthday with Saint Just. The sinners we will not point out, but others born on this day include Louis II of Bavaria, author Bret Harte, composer Leonard Bernstein, Governor George Wallace, actresses Lola Montez and Ruby Keeler, actors Michael Rennie, Mel Ferrer, Don DeFore and Sean Connery and singer Althea Gibson.

Although you are a natural charmer, you may have to guard against being too matter-of-fact in your love making. Even romantically and socially, you tend to be conscious of those who can contribute productively to your life. You may find that your most successful relationships are related to work or constructive activity. In order to enjoy emotional happiness, minimize self-concern and look for someone born on January 1, 4, 10; February 22, 28; March 6, 20; April 24; May 2, 16, 22; June 27; July 12; 18; August 23; 29; September 8, 14, 21; October 25; November 4, 10, 23.

AUGUST 26 (2 + 6 = 8) K♥ KING OF HEARTS

Inspired leadership and healing power are suggested by the combination of your crown card with the numerical eight factor of your birthday. Your ability to achieve your grand dreams is enhanced by a magnanimous charm and a multi-talent potential. The only serious threat to this wonderful potential may be lack of self-discipline.

The aura of leadership associated with your card is amplified by the King of Diamonds, which represents your ruling planet, Mercury. Combined with your card, this double king influence plus the numerical power of your birthday emphasize the importance of getting this top heavy force under control. As it is, you may vacillate between a tender loving parent figure to the role of an absolute monarch. Materially, you are protected both through the expression of your talents and in your ability to perceive the true worth of things and ideas. While you may turn this attribute to profit in business, your high card indicates that it is people involvement that really turns your power on. True, there is a danger that you may become caught up in social excesses, but an inborn idealism is likely to encourage a humanitarian role, as a counselor, or as a teacher, or as a politician sincerely concerned with social reforms, or as an inspired spiritual leader. If not through some public role, you may choose to communicate your message through writing and painting. Idealism and mundane ambitions may be a source of conflict. To illustrate how others have handled this challenge, you share this birthday with artist Frans Hals, founder of modern chemistry Antoine Lavoisier, black educator Robert Moton, English politician Robert Walpole, consort Prince Albert, writers Lord Tweedsmuir and Christopher Isherwood, radio pioneer Lee de Forest and General Maxwell Taylor.

You are likely to be most happy when surrounded by your court of friends and admirers. A magnanimous lover and friend, yet pride, stubbornness along with an inclination to dominate , may minimize the expression of affection which you do dearly desire. You may find this less a problem with someone born on January 5; February 23; March 1, 21; May 17; June 28; July 13; August 24, 28, 30; September 22; October 24, 26, 29; November 5, 18, 22, 24; December 20, 22, 25.

AUGUST 27 (2 + 7 = 9) Q♥ QUEEN OF HEARTS

A charming vitality accents the aura of leadership associated with your card. Although the numerological nine of your birthday suggests that you will have your share of frustrations and obstacles, it also implies that you are not likely to accept defeat. Though perseverance and emotional power can bring you considerable success, be careful that self-insistence does not become the source of your undoing.

Your emotional nature may be the most evident, but Mercury, your planetary ruler, as symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, suggests that behind that wide smile dwells a very shrewd mind. Thoughtful, as you may be, you may still have to guard against impatience with those who lack your quick comprehension. The blending of strong feelings and your astute mentality may bring inspired ideas, but it also may incline you to indulge in sarcastic observations, which minimize the noble image projected by your card. Remember, as a Queen of Hearts, where people are involved, you can accomplish just about anything through the use of your charm-power. Your royal card does imply a necessity to excel, to be on the top. Fortunately, your bag of tricks contains all sorts of possibilities through which this may be accomplished. In this respect, anything that provides you with the opportunity to practice your special kind of magic with the public, be it as a politician, executive, writer, artist or performer is likely to be a winner. To illustrate, you share this birthday with statesman Charles Dawes, Vincent Auriol of France and President Lyndon Johnson, philosopher George Hegel, writer Theodore Dreiser, producer Samuel Goldwyn, comedienne Martha Raye, singer Tommy Sands and actress Tuesday Weld.

When it comes to love, you appear to have the cards all stacked in your favor. Actually this may be too much of a good thing, as it may encourage too many involvements. If you keep your feelings from overwhelming your emotional wisdom, you might just find that personal happiness so important to you. You might further improve your prospects for romantic bliss by looking for someone born on January 12, 19; February 25; March 8, 15; April 21, 28; May 4, 11, 19; June 24, 27; July 7, 15, 22; August 23, 29; September 3, 11, 21; October 25; November 7, 14, 17, 23; December 21, 28.

AUGUST 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) J♥ JACK OF HEARTS

The numerical one factor of your birthday suggests that the dramatic individualist projected by your card is not likely to linger long in the background. Both personally and professionally, your dynamic personality is the key to your success. Resist the inclination to take over and dominate, as you could win enemies instead of friends.

As symbolized by the Nine of Clubs, Mercury, your planetary ruler, suggests that you are an intellectual romanticist. In other words, in spite of the practical influence of your Virgo Sun sign, lyrical overtones to your thinking are more likely to inspire poetry than scientific investigation. Though you may be a dreamer, an innate business sense and inherent organizational abilities suggest that you can give a good account of yourself in non-artistic endeavors as well. Though capable of making great sacrifices to obtain your objectives, procrastination encouraged by a pursuit of pleasure may be a serious impediment to your efforts. Fortunately, when you've caught the spark, you will work with such a passion that you can accomplish the impossible. Whatever you do, you belong up front. Be it selling ideas, products or yourself as a personality, your natural charm translates your direct, raw honesty into an asset.

As the record clearly illustrates, you can excel with pen and brush as did writers Goethe and Leo Tolstoy, and artists Burne Jones and Morris Graves. But as a Heart your greatest potential is likely to be found in dealing with the public either through some type of religious expression or in the theater. For some examples, you also share this birthday with Saint Augustine, actors Charles Boyer, Sam Levine, Donald O'Connor and Ben Gazzara.

Despite your great charm, you may be no stranger to loneliness. This may be due in part to an inclination to surround yourself with superficial people and social activities, almost willfully ignoring your intense emotional needs. In matters of the heart, you cannot afford to play games. If you do, you are among those most likely to lose. As you are likely to remain faithful to your choice, it's extremely important that you choose your love-mates with all the wisdom you can muster. You might start by looking for someone born on January 2, 5, 7, 13, 17, 19, 20; March 1, 3, 9, 13, 15, 16; May 5, 9, 11, 12; June 28, 30; July 1, 5, 7, 8; August 24, 26, 30; September 1, 3, 4, 22, 24; October 22, 26; November 18, 20; December 22.

AUGUST 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) 10♥ TEN OF HEARTS

Spectacular possibilities are suggested by the merging of your success card and your master number birthday. To truly realize your potential, some application of the mastery symbolized in your birthday is essential. Just keep in mind, the same power which places the top within your reach, abused can also drop you to the depths.

Occurring in the first decanate of Virgo, your birthday indicates that you have Mercury both as a planetary and decanate ruler. This suggests an intellectual capacity which should help balance your strong emotional nature. As represented by the Ten of Diamonds, this planetary influence also suggests that material aspirations are likely to play an important part in stimulating you into action. You have the people-power and talent potential to achieve the renown and the abundance you desire, but lack of self-discipline may prove to be a serious stumbling block. Fortunately, when you really want something, you will not only work hard to gain your objective, but you will probably add a little bit of your unique magic to make it something special. An inclination to go to extremes emphasizes the importance of getting your intense powers under control. Although you can succeed at just about anything, you are likely to find greater satisfaction in those efforts which utilize your innovative imagination. While this may attract you to science, combined with your emotional nature this may lead you into expression through music, drama and literature. To illustrate, you share this birthday with writers John Lock and Oliver Wendell Holmes, statesman Albert Lebrun, dramatist Maurice Materlinck, inventor-manufacturer Charles Kettering, actors Barry Sullivan, Howard Trevor, George Montgomery and Elliott Gould, actress Ingrid Bergman and tennis star Robert Lutz.

According to your card, you should be numbered among the great lovers. On the stage and screen perhaps, but real life involvements may suffer from a preoccupation with your own interests and chronic impatience. Your powers of observation should be an asset in work and study, but in your more personal life, your critical commentary could prove a serious detriment. You may be less inclined to indulge those vacillating moods with someone born on January 3, 6, 9, 18, 21; February 19, 24, 27, 28; March 2, 5, 14, 17, 22; April 20, 23, 24; May 1, 10, 13, 18, 21, 22; June 19, 20, 29; July 6, 9, 14, 17, 18; August 25, 27, 31; September 2, 5, 10, 13, 14, October 23, 27, 29; November 1, 6, 9, 10; December 23, 25.

AUGUST 30 (3 + 0 = 3) 9♥ NINE OF HEARTS

The numerical three factor of your birthday suggests that self expression is the key to the wish fulfillment symbolized in your card. You have a big heart, but guard against wasting it on petty emotional attitudes, which could detract from the marvelous possibilities symbolized in your birthday.

Mercury, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Seven of Clubs, suggests that your dynamic emotional nature is somewhat stabilized by an excellent mind. While this combination of card and planet imply a capacity for profound inspiration, unfortunately this same influence indicates an inclination to indulge in worry and negativity.Considering your inherent possibilities, failure is not likely to be due to any lack of capability, but to an indulgence in defeatism and lack of preparation. Watch that the desire to live on a broad scale does not cause you to scatter your energies through to many interests. Get your strong mental-emotional nature together and you can be a significant force in drama, literature and politics. Develop the universal love symbolized in your card and you can be a constructive force for many through counselling, nursing, social reform and other humanitarian endeavors. These possibilities have been well demonstrated by the following who share this birthday with you Among them are Nobel prize winning physicist Ernest Rutherford, civil rights leader Roy Wilkins, writers Mary Shelley and John Gunther, politician Huey Long, artist Jacques David. actresses Fritzi Scheff, Shirley Booth, Joan Blondell, Marilyn Maxwell, singer Regina Resnik, actors Raymond Massey and Fred MacMurray and skier Jean Claude Killy.

Skeptical of the motives of others, so you may tend to surround yourself with a protective aloofness. Happily, stimulated by your magnetic charms, those who make the effort to penetrate your barrier of doubts, are likely to find in you a loyal and understanding friend. Emotionally vulnerable, so it is important that you choose wisely.In this respect, you may find greater happiness with those born on January 15, 22; February 20, 23, 27; March 11, 18, 21; April 23, 28, 29; May 7, 14, 17, 21; June 24, 25, 27, 30; July 3, 10, 13, 17, 22, 23, 25; August 26, 28; September 6, 9, 13, 18, 19, 21; October 22, 24, 28; November 2, 5, 9, 14, 15, 17, 20, 22; December 20, 24.

AUGUST 31 (3 + 1) 8♥ EIGHT OF HEARTS

Emotional power according to your card is your most obvious asset. Though this power may be the prime weapon in your arsenal, the numerical four quality of your birthday suggests that your probable success will come from backing up your charms with practicality and much hard work.

Another one of your significant assets is the intuitive sensitivity symbolized in the Six of Clubs, which represents your planetary ruler, Mercury. Use your intrinsic charms and resist the temptation to force your way, and you should be able to enjoy a rather harmonious life. In fact at times, your complacent rut may seem like too much of a good thing. Do not allow an inclination to depreciate your abilities detract from your positive aura. Tenacity is part of your strength, but at times your stubborn reluctance to heed the advice of others can cause you to do things the hard way.The constructive vitality portrayed in your birthday suggests that you can inject life into business and organizations, be a healing force in medicine or a spiritual healer. Since your card symbolizes the power of charm, occupations and activities which provide you with the opportunity to deal with the public are likely to be your best bet. Among the following who share this birthday with you, note how many made good use of this power. Among them are Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, scientist Herman Helm Holtz, educator Maria Montessori, Prince Tsugu of Japan, writer William Saroyan, producer Dore Schary, Television's Arthur Godfrey, composer Allan Jay Lerner, actors Fredric March and Richard Basehart, comedian Buddy Hackett and baseball's Frank Robinson.

Obviously as a Heart, love is very important to you. But despite a bold facade, those intimate encounters may suffer from repression of your true feelings. It is almost as if you are embarrassed by your own strong emotions. Although you enjoy the attention of many when you find that special someone, you are likely to do everything in your power to make the marriage or friendship last. This may be easier to accomplish with someone born on January 4, 8, 11, 16; February 21, 28; March 4, 7, 12, 19; April 24, 30; May 3, 8, 15, 22; June 20, 26; July 11, 18; August 22, 29; September 7, 14, 20; October 25, 29; November 3, 10, 16, 23; December 21, 25.

Our earth is but a small star in a great universe.
Yet of it we can make, if we choose,
A planet unvexed by war,
Untroubled by hunger or fear,
Undivided by senseless distinctions
Of race, color or theory.

SEPTEMBER 1 (1= 1) 10♦ TEN OF DIAMONDS

If anyone should aspire to leadership, your number one birthday combined with the success attributes associated with your card, suggests that you are the one. Independent, your creative urge and pioneer spirit are likely to bring a life filled with travel as well as all kinds of unusual experiences.

The Eight of Spades, symbolic of Mercury your planetary ruler, suggests that much work as well as luck will be involved in realizing the success promised in your card. It also implies a driving force fed by nervous energy, constantly seeking an outlet. So, avoid static occupations and life styles with a passion, or you just might go berserk! Although you're not really egotistical, you're not particularly receptive to advice either. This, along with a surprising modesty and an inclination to procrastinate, may actually keep you from getting up front where you belong. As a diamond, appearances are very important and this same keen sense of values may not only help you to discriminate wisely in purchasing personal items for yourself but also in the capacity of a professional buyer. As a ten , you can excel in a wide range of possibilities but the combination of the practical influence of your sun-sign, Virgo, and the leadership attributes of your birthday suggest that you're at your very best in anything which will provide you with the opportunity to demonstrate your exec-utive abilities in management especially those relating to financial matters.

For some examples, you share this birthday with scientist Francis Ashton, pioneer journalist James Gordon Bennett, Boeing Aircraft president William Allen, labor leader Walter Reuther, politician Melvin Laird, composer Humperdinck, prize fighters Rocky Marciano and Jim Corbett, announcer Don Wilson, actress Yvonne de Carlo, actors George Maharis and Vittorio Gassman.

Though you are not particularly demonstrative, a craving for affection and sex may cause your quest for romance to take on some unusual twists. All too often when you've made a conquest, you lose interest and start all over again to look for something closer to the real thing. This, along with a jealous streak and the inclination to dominate, can make lasting relationships difficult to sustain. You may find this easier to do with someone born on January 7, 10, 13, 15, 19; March 3, 6, 9, 11, 15; April 26; May 2, 5, 7, 11; June 22; July 1, 3, 7, 18; August 28; September 2, 16; October 24; November 12, 22; December 20, 30.

SEPTEMBER 2 (2 = 2) 9♦ NINE OF DIAMONDS

Extravagant dreams are suggested by your card. Don't let the timidity hinted at in your number two birthday become an obstacle to their fulfillment. Put your keen money awareness and sensitivity together and then look for some co-operative venture through which you can make your fantastic schemes come true.

Hurdle number one may be the skeptical, worrisome attitude suggested by the Seven of Spades, symbolic of your planetary ruler, Mercury. Get on top of this tendency and you'll find that this influence also represents a spiritual and philosophical awareness which could go a long way towards putting your head in the right place. Learn to discipline your nervous erratic energies and you not only will save yourself a lot of unnecessary grief but you may find this vital force helping you excel in physical activities. While difficulties in your youth may leave you with some emotional hang-ups, with the progress of the years, you're likely to find that fate has dealt you a pretty fortunate hand. Fundamentally constructive, you're inclined to be very thorough in whatever you do, leaving no detail to chance. Hidden fears may occasionally bring out a streak of hostility, but for the most part, you will choose the path of arbitration.

Your natural sensitivity may prove to be a significant asset, especially in expressions of success in anything from poetry to economics. To illustrate this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with Prince Ito Hirbumi who helped modernize Japan, economist Henry George, poet Eugene Field, color expert Wilhelm Ostwald, critic Cleveland Amory, dancer Marge Champion and tennis star Jimmy Connors.

With a two birthday, you're not going to be happy as a loner. Despite a gregarious nature, you may find close one-to-one relationships difficult to build. Your efforts to do so may be helped by finding intellectual and group activities which you share with others. In this respect, your luck may be better with someone born on January 2, 14, 16, 20; February 28; March 5, 10, 12, 16; April 24, 27; May 1, 6, 8, 12, 22; June 23, 28; July 2, 4, 8, 18, 21; August 24, 29; September 4, 14, 17, 22; October 25, November 10, 13, 18, 23 and December 21.

SEPTEMBER 3 (3 = 3) 8♦ EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

Numerically, your birthday suggests a personable vitality which can help you to make good use of the power symbolized in your diamond card. You also have the will and deter-mination to back up your desire to "get somewhere." If you don't make it, more than likely, it will be due to a confusion in your objectives and efforts.

Your tremendous possibilities are underscored by the King of Spades, which represents your planetary ruler, Mercury. A symbol of leadership, it certainly implies that you belong in some position of authority or as a leader in your field. As this card also symbolizes mastery , if you are to truly tap this power, self-discipline and a good education are most essential. Analytical and methodical, your organizational abilities should prove valuable to any group.

Although your decanate ruler, Saturn, suggests that you'll have to work hard for objectives, the Ten of Spades, symbolic of this planet, implies that success is a strong possibility. In spite of your physical vitality, you're probably not particularly suited to manual labor. An aggressive, almost brash facade masks the sensitive inner you, one which could feel very much at home in some sort of musical expression or, combined with your personal appeal, make it in a theatrical career. Your card and sun-sign also suggest that this success may be found in engineering, advertising and publishing.

For some other possibilities, you share this day with the famous violin maker, Nicolo Amati, architect Louis Henri Sullivan, scientist Carl Anderson, singers Dorothy Maynor and Kitty Carlisle and actor Alan Ladd.

A natural gift of gab combined with your many interests suggest that you can be an exciting companion. When it comes to love, inhibitions fed by emotional quandaries arising from past disappointments, plus a defensive remoteness, can make romance a real hassle. You might improve your luck in both love and friendship by looking for someone born on January 7, 15, 17, 21; February 19, 21, 28; March 3, 11, 13, 17, 19; April 22, 28; May 7, 9, 13, 15, 20; June 24; July 3, 5, 9, 11, 16, 22; August 27, 28; September 1, 5, 7, 18; October 23, 24; November 1, 3, 8, 14, 21, 22; December 28.

SEPTEMBER 4 (4 = 4) — 7♦ — SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

The accent on material interests implied numerically in your birthday and by your diamond card may diminish the mystical sensitivity also associated with your card. Basically constructive, you're willing to work hard for your objectives. Watch that your tendency to become so absorbed with details doesn't minimize your awareness of the larger picture.

A quick but somewhat critical mind is suggested by Mercury, your planetary ruler. As represented by the Five of Spades, this planetary influence suggests a restless uncertainty, encouraging many moves and changes in work. The sense of insecurity fostered by this influence could also cause you to cling desperately to situations often far beneath your potential. Actually, it would be a good idea to seek opportunities which include travel or which could provide you with a variety of activity and rewarding contacts to help you gain a more positive outlook. A tendency to indulge in worry and negative attitudes could be the most serious obstacle to your making the most of your opportunities..

Although you are more apt to find your niche in stable, conservative occupations such as engineering, manufacturing, mining, real estate and research, an idealistic sensitivity might direct your interests to music or inspire you to play a philosophical-political role. For some examples, you share this birthday with pioneer missionary Marcus Whitman, editor and booster of American libraries Richard Bowker, city architect Daniel Burnham, Panama Canal engineer David Gaillard, French statesman Chateaubriand, Senator Thomas Eagleton, composers Anton Bruckner and Darius Milhaud, manufacturer Henry Ford II and entertainer Mitzi Gaynor.

You can and do love deeply but difficulty in expressing your true feelings may take the pleasure out of romance. This is not likely to be helped by a propensity to become involved in burdensome relationships. Perhaps you can find more joy with someone born on January 5, 6, 13, 16, 18; February 20; March 1, 2, 9, 12, 14, 18; April 28, 29; May 5, 8, 10; June 24, 25; July 1, 4, 6, 10, 22, 23; August 28; September 2, 6, 18, 19; October 24, 30; November 2, 14, 15, 22; December 20 and 26.

SEPTEMBER 5 (5 = 5) — 6♦ — SIX OF DIAMONDS

Although your card suggests peace and contentment, the restless urge implied numerically in your birthday may make this difficult to realize. Your attempt to find it along with a great curiosity about life will probably encourage travel and experiments with various life styles in a quest for answers.

Intellectual and physical forces blend constructively in the Four of Spades which represents your planetary ruler, Mercury. Good health and an attractive physique are suggested by this influence. You may be a slow starter, but once turned on, you are a hard worker. Sustaining your interest so that you can stick with a job or complete a project may prove a real challenge. Your versatility and adaptability may be dubious virtues in that you may diffuse your efforts by spreading your energies too thin through too many interests.

A mission to communicate an awareness of values to others is suggested by your card. However, a restless streak may require you to first learn the karmic sense of values symbolized in your card the hard way. Once mastered, your intuitive material sense can be most effective in businesses concerned with the handling of people, money and in everything from scientific to philosophical research. A strong, sensual, poetic awareness suggests that you may find an even greater satisfaction in artistic or dramatic expression. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with Roman statesman Cesare Borgia, King Louis XIV of France, composer Meyerbeer, writer Arthur Kostler, film producer Darryl Zanuck, gunman Jesse James, actresses Florence Eldridge and Raquel Welch, singer Carol Lawrence and actor-comedian Bob Newhart.

A strong need for approval suggested by the Ace of Hearts, symbolic of your decanate ruler, Saturn, may propel you into all sorts of people-related activity. Although marriage and the home are very important to you, intimate relationships are apt to suffer from jealousy and the fear of being tied down. This may be less of a problem with someone born on January 3, 6, 19; February 21; March 2, 15, 19; April 29, 30; May 11, 15; June 25, 26; July 7, 11, 23; August 29; September 3, 7, 19, 20; October 25, 28; November 3, 15, 16; December 21 and 24.

SEPTEMBER 6 (6 = 6) 5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

The need for companionship and security implied numerically in your birthday is likely to run smack into the equally strong restless urge for personal freedom suggested by your card. Watch that the resulting conflict does not leave you strung up on a nervous high wire. While this suggests that travel may be good therapy, don't let it become an obsession.

The Queen of Spades, representative of your ruling planet, Mercury, indicates that much hard work and personal discipline are the keys to your freedom from insecurity. It also implies perceptive powers which could prove especially valuable in research and in dealing with the problems of people. In this respect, watch that impatience doesn't cause you to be too hard a taskmaster. In spite of your sense of underlying uncertainty, you will likely be intrigued by and even successful in speculative ventures.

A quick but serious mind is suggested by the Two of Clubs, symbolic of Saturn, your decanate ruler. But this influence also warns of hidden fears which may encourage a tendency to be somewhat erratic and quarrelsome. No matter how well-intended, you're not likely to be very receptive to criticism or advice. Although money is likely to be the prime source of your concerns, a sixth sense about monetary matters and a willingness to work very hard will probably keep you out of financial hot water.

Work-wise, you're inclined to be happier running the show.....that is, providing that the responsibilities don't tie you down. For some career possibilities, you share this birthday with Marquis de Lafayette, scientists Edward Appleton (ionosphere) and John Dalton (atomic theory), social worker Jane Adams, General Chennault, showman Billy Rose, financiers Montague Norman and Joseph Kennedy.

While you may not be particularly domestic, numerologically your birthday suggests that you require a great deal of love, preferably with someone who can cope with your bizarre life style and respect your need for independence. Perhaps someone born on one of the following days will come closer to fulfilling your unusual requirements.: January 7, 8, 20; February 20, 22, 24, 27; March 3, 4, 16, 18, 20; April 23, 26, 30; May 12, 14, 16, 18, 21; June 22, 26, 27; July 8, 10, 12, 14, 17, 20; August 22, 23, 30; September 4, 6, 8, 10, 13, 16, 20, 21; October 26; November 2, 4, 6, 9, 12, 16, 17; December 22 and 28.

SEPTEMBER 7 (7 = 7) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

A profound materialist is the image presented by your diamond card and the numerical influence of your birthday. Although mundane concerns are likely to retain the upper hand, an introspective sensitivity may add mystical overtones to your material affairs. Procrastination may be the greatest single threat to the productive power represented in your birthday.

Mercury, your ruling planet, as symbolized by the Two of Spades, accents advantages to be found in combining your efforts with others. Both your quest for knowledge and work interests may be jeopardized by an impatient, too independent streak. While your perceptive, critical abilities could prove to be a major asset in research, watch that it does not become a detriment in relationships.

The subtle spiritual influence implied in your birthday may receive some encouragement from Saturn, your decanate ruler. As represented by the Queen of Hearts, this planetary influence may incline you to pursue some sort of humanitarian endeavor or it may stimulate an interest in science, teaching or writing with a message. Watch your practical perseverance doesn't deteriorate into a blind stubbornness. If you need any inspiration as to your possibilities, consider the following who share this day with you. Among them are Queen Elizabeth I, theosophist Jennie Bollenbacher, scientist James Van Allen, artist Grandma Moses, writers Victorien Sardou and Taylor Caldwell, publisher George Putnam, financier John Pierpont Morgan Jr., director Elia Kazan and actor Peter Lawford.

Much social, romantic activity is likely to be part of your personal picture but your number seven birthday suggests caution in marriage. While your clever conversation can liven up any social gathering, watch that they don't become a destructive influence in close relationships. Whether it be love or friendship, the odds may be better with someone born on January 8, 14, 16, 19, 21; February 19, 23; March 4, 10, 12, 15, 17, 19, 21; May 6, 8, 11, 13, 17; June 28; July 2, 4, 7, 9, 13; August 24, 31; September 3, 5, 9, 22; October 27, 30; November 1, 5, 18; December 23 and 26.

SEPTEMBER 8 (8 = 8) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

The desire for expression implied in your card is given a positive impetus by the power suggested numerically in your birthday. Your determination to succeed will be helped by your ingratiating personality. Indecision and the resulting confusion in your efforts may be your greatest hurdle.

Symbolized by the Ace of Spades, the mentality suggested by your planetary ruler, Mercury, is apt to be reinforced by a perceptive sixth sense. This influence also suggests an ambition which can keep you going through all sorts of obstacles and disappointments bringing you eventually to considerable success. Just the same, watch that a tendency to indulge in black moods doesn't minimize the advantage that can be gained by your natural sense of humor. While it is wise to mind one's own business, you can be so secretive that you may run the risk of being misunderstood. Due to an inclination to get all wound up, it's important that you set aside some time to unwind. While the urge for self-expression combined with a magnetic personality suggests your place is to be found in theatrical and political activity, you might also find your thing in manufacturing, merchandizing or in the money business. For some other ideas, you share this birthday with King Richard the Lion Hearted, Peter Stuyvessant, first governor of New York, Senator Robert Taft, Marshal

Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam, composer Anton Dvorak, actress Denise Darcel, comedians Sid Caesar and Peter Sellers and singer Frankie Avalon.

Intense feelings are suggested by the Jack of Hearts which represents your decanate ruler, Saturn. While this can add warmth to your dynamic public image, it could raise havoc with your more intimate scenes. As it is, you'll probably have to learn to make sacrifices for loved ones. Just make sure that they're worth it. Prone to disappointment in people, discrimination is extremely important in your choice of lovers, friends and associates. You might have better luck with someone born on January 4, 9, 22; February 20, 24; March 5, 18, 22; May 1, 14, 18; June 29; July 10, 14; August 25; September 6, 10, 23; October 28; November 2, 6, 19 and December 24.

SEPTEMBER 9 (9 = 9) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

The universal selfless idealism implied numerically in your birthday may be jeopardized by the hypersensitivity suggested by your card. Overcome a preoccupation with self and you will be rewarded with a broad scope of fulfilling people-related activity.

Mercury, your ruling planet, as symbolized by the Jack of Spades, implies no lack of willingness to work hard for your objectives. Providing you can get over the reluctance to accept responsibilities, it also indicates the capabilities for directing the action, as a boss, leader, etc. In this regard, being somewhat of a perfectionist, you are very demanding, often seeing faults before recognizing virtures. A unique perspective is also suggested by this influence, one which might be enhanced by development of spiritual and mystical interests. Blessed with an excellent potential in mind and body, the only real threat to your good fortune may be a petty viewpoint fed by groundless fears.

Since your decanate ruler, Saturn, as represented by the Ten of Hearts, promises you success in dealing with people, consider interests and occupations which will involve you with the public or groups. Although your life is likely to begin under a cloud, including possible difficulties with your father, don't allow these early frustrations to cause you to overlook the wonderful possibilities of your life pattern. For some examples, you share this birthday with Cardinal Richelieu of France, physicist Luigi Galvani, Captain Bligh of "Mutiny on the Bounty" fame, writer Leo Tolstoy, producer Max Reinhardt, politician Alf Landon, labor leader Harry Bridges, paleonthologist Joseph Leidy and actor-writer Cliff Robertson.

Although love is likely to seem more like punishment than pleasure, as a two you are inclined to feel incomplete without it. There's a strong possibility that many love affairs will be part of the quest for your other half. Your chances for success in this pursuit may be improved by looking for someone who is both mentally stimulating and born on January 10; February 21, 25; March 6, 19; April 21, 26, 28, 29; May 2, 15, 19; June 22, 24, 25, 30; July 11, 15, 20, 22, 23; August 26, 30; September 7, 11, 16, 18, 19; October 26, 29; November 3, 7, 12, 14, 15, 20; December 22 and 25.

SEPTEMBER 10 (1 + 0 = 1) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

Fulfilling the ambition and the desire to excel reflected in both your card and birthday is very likely to be an entree into all sorts of adventure. You have the push to translate your abilities into success but your independent spirit may rebel at the restrictions related to the responsibilities of your achievements.

Your appreciation of all that money can buy, as accentuated by the Queen of Diamonds symbolic of Mercury, your ruling planet, may be just enough to keep you plugging away. Even so, this influence also suggests a bit of reckless extravagance, encouraging you to make a game out of your quest for money and success. Your natural lucky streak and clever money-making schemes may have to work overtime to maintain some semblance of security against the constant threat posed by your speculative nature. Since pressure tends to bring out your ingenuity and creativity, the many changes and travel destined for you are likely to prove a fortunate stimulus. Far more sensitive than you let on, the world may only see your sort of crass, arrogant charm. While you will listen, you have a pretty good idea of where you want to go and how you plan to get there, so you're not likely to be very receptive to advice. In fact, you can get pretty riled up if anyone insists on telling you how to get there. Career-wise, you need something which will allow you to indulge your strong sense of freedom. This might be something which gets you out into the open such as sports, selling, all the better if it includes travel. Working on a cruise ship with a good gym and gambling tables could appeal to both your taste for luxury and your kind of action. For some other ideas, you share this birthday with Nobel-prize-winning physicist Arthur Compton, actor Edmond O'Brien, singer Yma Sumac, baseball's Roger Maris and golfer Arnold Palmer.

The charm of the Nine of Hearts, representative of Saturn, your decanate ruler, suggests that lovers and friends will seek your favor. But, it also warns of the strong possibility of disappointment in relationships, which are apt to arise from a conflict between your restless heart and your Virgo desire for the security of a lasting relationship. Even if not forever, love and friendship may be more enjoyable with someone born on January 6, 11, 22; February 20, 22, 26, 28; March 2, 7, 18, 20; April 22, 24; May 3, 14, 16, 20; July 10, 12, 16, 18; August 27; September 6, 8, 12, 14; October 25, 30; November 2, 4, 8, 10; December 26 and 29.

SEPTEMBER 11 (Master Number) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

Identified with a crown card and a master number, it certainly appears that destiny handed you a "royal flush." As success may be gained without much effort, your greatest hazard may be in being satisfied with mediocre achievements, when, with a little extra effort, you could be truly great.

An exceptional mentality is suggested by the combination of your card and your planetary ruler, Mercury. As symbolized by the Jack of Diamonds, your ruling planet accentuates the probability that the real you is to be found in the cerebral portion of your being. This creative influence is likely to slant your interests and development towards scientific curiosity and literary endeavors. It may even overcome your love of privacy and thrust you into the limelight in the role of a politician or performer. Your ability to do just about anything you attempt well may be threatened only by a somewhat willful impatience. While you're particularly well-suited for writing, research and teaching, these same attributes should also enable you to give a good account of yourself as an analyst, financial advisor or in running city hall. Probably no one has more to lose through the failure to apply "self-discipline." Without it, not only do you run the risk of losing one of the greatest potentials shown in the cards, but you also open yourself to the possibility of knowing the greatest despair. As a king you really belong on top, either in your field of endeavor or in some position of authority. For a few possibilities, you share this birthday with scientist James Jeans, writers O.Henry and D.H.Lawrence, actress Hedy Lamarr, actor Earl Holliman and cosmonaut Gherman Titov.

A dynamic, emotional vitality is suggested by the Eight of Hearts which represents your decanate ruler, Saturn. While a charismatic charm is likely to be one of your sources of power, this planetary influence with its karmic overtones warns you to use this power wisely, as "you'll surely reap what you sow." And that pertains to anything from "wild oats" to sincere love and friendship. To increase the possibility of beneficial returns on your investment of charm, look for someone born on January 1, 7, 12; February 23, 27, 29; March 3, 8, 21; April 23, 25; May 4, 17, 21; July 13, 17, 19; August 27; September 9, 13, 15; October 23, 31; November 5, 9, 15; December 27 and 30.

SEPTEMBER 12 (1 + 2 = 3) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

A sensitive, intuitive and yet personable quality is reflected in the combination of your card and your numerical three birthday. While your brainy tendencies may lead you down an intellectual path, the pleasure you get from being involved with people may draw you into entertainment or into some type of service-oriented activity.

Although you may have to contend with some confusion in your objectives, once you get it all together, the Ten of Spades, symbolic of your ruling planet, Mercury, suggests that there is probably very little at which you cannot excel. Any sincere application of your mental abilities or artistic talents are just about assured of success. Whether it be in a laboratory, a legal library or doing social studies, your analytical skills should serve you and others well. With a birthday numbering you among the more constructive members of society, you may be tempted to join the building trades. Although you probably can swing a mean hammer, your card strongly indicates that you are likely to be far more capable with your head than with your hands. And if your endeavors are involved with a purpose which can benefit others, you might just have found your special niche. Probe your depths and your birthday suggests that you might uncover a genius. Since your imagination thrives on people-contact and a variety in your circumstances, avoid static occupations and interests, which tend to tie you down. Organization is one of the most important keys to your productivity. If you need any career ideas, you may find some inspiration in the following who share this day with you: inventors Richard Hoe of the rotary press and Richard Gatling of the machine gun, explorer Marie Peary, author H.L. Mencken, entertainer Maurice Chevalier, Olympic champ Jesse Owens, television's Frank McGee and pianist Wm. Kappell.

Born in the decanate of Virgo, ruled by Saturn, which, as symbolized by the Seven of Hearts, encourages the wisdom of much caution in all relationships. Your tendency to flirt and run may actually be one of the best ways of dealing with this dubious emotional influence. Disappointments in love and friendship might be less likely with someone born on January 2, 12, 13, 14, 19; February 24; March 8, 9, 10, 15; April 26, 29; May 5, 6, 11, 18; June 22, 25, 27; July 1, 2, 7, 20, 23; August 23, 28; September 3, 16, 19, 21; October 24, 29; November 12, 15, 17, 22; December 22 and 28.

SEPTEMBER 13 (1 + 3 = 4) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

Resist the temptation to think of your number thirteen birthday as being unlucky. Consider some of its plus factors. Numerologically, it becomes a practical and productive four. An attribute which could help you make profitable use of the multi-talented potential suggested by your card. Accept the responsibility of the opportunity symbolized here and you should truly find that yours is a lucky birthday.

If you don't allow early disappointments and frustrations to sour your outlook, you should be able to build on the economic lessons learned in your youth. Since your ruling planet, Mercury, is represented by the Nine of Diamonds, guard against the inclination to use money as a criterion of your success. Don't let material considerations put a straitjacket on your imagination. For it is in the creative overtones which you bring to everything that you do that you are likely to find your true key to success. Hard work is likely to be an integral part of your achievements. But consider yourself lucky in that not only do you have the talent and abilities, but in all probability, the good health with which to seek your fortune.

An inclination to be inflexible may feed a nervous temperament and a somewhat dictatorial attitude. While an analytical and technical aptitude suggests that you might just find your thing in medical and scientific research, your independent nature may find theatrical endeavors or being your own boss even more appealing. For some examples, you share this birthday with candy tycoon Hershey, General John Pershing, writers J.B. Priestley and Sherwood Anderson, surgeon Walter Reed, musicians Arnold Schoenberg and Klara Schumann, film producer Jesse Lasky, actresses Claudette Colbert and Barbara Bain, actor Scott Brady and singer Mel Torme.

The Seven of Spades, symbolic of your decanate ruler, Venus, suggests that it will probably take much practical philosophy and self-discipline to find success in love. Control your eccentricities and use your imagination and you should be able to make romantic magic. This may prove easier with someone born on January 3, 7, 15, 22; February 20, 25, 29; March 3, 11, 18; April 21, 25; May 7, 14, 19, 23; June 21; July 3, 10, 15, 19; August 29, 30; September 6, 11, 15; October 25, 26; November 2, 7, 11, 23; December 21 and 22.

SEPTEMBER 14 (1 + 4 = 5) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

The superior mental and talent potential symbolized in your card should help you to capitalize on the versatility suggested numerically in your birthday. A curious restlessness will encourage travel both in fact and to the far reaches of your mind. The latter may bring some remarkable, even profound insights.

Intellectual you may be, but Mercury, your ruling planet, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds, suggests that money and other material considerations may supply the real incentive to develop your latent abilities. Very susceptible to boredom, it is important that you associate with individuals and activities helpful to you in sustaining your interests. Once your enthusiasm is captured, you should be able to succeed at just about anything you seriously attempt. While you're apt to be most capable in mentally-slanted activities such as research, accounting and teaching, you're likely to be happiest in occupations involving personal contacts and including a variety of happenings. If this involves travel and an opportunity for a quick profit, it should be just about perfect. Be it in research for some scientific truth, a display of your talent or in a game of cards, "lady luck" is likely to be on your side. The following notables demonstrate how diversified your possibilities are. You share this birthday with naturalist-explorer Alexander Humbolt, physiologist Pavlov, politician Charles Evers, actor Jack Hawkins and singer-actress Joey Heatherton.

Venus, ruler of your birthday decanate, suggests that under that practical exterior hides a very romantic heart. But with this planet of love represented by the King of Spades, your practical instincts are likely to have the final say in your choice of marriage partners and social involvements. If your gender is feminine, you tend to be attracted to men of power. Though you're not inclined to be very domestic, you enjoy a home that you can share with others. Your quest for love, friendship and stimulating contacts may prove more successful with someone born on January 1, 8, 9, 18; February 24; March 4, 5, 14; April 18, 20, 26; May 1, 10; June 22, 29, July 6, 14, 20; August 29, 31; September 2, 10, 16, 23; October 25, 27; November 6, 12, 19; December 21 and 23.

SEPTEMBER 15 (1 + 5 = 6) 9♣ NINE OF CLUBS

Card-wise, there is nothing small about your aspirations or personal influence. But the inertial influence of your numerical six birthday plus the frustrations implied by your card suggest that you might find it difficult to organize your efforts and get them underway.

With the Nine of Spades symbolizing your ruling planet, Mercury, it is likely to take all the stubborn tenacity associated with your card to make it through the challenges of your earlier years. Fortunately, you have an inner strength and in spite of an inclination to worry about it, a healthier constitution than you may think.Whether you're aware of it or not, you also have an element of luck which attracts helpful friends and financial assistance. Difficulty in applying mental discipline suggests that your broad intellectual perspective is more likely to be acquired through intuition and experience than through the academic process. Although you tend to be somewhat aloof, your diplomatic nature is usually able to get people to do what you want them to do. Underneath your friendly and somewhat conservative exterior, you tend to be a rather fixed individual, so inflexible that you may find it difficult to change your course even when you know it's wrong. A heavy thinker, you are likely to be more at home in science, medicine and in the legal profession. A charm which you can turn on when duty calls along with an understanding of human foibles suggests that you are a natural for politics. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with writer James Fennimore Cooper, President William Howard Taft, Milton Eisenhower, General Creighton Abrams, attorney general John Mitchell, actress Margaret Lockwood and actor Jackie Cooper.

Moods and a tendency to become preoccupied with your own interests may prove the most serious obstacle in fulfilling the strong need for love suggested by the Two of Hearts, symbolic of Venus, your decanate ruler. Since your birthday is considered to be a numerological marriage number, early inclinations to be fickle are likely to be replaced by a serious quest for lasting love. You might improve these chances by finding someone born on January 1, 6, 9, 14; February 25, 27; March 2, 5, 10; April 21, 23, 29; May 1, 6, 19, 21; June 23, 25, 28; July 2, 15, 17, 21, 23; August 24; September 11, 13, 17, 19, 22; October 28; November 7, 9, 13, 15, 18; December 24 and 29.

SEPTEMBER 16 (1 + 6 = 7) 8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

The practical attributes of your Sun sign, Virgo, should help you to translate the mental power symbolized in your card into productive expression. In the process, don't allow preoccupation with mundane concerns to completely obscure the profound vision implied numerically in your birthday.

Aggressive as you can appear, the Six of Diamonds, which represents your planetary ruler, Mercury, suggests that this may be a cover-up for an extremely sensitive you. A karmic influence, this card suggests that destiny has some important plans for you, but as an eight you'll probably have to do something to make them come true. Perhaps the most essential ingredient in this quest will be to obtain the necessary education and training to develop your excellent mind and talent potential. Having accomplished this, success is a very strong probability. You are well-suited particularly for careers in science, teaching, writing and providing that you can overcome your natural reticence to make a spectacle of yourself you probably can also find success in the realm of entertainment.

An ever-prodding curiosity about life and people may make it difficult for you to stay put for long. This search for answers could reward you with a lifetime filled with unusual relationships and experiences. To give you a small idea of how varied these experiences may be, note the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are architect Sir Thomas Newton, historian Francis Parkman, railroad tycoon James Hill, writer Hamlin Garland, artist Jean Arp, astronomer Maude Makenson, film producer Sir Alexander Korda, actresses Janis Paige and Lauren Bacall, actors Peter Falk and George Chakiris and tennis star, Rosemary Casals.

A strong craving for love is suggested by Venus, your decanate ruler. Fulfillment of your romantic desires may run into inhibitions resulting from early disappointments, sexual hang-ups and a preoccupation with career and other interests. Inclined to be somewhat of a perfectionist, others are likely to find it difficult to measure up to your high standards. You may have better luck in love and in friendship with someone born on January 10, 17; February 23, 26, 28; March 6, 13, 21; April 22, 24, 28; May 2, 9, 17, 20, 22; July 1, 5, 13, 16, 18, 22; September 1, 9, 12, 14, 18; October 29; November 5, 8, 10, 14 and December 25.

SEPTEMBER 17 (1 + 7 = 8) — 7♣ — SEVEN OF CLUBS

Shrewd, analytical powers are suggested by the combination of your card with the numerical eight factor of your birthday. Unfortunately, your card can also indicate an introspective, moody inclination to dissipate your mental energies through worry, skepticism and procrastination.

Many changes, moves and travel, according to the Five of Diamonds, which represents your planetary ruler, Mercury, are likely to contribute to a running uncertainty about your material security. As you do have a superior earning potential, financial fears, for the most part, are likely to be groundless. Nevertheless, they'll probably cause you to vacillate from extreme generosity to penuriousness. If jobs and other interests don't keep you on the move, your own restless nature will probably look for excuses to make changes or to take journeys. Satisfying this restless urge may prove to be an expensive therapy. Extravagant as your personal tastes and indulgences can be, when it comes to handling other people's money, your integrity and manipulative skills are likely to prove very profitable for them. Capable of profound insights, yet your wonderful potential may be jeopardized by an inclination to fritter away your time in superficial trivia.

While your card accents your intellectual possibilities, the record clearly shows a potential for success in less cerebral pursuits. For examples of this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with scientist George Buffon, author William Griffis, conductor Bruno Walter, Chief Justice Warren Burger, actress Anne Bancroft, actor Roddy McDowall, football's George Blanda and tennis star Maureen Connolly.

With Venus as the ruler of your birthday decanate, Virgo, you obviously are not all intellect. A desire to be involved, to help others may make you somewhat vulnerable to those who would use flattery to take advantage of your benevolent nature. Both socially and romantically, you're likely to find your most satisfactory relationships either relating to work or with individuals who have a productive philosophy of life. For better or worse, you have a strong inclination to stick to your vows, so you'd better choose your marriage partners with much wisdom. You might begin by seeking someone born on January 2, 11; February 29; March 7, 14; April 25, 29; May 3, 10; June 21, 25; July 6, 19, 23; September 2, 15, 19; October 30; November 11, 15 and December 26.

SEPTEMBER 18 (1 + 8 = 9) — 6♣ — SIX OF CLUBS

Card-wise, you have no real compulsion for fame, preferring rather to be left alone to enjoy the companionship of intimate friends or to work on small personal projects. That destiny may place you on a larger stage is suggested by the numerical nine factor of your birthday which inspires you to be more magnanimous, greater than you really want to be.

A karmic path is spelled out by the Six of Spades, symbolic of your planetary ruler, Mercury, so it's extremely important that you invest your efforts wisely. Underscoring the perceptive insight implied in your card, this influence also suggests that "to work or not to work" may be a very real question. The temptation to drift aimlessly and indolently could be a very real challenge. You will probably prefer working by yourself, possibly in something which intrigues your ability to handle precise details. While intuition may be an underlying factor in your good fortune, a tendency to be practical and meticulous is also likely to play an important part in your well-being. Not particularly generous, but then you also are not a borrower. If circumstances require that you must, you are likely to do everything you can to get out of debt as quickly as possible. Despite a desire to live a quiet, uncomplicated life, fate, either through your spouse or job, is likely to keep you on the move. While the occult influences of your birthday suggest a quiet, studious mental individual who might prefer to write or work in research, the record points to the potential for success in public life.

To illustrate some examples of the above, you share this birthday with Pope Gregorius, King Christian VIII of Denmark, writers Samuel Johnson and John Abbott, gyroscope inventor Jean Foucault, statesman John Diefenbaker, actress Greta Garbo, actor Rossano Brazzi, comedian Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, singers Lisa Kirk and Frankie Avalon.

It would seem, with the Queen of Hearts representing your decanate ruler, Venus, that you should have everything your way romantically. But since this can also mean too much of a good thing, the resulting disappointments may cause you to be wary of marriage. Intimate relationships may also be jeopardized by a critical tongue and a tendency to be aloof. You may feel like being less remote with someone born on January 12, 19; February 23; March 8, 15, 21; April 26, 29, 30; May 4, 11, 17; June 22, 25, 26, 28; July 7, 13, 20, 23; August 24, 27, 30; September 3, 9, 16, 19, 20, 22; October 23, 26, 30, 31; November 5, 12, 15, 16, 18, 21; December 22, 26 and 27.

SEPTEMBER 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

The determination to excel, to get ahead implied by your numerical one birthday should help you to exploit the versatility suggested by your card. While you have the inherent perseverance to probe and experiment through many possibilities in the pursuit of your true self, be careful that fears and uncertainty don't sabotage your efforts.

Self-expression, according to the Three of Diamonds, symbolic of your ruling planet, Mercury, may be the entree to your personal good fortune. Unfortunately, this card also implies that financial quandaries, especially early in life, may be a major hurdle. All throughout your life, an impulsive and adventurous nature may be the prime culprit in your fluctuating fortunes. This is likely to encourage you to run through a gamut of people, interests and experiences in the quest of that relationship, that job or activity which will satisfy your restless urges. Fortunately, you're likely to have the quick and adaptable mentality and good physique needed to cope with your extreme ups and downs. At times, a fear of insecurity may force you to remain with a job or situation for a while, but change-ability appears to be your way of life. Eventually your cards suggest you're likely to make money. While there is also a good possibility that you'll receive recognition for your talents and abilities, an innate shyness may minimize your being able to capitalize on being in the limelight. In choosing a life work or interest, avoid those nine-to-five jobs, you need variety and action. For some career ideas, politician Louis Kossuth, producer Joe Pasternak, actors Ernest Truax, Alfred Lunt and David McCallum, singer Blanche Thebom, Mika Waltari and actress Twiggy share this birthday with you.

Your decanate ruler, Venus, suggests a charm that could make you the hub of social activity. With this romantic planet represented by the Ace of Spades, your love life is likely to have an element of secrecy about it. Considering your great need for emotional security, marriage is extremely important to you. Be careful that the extra-curricular activities don't create unnecessary complications in your love life. You might be more inclined to remain true to someone born on January 7, 13, 20, 21; February 23, 26, 29; March 3, 9, 16, 17, 21; April 22, 25, 27, 28; May 5, 12, 13, 17, 20; June 21, 24, 27; July 1, 8, 9, 13, 16, 19, 22; August 23, 30; September 5, 9, 12, 15, 18, 21; October 26, 31; November 1, 5, 8, 11, 13, 14, 17; December 22, 27 and 28.

SEPTEMBER 20 (2 + 0 = 2) 4♣ FOUR OF CLUBS

A practical sensitivity is suggested by the combination of your card and the numerical two of your birthday. Having one of the more fortunate life-patterns, there is a very real danger that you may become so smug and docile that you may fail to take full advantage of the opportunities available to you.

While your planetary ruler, Mercury, accents your fine mind, as represented by the Two of Diamonds, this celestial influence suggests that your thoughts are likely to be slanted toward material considerations. In this regard, fears relating to money are likely to be without foundation. Most of your qualms and disappointments in monetary matters are likely to be due to your own uncertainty as to what you want to do. An inherent sense of order, especially pertaining to financial interests, suggests that, either in the handling of other people's money or in the building of your own personal fortune, you can give a good account of yourself. Your methodical approach implies a probable knack for analysis, research and compiling information. This also suggests that you may have a way with words both in preparing documentaries or as a novelist.

While you can more than hold your own in big business or dealing with an audience, you're likely to be happier in a small business or in occupations and activities that provide you with the opportunity for friendly contacts. So, while you are particularly suited for mental endeavors, as a social being you are likely to find even greater fulfillment in activities which include people-contact. Here your unique understanding of the public's wants and needs would serve you well and profitably. For some ideas, you share this birthday with writers S. Aksakov and Upton Sinclair, polio researcher Sister Elizabeth Kenny, actor Elliott Nugent, actress Sophia Loren and Alexander the Great.

Both the numerical factor of your birthday and Venus, your decanate ruler, emphasize a need to be closely involved with others. As this lovely planet is represented by the Jack of Spades, except for those bizarre moments, your expression of love is likely to be more platonic than physical. Love, as well as friendship, may prove more successful with someone born on January 3, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21; March 4, 7, 10; April 28; May 3, 6, 13; June 24, 28; July 2, 9, 22; August 24, 31; September 5, 18, 22; October 2, 27; November 1, 14, 18; December 23, 28 and 29.

SEPTEMBER 21 (2 + 1 = 3) 3♣ THREE OF CLUBS

The double three influence of your card and birthday suggests that your friendly smile may mask an underlying uncertainty. A unique duality in your nature allows you to be simultaneously bright and positive while plagued with real and unreal doubts and fears which may leave you with chronic nervousness.

As symbolized by the Three of Spades, Mercury, your ruling planet, suggests a quick and somewhat prophetic mind. Unhappily, it also indicates a tendency to vacillate between exultant highs and equally depressing lows. Those acquainted with your usually pleasant manner are likely to be surprised at your erratic moods and need for frequent reassurance and encouragement. Although indecisiveness may cause you to minimize your own abilities, once you've made up your mind, you can become equally inflexible.

A compulsion for knowledge, both mundane and divine, is likely to encourage a quest which will include much reading and travel. Talent is indicated in writing, music and research, but a lack of self-confidence may prove a major handicap in its expression. You may actually find your own success while in the process of helping others find theirs. If you need encouragement, note the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes religious reformer Savonarola, Frederick the Third of the Holy Roman Empire, explorer Louis Joliet, composer Gustav Holst, inventor of the macadam roads John McAdam, and writer H.G. Wells.

Born on the cusp of Virgo and Libra and in the decanate of Virgo, this suggests that you are very sensitive emotionally. And, while the Nine of Hearts, symbolic of this planet, indicates a magnetic warmth, it also implies that you are very vulnerable to the insensitivities of others. You have so much love to give, yet even with your children, you may feel an invisible barrier. A natural entertainer, you're apt to be in great demand, both socially and romantically. But since the latter can also be a source of great disappointment, it is very important that you mix a lot of wisdom with your love-making. To begin with, you may fare better with someone born on January 12, 15, 22; February 20, 26; March 8, 11, 18; April 22, 29; May 4, 7, 14, 20; June 25, 29; July 3, 10, 16, 23; August 25, 30; September 6, 12, 19, 23; October 26, 29; November 2, 8, 15, 19; December 22, 25 and 30.

SEPTEMBER 22 (Master Number) 2♣ TWO OF CLUBS

The cerebral-talent potential implied in your card is amplified considerably by your master number birthday. The catch is that much discipline may be needed to overcome the nervous, self-depreciating fears, which could diminish your wonderful possibilities.

The ability to excel, to lead is further enhanced by the King of Clubs, which represents your ruling planet, Mercury. An agile mind inclines you to act on impulse. Happily, an innate wisdom reinforced with intuition brings a certain rightness to your actions. Whether it be in science or politics, idealism is likely to motivate your efforts to work for the common good. While the powerful attributes symbolized in your birthday may incline you to aspire to worldly acclaim, more than likely they will encourage you to play the role of teacher, inventor and statesman. Remember, as a two you gain fulfillment through sharing and through cooperative efforts, especially in the realm of ideas.

Some of the ways you might do this are illustrated in the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are statesman-author the Earl of Chesterfield, statesman

Andre Tardieu, the Sultan of Turkey Adbul Hamid, producer Eric Von Stroheim, Alfred Vanderbilt, actor Paul Muni, actress Martha Scott, artist Fritz Winter, newscaster Richard Hottlelet, and prize fighter Ingemar Johanson.

Symbolic of your decanate ruler, Venus, the Jack of Diamonds suggests that your creative imagination can make you an exciting lover and friend. It also implies that you are likely to be very conscious of appearance and not likely to consider expensive clothes and jewelry an extravagance. Being a rather intense individual, guard against critical attitudes and excesses socially. Also, be careful not to overindulge in food and drink, as in your case the negative repercussions can be serious. Possibly due to a preoccupation with your own interests, your natural wisdom may not be so reliable in affairs of the heart. Your chances for success in relationships may be greater with someone born on January 1, 2, 6, 18; February 21, 29; March 2, 14, 19; April 21, 28, 30; May 10, 15; June 24, 26, 30; July 5, 11, 19, 22; August 26, 28; September 2, 7, 15, 18, 20; October 5, 13, 24; November 3, 11, 14, 16, 20, 22,

SEPTEMBER 23 (2 + 3 = 5) A♣ ACE OF CLUBS

According to your card and the numerical five of your birthday, a restless curiousity stimulates a ceaseless quest for adventure and success. The probability of achieving the latter is helped by an inherent ability to do many things well. Just be careful that a nervous temperament and self-indulgence do not get in the way.

Born on the cusp, you are likely to be a blend of the methodical attributes associated with Virgo and the more sensual, artist qualities of Libra. A combination which suggests that you could be a romantic perfectionist, torn between a craving to indulge in all the delights of the senses and the necessity of living within the confines of practicality. A splendid mental-talent potential is suggested by the Queen of Clubs, symbolic of Mercury, which, along with Venus, are your co-planetary rulers. With the latter celestial influence, represented by the Ten of Spades, success in your efforts becomes a strong likelihood. You can make money in everything from intellectual endeavors to drama and music, but your eccentricities and inability to manage your income suggest that you may need help in hanging on to it. You are particularly well-suited to service related occupations and entertainment, but you may also find success in jobs which capitalize on your mechanical aptitude. For some other possibilities, you may share this birthday with Augustus Caesar, scientist Johann Encke, writers Sara Lippincott and William McGuffey, Walter Lippman, actors Walter Pidgeon and Mickey Rooney, and musician Ray Charles.

The doors to love and romance are likely to swing wide open for you. What you're likely to do with this opportunity will depend largely on whether you identify with "his" or "hers." If it's the latter, you are likely to do everything to make a success of marriage. On the other hand, if you are called "mister," restlessness and a lack of patience may prove significant obstacles to building a lasting marriage. Whatever your gender, your romantic luck may be better with someone born on January 1, 4, 10, 24, 30; February 2, 8, 22, 28; March 6, 20, 26; April 4, 18, 24; May 2, 16, 22, 29; June 14, 20, 27; July 12, 18, 25, 31; August 10, 16, 23, 29; September 8, 14, 21, 27; October 6, 12, 19, 25; November 4, 10, 17, 23; December 2, 8, 15, 21.

SEPTEMBER 24 (2 + 4 = 6) K♥ KING OF HEARTS

The dynamic emotional vitality symbolized in your card suggests that you have the charm power to win your way through life. This is enhanced by the strong sense of justice highlighted by your numerical six birthday. But you may have to watch that destiny's grand plans for you are not waylaid in a quest for pleasure.

Although astrologically a Libran, your cusp birthday suggests that your romantic temperament is somewhat tempered by the proximity to the down-to-earth influence of Virgo. As represented by the Six of Hearts, Venus, your planetary ruler accents your strong social instincts. Unfortunately, it also implies a trace of inertia, which could all too easily let you drift into a sensually comfortable rut. Let your more practical side get the upper hand and you will probably display the leadership which can accomplish wonders through your special blend of charm and authority. While this could prove especially profitable in banking and merchandising, as a romantic idealist it might inspire you to express yourself as a spiritual leader or statesman. A desire for action suggests that you avoid rigid routines, you need something which will appeal to your sensitive and artistic nature. While you're particularly well-equipped to find success in the arts, especially writing, the record suggests that you can also give a good account of yourself in science. For example, you share this birthday with scientist Geronimo Cardano, English politician Horace Walpole, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court John Marshall, sculptor Antoine Barye, writers Samuel Rutherford Crockett, Donald Adams and F. Scott Fitzgerald and producer Cheryl Crawford.

A social being with a compelling emotional sex drive, suggesting that companionship and marriage are extremely important to you. Domestically inclined, you love to share the good things of life with others. The same quality which makes you a friend to the human race encourages you to be a generous spouse and parent. Some of your warmth may be disturbed by a nervous temperament and an inclination to build an invisible barrier around yourself. You may find this less likely a problem with someone born on January 5, 25; February 3, 23; March 1, 21; April 19; May 17, 30; June 15, 28; July 13, 30; August 11, 28, 30; September 9, 22, 26, 28; October 7, 20, 24, 26, 29; November 5, 18, 22, 24, 27, 30; December 3, 16, 20, 22, 25.

SEPTEMBER 25 (2 + 5 = 7) Q♥ QUEEN OF HEARTS

The sensitive, natural charm suggested by your card according to the numerological seven factor of your birthday may be hidden behind a skeptical, somewhat critical facade. While this may be, in part, an attempt to minimize your strong, emotional nature, don't allow it to make you so uptight that you lose your own mystical-sensitivity.

The emotional qualities implied in your heart card are underscored by Venus, your ruling planet. Since this planet is represented by the Eight of Diamonds, it is very likely that your attractive exterior hides a cool business head, knowledgeable in the ways to turn those charms and talents into profit. Perhaps the greatest threat to your productivity is an inclination to vacillate between optimism and spells of melancholy. Although you may tend to depreciate your abilities, you also set very high standards for yourself. Whether you are male or female, your active mind suggests you need to be constructively occupied. If not in some profession then possibly in some endeavor which will translate your energies into a productive expression.

An uncanny understanding of people combined with a most attractive, personable nature suggests that your best bet for success would be in just about any kind of people-related endeavor, such as selling and entertainment. Add to this the probability that you have a reasoning ability second to none, and this list should also include the legal profession and politics. If you need any more encouragement, you share this birthday with Chinese politician Chien Lung, poet William Faulkner, musician Glen Gould, dancer Juliet Prowse, baseball's Phil Rizzuto, and television's Barbara Walters.

When it comes to relationships of the heart, you should be in your own element. Serious emotional choices are likely to be influenced by your taste for luxury. An idealist to the point of being a moralist, except when it comes to your own romantic adventures. Actually, while you are likely to have your choice of romantic possibilities, in love your innate wisdom may fail you. To improve your prospects for success, you might look for someone born on January 27; February 10, 17; March 27, 30; April 6, 13, 21; May 26, 29; June 2, 9, 17; July 22, 25, 31; August 4, 13, 20, 23; September 27; October 1, 9, 16, 19; November 23, 30; December 5, 12, 15, 21.

SEPTEMBER 26 (2 + 6 = 8) J♥ JACK OF HEARTS

Vibrant, emotional magnetism is suggested by your card and your numerical eight birthday. Combined with an excellent physique and intellectual potential, you have all the attributes to achieve the recognition you so greatly desire — just don't stumble over your pride on the way up.

As represented by the Nine of Spades, the charms indicated by Venus, your ruling planet, may very well prove to be as much a heartache as an asset. Particularly in the early years, obstacles and delays may impede your efforts both in love and work. Being especially vulnerable to the pitfalls of the flesh, it is extremely important that you channel your emotional energies into constructive expression. Self-discipline and perseverance are truly the key to your wonderful potential. Very conscious of appearance, so you are likely to be up on the latest styles, and with your natural feel for color and form, you may even set the trends. While capable of doing many things well, your strong feelings and independent nature indicate the wisdom of avoiding those activities and occupations which are routine and restrictive. Instead, your dramatic vitality is likely to find a more satisfactory outlet in music, writing and acting.

Since you enjoy the feedback you get from people, humanitarian endeavors, such as counselling and social work may be even closer to the mark. Draw on the Christ-power of your card and you may find your true place in some form of spiritual leadership. For some other ideas, you share this birthday with Denmark's King Christian X, Pope Paul VI, sociologist Robert Lynd, composers George Gershwin and Dmitri Shostakovich, author T.S. Elliot, artist J.L. Gericault, singers Julie London and Lynn Anderson.

A natural diplomat with a knack for making friends, you are apt to be at your social best in groups, the larger — the better. It's those more intimate relationships that will present you with quandaries. You are all too likely to attract situations which are either inadequate to your great emotional-sexual needs, or so loaded with problems that love becomes a frustrating venture. You may find this less likely with someone born on February 3, 5, 11, 15, 17, 18; April 1, 7, 11, 13, 14; May 30; June 3, 7, 9, 10; July 26, 28; August 3, 5, 6; September 22, 24, 28; October 1, 2, 20, 22; November 24; December 16, 18, 22.

SEPTEMBER 27 (2 + 7 = 9) 10♥ TEN OF HEARTS

Set your sights high! While you may stumble in one-to-one relationships, your card implies that you can be successful with groups and with the public in general. The "universality" of your numerological nine birthday suggests that fate has you slated to play a role on the larger stage of life as a leader, teacher, performer, possibly as some sort of humanitarian "big brother."

The Eight of Spades, symbolic of your planetary ruler Venus, suggests that your social, possibly even your romantic activity, is likely to be related to work or some type of productive expression. While this same influence suggests that you tend to be rather hardheaded, it also implies a basic good health pattern, which should help you cope with a tendency to overindulge in people, food and drink. Translate your innate stubbornness into perseverance and you should be able to accomplish just about anything. Your efforts are likely to be helped by a keen, analytical mind, with an almost intuitive understanding of the "mechanics of life," of how things work. A natural idealist, in your desire to build, to set things right, you may feel drawn to government service, to religious and philosophical expressions or to activities concerned with social reforms. Though you do not lack in capability, your grand dreams may suffer from lack of self-discipline.

Although spiritually inclined, your beliefs are likely to be somewhat unorthodox. While your sensitivities suggest that you can express yourself successfully in the arts, your high Heart card suggests that you give priority to occupations and interests that will capitalize on your ability to deal with people. For some examples, you share this birthday with American revolutionary patriot Samuel Adams, King Louis XIII of France, cartoonist Thomas Nast and George Cruikshank, composer Cyril Scott, Senators Samuel Ervin and Charles Percy, actors George Raft and William Conrad and actress Jayne Meadows.

Despite your great charm, intimate relationships and marriages are likely to be challenging. Easily offended, your inclinations to indulge in introverted moods are not likely to help personal communications. Looks are important, but brains are equally important when it comes to choosing a life mate. Keep this thought in mind and look for someone born on one of the following birthdays to improve your chances for personal happiness. January 21, 26, 29, 30; February 1, 4, 7, 16, 19; March 22, 25, 26; April 3, 12, 15, 20; May 21, 22, 31; June 8, 11, 16, 19, 20; July 27, 29; August 4, 7, 12, 15, 16; September 23, 25, 29; October 3, 8, 11, 12, 21, 23; November 21, 25, 27; December 4, 7, 8, 17, 19, 23.

SEPTEMBER 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 9♥ NINE OF HEARTS

The wider your perspective, the more responsible your expression of your romantic idealism. the more you will know the fulfillment indicated in your card. Add to this the leadership attributes of your numerical one birthday and you have the potential for greatness as a statesman, humanitarian or lover.

As represented by the Five of Diamonds, your astrological planet, Venus, suggests that the magnetic charms implied in the combination of this planet and your card are likely to prove a mixed blessing. An inner turbulence may feed a nervous temperament, pressing a quest for satisfaction through a wide variety of involvements and experiences. Bold as you can appear, you are likely to be extremely sensitive, with a tendency to suffer from imagined slights as much as you do from real ones. Channel this sensitivity along with the breath of understanding suggested by your Heart card and you may find your special niche as a counsellor or preacher. You are compassionate but also shrewd enough to turn your talents, skills and charms into profit.

As an individualist and natural leader, you are likely to chafe in subordinate roles. Capable as you are, your great potential may be somewhat threatened by willful emotional attitudes. Among your best possibilities careerwise are politics, arts, selling, entertainment — anything that will capitalize on your emotional magic with the public. For some examples, you share this birthday with statesman George Clemenceau of France, King Carlos of Portugal, temperance advocate Frances Willard, writers Frederick Engles and Kate Wiggins, Avery Brundage (Olympics). broadcasting executive William Paley, television's Ed Sullivan, prize fighter Max Schmeling, tennis star Alice Marble, cartoonist Al Capp, actress Brigitte

Bardot, actor Marcello Mastroianni and spy Ethel Rosenburg.

Symbolic of "universal love" your card suggests the probability that your involvements with groups and the public may be more successful than your more intimate relationships. The suffering you may experience in your romantic ventures are more than likely to arise from your own emotional restlessness. You may feel a greater urge to build a lasting relationship with someone born on January 22, 25, 29; February 13; March 21, 25, 30, 31; April 9, 16, 19; May 21, 26, 27, 29; June 5, 12, 15, 19; July 23, 25, 28, 30; August 1, 8, 11, 15, 20, 23; September 24, 26, 30; October 4, 7, 11, 16, 17, 19, 22, 24; November 20, 22, 26; December 3, 7, 12, 13, 15, 18, 20, 24.

SEPTEMBER 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) 8♥ EIGHT OF HEARTS

Extremes in the expression of both love and power are suggested by the combination of your card and the numerological eleven of your birthday. If this top-heavy emotional force is to be translated into a constructive force of love and leadership, some application of the "mastery" symbolized in your birthday is essential.

With the static influence of the Six of Spades symbolizing your ruling planet, Venus, your earliest years are likely to be comfortable but dull. It may seem difficult to get yourself and your efforts underway. One compensating thought — this influence does suggest an intuitive, spiritual-sensitivity which could help you to tap and control the tremendous powers represented in your birthday. Despite your dynamic vitality, you are not particularly suited to manual labor. On the other hand, intellectual and especially artistic expressions should appeal to your emotional perspective. Your intense feelings may find an even greater satisfaction in theatrical endeavors. Being a Heart with a knack for organization, you should be effective in some type of leadership role, preferably dealing with personnel or with the public. A compassionate insight and understanding of human nature points to a probable skill at counselling and meditation.

Whatever course you choose, there is a strong probability that it will be financially rewarding. If you need some ideas as to how you might realize this good fortune, consider the careers of the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes empire builder Lord Robert Clive of India, naval hero Lord Nelson, American architect Henry Richardson, artists Tintoretto and Francois Boucher, Russian scientist Lysenko, physicist Enrico Fermi, actresses Greer Garson and Anita Ekberg, actor Gene Autry and producer Stanley Kramer.

Among the most charming of all, yet your love life may suffer from an emotional straight jacket. This may be as a result of a rigid control of your great passions, or an inability to find someone equal to your great sexual-emotional requirements. An inclination to live on an emotional seesaw swinging from exhilarating highs to depressing lows suggests that you had better choose someone with a strong heart and sense of stability. That special someone might be born on January 23, 30; February 2, 6, 9, 14; March 26; April 2, 5, 10, 17; May 22, 28; June 1, 6, 13, 20; July 24, 31; August 2, 9, 16, 22; September 27; October 5, 12, 18; November 23, 27; December 1, 8, 14, 21.

SEPTEMBER 30 (3 + 0 = 3) 7♥ SEVEN OF HEARTS

Accent the mystical seven of your card, and you can rise above the petty emotional attitudes associated with your card and translate this beautiful heart energy into loving inspiration. Then instead of emotional quandaries, the numerological three of your birthday will bring out the sparkling charm suggested by your card.

Venus, your planetary ruler, as represented by the Five of Spades, suggests that your personal life is likely to be marked with an element of uncertainty. While these more than likely will arise from emotional disturbances, many changes and moves are not likely to minimize that inner sense of insecurity. Fortunately, this same influence suggests that contacts made while traveling can prove very beneficial both socially and workwise. Though you are somewhat prone to blue moods, your persistent stubborn nature is not likely to allow you to stay down for long. This same outlook helps to minimize that lazy streak with an extremely conscientious attitude toward responsibilities. Capable as you can be in positions of authority, you may have to watch that your dedication to duty doesn't cause you to be too harsh a task-master. In this same vein, be careful that an inclination to be overly cautious, doesn't encourage a habitual suspiciousness of new people and new ideas.

Careerwise, you're likely to be at your best in occupations and activities which provide you with the opportunity to capitalize on your charm. For this and other examples, note the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are India's ambassador Mohammed Chagla, tycoon William Wrigley, actor Ramond Massey, actresses Deborah Kerr and Angie Dickinson, singers Kenny Baker and Johnny Mathis.

Love is extremely precious to you, but jealousy, possessiveness along with difficulty in expressing your true feelings can also make it very painful. Though in your younger years you may be inclined to play romantic games, with maturity you tend to replace that selfish streak with self-sacrificing faithfulness. Since your greatest challenges are likely to come through your emotional relationships, it is very important that you choose lovers and friends most wisely. You may have better luck with someone born on January 24, 31; February 2, 7; March 20, 27; April 3, 18; May 23; June 14, 21; August 10, 17; September 28; October 6, 13; November 24, 28, 30; December 2, 9, 22.

OCTOBER 1 (1 = 1) 8♦ EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

A pleasing, almost modest, personality conceals the dynamic power indicated by your card and the determined will to excel suggested numerically in your birthday. Aggressive as you may be in the pursuit of success, you have a way of going about it so that it's not likely to offend anyone.

Venus, your ruling planet as symbolized by the Three of Hearts, suggests that, while this "planet of love" is not likely to do much for your love life, it will give you a winning charm and possibly even musical talent. Actually, your many abilities and varied interests may cause some confusion as to what your priorities are. Since you're not particularly receptive to advice, it won't do much good to ask anyone else for guidance. You also don't particularly enjoy anything that places you in a subservient position. So with your positive attitude and capabilities, you really should be running the show or at least playing a starring role. When in positions of authority, you may have to guard against being too bossy. Some type of spiritual expression may accomplish for you that certain necessary something which no amount of material power can bring.

In selecting a career, and just about everyone born on this day should be involved in some type of productive activity, consider your need for independent action and creative expression. For a few examples, you share this birthday with Theosophist Annie Wood Besant, writer Faith Baldwin, pianist Vladimir Horowitz, President Jimmy Carter, actors Laurence Harvey, Walter Matthau, James Whitmore, George Peppard and Richard Harris, astrologer Marc Edmund Jones and singer-actress Julie Andrews.

If you have an achilles heel, it's pretty likely to pertain to love and marriage. Even in a crowd, you're apt to have a sense of loneliness. Although there may be things over which you have no control, you can guard against being overly independent and too easily bored. It might also help if you would try to give some of the affection for which you so deeply hunger. You may find it easier to do with someone born on January 21, 28; February 5, 13, 15, 19; March 24, 30; April 1, 9, 11, 15, 17; May 20, 26; June 5, 7, 11, 13, 18; July 22, 29, 30; August 1, 3, 7, 9, 14, 20; September 25, 26; October 3, 5, 10, 16, 23; November 22, 30; December 1, 6, 19, 20.

OCTOBER 2 (2 = 2) 7♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

Idealism and material expression blend harmoniously through the forces symbolized in your card and in the numerical value of your birthday. Together these influences suggest the potential to translate your inspired visions into tangible artistic expression or into philosophical-political action.

The materialistic tendencies associated with your card are greatly modified by the heart quality of Venus, your planetary ruler, especially as symbolized by the Jack of Hearts.

This dynamic, emotional influence, besides indicating a strong romantic drive, may also encourage involvement in humanitarian endeavors. Whether it be for some cause or in responses made upon you by family and friends, you tend to give unselfishly of yourself. You can be a most sympathetic parent and friend. These same attributes suggest that you have a great potential for giving inspired leadership in church organizations and in government service. Capable as you can be, you may have to resist the temptation to play the part of a martyr. Colorful and dramatic, whatever you choose, you are not likely to remain in obscurity. Even in your modesty you tend to be melodramatic. True to your sun-sign, Libra, an ability to see both sides plus a knack for arbitrating differences indicates that you might find your true place in the legal profession. You can also be quite an imposing figurehead, or when you see the humor of it all, quite the comedian.

To illustrate this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with Hindu leader Mohandas Gandhi, General Ferdinand Foch, commander-in-chief of the Allied armies in World War I, German statesman Paul von Hindenburg, statesman Cordell Hull, comedians Groucho Marx and Bud Abbott, actor-columnist Rex Reed and actor-singer Robert Nolan.

Your protective love can inspire noble deeds, but these same emotional energies are capable of self-indulgent passions and melancholy moods which can destroy your personal happiness. Great as your need to be needed may be, the probability of getting stuck with loved ones requiring many sacrifices of you suggests you choose your romantic involvements most carefully. You may find someone more worthy of your great love born on January 22; February 3, 4, 11, 14, 16; March 30, 31; April 7, 10, 12, 16; May 26, 27; June 3, 6, 8, 12; July 22, 23, 30; August 2, 4, 8, 20, 21; September 26; October 4, 16, 17, 24; November 22, 30; December 12, 13 and 20.

OCTOBER 3 (3 = 3) 6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

The strong urge for self-expression spelled out numerically in your birthday is likely to be enhanced by the vivid, intuitive imagination suggested by your card. As an entertaining extrovert, you tend to flourish on people and many interests. Capable as you're likely to be, be careful that this doesn't cause a confusion which may leave you floundering as an aimless dilettante.

Gregarious as your ruling planet Venus, as represented by the Ten of Hearts, causes you to appear, you may have an elusive remoteness that tends to hold you apart from others. This celestial influence and card also suggest that you have more than social fun to gain from the human race. Put your charm and creative energies together and you're likely to find them applauding you in the theater, reading your books or buying just about anything that you have to sell. While it may not be of much help in gambling, your intuitive sense about values should help you evaluate the true worth of people, ideas and things, and help you manage what you have. Symbolic of karmic values your card implies a strong sense of destiny which may encourage a quest for answers, especially in the realm of human relationships. As a disseminator of knowledge, your ever-active mind may find literary efforts and the theater as natural outlets for your many ideas and observations.

Capable as you may be in intellectual endeavors, you're likely to excel in many areas. To illustrate, note the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are William Gorgas, famed for his work against yellow fever, writers Gore Vidal, George Bancroft and Thomas Wolfe, occultist Paul Foster Case, actresses Eleanora Duse and Betsy Palmer, actor Henry Hull, entertainer Chubby Checker and etiquette expert Emily Post.

While you may be the "belle of the ball," Saturn, your decanate ruler, as represented by the Ace of Hearts, suggests that love may be a real challenge. In the quest for the real thing, you're likely to try all sorts of emotional, sexual experiments and shed a lot of tears. Those romantic adventures may prove more fruitful with someone born on February 1, 4, 17; April 13, 17; May 27, 28; June 9, 13; July 23, 24, 31; August 5, 9, 21, 22; September 27; October 1, 5, 17, 18; November 23, 29; December 1, 13, 14 and 21.

OCTOBER 4 (4 = 4) 5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

The constructive influence implied numerically in your birthday should do much to stabilize the uncertainties portrayed both in your card and Libra sun-sign. While this may keep you from wandering all over the globe, don't let your need for security frustrate the vision of your free spirit.

A creative intellect and an inclination to rebel at responsibility are both suggested by the Jack of Clubs, which symbolizes your ruling planet, Venus. Actually the leadership attributes of this card emphasize a capability for handling the responsibilities of authority. In this respect, you will be more effective in work and activities which include an opportunity for a wide variety of action. Basically quiet and conservative, your strong likes and dislikes, however, suggest that when you do have something to say, you can be quite outspoken. Extremely sensitive, you really need to take some quiet time every day to get off by yourself to restore your composure and vitality. What you may lack in ambition, you are more than likely to make up in tenacity. If your strong sense of justice is offended, you're inclined to persist until you have righted the wrong.

Versatile and dramatic, two of your strongest points may be your organizational ability and knack of handling people. For some ideas as to how to use your potential, you share this birthday with President Rutherford B. Hayes, Mexican bandit Pancho Villa, statesman Engelbert Doffuss, artists Jean Millet and Frederic Remington, scientist Michael Pupin, actors Buster Keaton and Charlton Heston and Saint Francis of Assisi.

You can love very deeply, but due to difficulty in expressing your real feelings, you may appear cold. An appreciation of the security of family and home helps to overcome your aversion to marital responsibilities. Even so, you may have to guard against being drawn into association with those who would encourage you to fritter away your time. One of your pre-requisites for a lover or spouse is someone who can turn on your imagination. In your quest to find someone who can fill this bill, you may have better luck with someone born on January 24, 26, 29; February 5, 6, 18; March 20, 22, 25; April 1, 2, 14, 18, 20; May 21, 28, 29; June 10, 14, 16, 19, 22; July 24, 25; August 6, 10, 12, 15, 22, 23; September 28; October 2, 6, 8, 11, 18, 19; November 24, 30; December 2, 4, 7, 14, 15, 22.

OCTOBER 5 (5 = 5) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

Innately restless but fortunately, the practical, material influence of your diamond card is likely to translate this into productive energy. Numerically, your birthday suggests that you have many possibilities through which you can find that success so dear to you. Be careful that you don't place too great a value on success and prestige.

The tremendous charm-power of the Eight of Hearts which represents your planetary ruler, Venus, indicates that you belong in public-related careers. Routine occupations and activities are likely to bore you to the point of idleness. Your enthusiasm feeds on the stimulus of people-contacts and new ideas, so you may do a great deal of traveling in a quest for new faces, interests and places. An excellent money-making potential is indicated by your card, but you're likely to get burned on many a speculative venture before you realize that, as a four, your wealth is likely to come from your own productivity. A materialist, yet underlying influences suggest that you're also an idealist, one who can become a substantial guiding force in fraternal and religious organizations.

Self-sufficient, but you're also a joiner, instinctively realizing that your potential success grows with the increase of your contacts. You can drive a sharp bargain and are likely to go to just about any length to achieve an objective. Just watch that long-range objectives are not jeopardized in the pursuit of immediate gains. Your versatility is well-demonstrated by the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are religious leader Jonathan Edwards, pioneer tuberculosis fighter, Dr. Edward Trudeau, producer Joshua Logan, President Chester Arthur, astronaut Richard Gordon, scientist Pavel Popovich and actress Diane Cilento.

Saturn, your decanate ruler, as represented by the Queen of Hearts, underscores your ability to excel socially but it also warns of becoming involved in burdensome emotional situations. Emotionally, you're sort of a paradox, generous yet very demanding and possessive, at the same time insisting on retaining your own personal freedom. Although you can charm just about anybody into a relationship, you might have better luck with someone born on February 6, 12, 14, 17, 19; April 2, 8, 10, 13, 15, 19; May 30; June 4, 6, 9, 11, 15; July 26; August 2, 5, 7, 11, 24; September 22, 29; October 1, 3, 7, 20; November 25, 28; December 3 and 16.

OCTOBER 6 (6 = 6) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

A "cockeyed optimist," you tend to grin your way through the many uncertainties implied in your card. Numerically, your birthday suggests that, while ambition may not stir you into action, concern about security and the desire for creature comforts and a yen for luxury may supply the necessary incentives.

Symbolic of Venus, your planetary ruler, the Seven of Hearts indicates a charm which is likely to prove both an asset and a source of heartaches. So, while you should flourish in work and activities with social overtones, be careful that emotional attitudes don't spoil this advantage. Except for a chronic skepticism and indecisiveness which at times is apt to slow down your quick mind, mentally, you have the potential to be adept in anything from the arts to science. Just be careful that an inclination to vacillate doesn't impede your ability to make decisions and to take definite stands. Critical as you can be, you tend to come apart at the seams if someone uses the same tact on you. High-strung, nervous and tense, sports or any excuse that you can find to get out into the open, to commune with nature could prove to be a life-saving therapy. Though you're likely to prefer the stability to be found in more traditional occupations, the urge for self-expression may attract you into the limelight. To illustrate this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with early religious reformer William Tyndale, singers Jenny Lind and Maria Jeritza, scientists R.A. Fessenden and George Westinghouse, author Julian Lamothe, explorer Thor Heyerdahl, actresses Janet Gaynor and Carole Lombard and tennis star Helen Wills Moody Roark.

An idealistic streak suggests that you can be a valuable member of the community or an inspiring parent figure. But important as home and family are, a strong, somewhat compulsive, romantic sex-drive may jeopardize all that you hold dear. It seems that you are always looking for that someone who is closer to the ideal than the one you're with. You might save yourself a lot of grief by starting out with someone born on one of the following birthdays: January 22, 26; February 2, 7, 20; March 22; April 3, 16, 20; May 31; June 12, 16; July 27; August 8, 12; September 23, 30; October 4, 8; November 26; December 4, 17 and 24.

OCTOBER 7 (7 = 7) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

Unless you can share your quest with someone, the dependent sensitivity implied in your card may prove a curse. Fear of being burdened with the responsibility of the profound awareness suggested numerologically in your birthday may tempt you to travel the paths of triviality.

A strong streak of artistic sensitivity is suggested by your ruling planet, Venus. Since this globe is represented by the Eight of Clubs, intellectual interests may have an even greater attraction. Procrastination and vacillation are apt to be the prime obstacles to your good fortune. But, while it may take some time for you to get it all together, when you do, you'll probably hang on to your gains for the rest of your life. Among the healthier of the homo sapiens species, you're not likely to be troubled with much sickness.

You may be a poet, artist or physicist, but the Ten of Hearts, symbolic of Saturn, your decanate ruler, suggests that charm will be near the top of your list of assets. Of course, while this "people-power" can win you groups and audiences, it may also encourage social excesses. Translate this knack with people into a public career and you might lead the masses in prayer or politics. For some examples, you share this birthday with poet James Whitcomb Riley, nuclear physicist Niels Bohr, politician Henry Wallace, musician Alfred Wallenstein, artist John Alexander, social worker Martha McChesney Barry, actor Andy Devine, and actresses Sarah Churchill and June Allyson.

Involvement with someone is a must according to your card. But numerologically, your birthday indicates difficulty in close relationships. These are likely to arise from a pre-occupation with your own interests and a restless heart. You might improve your chances to find the emotional security, which you so desperately need by looking for someone born on January 23, 27, 29; February 8; March 23, 25, 28, 30, 31; April 17, 21; May 21, 24, 26, 27; June 11, 15, 17, 22, 23; July 22, 23, 28; August 9, 13, 15, 18, 20, 21; September 24, 28; October 5, 9, 11, 14, 16, 17, 22; November 24, 27; December 1, 5, 7, 10, 12, 13, 14, 18 and 22.

OCTOBER 8 (8 = 8) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

Numerologically, your birthday indicates that you have the power to fulfill the burning ambition symbolized in your card. To break it down, you have the energy to sustain your drive and constructively apply the creative imagination and leadership to carry off your most grandiose schemes.

On that road to the top, don't trip over your heart. The Five of Hearts, symbolic of your ruling planet, Venus, suggests a very real danger that your changeable feelings can be a stumbling block, causing you to be inconsistent in your efforts. Since your emotional attitudes can surface at the most awkward times, guard against appearing like a petty tyrant. Extremely blunt, but, fortunately, you also have a charm which can sell, promote ideas and also make your candid remarks easier to take.

Dynamic and intense, you're apt to burn up more energy than you realize, so take time out regularly to relax and recharge your batteries. Let your appreciation of beauty and quality add to your incentive, but don't allow power and the acquisition of things be your only criteria for success. Publicly, the picture of benevolence and generosity, but in private, it may be a different story. Independent and individualistic, partnerships are not really for you. You're likely to be happier and far more effective with your own business or running the show for someone else. A knack for organization and a way with people, plus a nose for values, suggest the probability of success in banking, the mercantile industries or in politics. For some other ideas, you share this birthday with statesman John Hay, Argentine dictator Juan Peron and flyer-executive Eddie Rickenbacker.

The probability of much personal magnetism is indicated by the Nine of Hearts which represents your decanate ruler, Saturn. Unfortunately, this influence also suggests that you are very vulnerable to disappointments. Emotionally, you're on a see-saw with your expression of affection fluctuating with your every mood. At times the greatest of lovers, but then there are those times when you couldn't care less. If you want personal happiness, learn to control your changeable heart. This might be more easily accomplished with someone born on January 22, 24, 28, 30; February 4, 9, 20; March 20, 24, 26; April 5, 16, 18, 22; May 20, 22; June 1, 12, 14, 18, 20; July 31; August 8, 10, 14, 16; September 27; October 6, 8, 12, 14; November 23, 28, December 6, 8, 19 and 21.

OCTOBER 9 (9 = 9)  KING OF CLUBS

Your royal card, enhanced by the broad scope of possibilities implied numerically in your birthday, suggests that fate has opened the door to a life of tremendous opportunity. Only if you deliberately choose to ignore the responsibility of leadership and the sharing of your profound perspective can you fail.

Identified with the top card in the mental suit, you are obviously no slouch in the brain department. But, with the Four of Hearts symbolizing your ruling planet, Venus, you're likely to have something more on your mind than Aristotelian logic. This heart card, combined with this planet of romance, suggests that there may be a very real danger of your being side-tracked by your social emotional power. While this charm-power could be a terrific asset, especially in activities depending on public support, be careful that it does not endanger all to which you aspire through emotional or social excesses. Analytical and astute as you can be in your observations, resist the temptation to lower your heavy critical guns at friends and associates. This, along with impatience and outbursts of temper, can be the greatest threat to all your co-operative endeavors, whether they be personal or professional. Although you have the cards stacked in your favor, much personal discipline is likely to be required to get you through delays and your own inertia.

Your crown card implies that you can excel at just about anything you may attempt, but, since you're identified with the club suit, you are likely to be particularly successful in some expression of creative, intellectual leadership. To illustrate, you share this day with writers Miguel de Cervantes, Edward William Fox and Gamaliel Bradford, composer Saint-Saens, evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson, politicans Bukharin of Russia and Robert Finch, artist Leonard Wood and musician John Lennon.

The power to conquer just about anybody or anything is suggested by the Eight of Hearts, symbolic of Saturn, your decanate ruler. But the combination of this card and planet emphasizes the importance of investing this power wisely. Otherwise, your romantic investments may bring burdensome, emotional obligations rather than the fulfillment of love. You may find fewer difficulties and more pleasure in love and friendships with those born on January 25, 28, 29, 31; February 3, 5, 10, 11; March 21, 24, 25, 27; April 2, 6, 7, 19; May 21, 23; June 2, 3, 15, 18, 19, 21; July 29; August 11, 15, 17; September 25; October 7, 11, 13, 23; November 19, 21; December 3, 7, 9 and 19.

OCTOBER 10 (1 + 0 = 1)  QUEEN OF CLUBS

The sensitive intellect and the talent potential suggested by your card certainly gives the ambition implied numerologically in your birthday something to work with. In all probability, after you've scaled the heights in one field or profession, you're likely to look for other peaks to conquer.

An innate restlessness, according to the Five of Clubs, which represents your ruling planet, Venus, is likely to stimulate changes and travel all through your life. While a lesser individual may be confused by all this activity and many interests, you seem to thrive on it. Your many abilities suggest an excellent money-making potential, but impatience, indifference to details and an inclination to give generously indicate that you may have some difficulty in hanging on to much of it. Even so, your inherent optimism is not likely to be diminished for long by your many ups and downs. The successful timing of your many efforts is due not only to your keen mind, but also to an intuitive insight into "what makes the wheels go around." Quick and sensitive as you are, nervousness may be a real threat to your otherwise good health pattern. Be it professionally or as a hobby, some sort of artistic expression could prove to be a most valuable therapy to your ever-active mind.

Need a career idea? Consider the following who share this birthday with you: artists Antoine Watteau and Benjamin West, composer Guiseppe Verdi, physicist Henry Cavendish, arctic explorer and humanitarian-statesman Frdtjob Nansen, statesman Paul Kruger, author Lin Yutang, film director Harold Pinter, actresses Helen Hayes and Dorothy Lamour.

Saturn, your decanate ruler, as represented by the Seven of Hearts, suggests that love is one thing you cannot afford to take for granted. Despite the Universal Mother image associated with your card, you're not particularly domestic. An impulsive, emotional attitude combined with an inclination to be caught up with your own interests may make it difficult to sustain a family scene. You may be less anxious to change partners if that certain someone is born on January 26; February 10, 11, 12, 17; March 22, 28, 31; April 6, 7, 8, 13, 20; May 24, 27, 29; June 2, 3, 4, 9, 16, 22; July 23, 25, 30; August 5, 12, 18, 21, 23; September 26; October 1, 8, 14, 17, 19; November 22, 27, 30; December 5, 10, 13, 15, 20.

OCTOBER 11 (Master Number) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

The exceptional mental attributes associated with your card gives you access to the potential greatness implied numerically in your birthday. A reluctance to accept the responsibility of this opportunity may cause you to translate the power of your master number - eleven birthday into a self-indulgent, dependent two.

Ruled by Venus, your more significant possibilities may be jeopardized by a strong social-romantic drive. The importance of channeling your emotional energies into some constructive expression is emphasized by the Seven of Spades which symbolizes your ruling planet. Otherwise, you could all too easily end up as a jaded dilettante, your wonderful possibilities replaced with psychological problems. Though you may have a streak of shyness your talents and dynamic nature are not going to let you linger in the background for long. If nothing else, your aggressive idealism may inspire you to become involved with solving the world's ills through politics and groups concerned with social reform. With your efforts enhanced by an uncanny understanding of your fellow man, you're likely to accomplish what you set out to do. Be careful not to abuse this power through selfish manipulation of people and money.

With your birthday occurring in the decanate of Libra, ruled by Saturn, your fun-loving view of life may be sobered by the pressures of reality. The Jack of Diamonds, which represents this planetary influence, indicates that you have the creative leadership-potential to earn your way out of any limitation. While this may attract you to some type of artistic or theatrical expression, you may come even closer to the expression of the real you in government service and humanitarian efforts. For example. you share this birthday with YMCA founder Sir George Williams, symphony conductor Theodore Thomas, Chief Justice Harlan Stone, General Nathan Twining, columnist Joseph W. Alsop Jr., choreographer Jerome Robbins and Eleanor Roosevelt.

A romantic idealist, yet your unpredictable emotional-sex drive is likely to make love a stormy affair. Pre-requisites for success in love are likely to include an imaginative and versatile lover and some other interest to absorb some of your self-insistent drive. Personal happiness might be more easily achieved with someone born on January 22, 27, 31; February 1, 5, 13, 18, 20; March 23, 27; April 1, 9, 14, 16, 21; May 19, 23; June 5,12, 17, 21; July 31; August 1, 8, 13, 17; September 27, 28; October 4, 9, 13; November 23, 24; December 5, 9, 21 and 22.

OCTOBER 12 (1 + 2 = 3) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

The numerological three of your birthday suggests that you've got something to say and your card indicates you probably know what you're talking about. There's a good chance that your unique perspective and ability to articulate your ideas will bring you fame and fortune.

If you need anything more to insure a rewarding life, the King of Spades, which represents your planetary ruler, Venus, implies a most significant potential both spiritually and mundanely. High-minded, you're capable of giving inspired leadership. Don't minimize the effectiveness of your authority by being too dominant and hard-headed. Be it in the role of an executive or a housewife, your personal fulfillment requires some sort of productive expression. An intellectual, intuitive insight into how things work helps you understand everything from machinery, business procedures to political "wheeling and dealing." Able as you may be with your hands, it's in your gray-matter where your real power resides. So, lay down that pick and shovel and pick up that pen, use that typewriter.

Mercury-Uranus, rulers of your birthday decanate, highlight your ingenious imagination. As symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds and the Ten of Spades, these planetary influences suggest that your innovative ideas can be the source of your prosperity. It may be in construction, politics or as a dispenser of ideas, but fundamentally you are a builder. Just be careful that your many interests don't interfere with your mission in life, to be of service to humanity. If you need any inspiration, you share this birthday with early American statesman Jonathan Trumbull, British statesman Ramsay MacDonald, bibliographer Wilberforce Eames, inventor Elmer Sperry who adapted the gyroscope to ships, actress Helena Modjeska and entertainer Dick Gregory.

A love of variety plus a fear of the restriction of marriage may encourage a love-on-the-run philosophy. If you want something more than transitory relationships, develop your patience and look for someone born on January 1, 26; February 6, 7, 16; March 22, 28; April 2, 3, 12, 20; May 24, 31; June 8, 16, 22,; July 27, 31; August 4, 12, 18; September 23, 27, 29; October 8, 14, 21; November 23, 25; December 4, 10 and 21.

OCTOBER 13 (1 + 3 = 4) 9♣ NINE OF CLUBS

Much perseverance and patience are among the prerequisites necessary to achieve the grand dreams inspired by your card. Fortunately, your numerical four birthday implies that you have both the practicality and willingness to work hard to make them a reality.

According to the Two of Hearts, which symbolizes Venus, your ruling planet, companionship and co-operation are extremely important to you in business as well as in your personal life. Don't allow your great sensitivity and somewhat dictatorial temperament become a detriment in those constructive relationships so important to your happiness as well as success. Throughout your life, you may have to combat a tendency to indulge in melancholy arising out of a sense of loneliness.

Mercury and Uranus, your decanate rulers, as represented by the Nine of Spades and the Four of Clubs, suggest that the earliest years are likely to be the most difficult. Happily, at this time, you're also likely to acquire the self-discipline which will contribute to your eventual success and good health. The only real threat to the latter is an inclination to indulge in worry and irritation. The cosmic awareness associated with your card may inspire an interest in idealistic concepts and possibly encourage life styles that may be at odds with your own traditional values. While your card suggests that you're closest to your own element in some intellectual endeavor, such as writing and research, as the following notables clearly illustrate, you may also have a flair for drama. For some examples, you share this birthday with the founder of modern pathology Rudolf Virchow, actresses Irene Rich, Lily Langtry and Laraine Day, actors Cornel Wilde and Yves Montand and TV's Burr Tillstrom.

A romantic idealist, when you say "I love you," you really mean it! Your love-making may run the risk of being more fantasy than fact. Make it a point to be more demonstrative of your affection and you can be among those most likely to succeed in love. You might further help your romantic cause by looking for someone born on January 1, 27, 29; February 4, 7, 12; March 23, 25, 29, 31; April 3, 8; May 21, 25, 27, 30; June 4, 17, 19, 23; July 23, 26; August 13, 15, 19, 21; September 22, 30; October 9, 11, 15, 17, 20; November 26; December 5, 7, 11, 13, 16 and 29.

OCTOBER 14 (1 + 4 = 5) 8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

Restless, mental power is suggested by the combination of your card with your numerological five birthday. Travel and a wide variety of unusual experiences are likely to form the background to your life story. While these should help you acquire a lot of knowledge first-hand, be careful not to neglect the education so essential to the development of your wonderful cerebral potential.

Venus, your ruling sphere, points to the probability that social-emotional overtones are likely to permeate all your activities. While this could prove an asset in occupations relating to the public, self-indulgence and social excesses could prove to be a serious hazard to your well-being. With the practical Four of Spades symbolizing this emotional planetary influence, you can successfully combine work with pleasure. You may start small but a knack for promoting ideas, products or yourself plus a lot of natural luck are likely to help you end up a lot richer than when you started.

As represented by the Six of Diamonds and the Ace of Hearts, your decanate rulers, Mercury and Uranus suggest an intuitive sense about financial matters and a curiosity about people and unusual ideas. Though intrigued by mystical concepts and the occult, you may lack the patience to develop your interest in this abstract realm. On the other hand, the element of chance may hold a special appeal to you, enticing you to bet on the horses and to become involved in speculative ventures.

As an intellectual, you might enjoy writing or business management but your extrovert nature suggests that you might prefer the drama found on stage or in politics. For some examples, you share this birthday with President Dwight Eisenhower, Irish statesman Eamon de Valera, author Katherine Mansfield, poet Edward Estlin Cummings, industrialist Claude Du Pont, actress Lillian Gish and actor Roger Moore.

Warm and affectionate and then, without warning, seemingly cold and indifferent, your vacillating sexual-emotional eccentricities are likely to leave mates and lovers up in the air. This, along with a short interest span, suggests that it may take more than one marriage before you get your loving head together. Love may be more enduring with someone born on January 25, 28, 30; February 8, 15; March 21, 24, 26, 30; April 4, 11, 19, 22; May 20, 22, 26; June 7, 15, 18, 20; July 22; August 3, 11, 14, 16, 20; October 7, 10, 12, 16; November 27; December 3, 6, 8, and 12.

OCTOBER 15 (1 + 5 = 6) 7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

A preference for the creature comforts to be found in your own home, and the opportunity to indulge yourself in the arts is suggested by your numerical six birthday. In all probability, this serene picture is likely to be disturbed by the profound, but aggravating contemplations of your ever active mind. In a quest for peace of mind, you may uncover a wisdom which may benefit others as well as yourself.

Though the urge to pass your life indulging in social pleasures is strong, Venus, your ruling planet, as represented by the Queen of Spades, suggests a desire to translate your people activity into some sort of productivity. Except for a vulnerability to psychosomatic problems, healthwise, you are likely to be in pretty good shape. Your prime challenge will be to keep your mind so constructively occupied that you will not have time to dissipate your wonderful cerebral powers. Curiosity, as well as sincere concern about the well-being of others may encourage you to pursue your humanitarian interests through expressions of philosophy and politics. As well as fulfilling your desire to be of service, these endeavors are also likely to reward you well materially.

Much travel, and an almost fearful desire to explore the unknown, are suggested by the Five of Diamonds and the Two of Clubs representative of your decanate rulers Mercury and Uranus. The critical, but restless mentality implied here may prod you into scientific research or encourage you to spew forth your insights through literary endeavors. For examples of this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with philosophers Virgil and Fredrich Nietzche, writers Lermontov, Oscar Wilde and John Galbraith, physicist Torricelli (principle of the barometer), statesman Paul Reynaud, film producer Mervyn Le Roy, actresses Ina Claire and Jean Peters and prize fighter John L. Sullivan.

Boon that your introspective qualities may be to research, they are not likely to make you "the life of the party." Happily, you have enough charm to help you to achieve the matrimonial destiny suggested numerologically in your birthday and to enjoy the companionship of close friends. When you say "I do" it is likely to be for keeps. To increase this probability, look for somone born on January 1, 31; February 9, 16; March 27, 31; April 5, 12; May 23, 27; June 1, 8; July 23; August 4, 17, 21; October 13, 17; November 28, December 9, 13.

OCTOBER 16 (1 + 6 = 7) 6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

The challenges suggested by your numerical seven birthday may supply the catalyst to jar you out of the passivity implied in your card. In overcoming your inherent inertia, which is likely to be most evident early in life, you are likely to find that your birthday symbolizes an opportunity for both mundane success and spiritual awakening.

All the social-romantic implications of Venus, your ruling planet, are accented by the Queen of Hearts, which symbolizes the planet of love. This suggests that you are likely to have a charismatic quality, which will charm many. It also points out the probability of your being extremely emotional and sentimental. This female face card also suggests that women, possibly one special woman, will play a significant and beneficial part in your life. in your life.

Mercury, one of your decanate rulers, as represented by the Six of Spades, warns that a lack of initiative and a tendency to procrastinate may get you stuck in monotonous jobs and situations. Of course, when something finally turns you on, there is a danger of your going to the other extreme and pushing your health and nerves beyond their fragile limits. When it comes to making money, or trying to understand people, your analytical, intuitive powers are likely to give you a distinct advantage.

Since your card also suggests that you have a message of peace, wisdom and understanding to share, you may find that expression in religion, the legal profession, or philosophy may help you fulfill your special destiny. For some examples, you share this birthday with Noah Webster of dictionary fame, sculptor Lee Lawrie, dramatist Eugene O'Neill, Justice William O. Douglas, Senator Joseph McCarthy, Israel's Ben-Gurion, actresses Linda Darnell and Angela Lansbury.

Despite your charms and affectionate manner, the Three of Hearts, symbolic of your other decanate ruler, Uranus, suggests that your idealistic dream of love may be difficult to realize. Your most successful entree to romance may actually be through work, education or some other productive expression. Your chances of lasting personal happiness may be better with someone born on January 25, February 10, 17; March 21, 28, 31; April 6, 13, 19; May 24, 27, 28, 30; June 2, 9, 15, 22; July 23, 24, 29; August 5, 11, 18, 21, 22, 24; September 22, 25, 28; October 1, 7, 14, 17, 18, 20, 23; November 21, 24, 28, 29; December 3, 10, 13, 14, 16, 19, 22.

OCTOBER 17 (1 + 7 = 8) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

A positive uncertainty is the impression given by the merging of the powerful eight factor of your birthday with the changeable qualities associated with your card. Under control, your restless energies may spark creative action, but they can all too easily spawn a nervous dissipation of your energies through trivial people and activities.

As represented by the Ace of Spades, Venus, your ruling planet, suggests that your interests, especially those of a more personal nature are likely to include an element of secrecy. A compulsive ambition is implied here which could help you pull your act together and exploit your talents and other attributes. While flattery will find you flexible and eager to please, criticism is likely to uncover an antagonistic stubbornness.

Your decanate rulers, Mercury and Uranus, as represented by the Three of Diamonds and the Jack of Hearts, suggest a magnetic charm which is likely to add impact to your quest for self-expression. Be careful that willful emotional attitudes don't subvert your efforts. You have a most significant earning potential but an inclination to act impulsively suggests that you might be wise in having someone else manage your money for you. In legal matters, guard against an impatience which may cause you to overlook critical details.

Career-wise, as the following clearly illustrates, you are at your best in activities which bring you before the public. You share this birthday with writers Saint Simon and Arthur Miller, actresses Spring Byington, Jean Arthur and Rita Hayworth, actor Montgomery Clift and daredevil-cyclist Evel Knievel.

Although you need to withdraw and be by yourself from time to time, fundamentally you are very much a social being. If you appear fickle, it's probably due more to an uncertainty as to what you really want and need emotionally than a desire to change partners. Requiring a great deal of variety in your people activity, you're not likely to be ready to settle down before your late twenties or early thirties. When you do, you might find it easier to build a lasting relationship with someone born on January 25, 28, 31; February 5, 11, 18, 19; March 21, 24, 27, 29, 30; April 1, 7, 14, 15, 19, 22; May 20, 23, 25, 26; June 3, 10, 11, 15, 18, 21; July 22, 25; August 5, 6, 11, 14, 17, 19, 20, 23; September 28; October 2, 3, 7, 10, 13, 15, 19; November 24, 29, 30; December 3, 6, 9, 11, 12, 15, 22.

OCTOBER 18 (1 + 8 = 9) 4♣ FOUR OF CLUBS

A conservative according to your card, but the numerical nine factor of your birthday is likely to encourage a broad scope of interests. While you may tend to go to extremes, happily, you have the practical mentality to stabilize your efforts and capitalize on your many possibilities. Good fortune is spelled out in your cards, so don't allow impatience and your critical nature to take all the fun out of it.

A dynamic leadership potential is indicated in the Jack of Spades which represents your ruling planet, Venus. It implies a willingness to work yourself and others very hard for the success which your cards indicate is a very strong probability. Despite an inclination to become nervous over speculative ventures and a tendency to identify with more traditional endeavors, your dramatic flair may push you into the limelight.

Your decanate co-rulers, Uranus and Mercury, as represented by the Two of Diamonds and the Ten of Hearts, accent the probability of gain through partnerships, joint financial endeavors and especially activities dealing with the public. Analytical and somewhat argumentative, you might find a more constructive use for your powers of debate in the legal profession or politics. For some examples of this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with jurist Lord Sands, politicians Thomas Reed, Francisco Madero and Pierre Trudeau of Canada, historian James Truslow Adams, Nobel-prize-winning writer Henri Bergson, actresses Miriam Hopkins and Melina Mercouri and actor George C. Scott.

While you tend not to be very demonstrative of your affections, you may be almost too protective in your concern about the welfare of your loved ones. Although chances are that it will take more than one marriage before you learn how to relate successfully to a spouse, your homing instinct will cause you to keep trying until you succeed. Beauty is important to you but you are likely to find greater success in matrimony and other close associations if they are also intellectually stimulating. In this quest, you may find you'll have better luck with someone born on January 21; February 1, 2, 6, 9, 12, 19; March 30; April 2, 5, 8, 15; May 26,30; June 2, 4, 11; July 22, 26; August 7, 20; September 29; October 3, 16, 20; November 25, 30; December 12 and 16.

OCTOBER 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 3♣ THREE OF CLUBS

A vivid imagination and a pioneer spirit are suggested by the blending of attributes associated with your card and the numerical one of your birthday. A creative optimist, you're a born leader, promoter and innovator. You may have to watch that your enthusiastic versatility doesn't set you off into too many directions.

The prime threat to the keen mentality implied in your card may be the strong emotional nature suggested by the Nine of Hearts, which symbolizes your ruling planet, Venus. While this suggests that your magnanimous charms can win friends and strangers, it also warns of a vulnerability to emotional attitudes and social excesses. Although you tend to be preoccupied with your own thing, a compassionate side is revealed here which may encourage an interest in the problems of others. While you prefer the simple life, your own grand schemes and restless urges are likely to clutter your life with all sorts of interesting people and experiences.

Self-expression, according to the Three of Spades, is the key to the creative leadership potential suggested by the Jack of Clubs. Symbolic of your decanate rulers, Mercury and Uranus, these cards suggest that you're an extrovert and entrepreneur who enjoys the excitement and gamble involved in moving up the ladder of success. Flourishing on the stimulus of people-contact, you're likely to have a knack for selling and politics. A mechanical aptitude may encourage your inventive abilities, but your greatest pleasure may come from pushing ideas through artistic and literary efforts. For some examples of these and other possibilities, you share this birthday with Pakistan's Ali Mohammed, Admiral Arleigh Burke, inventor and film pioneer Auguste Lumiere, writer Louis Mumford, President John Adams, actor George Nader, educator John Huston Finley and columnist Jack Anderson.

Painful as affairs of the heart may be, you're not about to let this keep you from trying again and again. While difficulties in relationships are not necessarily all your fault, fluctuating moods and a somewhat selfish, independent nature are not likely to contribute much to marital bliss. You may feel a greater incentive with someone born on January 22, 28; February 10, 13, 20; March 24, 31; April 6, 9, 16; May 20, 25, 31; June 2, 5, 12, 18; July 23, 27, 29; August 1, 8, 14, 21; September 23, 25, 28; October 4, 10, 17, 21; November 24, 27; December 6, 13, 17 and 22.

OCTOBER 20 (2 + 0 = 2) 2♣ TWO OF CLUBS

A duality is strongly suggested both in your card and in the numerical two factor of your birthday. The face you show the world is bright, clever and capable of the most astute observations which, unfortunately, may all too often be tinged with sarcasm. This may be the only external evidence of those inner fears which threaten your wonderful possibilities.

A youthful, creative enthusiasm is suggested by the Jack of Diamonds, symbolic of your ruling planet, Venus. While these attributes are likely to contribute much to your success and attractive appearance, a streak of immaturity is also suggested here which may cause you to vacillate between productivity and the pursuit of pleasure. Watch that an almost obsessive attempt to express all the facets of your being doesn't leave you a nervous neurotic.

Mercury and Uranus, your decanate rulers, as represented by the King of Clubs and the Eight of Hearts, suggest tremendous mental and emotional power. These celestial and card influences also imply an interest in science with philosophical overtones. With a gift to communicate ideas, observations and concepts, you may find your greatest satisfaction through painting, writing, teaching and counselling. To illustrate, you share this birthday with architect Christopher Wren, writers Thomas Hughes and Art Buchwald, psychologist John Dewey and Dr. Joyce Brothers, Senator Wayne Morse, actor Bela Lugosi, television's Arlene Francis and baseball's Mickey Mantle and Juan Marichal.

Symbolically and numerologically, your birthday emphasizes the fact that companionship is essential to your personal fulfillment. With a romantic expression inclined to be more platonic than physical, you may feel no compelling desire to have children. You are likely to find greater success in relationships with those whom you can share work and intellectual interests. Don't allow the latter to jeopardize your relationship by deteriorating into endless analytical and argumentative discourses. Happiness in love and friendship may be more easily accomplished with someone born on January 23, 31; February 4, 14, 16; March 27, 30; April 10, 12, 17; May 23, 26, 28; June 6, 8, 13, 21; July 22, 24, 28, 30; August 2, 4, 9, 17, 20, 22; September 24, 26; October 5, 13, 16, 18, 22, 24; November 22; December 1, 9, 12, 14, 18 and 20.

OCTOBER 21 (2 + 1 = 3)  ACE OF CLUBS

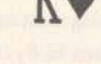

The aspirations for knowledge and acclaim suggested by your card are given a significant boost by the dynamic, personable qualities reflected in the numerical three factor of your birthday. Direct, outspoken but blessed with a glib charm which softens the curtness of your remarks. A desire to express yourself through too many interests may prove to be a very real problem.

Due to the strong aura of success symbolized by the Ten of Spades which represents your ruling planet, Venus, you are likely to achieve whatever you sincerely aspire to. Fundamentally, you're a positive, independent individual but opposition can bring out the violent, destructive side of your nature. Stubborn, yet this very quality is likely to give you the perseverance to bring you through all those earlier disappointments to your objective.

Education is extremely important if you are going to fully capitalize on the fine mental equipment implied in the Queen of Clubs, which, along with the Seven of Hearts, represent your decanate rulers, Mercury and Uranus. Be careful that erratic, emotional attitudes don't short-circuit your wonderful cerebral potential. A tendency to be somewhat edgy and high-strung suggests that dancing, sports or some other type of physical activity could be a healing balm to your sensitive nervous system and a possible source of income.

While your card places an emphasis on your mental attributes, suggesting that you may be at your best in some intellectual endeavor such as writing or research, your great need for self-expression implies that you're likely to be equally fulfilled in the arts. You share this birthday with politician Duc de Morny, Swedish industrialist and inventor of TNT Alfred Nobel, writer Samuel Coleridge, artist Katsushuka Hokusai, dancer Ted Shawn and baseball stars Dizzy Gillespie and Whitey Ford.

You may not be particularly romantic but you can be a stimulating person. The most serious problems in your love-life are likely to arise from your own suspicious, jealous nature. A tendency to give career and other interests priority over marital responsibilities suggests that it may take more than one marriage to teach you how to find emotional fulfillment. This might be more easily accomplished with someone born on January 24, 30; February 2; March 20, 26; April 18; May 22, 29; June 14, 20; July 25, 31; August 10, 16, 23; September 21, 27; October 6, 12, 19; November 23; December 2, 8, 15 and 21.

OCTOBER 22 (Master Number)  KING OF HEARTS

Your master number birthday indicates that you have the magic to translate the opportunity represented in your crown card into all sorts of wonderful possibilities. Idealism, fantasy and practicality blend in your birthday, encouraging expressions of leadership. Operate as a numerical four and you'll still enjoy some of the advantages but you'll replace the wonder with mundane security.

Born on the cusp of Libra and Scorpio, you have the emotional and artistic sensitivity of Venus, as represented by the Six of Hearts, and the penetrating mental attributes of Mars as symbolized by the Four of Clubs. Having all the potential attributes to fulfill destiny's calling, your true challenge may be in the application of self-discipline, without which you may not only shy away from your destined responsibilities but overindulge in everything from food and drink to social and sexual excesses.

Mercury and Uranus, your decanate rulers, as represented by the King of Diamonds and the Four of Clubs, suggest both material protection and mental power. You'll probably lean toward a blending of heart and intellect, possibly in some expression of music, poetry, painting or drama. Potentially you can be a dynamic force in politics, philosophy and religion. For example, you share this birthday with religious leader Martin Luther, composer Franz Liszt, chemist Stephen Babcock, statesmen Jean Grolier and Edward Stettinus, astrologer Herschell, Timothy Leary of LSD fame, actresses Constance Bennett, Joan Fontaine and Annette Funicello.

Possibly due to estrangement or difficulties with parents in your youth, emotional security is a compelling drive. Anxious to find a secure haven, you may run the risk of ignoring your natural wisdom in choosing a mate. Minimize this possibility by recognizing that, as the King of Hearts, you have the emotional power to win just about anyone you may choose. Normally magnanimous and philanthropic, but in small things you may be surprisingly petty and selfish. Curb this and those petulant moods and you should find that you have everything needed for personal happiness. This possibility may be further enhanced by looking for someone born on January 5, 25; February 3, 23; March 1, 21; April 19; May 17, 30; June 15, 28; July 26, 30; August 11, 24, 30; September 22, 26, 28; October 7, 20, 26; November 18, 22, 24, 27, 30; December 3, 16, 20 and 22.

OCTOBER 23 (2 + 3 = 5)  QUEEN OF HEARTS

Super-sensitive and restless, quarrelsome and yet very sympathetic, card-wise and numerically, your birthday paints the portrait of a very complex individual. Brilliant, yet even this may prove to be a dubious advantage in that your ability to excel in just about anything may encourage indulgence in all sorts of willful eccentricities.

A cusp-baby, so you have the blessing or curse of both the ruling planets of Libra and Scorpio. Venus, as represented by the Eight of Diamonds, suggests the power to make money through people-related enterprises. Mars, symbolized by the King of Spades, accentuates the leadership potential implied in your card. Accept this mantle of responsibility and you can serve your idealistic purposes through leadership in government, law and medicine. Pride causes you to be very conscious of appearance which is evident not only in how you dress but in how you maintain your body. The latter is probably why those born on your day retain a youthful quality throughout most of their lives. An inherent understanding as to how things work, both mechanically and in business and group endeavors, gives you great organizational skill. While this ability might encourage you to go into big business, your sensitivities will probably direct your efforts into artistic and theatrical expression. You share this birthday with composer Albert Lortzing, poet Robert Seymour Bridges, actresses Sarah Bernhardt, Diana Dors and Coleen Gray and television's Johnny Carson.

A romantic idealist, yet a restless, emotional temperament is likely to prove a significant stumbling block in building lasting relationships. If your gender is female, you're apt to make a great effort to do so. But, if they call you mister, your spirit of emotional adventure may make settling down almost impossible. Whatever your sex, you need the stimulus of social activity, preferably friends who won't compete with your marital situation.Romantically and socially, you might improve your chances with someone born on January 12, 13, 19, 27; February 10, 11, 17, 25; March 8, 9, 15, 23, 30; April 6, 7, 13, 21; May 4, 5, 11, 26, 29; June 2, 3, 9, 17, 24, 27; July 1, 7, 15, 22, 25, 31; August 5, 13, 20, 23, 29; September 3, 11, 18, 21, 27; October 1, 9, 16, 19, 25; November 7, 14, 17, 23, 30; December 5, 12, 15, 21 and 28.

OCTOBER 24 (2 + 4 = 6) J♥ JACK OF HEARTS

A dynamic and sensually-creative individual is the picture painted by the merging of your heart crown card with the numerological six of your birthday. Intense and extreme in your expressions, nothing half-way about you. So you're likely to be either a saint or a sinner. Fortunately, you have the built-in will-power to contain your tremendous energies.

As a heart with your ruling planet, Mars, symbolized by the Two of Hearts, emotional considerations are especially meaningful to you. This influence underscores the importance of learning to work and share with others. Capable as you can be as a leader, executive and teacher, resist the temptation to be dictatorial. The probability of your achieving what you set out to do is not only indicated by your ability but by your willingness to work hard and make sacrifices to gain your objectives. Realization of your potential is likely to be delayed until after you have resolved those inner conflicts that seem to set you apart from others in your earlier years. Your inward struggles may encourage your natural empathy for the problems of others, inspiring you to become involved in the healing professions and social services. You also have a more mundane side which, despite a sense of extravagance, suggests a certain shrewdness which may help you to excel as a banker or merchant. Of course, whatever you do, be it work or pleasure, keep in mind your need for people-involvement. You are also extremely responsive to environment, receiving energy from music and color, and brought down by coarsness and disorder. For career possibilities, you share this day with pioneer-engraver John Sartain, author Sara J. Hale, naturalist-microscopist Anthony van Leeuwenhoek, producer Moss Hart, dictator Rafael Trujillo and football's Y.A. Tittle.

Your strong emotional sex drive is likely to be tempered by an equally strong sense of fair play. Be careful that your overwhelming charm doesn't attract more trouble than love. You might minimize an inclination to attract emotional frustrations and burdensome relationships by looking for lovers and friends born on January 2, 5, 7, 13, 19, 20; February 17, 18; March 1, 3, 9, 15, 16; May 5, 9, 11, 12; June 30; July 1, 7, 8; August 24, 26, 30; September 3, 4, 22, 24; October 22, 26; November 18,20; and December 22.

OCTOBER 25 (2 + 5 = 7) 10♥ TEN OF HEARTS

You demand a great deal out of life, and you are among those most likely to get it. The probability of success implied in your card is likely to be helped by the intuitive analytical perspective suggested in the seven factor of your birthday. Concentration may be difficult, as your life will overflow with people and interests.

An intense, compelling need for self-expression is suggested by the Ace of Hearts,which represents your ruling planet, Mars. This may inspire all sorts of social-romantic adventures, but it is also possible to feed your ambition, supplying the motivation to overcome an innate lack of self-discipline. A restless desire to do everything is all too likely to spawn a nervous temperament. Blessed with such multi-potential, choosing which interest or pursuit to give top priority may prove a serious problem. Although your overpowering emotional attributes may be the most evident, you also have a superior cerebral potential, capable of dealing with everything from the intricacies of law, science, philosophy to the imaginative blending of colors and sound. Be it as an artist, actor, scientist or businessman, you have the luck and the know-how to translate your abilities into the wealth needed to support your luxurious tastes. Since your card spells people-power, your fortune and your greatest success are likely to be found in some endeavor that allows you to capitalize on your ability to relate to the public. For some examples, you share this birthday with statesman- historian Lord Thomas Macaulay, composer Georges Bizet and waltz king Johann Strauss, Artist Pablo Picasso, explorer Admiral Richard Byrd, pilot Floyd Bennett, actor Anthony Franciosa and producer Jack Haley Jr.

A natural lover, there's a strong probability that you'll leave a lot of broken hearts in your wake. When it gets down to building a bonafied relationship, your tremendous emotional power may short-circuit, sending out all sorts of erratic signals. For one thing, it is going to be pretty difficult for anyone to live up to your romantic imagination. A tendency to insist everything must be done your way, even though you are usually right, is not likely to be of much help in keeping the love fires burning. You may be less inclined to vacillate and willing to try harder with someone born on January 3, 6, 9, 21; February 19, 27, 28; March 2, 5, 14, 17, 22; April 20, 23, 24; May 1, 10, 13, 18, 21, 22; June 20, 29; July 6, 9, 14, 17, 18; August 25, 27, 31; September 2, 5, 10, 13, 14, 23; October 23, 27, 29; November 1, 6, 9, 10, 19, 21; December 23, 25.

OCTOBER 26 (2 + 6 = 8) 9♥ NINE OF HEARTS

Grand are the dreams inspired by the universal love or the egocentricity mirrored in your card. Power to give them substance is indicated in your numerical eight birthday. If this is to lead to fulfillment or frustration will depend largely as to whether you are motivated by humanitarian urges or the desire for self-gratification.

Charm may be your prime asset, but Mars your ruling planet, as represented by the Queen of Spades, suggests that work, particularly in some expression of leadership is the key to your magnificent schemes. Equally important, as this card symbolizes self mastery- discipline is an essential ingredient to your success both in your personal life and career. Translating your great heart power into action, you can bring harmony and understanding to individual and organizations. Inclined to think big, you get a charge from large projects, indulging your extravagant tastes in clothes, jewelry, and partying. Happily, you also are likely to have the earning ability to support this luxurious life style. You also will have no difficulty in finding others to help you spend it. Perhaps this is why your magnanamous and philanthropic image does not extend to those closest to you. Your sensitive power suggests that you can excell in both the arts and the healing professions, but your broad perspective and way with people imply that you might be even more effective in government. For example, you share this birthday with political figures Leon Trotsky, Governor John Knight and Senator Edward Brooke, writer Elizabeth Prentiss, actor Jackie Coogan and singer Mahalia Jackson.

Sensually-sensitive to the needs of others, you can be the greatest of lovers. Problems, which may arise in relationships, are more than likely due to abuse of this power, which may encourage a restless search for a variety of emotional conquests. Group involvements socially and otherwise are likely to be more successful than those one to one relationships. But in either case, greater compatibility may be found with those born on January 15, 22; February 20, 23, 27; March 11, 18, 21; April 23, 28, 29; May 7, 14, 17, 21; June 24, 25, 27, 30; July 3, 10, 13, 17, 22, 23; August 23, 26, 28; September 6, 9, 13, 18, 19. 21; October 22, 24, 28; November 2, 5, 9, 14, 15, 17, 20, 22; December 20, 24.

OCTOBER 27 (2 + 7 = 9) 8♥ EIGHT OF HEARTS

The aggressive charm associated with your card can help you fulfill the grand dreams and purposes inspired by the numerical nine factor of your birthday. If you are to know the fulfillment promised here, discipline your intense passions and direct your powers of love and charm to the benefit of many. Your personal magnetism is likely to be more effective in dealing with the public and audiences than with romance.

The emotional power symbolized in your card is amplified by the Queen of Hearts, symbolic of Mars, your ruling planet. While this combination implies a dynamic emotional vitality, it also warns of a very real danger of your heart ruling your head. So, while basically you tend to be constructive, your strong feelings, if not contained and channeled into productive activity, can cause you to become a willful and destructive force. Disciplined, your great heart-power can be a tremendous stimulus to group endeavors and win you admiration from all who know you. While you can be most obstinate, happily this same characteristic also suggests that you won't accept defeat. So even though you may suffer some heartbreaking setbacks, like the mythical phoenix, you will constantly renew yourself, rise up and take on new challenges.

As you will do what you want when you want, no one is likely to get anywhere in trying to force you to do anything. In this light, you are far more suited to positions in which you are at the helm or in the limelight. To cite some examples, you share this birthday with President Theodore Roosevelt, the Shah of Iran, violinist Nicolo Paganini, actresses Theresa Wright, and Nanette Fabray, opera star Josephine Antoine, neurologist Ely Smith Jelliffe, and Robert Halderman of Watergate fame.

Your inherent "love power" may prove a mixed blessing. Probably no one can surpass your capacity for love making, but watch that you don't wipe out this advantage through possessive jealousy. Since you tend to be a rather overwhelming personality, your personal life should fare better if you have some other activity such as a career to absorb some of your tremendous drive. Your chance for personal happiness may be more easily realized with someone born on January 4, 8, 11, 16; February 21, 28; March 4, 7, 12, 19; April 24, 30; May 3, 8, 15, 22; June 20, 26; July 4, 11, 18, 24; August 22, 29; September 7, 14, 20; October 25, 29; November 3, 10, 16, 23; December 21, 25.

OCTOBER 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 7♥ SEVEN OF HEARTS

Idealism and melancholy mingle through the emotional perspective suggested by your card. Drawing upon this sensitive-noble influence, the numerical one quality of your birthday suggests that you may be inspired to excel in the arts, or take the lead in community affairs, or in some humanitarian endeavor. Don't allow disappointments to cause you to "spin your wheels" aimlessly.

Mars, your ruling planet, as represented by the dynamic emotional influence of the Jack of Hearts, imparts a vitality into all your people related activity. Not only is this likely to encourage all sorts of social activity, but this card also implies that it is likely to bring many calls for assistance from family, friends and even strangers. Being particularly vulnerable in your emotional sensitivity, you may have to guard against over-reacting when others abuse your generosity. And whatever you do, don't play the role of a martyr. People involvement is extremely important, but you do need to protect yourself from the energy drain this may include.

Both your outlook and nervous temperament should find a safety-valve and rewarding expression in outdoor activity, sports, music, sculpting and drama. Intense, acutely alert, yet expression of your many talents and abilities may suffer from procrastination and a tendency to daydream. The mystical emotional overtones of your card suggest an intuitive-analytical sensitivity, which could be especially effective in psychological, philosophical and metaphysical research. For examples of this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with humanist-writer Desiderius Eramus, explorer Captain James Cook, medical researcher Jonas Salk, composer Howard Hanson, actresses Elsa Lanchester and Suzy Parker, singer-actor John Boles, and baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Attractive, imaginative, all the basic attributes necessary to succeed in love, but pettiness and jealousy combined with a strong independent streak may prove a real hazard to any "forever-aftering." You may find it easier and more enjoyable to remain faithful to someone born on January 4, 9; February 22, 29; March 5, 20; April 25; May 1, 16; June 21; July 12, 19; August 30; September 8, 15; October 26, 30; November 4, 11; December 22, 26, 28.

OCTOBER 29 (2 + 9 = 11 = 1 + 1 = 2) 6♥ SIX OF HEARTS

Concealed by the warm, friendly manner suggested by your card lies a passion touched with genius. The magic implied by your Master Number birthday suggests spectacular possibilities. Undisciplined, the sensual power symbolized here is all too likely to lead to dissipation and sexual-emotional delusions of grandeur.

As represented by the Jack of Spades, Mars, your planetary ruler, suggests that you have the potential to stimulate others through your creative leadership. Intrigued by the possible power to be found in the unknown, you may be drawn into a pursuit of the mysteries of life through science and metaphysics. While your card hints at a lack of ambition, once something fires your interest, you are willing to work very hard to achieve your goals. An ability to appraise people and situations rather accurately is helped by your innate intuition. As your critical observations can be very destructive, be careful not to abuse your acute insights. You need interests and occupations which both challenge and give you the opportunity to demonstrate your potential. Without this outlet, your nervous temperament may deteriorate into a depressive neurosis.

While your card implies a desire for privacy, your efforts in science, literature, music and politics may bring you into the limelight of history. For some examples, you share this birthday with astronomer Sir Edmund Halley, writers James Boswell and John Keats, German politicians Franz Von Papen and Joseph Goebbels, entertainer Fanny Brice and cartoonist Bill Maudlin.

While your compulsive passions may involve you in some rather bizarre situations, your love life may actually suffer from sexual-emotional hang-ups. A possible solution to this problem may be to direct your emotional energies into achieving some special goal. If this does not sound like a particularly happy solution for someone identified with this card of love, apply some of the mastery suggested in your birthday and learn how to give love. This may be easier with someone born on January 5, 12; February 23,26; March 1, 8,

21; April 22, 26; May 4, 17, 20; June 22, 27, 30; July 13, 16, 20; August 23, 26, 29, 31; September 9, 12, 16, 21; October 22, 25, 27, 31; November 5,8, 12, 17, 20, 23; December 21, 23, 27.

OCTOBER 30 (3 + 0 = 3) 5♥ FIVE OF HEARTS

The restless charm and versatility suggested in your card is likely to be an asset in dealing with people and in adapting to all the various opportunities destined for you. While this also suggests that you have the imagination to fulfill the urge for self-expression implied numerically in your birthday, be careful that in your desire to do everything, that you don't become hung up on a fence of uncertainty and confusion.

The Nine of Hearts, symbolic of your planetary ruler, Mars, suggests that your bright personality is likely to be the tip of an emotional iceberg. While the charming magnetism suggested by this influence can bring you success in large scale involvements with the public, it may bring quandaries in your more intimate relationships. Thriving as you do from people contact, don't let the bruises that you may receive in your contact with the genus homo-sapiens cause you to retreat into a self-protective shell. Try, rather, to apply the sense of "universality" implied in this influence to your relationships with your fellow man. In doing so, you should be able to translate your emotional energies into productive activity, both with the public and in the development of your many abilities. Whether it be small talk or literary efforts, you are likely to have a faculty for communicating ideas. A colorful individualist, but your sparkle may wither away if you let yourself get trapped in too routine a job or marriage. Change and travel are likely to be two of your best therapies. For some career ideas, you share this birthday with President John Adams, writers Dostoievski, Gertrude Atherton, Paul Ambroise Valery and Richard Sheridan, pathologist Gerard Domagk (discovered sulfanilimide), sculptors John Rogers and Emile Bourdelle, Admiral Halsey, actress Ruth Gordon and body builder Charles Atlas.

Friendly as you may appear, even flirtatious, you are not really all that easy to know. While your Scorpio sex drive may encourage emotional instability, long lasting marriages are not completely alien to your birthday. In your quest to find emotional security be careful that you don't saddle yourself with worrisome alliances. Lovers and friends born on one of the following birthdays may more closely suit your desire for a variety of action. January 6, 11, 14; February 24; March 2, 7, 10, 22; April 20, 27; May 3, 6, 18; June 23, 29; July 2, 14, 21; August 25; September 10, 17, 23; October 28; November 6, 13, 19; December 24, 28.

OCTOBER 31 (3 + 1 = 4)

4♥ FOUR OF HEARTS

The double four influence reflected both in your card and numerically in your birthday suggests that while you may be rather "square" you are also a most positive and constructive individual. Possibly, as a counter to your strong emotional nature, you are also apt to be somewhat inflexible, insisting that things be done your way. This may be, in part, the secret of your great productivity.

Not only are you identified with the "marriage card" but with the Eight of Hearts, symbolizing your ruling planet, Mars. You can hardly lose, if you remember to use your charm power. Despite appearances to the contrary, you are inclined to be ambitious, frequently to the point of taking on more than you can handle. Capable and a hard worker, but your efforts may be minimized by an inclination to get your nose too close to the grindstone, losing sight of your overall objective. A willingness to pitch in and do more than your share obscures your emotional nature, but occasionally without any warning, a blue mood will send your practical nature into a tailspin.

A strong urge to set things right suggests that religious and community endeavors are likely to benefit from your productive influence. While your desire to build may attract you to the construction industry, you may also find personal fulfillment as a teacher building minds, or as a physician rebuilding bodies. Your tremendous, warm heart force certainly points to the probability of success in some public role as a politician or performer. For some examples, you share this birthday with statesman Chiang Kai Shek of the Republic of China and Norhodom Sihanouk of Cambodia, explorer Sir George Wilkins, artist Jan Vermeer, founder of the Girl Scouts of America — Juliette G. Low, singers Ethel Waters and Dale Evans, actress Barbara Bel Geddes and actor Michael Landon.

Probably no one is more suited for marriage, but you may have to be careful that your emotional happiness is not minimized by an excessive repression of your passions. Anyone trying to gain your love had better play it straight, as sincerity and honesty are high on your list of prerequisites. Those who win your heart will find that they have gained a warm and enduring love. You may find enduring relationships easier to establish with someone born on January 7, 12; February 25; March 3, 8, 23; April 21, 28, 29; May 4, 19; June 24, 25; July 15, 22, 23; September 11, 18, 19; October 29; November 7, 14, 15; December 25, 29.

6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

Although your card implies a desire to put down roots, the numerical influence of your birthday suggests that a quest for an ideal, or a desire to lead the action, is likely to keep you on the move. The inertial influence of your card may cause you to drag your feet, but it's not likely to hold you still for long.

Not only are fortunate material circumstances predicted by the Ten of Diamonds, symbolic of your ruling planet, Mars, but also good health. In this respect, you may create problems if you allow your intense nature to make excessive demands on your energies. Application of the intuitive sensitivity associated with your card should accomplish far more than any pressure tactics you may be tempted to use. Praise is likely to turn you on and bring a generous response to calls for help, but woe to anyone trying to press you into decisions or action. An insistent curiosity may encourage you to probe for answers in science, psychology and philosophy, and even through the unique insight to be gained from the study of metaphysics. A sensual appreciation of beauty, form and sound may attract you to singing or painting, either in the role of an artist or as a collector.

A strong inherent sense of honesty and fairness suggest that you can be a constructive force in the legal profession or an objective moralist in literature. In choosing an occupation, keep in mind your number one birthday, which suggests that while you may not be egotistical you don't particularly like taking orders. So prepare yourself to become a leader in your field, which could include medicine, engineering and business. For some ideas, you share this birthday with King Louis II of France, sculptor Benvenuto Cellini, first physician to use ether as an anesthetic Crawford Long, writers Johann Schiller and Stephen Crane, artist William Chase, singer Emma Albani and golf champion Gary Player.

Since you have a compelling need to be involved, it's fortunate that you have the romantic cards stacked in your favor. Possessive as you may be, you don't appreciate "clinging vines." You may find it easier to sustain your emotional interest with someone born on January 3, 6, 7, 19; February 21; March 2, 3, 15, 19; April 29, 30; May 11, 15; June 25, 26; July 7, 11, 23, 24; August 29; September 3, 7, 19, 20; October 25, 31; November 3, 15, 16, 23; December 21, 27.

5♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

An eventful life filled with many changes and travel are promised in your card. Numerically your birthday indicates that you're a social being, requiring someone with whom you can share these experiences. Sensitivity, as a key to perception, is part of your strength, but if it becomes hypersensitivity, it can also be the source of your weakness.

Mars, your ruling planet, suggests that you tend to be far more intense than you appear. As this planet is symbolized by the Nine of Diamonds, money and security are likely to be significant motivating factors, supplying the necessary push to overcome any lack of fidence. Moods and sarcasm may camouflage your genuine concern for the well-being of others, and your ability to be a truly effective champion of their causes. Though slow to accept new friends, once you do, you are likely to prove a very valuable friend. Although you have a rugged constitution, your nervous system is likely to be far more vulnerable than even you are willing to recognize. Considering this, you would be wise, if not as a profession then as a avocation, to give your sensitive nature an outlet in music and drama. Though willing to fight as hard as anyone for something in which you believe, a gentle streak suggests you prefer arbitration.

Basically dependable, with an orderly mind, a knack for handling details plus a shrewd business sense suggests that you might seek your fortune in the legal profession, data processing, financial institutions, merchandising or engineering. While you can look great in the limelight, you may find an even greater satisfaction working behind the scenes. For some examples, you share this birthday with two presidents — James Polk and Warren Harding, the ill-fated Marie Antoinette, pioneer Daniel Boone, actors Burt Lancaster and James Dunn. There is also prize fighter Maxie Rosenbloom, attorney Jerry Geisler and tennis star Ken Rosenwall.

Marriage and home, according to the numerical two quality of your birthday are essential to your sense of wholeness. Happily, a natural diplomatic sensitivity helps you establish and maintain relationships. You may find a greater incentive to overcome inhibitions and awkwardness in expressing affection with someone born on January 7, 20; February 18, 22, 24, 27; March 3, 16, 20, 22; April 20, 23, 30; May 12, 16, 18, 21; June 19, 26, 27; July 8, 12, 14, 17; August 22, 23, 30; September 4, 8, 10, 13, 20, 21; October 26; November 9, 16, 17; December 22, 28.

NOVEMBER 3 (3 = 3) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

An idealistic urge combined with a desire for self-expression adds momentum to your determination to get somewhere. The probability of your making it are reinforced by the practical attributes of your card and the personable power suggested numerically in your birthday. Outstanding success is within your reach, but be careful, as to your tactics in achieving it, as they could also gain you some enemies.

Mars, your ruling planet suggests a vitality which should help you realize your ambitions. But since this planet is represented by the Six of Clubs, there is a danger that you could "spin your wheels" in an inertial rut. The intuitive quality also implied in this influence suggests an acute perception which combined with your methodical, analytical approach may be the real key to your success. Don't let your stubborness become an impossible hurdle.

Occurring in the second decanate of Scorpio, your birthday has Jupiter and Neptune as sub-celestial influences. Symbolized by the Six of Spades and the Eight of Diamonds, these planetary forces imply both spiritual and material strength. While you do have an exceptional earning potential, you'll probably have to earn your good fortune. With the possible exception of swinging a tennis racket, you're apt to work better with your head than with your hands. For some career and other ideas, you share this birthday with pioneer-statesman Texan Stephen Austin, poet-editor William Cullen Bryant, explorer Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Emperor Mutshuhito of Japan, King Leopold III of Belgium, President Carlos Ibanez of Chile, Senator Joseph Martin, composer Bellini, actor Charles Bronson and tennis star Roy Emerson.

Publicly, you cut a strong image, and your remoteness might even contribute to your charisma, but in love, it's apt to become a source of misunderstanding. Emotionally, you have the erotic imagination to be an exciting lover. Just watch that your romantic fantasies don't cause you to become too intrigued with someone already spoken for. You may feel a greater urge to be faithful to someone born on January 8, 14, 16, 19, 21; February 19, 23; March 4, 10, 12, 15, 17, 21; May 6 8, 11, 13, 17; June 28; July 2, 4, 7, 9, 13; August 24, 31; September 3, 5, 9, 22; October 27, 30; November 1, 5, 18; December 23, 26.

NOVEMBER 4 (4 = 4) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

Paradoxes are suggested in the combination of your card and the numerical quality of your birthday. In the midst of your natural indecisiveness, you can be very practical, witty, appearing carefree while plagued with uncertainties, bright and positive with a short fuse to your temper.

An inquiring but skeptical attitude is suggested by your ruling orbs, Mars and Pluto. As represented by the Seven of Diamonds and the Two of Hearts, these planetary influences suggest caution in mixing love and money with legal matters. A cool facade conceals your nervous-sensitivity. Rather than booze and narcotics, resort to regular quiet periods to relax your tensions and revive your energies. When mastered, this sensitivity can become a source of inspired-perception, which may bring discoveries and inventions. Once you have chosen an objective, and this may be no small task, you are likely to push toward your goals without sparing yourself or anyone else.

Travel, distant interests and places according to the Five of Spades, symbolic of your decanate ruler Jupiter, are indicated as a probable source of opportunity and valuable contacts. This influence also suggests that while your stubbornness may be a questionable part of your strength, developing flexibility and a willingness to change your mind could work to your advantage both personally and professionally. Although you can excel in science and medicine, you may find a natural balm for whatever ails you, as well as profit in working with your hands.

If you do not want to hide away in some laboratory or artist studio, according to the record you can do equally well in the spotlight of politics and entertainment. For example, you share this birthday with Paraguay's leader Carlos Lopez, sculptor Rodin, architect

Sir Robert Lorimer, bronchoscope inventor Dr. Chevalier Jackson, co-discoverer of insulin Sir Frederick Banting, actors Will Rogers, Art Carney and Gig Young, newscasters Sam Hayes and Walter Cronkite.

Close relationships may be difficult, but you can help matters by parking that critical, argumentative nature outside the front door and radiating to those close to you some of the charm you give to strangers. The odds for your personal happiness might be further improved by looking for someone born on January 4, 9 22; February 20, 24; March 5, 18, 22; April 20; May 1, 14, 18; June 29; July 10; August 25; September 6, 10, 23,; October21, 28, November 2, 6, 19; December 24.

NOVEMBER 5 (5 = 5) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

A thoughtful, soft spoken diplomat is the image conveyed by your card. From time to time this pleasant image may be disturbed by the restless uncertainty implied numerologically in your birthday, which feeding your hidden fears, may cause outbursts of argumentative hostility and self-indulgence.

The concern regarding monetary matters and obligations hinted at in your card are accented by the Six of Diamonds, symbolic of your planetary ruler, Mars. Although the earlier years may present you with economic problems, stability, even prosperity are indicated for the middle and latter part of life. Shy as you may appear, you are actually a social being, and are likely to be at your best in cooperative endeavors.

A willingness to work hard is projected by the Four and Eight of Spades, which represent your decanate rulers Jupiter and Neptune. Sympathetic and modest, you may have to watch a tendency to let others push ahead of you. A lack of initiative can prove a real challenge. Intensely emotional , so you are particularly vulnerable to the devastating effect of moods and depression. A deep thinker, you enjoy the peace to be found in quiet, intellectual activity, and gathering of facts and statistics. While this suggests you could find success as a researcher and writer, an urge for action suggests that static and routine occupations can also have a detrimental effect on your outlook. Reticent as you may be, there is a part of you which enjoys an audience. To illustrate this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with historian Will Durant, designer Raymond Lowey, actor Joel McCrea, actress Vivien Leigh, singers Roy Rodgers and Arthur Garfunkel and television commentator Robert Abernathy.

Emotional security is such a compelling need that marriage or some type of close relationship is an absolute must. Tender and considerate as a lover and a friend, do not spoil it all through possessive jealousy. Having so much love to give, it may be difficult to find someone who can equal your affectionate, sexual capacity. In your romantic quest you might have better luck with someone born on January 10; February 21, 25, 27; March 6, 19; April 21, 23, 26, 28, 29; May 2, 15, 19, 21; June 22, 24, 25, 30; July 11, 15, 17, 20, 22, 23; August 26, 30; September 7, 11, 13, 16, 18, 19; October 22, 26, 29; November 3, 7, 9, 12, 14, 15, 20; December 22 and 25.

NOVEMBER 6 (6 = 6) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

Although your card suggests that ambition is your prime driving force, numerologically, your birthday implies that a compelling need for love and a harmonious home scene is not far behind as your true source of motivation. The aggressive charm resulting from this combination of influences could actually be the real secret of your success.

The bright, personable quality suggested by the Three of Clubs, which symbolizes your planetary ruler, Mars, is likely to enhance your public image. But this card also hints that behind your bright facade hides a strong sense of insecurity fed by indecisiveness as to what and how you want to do your thing. Almost masochistic, you seem to thrive on uncertainty, involving yourself in speculative ventures and games of chance. Happily, whether you recognize it or not, you do have a lucky streak, which will get you through some of the tough situations brought about by your adventurous spirit.

Jupiter, your decanate ruler as represented by the Three of Spades suggests that self-expression through music and writing may be the way to your fortune. If not professionally, music and other artistic expressions could prove to be good therapy for your nervous temperament. Since you can attain great heights and also plumb the depths of despair at almost regular intervals, developing a positive philosophy could be one of the wisest moves you could take for your health and happiness, not to mention your pocketbook.

Though your materialistic bent suggests that you belong in the money game, according to others who share this birthday with you, you certainly can make it big in other fields as well For example, you share this birthday with band leader John Phillip Sousa, the inventor of basketball James Naismith, pianist Paderewski, Norwegian novelist Johas Lauritz Lie, and director Mike Nicholas.

While not particularly domestic, you are a homemaker and need the security to be found surrounded by your loved ones. So much so that you may be disturbed by the urging of your restless Scorpio sex drive. Perhaps the happiest solution to your dilemma is to find an imaginative love partner who can play many roles. This way you might have the best of both worlds. In your search for this special love partner, you might have better luck with someone born on January 6, 11; February 20, 22, 26, 28; March 3, 7, 18, 20; April 22, 24; May 3, 14, 16, 20, 22; July 10, 12, 16, 18; August 29; September 6, 8, 12, 14; October 25, 30; November 2, 4, 8, 10; December 26, 29.

NOVEMBER 7 (7 = 7) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

A crown of knowledge with profound possible mystical overtones is suggested by the merging of the attributes of your card and the numerical quality of your birthday. The mental-spiritual power represented here implies a potential for giving inspired leadership. The ultimate expression in any field is within your reach.

Your ruling orbs, Mars and Pluto, suggest that your inherent wisdom is enhanced by a vital and penetrating insight. Mars, as symbolized by the Four of Diamonds, suggests expressions of your intellect, talent and leadership are likely to reward you with material abundance. While your crown card indicates that you can do many things well, it suggests that your prime asset may be the unique combinatiom of your broad perspective and ability to analyze intimate details. If this doesn't attract you to scientific or philosophical research, you may be inclined to demonstrate your mystical mental energies in some expression of healing.

Intrigued as you may be by your own occult powers, be careful that you don't yield to the temptation to abuse these forces as a practitioner of "black magic." This tremendous power emphasizes the importance of developing a sound moral and ethical philosophy of life. Spectacular as you can be in politics and theatrical endeavors, you have an introspective nature which may feel even more at home when you can be alone with your thoughts.

For some examples of your potential, note the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes statesman Leon Trotsky, scientist Marie Curie, politician Heinrich Himmler, musician Efrem Kurtz, tycoon Harold Comfort, physician Isamu Noguchi, actor Dean Jagger, religious leader Billy Graham, singers Joan Sutherland and Joni Mitchell and orchestra leader Al Hirt.

Your personal magnetism suggests that you're not likely to lack for emotional opportunities. But being born on the seventh day of the month warns that marriage is likely to be a source of challenges, possibly even burdensome. The greatest threat, though, to your personal happiness could come from an abuse of your emotional-sexual powers. Success in both love and friendship may be more easily achieved with someone born on January 1, 5, 7, 12, 13; February 23, 27, 29; March 1, 3, 8, 9; April 23, 25; May 4, 5, 17, 21; June 21; July 1, 13, 19; August 29; September 9, 13, 15; October 25, 31; November 5, 9, 11, 21; December 27, 30.

NOVEMBER 8 (8 = 8)  QUEEN OF CLUBS

Sensitive, intellectual power with the ability to effectively wield authority is suggested by the combination of your card and number "eight" birthday. Naturally talented, you have an intuitive sense that can psych out the right time and place for the expression of your gifts.

An intense need for self-expression is suggested by the Three of Diamonds and the Jack of Hearts, which represent your co-ruling planets, Mars and Pluto. While your card suggests that you can be among the most gentle, the energies represented in these two planetary influences also suggest that you may have a ruthless streak. Unless you're able to constructively channel your mental forces, they may cause you to be high-strung and impatient with those unable to keep up with your superior perspective.

A tendency to pursue work and other efforts with an almost willful indifference to your health suggests that you would be wise to take regular times out to be by yourself to rebuild your energies. Great as your curiosity may be, impatience, along with a preference of gaining your knowledge first hand, suggests that experience rather than text books is likely to be your best teacher. This is sort of reinforced by the fact that it may be difficult for anybody to tell you anything. While this may at times seem like an ego trip, there's a good chance that you know more about most things than anyone else.

A duality in your nature is suggested by Jupiter-Neptune co-rulers of the Scorpio decanate in which your birthday occurs. As these celestial influences are represented by the Ace and Five of Spades respectively, they suggest that your fortune may depend somewhat on how much use you make of your intuitive power. This implies that you could be particularly successful in research and the legal profession. As you tend to thrive on the stimulus of change, travel and meet new people, avoid routine occupations and situations. According to the record, you have a natural dramatic flair which suggests that fulfillment may be found in the entertainment world. For some examples, you share this birthday with actor Alain Delon, actress Katharine Hepburn and singers Jerome Hines and Patti Page.

Romantically, you need someone who can appeal to both your intellect and your erotic fantasies. You may come closer to finding this versatile lover who can keep up with your ever-changing moods in someone born on January 2, 12, 13, 14, 18, February 24, March 8, 9, 10, 15, 22, April 20, 26, 29, May 4, 5, 6, 11, 18, June 22, 25, 27, July 1, 2, 7, 14, 20, August 23, 28, September 3, 10, 16, 21, October 24, 29, November 6, 12, 17, 22, December 20 and 25.

NOVEMBER 9 (9 = 9)  JACK OF CLUBS

As a crown prince with the numerical factor of your birthday encouraging a rather "high, wide and handsome" life style, you're not likely to be content with anything less. This may beget a drive which will place you on the big stage of life. If not theatrically, it may place you in a pulpit or in the political arena.

Mars and Pluto, your co-planetary rulers, as represented by the Two of Clubs and the Two of Spades, emphasize the probability that co-operative endeavors may be the key to your success. This influence also warns that hidden fears and secret dealings can be your undoing. If nothing else, they may spawn a nervous irritability which can generate an argumentative temperament. A daring, almost reckless, nature is likely to keep you swinging between exhilarating highs and devastating lows.

Jupiter and Neptune, your decanate rulers as represented by the King of Clubs and the Four of Diamonds, suggest that your fortunes will depend on your ability to accept and give leadership. This also is an excellent indication for success as an attorney or politician. And if you can discipline your restless mental energies, you should also find profit in your creative efforts. To illustrate, you share this birthday with King Edward VII of England, writer Ivan Turgenev, architect Stanford White, publisher Elijah Parrish Lovejoy, actress Marie Dressler, politicians Governor Allan Shivers of Texas and Vice-President Spiro Agnew.

Both professionally and personally, charm is one of your major plus factors. Unfortunately, it may not wear well in close quarters. Here, a tendency to be overly-critical and jealous may feed those mix-ups and misunderstandings, which may make love seem more like punishments than hearts and flowers. You may also have a tendency to indulge yourself in double standards, in which you refuse to give the freedom that you insist upon for yourself. In your efforts to build a successful marriage or friendship, you may find your efforts more rewarding with someone born on January 3, 7, 10, 15, February 20, 25, 29, March 3, 6, 11, 18, April 21, 25, May 14, 19, 23, July 3, 10, 15, 19, August 29, 30, September 6, 11, 15, October 25, 26, November 2, 7, 11, 23, December 21 and 22.

NOVEMBER 10 (1 + 0 = 1) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

Whether you're inspired to lead spiritually, politically, theatrically or in your own group, the double ten influence of your birthday indicates that you can succeed at just about anything you put your mind to. One hitch in this wonderful promise is that this top-heavy influence may encourage an undisciplened ego which could lay low all your wonderful schemes and dreams.

Mars and Pluto, your ruling planets as represented by the Three of Hearts and the Three of Diamonds, suggest a compelling urge for self-expression and the personality force to put your message across. Unfortunately, this double-three influence also hints at an emotional instability which may be a threat to your fantastic possibilities. "The power to move mountains" may be lost in an insatiable quest for pleasure.

Ambition not only for self, but for concepts along with a desire to make changes are suggested by your decanate rulers, Jupiter and Neptune, as represented by the Ace and the Five of Clubs. This combination of influences, combined with the success attributes of your card, suggests that you can find fame and fortune, making the dreams of others come true through literature and drama. It's fortunate that you tend to thrive on variety, as it is very likely that you will travel extensively in a quest for causes to champion or that elusive something. Discipline that tremendous cerebral potential and you're likely to find those mental journeys even more rewarding.

For some ideas on how others have used this potential, you share this birthday with the prophet Mohammed, religious leader Martin Luther, writers Oliver Goldsmith, Nicholas Lindsay, Joaquin Miller and J.P. Marquand, black leader Moise Tshombe, artist William Hogarth, pioneer educator Samuel Howe, sculptor Jacob Epstein, actors Claude Rains and Richard Burton.

No one could ask for a more lively, fun-loving companion, so you're likely to attract many would-be friends. You may also lose as many friends through your strong opinions and critical observations. In love, you may find that you're more involved with figments of your imagination than with real individuals. You may find more tangible expressions of love and friendship with someone born on January 1, 8, 9, 18, February 24, March 4, 5, 14, 22, April 20, 26, May 1, 10, 18, June 22, 29, July 6, 14, 20, August 25, 29, 31, September 2, 10, 16, 23, October 25, 27, November 6, 12, 19, 23, December 21 and 23.

NOVEMBER 11 (Master Number) 9♣ NINE OF CLUBS

If you feel that your card symbolizes a life filled with worry and frustration, recognize that it also indicates that perseverance is likely to be needed to realize the tremendous power hidden numerically in your birthday. As this is a master number birthday, some application of this concept will be needed to truly fulfill your potential.

Your ruling planets, Mars and Pluto, as represented by the King of Hearts and the Jack of Spades, suggest that you have the emotional power to excel in roles of leadership or as a public personality. A mystical-sensitivity is also revealed here, which could just be the secret key to all that you seek. Undisciplined, this same unique sensitivity might backfire, leaving you a nervous neurotic. Laziness may be the prime obstacle to the development of the exceptional mentality suggested in your card. If you manage to get your cerebral powers together, don't allow the reasoning process to completely supplant your natural intuition. The latter could give you an inside track not only on how to manipulate financial matters successfully but also to give insight to your tremendous mystical possibilities.

Material and monetary luck are suggested by your decanate rulers, Jupiter and Neptune especially since these planets are represented by the King and the Two of Diamonds. They do stress the fact that your good fortune will depend somewhat on your willingness to play a leading role in co-operative endeavors. Keep in mind that you have more to gain through sharing than in going it alone. You may have to watch that success does not encourage you to be too dominating and overbearing. If you experience serious depressions, check to see if it isn't due to exhaustion resulting from an almost-obsessive pursuit of ideas or work goals.

That you can make it big in many areas is well-demonstrated in the following who share this birthday with you. Among them, two kings, Victor Emmanuel III of Italy and Adolph Gustav of Sweden, writers Dostoevsky, Thomas Bailey Aldrich and Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., Abigail Adams, Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, dancer-actress Fely Franquelli, actors Pat O'Brien and Robert Ryan, actresses Maud Adams and Rene Claire, comedian Jonathan Winters and General George Patton.

"Love me but don't tie me down!" Your strong love-nature is likely to run headlong into your equally-great need for personal freedom. You just might find someone receptive to your emotional needs born on January 1, 6, 9, 14, February 25, 27, March 2, 5, 10, April 3, 21, 23, 27, 29, May 1, 6, 19, 21, June 23, 25, 28, July 2, 15, 17, 21, 23, August 24, September 11, 13, 17, 19, 22, October 28, November 7, 9, 13,15, 18, December 24 and 29.

NOVEMBER 12 (1 + 2 = 3) 8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

The critical edge of the keen Scorpio mentality revealed by your card is somewhat softened by the bright, personable nature suggested in your numerological three birthday. Cheerful and talkative, you may have to watch a tendency to nervously scatter your energies in your quest for answers and self-expression. Most capable but some of your confusion may be the result of your great versatility.

Physical and mental vigor are suggested by your ruling planets, Mars and Pluto. As represented by the Ten of Hearts and the Queen of Diamonds, these celestial influences imply success in dealing with the public, especially in service-oriented occupations. The probability of good health suggests that you may have energy to spare, to the point that even others may benefit from your healing presence. Whether it be of a personal nature or in matters more profound, secrets or abstract concepts yield their truths to your almost mechanical understanding of their function. Complex you may be, yet you have a child-like quality which finds pleasure in children, animals and physical involvement with the elements. This may attract you to the building trades and outdoor occupations.

Despite the physical aspects of some of your activities, you do prefer to use your head instead of your hands. Keep this in mind when selecting an occupation or primary interests. For some career ideas or a life-purpose, check the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are the sculptor Auguste Rodin, composer Borodin, statesman Sun Yat Sen, suffragette Elizabeth Stanton, actress Kim Hunter, actor Jack Oakie and Her Most Serene Highness, Princess Grace of Monaco.

Born in the decanate of Scorpio, ruled by the Moon, your sex-drive is likely to be modified by an idealism which may keep you somewhat aloof in emotional involvements. Although you enjoy travel, you prefer to entertain by your own fireside. Loyal in friendship but emotionally you're apt to be flirtatious, finding safety in plural romantic encounters. Be it for lasting or transitory relationships, you may enjoy them more with someone born on January 10, 13, 17; February 23, 26, 28; March 6, 9, 13, 21; April 22, 24, 28; May 2, 5, 9, 17, 20, 22; June 24; July 1, 5, 13, 16, 18, 22; September 1, 9, 12, 14, 18; October 29; November 5, 8, 10, 14; December 25.

NOVEMBER 13 (1 + 3 = 4) 7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

The inspired intellectual potential suggested by your card is given practical support by your inspired numerical four birthday. You're willing to work hard but your happiness and the products of your gifted mind may be shot down by skepticism and an inclination to indulge in worrisome negativity.

Mars and Pluto, your ruling planets, as represented by the Jack of Clubs and the Jack of Diamonds, accent your creative vitality. While this influence enhances your perceptive abilities, it also warns of an inclination to be overly-critical and quarrelsome. This combination of influences also suggests that your life style and thinking may be somewhat out of step with contemporary modes, earning you the reputation of being an eccentric. This, and the fact that necessity and your own ambitions may leave so little time for play, may leave you with a sense of isolation and loneliness. In all probability, almost in spite of your talents and superior mind, you will probably have to work for just about everything you gain in this life. Even though you can become quite successful, you're still apt to feel that your efforts are not truly appreciated or rewarded according to their merit. While you may have some justification to get soured on life, more than likely the answer to your problem is to be found in the development of a positive philosophy.

Keep in mind your message for the world is not one of cynicism but rather one of inspiration. Turn your critical, analytical powers towards solving the ills of humanity and you may uncover your true greatness. For some ideas, you share this birthday with astronomer James Maxwell, Senator Fred Harris of Oklahoma, labor leader John Burns, writer Robert Louis Stevenson, actors Edwin Booth, John Drew and Oskar Werner, actresses Linda Christian and Jean Seberg.

The Moon, ruler of your Scorpio decanate, is likely to touch your romantic involvements with a bit of misty idealism. Despite this glamorous influence, you're likely to demonstrate your affection through service rather than tender gestures. If you marry, your head, not your heart, will make the choice. In that respect, you might start by looking for someone born on January 2, 11, 18; February 29; March 7, 14; April 25, 29; May 3, 10, 23; June 21, 25; July 6, 19, 23; September 1, 15, 19; October 30, November 11, 15; and December 25.

NOVEMBER 14 (1 + 4 = 5) 6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

Although the numerical five of your birthday suggests a lifetime filled with many changes, your card suggests that the inner you is likely to remain stable and cool. If you're not too distracted by all the activity in your life, your greatest adventures may come from innovative ideas spawned by your mind.

The Ten and the Queen of Clubs, representative of your ruling planets, Mars and Pluto, strongly emphasize the mental attributes associated with your card. They also suggest that while your beginnings may be lowly, your intuitive perspective and talents plus a fortunate destiny may elevate you to a position of renown and material abundance. Outspoken as you can be, you're not likely to reveal much about yourself. Except possibly in song and drama, you're more likely to express yourself through action than words. Instinctively sensing your natural luck, you seem to enjoy work and activities which contain an element of chance. At the same time, you're also very business-like, prompt for appointments, expecting others to be the same. This somewhat-dual nature enables you to extract the most from your opportunities.

As for some examples of what this may be, you share this birthday with inventors Robert Fulton (steamboat) and chemist Leo Baekeland (Bakelite), artist Claude Monet, Prime Minister Jawarlahal Nehru of India, King Hussein I of Jordan, Charles Prince of Wales, composer Aaron Copeland, singers Jean Madeira, Morton Downey and Dick Powell, actor Brian Keith, actress Veronica Lake, heiress Barbara Hutton and Mamie Eisenhower.

Awkwardness in verbalizing your feelings may cause you to appear cold-hearted. This isn't helped by a tendency on your part to lose interest in affairs of the heart. It seems it's difficult for anyone to live up to your decanate ruler Moon-inspired romantic fantasies. You may feel more inclined to take the matrimonial plunge with someone born on January 12, 19; February 23; March 8, 15, 21; April 26, 29, 30; May 4, 11, 17; June 22, 25, 26, 28; July 7, 13, 20, 23, 24; August 22, 24, 27, 30; September 3, 9, 16, 19, 20, 22; October 23, 30, 31; November 5, 12, 15, 16, 18, 21, 26; December 22, 27, and 28.

NOVEMBER 15 (1 + 5 = 6) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

The versatility suggested by your card may feed an inner discontent, encouraging a constant search for someone, someplace or something which can give you peace of mind. Apply the harmonious influence implied in the numerical six factor of your birthday and you should be able to find surcease for your restlessness.

An intellectual, yet strong emotions are suggested by the Seven of Hearts and the Nine of Spades which represent your ruling planets, Mars and Pluto. These influences also suggest that much work and perseverance will be required to achieve your goals. It may not be until your middle years that you will finally realize how fortunate you are. Part of your good luck is in your quick mind which learns more readily from experience than from the academic process. An easy conversational rapport with strangers as well as friends is likely to attract helpful contacts and opportunities While you may prefer the companionship of your own thoughts, when duty calls, you can turn on such a charming facade that it should be considered one of your prime assets.

Born in the decanate of Scorpio that is ruled by the Moon, your mentality is also likely to be colored by a vivid imagination. So, while you can excel in the cerebral realms of law, education and politics, you're likely to prove equally gifted as a story-teller in song and drama. For some examples, you share this birthday with statesman William Pitt, Justice Felix Frankfurter, Ambassador Averell Harriman, astronomer William Herschell, industrialist Andrew Carnegie, General Rommel, Senator Howard Baker of Tennessee, actors Lewis Stone and John Kerr and singer Petula Clark.

Birthday-wise, yours is a marriage number. The only hitch may be your compelling need for personal freedom. Together with a jealous, selfish streak running through your other-wise generous nature, it suggests that you had better choose your love-partners most wisely. Your emotional eccentricities may be better handled by someone born on January 7, 13, 20, 21; February 19, 23, 26, 29; March 3, 9, 16, 17, 21, 24; April 25, 27, 28; May 5, 12, 13, 17, 20, 23; June 21, 23, 27; July 1, 8, 9, 13, 16, 19, 21, 22; August 23, 30; September 4, 5, 9, 12, 15, 17, 18, 21; October 26, 31; November 1, 5, 11, 13, 14, 17; December 22, 27 and 28.

NOVEMBER 16 (1 + 6 = 7) 4♣ FOUR OF CLUBS

The practical mentality suggested by your card is influenced by the profound but skeptical nature of your numerical seven birthday. This combination suggests a methodical, somewhat academic intellect touched with a mystical perspective. While this suggests that you have access to the higher reaches of consciousness, a possible conflict between this awareness and your mundane orientation may produce nothing more than a restless irritability.

Your perceptive intellectual prowess is further enhanced by the Eight of Clubs and the Eight of Spades, representative of your ruling planets, Mars and Pluto. Your probing curiosity is likely to prove very productive. While the critical, analytical aptitude suggested here should serve you well in research, it, along with your inclination to be somewhat of a perfectionist, may prove a sore spot in close relationships. Despite your superior cerebral potential, you may have to guard against a too-narrow, fixed point of view. Happily, some of your inflexibility and aloofness is mitigated by your adeptness with words either written or spoken. With so much music in your soul, you're really not apt to be as cold as you may appear. Your responsible attitude and organizational skills suggest that you're a natural for playing a part in government or in running the P.T.A.

While the mental emphasis of your birthday implies that you should be at home at a typewriter or in a laboratory, you do have a dramatic flair that might prefer the stage. For some examples of these and other possibilities, you share this birthday with statesman Anatoly Dobrinin, composers William Handy and Paul Hindemith, radio's Mary Margaret McBride, singer Lawrence Tibbett, writer George S. Kaufman, actor Burgess Meredith, radio and television's Jim Jordan (Fibber McGee) and scientist Werner Von Braun.

Disappointment in an early romance along with a desire to experiment emotionally may cause you to put marriage off. When you get ready to try for a more substantial relationship, be careful that a nit-picking attitude doesn't spoil your emotional happiness. Apart from controlling your critical tongue, you may have to learn to give love. This may be easier to do with someone born on January 3, 4, 8, 11, 14, 21; February 19; March 4, 7, 10, 17; May 3, 6, 13; June 24, 28; July 2, 9, 22,; August 24, 31; September 5, 18, 22; October 27; November 1, 14, 18; December 23, 28 and 29.

NOVEMBER 17 (1 + 7 = 8) 3♣ THREE OF CLUBS

Personality-power is spelled out by the merging of your card and your numerical eight birthday.You may be tempted to drift aimlessly but a compelling desire for self-expression plus a fear of not having enough is likely to encourage a pursuit of security which may end up by bringing you considerable success and abundance.

According to the Seven of Clubs and the Seven of Spades, which symbolize your ruling planets, Mars and Pluto, your mental attitude is likely to be your prime challenge. It's important that you learn to resist the inclination to indulge in worry and discouragement. Positive expression of the forces represented here can inspire an interest in matters spiritual and metaphysical. If the latter includes the occult, make it a point to get your own mental house in order first in order to minimize the possibility of negative repercussions. Concentration, which is not likely to be one of your strong points, is an important key towards your personal success. While you can't do too much for someone who gives you encouragement, criticism is likely to turn your warm smile into an icy stare. While you may seem to have more than your share of quandaries, you do have a lucky streak. In fact, you may find that you have a natural money-sense which can serve you well in all types of financial activity. Though you may have a knack for making money and handling positions of authority, you're likely to be happier with someone else taking care of all the details.

Fundamentally conservative yet obviously, as the record shows, you can more than hold your own in the limelight. For example, you share this birthday with historian George Grote, Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery of Alamein, social worker Grace Abbott, actor Rock Hudson, baseball star Tom Seaver and Olympic champion Bob Mathias.

The Moon, your decanate ruler, enhances the erotic impulses of your Scorpio sun-sign. While you should have no difficulty in finding partners for your romantic fantasies, a tendency to be unlucky in love suggests a wisdom in holding off legal ties until maturity can govern your emotional instincts. Friendship as well as love may be more successful with someone born on January 12, 15; February 20, 26; March 8, 11, 18; April 22, 29; May 4, 7, 14, 20; June 25, 29; July 3, 10, 16, 23; August 25, 27, 30; September 6, 12, 19, 23; October 23, 26, 29; November 2, 8, 15, 19, 21; December 22, 25 and 30.

NOVEMBER 18 (1 + 8 = 9) 2♣ TWO OF CLUBS

A confident, independent manner belies the need for co-operative endeavors suggested by your card. Far from being dependent on others, you're more inclined to be a leader or the front runner in your field. The numerical nine of your birthday implies that you have the determination and perseverance to achieve your grand dreams.

Mars and Pluto, your ruling planets, suggest that you have an aggressive and perceptive mentality. With these planets symbolized by the Four of Hearts and the Six of Spades, you're also likely to have an emotional instinct which helps you to deal successfully with individuals and groups. As a rule, you feel a great sense of responsibility towards those who place their trust in you. You really do need people, so don't let your independent streak cut you off from their help and words of advice. Cocky as you can appear, underneath that brash facade hides just enough apprehension to keep you from sticking your neck out too far. Although your quick mind and resourceful nature suggests that you're a natural for business, you'd better have someone else worry about the details. If not because of your own aspiration, destiny will probably find some way to push you into the limelight.

For some examples, you share this birthday with inventor of photography Louis Daguerre, botanist Asa Gray, writer William Norris, artist Jules Guerin, orchestra conductor Eugene Ormandy, singers Amelita Galli-Curci and Dorothy Collins, pollster George Gallup, composer Johnny Mercer, actor Marcello Mastroianni and astronaut Alan Sheppard.

Card-wise, you're a natural for marriage or, at least, some sort of close relationship. An underlying restlessness combined with a need for personal freedom may bring a multiple number of romantic involvements. While your sensual vitality can make you a great lover, watch that your critical attitudes don't spoil your opportunity for romantic bliss. Your quest for compatibility in love may prove more successful with those born on the following birthdays: January 1, 2, 6, 16, 18; February 21, 29; March 2, 12, 14, 19; April 25, 30; May 8, 10, 15; June 24, 26; July 4, 6, 11, 19, 22, 24; August 22; September 2, 7, 15, 18, 20; October 22, 24; November 3, 11, 14, 16.

NOVEMBER 19 (1 +9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) A♣ ACE OF CLUBS

The great aspirations to be on top suggested in your card is reinforced by the numerical one factor of your birthday. In all probability, your determination along with a persuasive, clever tongue is likely to help you achieve that to which you aspire. Be careful that in you efforts to scale those heights you don't sacrifice everything and everybody including yourself.

Stimulated by an ever-seeking, restless, impulsive mind as suggested by the Five of Clubs and the Five of Spades, symbolic of your ruling planets, Mars and Pluto, you're not likely to stay put for long. Travel to distant places, both actually and to the far reaches of your mind, are likely to be involved in your quest for self-expression. Lucky as your birthday suggests that you may be, you're still likely to run the gamut of possibilities in a search for a cause or something which will give you purpose and fulfillment. Your great versatility suggests that you'll eventually make money, but you'll probably go through a fortune before you learn to hang on to it. While the odds suggest that you can achieve considerable success, you're also likely to know equally traumatic depths. One possible hazard to your success may be an inclination to lose interest when the challenges are overcome.

If anyone has a diversified potential for success, you are that one. Among the many possibilities suggested by your planets, numbers and cards are occupations involved with the sea, metals, machinery, executive sales, especially if it relates to products of the land or real estate, entertainment and politics. To illustrate, you share this birthday with President James Garfield, explorer George Rogers Clark, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India, Ferdinand de Lesseps, builder of the Suez Canal, baseball's Roy Campanella and television star Dick Cavett.

Your bright forward manner is likely to gain you many followers, but only a few will probably become real friends. As in everything else, you demand much out of love, but as a Scorpio, born in the decanate of the Moon, your moods, temper and love of variety may make it difficult for you to wait around to see if you have found the real thing. Perhaps someone born on one of the following birthdays will encourage a little romantic patience. January 1, 4, 10; February 22, 28; March 6, 20; April 24; May 2, 16; June 27; July 12, 18; August 23, 29; September 8, 14, 21; October 25; November 4, 10, 17, 23.

NOVEMBER 20 (2 + 0 = 2) K♥ KING OF HEARTS

If not the modesty implied in your numerical two birthday, people, even circumstances, may conspire against your wearing the mantle of leadership represented in your card. You have an intuitive charm which can win a warm response from the public. While your emotional sensitivity can help you to excel in the arts, you may have to watch that it doesn't cloud your thinking.

With the Four of Clubs and the Four of Spades representing your planetary rulers, Mars and Pluto, you certainly are not all heart. The combination of these cards and planets suggest an excellent mind and a willingness to work hard for your objectives. This double four influence suggests practical organizational abilities which should help you demonstrate your effectiveness as a leader. Although very vulnerable to emotional distractions when challenges arise, you're likely to display a great ingenuity in solving problems. While life may be "no bed of roses," you do tend to attract the better things of life. If you can discipline your emotional nature into constructive channels, success and abundance are likely to reward your efforts. Although your sixth sense may assist you in finacial matters, your royal card suggests you may have difficulty keeping up with your expensive tastes.

When selecting a profession or special interests, keep in mind, as a heart, you're likely to be at your very best in people-related endeavors. For some ideas, you share this birthday with scientist Otto Guericke, politicians Norman Thomas and Senator Robert F. Kennedy, author Selma Lagerlof, dancer Danilova, actress Gene Tierney, artist Corita Kent and entertainer Dick Smothers.

Despite a capacity to love deeply, certain hang-ups may interfere with your more intimate emotional expression. So much so that it may take more than one marriage before you can overcome your own romantic hurdles. Intense and passionate as your sun-sign suggests you may be, an underlying idealism may incline you to be more mental and platonic than physical in your expression of love. You may come closer to what you are looking for in both love and friendship with someone born on January 5; February 23; March 1,21; May 17; June 28; July 13; August 24, 28, 30; September 9, 22, 24; October 23, 29; November 5, 22; December 20, 22, 25 and 28.

NOVEMBER 21 (2 + 1 = 3) Q♥ QUEEN OF HEARTS

The great charm suggested by your card is given a personable boost from the numerical three of your birthday. This combination certainly can spell personal magic. If you're not careful, it could also indicate a tendency to spread yourself too thin through too many interests in a quest for self-expression.

Symbolized by the King of Spades, your planetary ruler, Mars, suggests that you have the stubborn determination and energy to achieve the impossible. Combined with the wonderful attributes of your crown card, this influence suggests that you can be a most dynamic individualist. Just watch that emotional attitudes don't short-circuit this power, causing you to be as destructive as you normally are constructive. Part of the secret of the power represented here is self-discipline. As you can give orders far easier than you take them, you would be wise to prepare yourself to occupy positions of authority or to excel in your special field.

Inspiration, possibly even confusion, may result from the flights of fancy encouraged by your decanate ruler, the Moon. As symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, this celestial planet suggests that your vivid imagination can be the key to artistic and theatrical success. These same mental energies, allowed to run rampant, may lead to nervous ailments and unreasonable explosions of anger. When you commit yourself to a job or project, you're likely to give it all you have. Your sensitive intellect favors expressions in music and education but your sparkling personality might prefer show business. For some examples, you share this birthday with writer-philosopher Voltaire, politician Mikhail Suslov, writer Jim Bishop, actresses Eleanor Powell, Vivian Blaine, Marlo Thomas and Goldie Hawn, actor Ralph Meeker and baseball's Paul Richards and Stan Musial.

Intense as you are emotionally, you may need more than one chance to prove that you can succeed in marriage. An independent spirit and a tendency to insist that everything be done your way may keep you from enjoying all the love you desire. Lasting relationships may be more easily achieved with someone born on January 12, 13, 19; February 25; March 8, 9, 15; April 21, 28; May 4, 5, 11, 19; June 24; July 1, 7, 15; August 29; September 3, 11, 18; October 25; November 7, 14, 23; December 21 and 28.

NOVEMBER 22 (Master Number) J♥ JACK OF HEARTS

Application of some of the self-mastery indicated numerically in your birthday will probably be required before you can truly realize the spectacular potential symbolized in your card. This combination could make you emotionally top-heavy, so much personal discipline will be needed to curb those egocentric tangents, which could cause you to miss the tremendous opportunity represented in your birthday.

Born on the cusp of Scorpio and Sagittarius, you have the vitality of Mars to help you to realize the good fortune of Jupiter. With your two ruling planets symbolized by the Two of Hearts and the King of Hearts, the accent is on some expression of sensitive leadership. This combination also suggests an almost-prophetic perspective which may encourage involvement in philosophical and religious endeavors. This same insight is likely to give you an upper hand in mundane affairs, but be careful not to abuse your authority through arbitrary and ruthless tactics. With so much spiritual power, it's extremely important that you keep your activities above reproach. Fortunately, the idealistic nature of your card and planetary rulers tend to emphasize your constructive nature. Though you may be plagued by trials and tribulations, especially in the earlier part of your life with problems possibly relating to your parents, in time, you're among the most likely to make your mark.

To give you some examples of individuals who have done so, you share this birthday with Vice-President John Nance Garner, statesman Charles de Gaulle, authors Andre Gide and George Elliot, theosophist Franz Hartmann, composers Hoagy Carmichael and Benjamin Britten, heiress Doris Duke, actress Geraldine Page, actor Robert Vaughn, aviator Wiley Post and Billie Jean King of tennis fame.

Emotional vitality is likely to be a significant factor in your success both socially and professionally. While you may be a pillar of strength and virtue, your intense emotional nature causes you to be very vulnerable to over-indulgence in all the appetites to which the flesh is prone. Greater success in relationships may be had if you guard against treating others as supporting players and if you look for lovers and friends born on January 2, 5, 7, 13, 19, 20; February 3, 5, 11, 17; March 1, 3, 9, 15, 16; April 1, 7, 13, 14; May 5, 11, 12, 30; June 3, 9, 10, 28, 30; July 1, 7, 8, 26, 28; August 5, 6, 24, 26, 30; September 3, 4, 22, 24, 28; October 1, 2, 20, 22, 26; November 18, 20, 24; December 16, 18 and 22.

NOVEMBER 23 (2 + 3 = 5) 10♥ TEN OF HEARTS

A natural charm, according to your card, can make you a winner in all types of people-related activity. This potential for success is further enhanced by the versatility implied in your numerical five birthday. Just watch that the latter influence doesn't encourage a restless instability which could scuttle your opportunities.

Jupiter, your ruling planet, as represented by the Ace of Diamonds, encourages the pride and ambition to aim high. Not lack of ability but undisciplined ways and nervous temperament may prove the prime obstacle to the fulfillment of your quest. Not lazy, but a lack of incentive to develop your many possibilities, may tempt you to try and gain the prize through gambling and speculative ventures. Although you do have a lucky streak, for stability's sake, you would be wise to seek your success through a constructive use of your sixth sense about people and about how things work. This could give you an intuitive understanding of machinery, organizations and the functioning of the body. Applied, this suggests that you could be very effective as a physician, health instructor or chairman of business or social groups.

Inclined to become erratic when bored, it's important that you select occupations which allow you a great deal of latitude for personal expression. Perhaps at the top of your list should be activities which provide you with the opportunity to mingle and help others. For some ideas, you share this birthday with President Franklin Pierce, composer Manuel De Falla, actors Boris Karloff and Harpo Marx, singer John Denver, tennis star Lew Hoad and outlaw Billy the Kid.

Identified with the symbol indicating success with people, one would expect the realm of love to be your domain. Actually, this may depend largely on your gender. If you're a female, you are inclined and capable of giving a marriage whatever it takes to make it work. If they call you mister, a lack of patience may make it difficult for you to sustain wedded bliss. You may prefer, instead, a series of romantic conquests. Whatever your sex, watch that eccentricities don't create unnecessary problems in close relationships. Love and friendships may be easier with someone born on January 21, 26, 29, 30; February 1, 4, 7, 16, 19; March 22, 25, 26; April 3, 12, 15, 20; May 22, 31; June 8, 11, 16, 19; July 27, 29; August 4, 7, 12, 15, 16; September 23, 25, 29; October 3, 8, 11, 12; November 21, 25, 27; December 4, 7, 8, 17, 19 and 23.

NOVEMBER 24 (2 + 4 = 6) 9♥ NINE OF HEARTS

The tremendous emotional force embodied in your card and numerologically in your birthday can propel you into all sorts of romantic adventures or true greatness. If it is to be the latter, recognize that the "universal love" symbolized in your card is not an entree to emotional conquests but a symbol of compassionate service and leadership.

The sensitive heart quality implied in your birthday is modified by the creative mentality suggested by the Jack of Clubs which symbolizes your ruling planet, Jupiter. While this influence implies an inclination to become involved with frivolous individuals who may encourage you to waste your energies on triviality, it also suggests a potential to excel intellectually and artistically. A great deal of soul-searching is likely to be involved in your quest for a purpose, the direction that you want your life to take. Unfortunately, since you are not likely to pay much attention to advice, you will probably have to find your particular path the hard way. In considering your possibilities, avoid routine occupations and circumstances. Nervousness is likely to result from any situation that imposes any type of restriction.

Although you do have a lucky streak, you have far more to gain through developing your talents and other abilities. A sensual feel for color, sound and form suggests that you could find happiness in the arts. But your profound perspective is more than likely to attract you to the realms of religion, philosophy and the humanities. All of these indicate that you may be most effective in some government role or as a counsellor. For some other possibilities, you share this borthday with philosopher Spinoza, President Zachary Taylor, bacteriologist Hideyo Noguchi, Father Junipero Serra, founder of so many California

Missions, writers Callodi, William Buckley and Garson Kanin, artist Toulouse Lautrec, and Mayor John Lindsay.

You're not likely to suffer from a lack of romantic opportunities. If anything, your personal happiness may be jeopardized by the abundance of sexual and emotional opportunities. Another obstacle to love may be those deep introspective spells which may isolate you from the love you hunger for. You may feel more like building a permanent relationship with someone born on January 22, 25; February 13; March 21, 25, 30, 31; April 9, 16, 19; May 21, 26, 27, 29; June 12, 15, 19; July 28, 30; August 8, 15, 20, 21, 23; September 23, 28, 30; October 4, 7, 11, 16, 17; November 26; December 3, 7, 12, 13, 18 and 20.

NOVEMBER 25 (2 + 5 = 7) 8♥ EIGHT OF HEARTS

Inspirational power is projected by the merging of the attributes suggested by your card with those implied numerically by the mystical seven of your birthday. The profound idealism combined with the emotional vitality suggested here could help you to be a constructive force in the lives of many. Resist the inclination to use force to accomplish your objectives, instead rely on your greatest asset charm!

While your card accents your emotional strength, your planetary ruler Jupiter, as represented by the Ten of Clubs, suggests a reasoning power second to none. This may encourage you to pursue some intellectual profession with emotional overtones, such as law, religion, or government service. In this light, being a natural burden bearer, you are likely to be the recipient of many calls for help. So you might be wise to consider some type of service as a profession. The combination of mental and emotional energies indicated by your birthday suggests that you are a natural for the healing professions. Your patients should not only benefit from your skills, but also from the vital forces which emanate from your person.

As you thrive on people-contact, make it a point to pursue occupations and activities which provide you with the opportunity to meet and mingle with the human race. If you need any ideas as to how this might be accomplished, consider the following notables who share this birthday with you. Pope John XXIII, suffragette Carrie Nation, industrialist Andrew Carnegie, Russian statesman Mikyon, Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas, artist Lupe DeVega, composer Ethelbert Nevin, actor Ricardo Montalban, and baseball's Joe DiMaggio.

A natural lover, you are likely to break many a heart before you settle down. In your more intimate involvements, your great emotional power may prove as much of a hindrance as it is a help. Your great charms may be minimized by inflexibility and a tendency to be too outspoken. Your quest for happiness in love, as well as friendship may have a greater chance with someone born on January 23, 30; February 2, 6, 14; March 26; April 2, 5, 10, 17; May 22, 28; June 1, 6, 13, 20; July 24; August 2, 9, 16, 22; September 27; October 5, 12, 18; November 23, 27; December 1, 8, 14, 21.

NOVEMBER 26 (2 + 6 = 8) 7♥ SEVEN OF HEARTS

A prophetic sensitivity with the power to achieve is suggested by your card and the numerical eight of your birthday. This combination also implies a sensual magic which should prove quite an asset in all your people related activities. Due to your own emotional restlessness, the inspiration and peace which you are able to give to others may be denied you.

Cardwise, you are a heart, but the Nine of Clubs, symbolic of your ruling planet Jupiter, indicates that there is a pretty good brain behind that heart. The only problem may be in a reluctance to use it. Put your cerebral powers into action, and you should find that you can excel in intellectual pursuits, preferably those which include people involvement. Emotional attitudes and an inclination to indulge in melancholy could be serious obstacles to your progress. The same sensitivity, causing you to be so vulnerable to these emotional tides, when constructively applied, can produce a most thoughtful, beautiful person. As a natural diplomat, you can be equally effective as an ambassador or social secretary. A strong feeling for form and color, even if it does not encourage a career in the arts, is likely to be reflected in your stylish clothes and the decor of your home. In all probability, appearances rather than utility is likely to govern your choice in wearing apparel and furnishings. If a job, or some interest truly turns you on, you will work long hours on it, as if it were a great pleasure.

If you are looking for something that will inspire this kind of enthusiasm, check the careers of the following who share this birthday with you. The list includes scientist William Armstrong, educator John Harvard, psychologist Angelo Patri, actor Emlyn Williams, playwright Eugene Ionesco, commentator Eric Severeid, cartoonist Charles Schulz and singer Robert Goulet.

Fortunate are those who can call you friend or lover. Not only are you inclined to be generous, but you also are no slouch when it comes to romance. You may have to watch an inclination to indulge in jealousy and emotional displays. Since you tend to attract emotional problems, it is very important that you choose associates as well as potential mates extremely carefully. You might start by looking for someone born on January 24, 31; February 2, 7; March 27; April 3, 18; May 23; June 14, 21; August 20, 17; September 28; October 6, 13; November 24, 28, 30; December 2, 9, 22.

NOVEMBER 27 (2 + 7 = 9) 6♥ SIX OF HEARTS

Although you are not particularly ambitious for worldly acclaim, the friendly warmth implied by the combination of your card and sun-sign is likely to win you many friends. Despite your lack of aspirations, the numerical nine of your birthday suggests that you're likely to have a broad scope of interests and contacts.

Except for those rare moments when you can be quite outspoken, your passive smile hides the brain power suggested by the Eight of Clubs, representative of your ruling planet, Jupiter. Merged with the intuitive quality of your card, this intellectual influence suggests that you can come up with all sorts of innovative ideas, most of which you're not likely to get any credit for. This heart-mind quality also points to a possible interest in metaphysics. Passive as you can appear, you have strong feelings which need a constructive outlet or you may find yourself withdrawing into a self-indulgent neurotic cave. Responding as you do to physical activity, you may find swinging a tennis racket or golf clubs your best therapy. What you may lack in personal drive is more than compensated for in your willingness to help others to achieve their goals. Anything that will allow you to indulge your strong sense of color and music might just turn you on.

Both because you enjoy travel and also because of your tendency to get into static situations, wisdom suggests that you select occupations and interests which incorporate action and a chance to get about. For some other career possibilities, you share this birthday with Swedish scientist Celsius, political scientist Charles Austin Beard, artists Flujita and Joseph Young, producer David Merrick and Caroline Kennedy.

Despite an independent streak, you're not really a loner. But when you choose a partner, make sure it is someone with whom you can share your open enthusiasm for living. While not particularly domestic, you'll probably do more than your share. Don't allow your own erratic moods disturb the harmony so essential to your well-being. You may find less friction and greater compatibility with someone born on January 25, 28; February 3, 10; March 21, 24, 28; April 6, 19; May 29; June 2, 15, 18; July 25, 28; August 11, 14, 18, 23; September 24, 27, 29; October 7, 10, 14, 19, 22; November 23, 25, 29; December 3, 6, 10, 15, 18, 21 and 23.

NOVEMBER 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 5♥ FIVE OF HEARTS

The restless charm implied in your card is likely to propel you into an eventful life filled with a wide variety of interesting experiences. Numerically, your birthday indicates a sensitive strength, suggesting that some of your urge for change may be motivated by an idealistic desire to make improvements.

Inspired wisdom, according to your card, the Seven of Clubs, symbolic of Jupiter, your ruling planet, could be a significant factor in your good fortune. Unfortunately, this same influence may incline you to indulge in a skepticism and general discontent which could seriously interfere with your more profound expressions. As an ambitious, independent individualist, you really don't like subordinate positions or restrictive, routine occupations. If you don't choose to excel through some expression of your literary or musical talent, then you probably should aspire to express your potential through some position of leadership. Failing to channel your restless energies into some type of productive activity could cause your inner unrest to be expensive and a probable source of nervous ailments. Since no one seems to flourish on people-contact and action more than you do, keep this in mind when considering possible careers or major interests. Being a tour guide for a travel agency or a concert artist should just about fit your restless requirements perfectly. And, if you can sit still long enough, you might even enjoy a special kind of adventure through writing and composing.

For some examples of career possibilities, know that you share this birthday with socialist-writer Friedrich Engels, pianists Artur Rubenstein and Jose Iturbi, newspaperman Brooks Atkinson, artist-poet-mystic William Blake, King Alfonso XII of Spain, Maximilian II, King of Bavaria and actress Hope Lange.

A natural entertainer, you're likely to be at your very best in socializing. Even though your changeable nature inclines you to be somewhat flirtatious, once you find that special someone, a compelling need for emotional security will encourage an all-out try at faithfulness. You may feel like trying harder with someone born on January 26; February 4, 9; March 22, 29, 30; April 5, 8, 20; May 25; June 16; August 12, 19, 20; September 30; October 8, 15, 16; November 26, 30; December 4, 11 and 12.

NOVEMBER 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) 4♥ FOUR OF HEARTS

The merging of the emotional quality associated with your heart card with those of your master number birthday suggests a compassionate vitality which can be your entree to greatness. This may encourage you to be a constructive force in some type of humanitarian endeavor. Don't let egocentric attitudes spoil this beautiful image.

Intuition, according to the Six of Clubs which symbolizes your ruling planet, Jupiter, may be the real key to the sensitive power shown in your birthday. Although these energies can be particularly useful in spiritual endeavors, the perceptive, analytical nature suggested here should also prove beneficial in scientific research, especially in matters pertaining to human nature. In this respect, you may feel motivated to minister to the needs of mankind through counselling, religion or politics. Capable as you can be in these roles, be careful that your desire to help others is not shot down by your intense feelings and inflexible attitudes. Channel your emotional energies constructively and they can add that special warmth to your contact with the public, either through the promotion of products or through literary or musical expressions.

To illustrate your possibilities more substantially, you share this birthday with composer Gaetano Donizetti, politician Adam Clayton Powell, singer John Gary and psychologist Doctor David Reuben.

Identified with the marriage card, one would expect you to have no problems in love. But, your expression of love may be inhibited by psychological hang-ups arising out of an awareness of your strong romantic sex-drive. Unfortunately, your emotional energies may seek an outlet through see-sawing moods and temperamental outbursts. Apply some of the mastery symbolized in your birthday and you could find your affectionate expression the most satisfying of all. This may be easier with someone born on one of the following birthdays: January 21, 27; February 5, 10, 19; March 23, 30, 31; April 1, 6, 15, 21; May 26, 27; June 2, 11, 17; July 23, 28; August 7, 13, 20, 21; September 24; October 3, 9, 16, 17, 22; November 27; December 5, 12, 13 and 18.

NOVEMBER 30 (3 + 0 = 3) 3♥ THREE OF HEARTS

The dynamic, personable force implied in the double three influence of your card and numerologically in your birthday suggests that you have a special gift for communicating ideas. While this may make you a headstrong visionary or a creative artist, you're likely to have something worthwhile to say.

Jupiter, your ruling planet, as represented by the Five of Clubs, suggests that your fortune may come from the products and ideas spawned by your restless mental energies. Action-oriented, you're bound to thrive on change and travel. If you're careful that these changes are not inspired by erratic impulses, for the most part, you should find them a constructive influence in your life. Strong as your viewpoints tend to be, make it a point to back them with facts and a solid educational foundation. Considering your vivid imagination and talent capacity, you should have a good earning potential. So any problems of a financial nature are likely to arise from impulsive spending and poor management of your funds. In deciding what you would like to do for a livelihood or as a special hobby, you may run headlong into the indecisiveness associated with your card.

It may be of some help to consider your inherent abilities as reflected in the cards. To begin with, power in both the spoken and written word suggests involvement in occupations dealing with the public either as a writer or as a politician, salesman or entertainer. To illustrate these and other possibilities, you share this birthday with writers Jonathan Swift, Mark Twain (Samuel Clemens) and Kenneth MacGowan, statesman Sir Winston Churchill, Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, machinery tycoon-preacher Robert Le Tourneau, physicist Sir Chandra Bose, actor Efrem Zimbalist Jr., and television's Dick Clark.

Although an inherent skepticism and doubt may cause you to be reluctant to accept friendship, once this barrier is overcome, you're likely to be a most loyal friend. Your more intimate expression of love may suffer from an inclination to keep your emotional feelings to yourself. You may find it easier to open up and share love with someone born on January 22, 28: February 17, 20; March 31; April 13, 16, 22; May 20, 27, 28; June 9, 12, 18; July 23, 24; August 5, 8, 14, 21, 22; September 25, 30; October 1, 4, 10, 17, 18, 23; November 21, 26, 28; December 6, 13, 14, 19 and 24.

DECEMBER 1 (1 = 1) 4♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

Aspirations to be a front-runner are encouraged by your number one birthday. Fortunately, your card indicates that you have the aggressive will-power to make this objective a reality. Despite your independent streak and desire for freedom of action, don't ignore that small inner voice that wants to share this quest with someone else.

Although there's a good chance that you'll waste a fortune before you finally learn to hang on to some of it, Jupiter, your ruling planet, is likely to give you many chances to make it. As represented by the Six of Clubs, your planetary ruler warns that opportunities may be lost through lingering in situations and jobs which have no future. Your material aspirations may cause you to totally overlook the spiritual vision also implied in this card.

Mars, your decanate ruler, suggests that while you should not really lack for vitality, as symbolized by the Six of Clubs, this planetary influence implies that you may have to develop your self-starter. Happily, a desire for action, to be on the move, should help minimize the inclination to become stuck in those comfortable, stagnant situations. You don't like to be told what's wrong with you but you'll listen to objective observations. Bold and confident as you can appear, you're not really an egotist; it's just that you usually know what you're doing and where you're going. Although you'll probably have to work hard for success, consider yourself lucky, as it is well within your reach. The practical overtones of your diamond card suggest that you have a special knack for business.

The following notables who share this birthday with you also clearly indicate a potential for theatrical success. For example, your birthday-mates include actor Cyril Ritchard, dancer Alicia Markova, actress-singer Mary Martin, comedian Woody Allen and golfer Lee Trevino.

You want and need affection, but you don't want anyone who's a clinging vine. You're more likely to be intrigued by someone who can keep you guessing. Torn between a need for emotional security and the fear of having to restrict your gregarious activities, you may be reluctant to commit yourself to marriage. You may be more willing to take this big step with someone born on February 6, 12, 14, 17; April 2, 8, 10, 13, 15, 19; May 30; June 4, 6, 9, 11, 15; July 26; August 2, 5, 7, 11, 24; September 22, 29; October 1, 3, 7, 20; November 25, 28; December 3 and 16.

DECEMBER 2 (2 = 2) 3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

A personable but somewhat brash sensitivity is suggested in the merger of your card with the influence associated numerically with your birthday. While you have the ingratiating charm to help realize your high aspirations, watch that ambition doesn't cause you to take on more than you can or want to cope with.

The likelihood of your achieving those grand objectives is given a considerable boost by Jupiter, your ruling planet. As symbolized by the Five of Spades, this benefic orb implies that your fortunes are likely to include a great deal of travel and many changes in work and interests. To some, this may be a disturbing prospect but you're likely to find this wide variety of activity both stimulating and a source of prosperity. Keeping this in mind, be careful that you don't become trapped in static situations.

Mars, your decanate ruler as represented by the Seven of Diamonds, suggests that money and what it can buy is likely to supply you with the initiative to go after success. Your very thoroughness in the execution of tasks is likely to be a significant factor in your achievements. Be careful that this intense, meticulous attitude doesn't nurture nervous tension! Fortunately, you're likely to have a rugged dependability which not only helps you to be a survivor but also to triumph.

Career-wise, this attribute may prove especially helpful in financial enterprises such as banking, investments and accounting. The only time you should seriously consider speculative ventures and gambling is when you've mastered both your impulses and your inherent psychic ability. A compelling need for self-expression suggests that you can also excel in literature, drama and music. For example, your birthday-mates include Nobel Prize-winning pathologist George Minot who cured pernicious anemia, journalist Lucius Beebe, publisher Randolph Hearst, singers Henry Burleigh, John Barbirolli and Billy Bruce and actress Julie Harris.

Great as your need for involvement with someone may be, you need to be especially careful in love and friendship. Your charm may open the door to more disappointments than emotional fulfillment. You might minimize your propensity for heart-aches by looking for friends and lovers born on January 22, 26; February 2, 7, 20; March 22; April 3, 16, 20; May 31; June 12, 16; July 27; August 8, 12; September 23, 30; October 4, 8, 21; November 26; December 4 and 17.

DECEMBER 3 (3 = 3) 2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

A bright but sensitive optimist is the image projected by the qualities associated with your card and your personable three birthday. Extremely capable and versatile (possibly too much so), there is a danger that your many interests may make it difficult to concentrate on a primary objective.

Although Jupiter, your planetary ruler, suggests that you are fortunate, as symbolized by the Four of Spades, it does point to the probability that your good luck may require something of you. If it means work, you're likely to find friends who can give you a helping hand and access to opportunity. If you are willing to do your part, success is just about a guaranteed cinch.

Mars, your decanate ruler, implies a sparkling vitality and the energy to overcome health problems and obstacles. As this planetary influence is represented by the Six of Diamonds, it is important that you invest your time and energies wisely. This card implies that you'll certainly reap the fruits of whatever you sow. Intense and extremely sensitive, it is essential that you find a constructive outlet for your vitality. Otherwise, you may be too strongly tempted to subdue them with pills and liquor. Unless it be with a paint brush, pencil or typewriter, you're not likely to enjoy working with your hands. Cerebral and artistic, you're more than likely to find your place in music, literature, painting or in some type of intellectual activity especially those involving some aspects of human nature. To illustrate, you share this day with historical artist Gilbert Stuart, writer Joseph Conrad, psycho-therapist Anna Freud, manufacturer Hugh Mapleton, singers Connie Boswell and Andy Williams.

The same bright magnetism which can win audiences or a wide circle of friends is also likely to attract the love and affection you crave. Don't spoil it all with moods and tears. Also, make sure that the object of your desires does not belong to someone else. You might spare yourself a lot of heartaches and loneliness by looking for lovers and friends born on January 27, 29; February 8; March 23, 25, 28, 30, 31; April 4, 21; May 21, 24, 26, 27; June 17, 19, 22; July 23, 28; August 13, 15, 18, 20, 21; September 24, 28; October 9, 11, 14, 16, 22; November 24, 27; December 5, 7, 10, 12, 13 and 22.

DECEMBER 4 (4 = 4) A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

The compelling need for self-expression, for prestige reflected in your card is likely to become the spur of your ambition. Your efforts to achieve those heights to which you aspire will be helped by the stubborn practicality reflected in the numerological quality of your birthday.

With both your ruling planet, Jupiter, and your decanate ruler, Mars, represented respectively by the Three of Clubs and the Three of Spades, dissipation of your energies through too many interests could be a very real hazard. In your endeavor to counter the uncertainty engendered by this life style, you may become set in your attitudes. Of course, this might also encourage you to develop your inherent organizational ability to the extent that it could be quite an asset in business. You can be a capable leader and probably a hard task-master. To minimize an inclination to nerves and ulcers resulting from your drive to get the job done, accent cheerfulness and take time out for relaxation. Far more sensitive than you may think yourself to be, you will find that drugs and liquor are dangerous tranquilizers.

A natural money-sense suggests that you can excel in professions dealing with the handling of money and investments. You may also find that you have an aptitude for manufacturing, engineering, real estate and occupations dealing with the products of the earth. In your effort to express the real you, you may find it easier to do so in song or literary efforts. To illustrate, you share this birthday with writers Carlysle and Samuel Butler, singers Lillian Russell, Deanna Durbin and Maria Callas, producer David Lewis, actor Horst Buchholz and Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain.

Emotional uncertainty may cause you to prefer transitory romances to marriage. Difficulties in close relationships may arise from your changeability and inability to return the love you demand from others. In your list of priorities, love may come out second-best. This may be less likely with someone born on January 22, 24, 28, 30; February 4, 9, 20; March 20, 24, 26; April 5, 16, 18, 22; May 20, 22; June 1, 12, 14, 18, 20; July 31; August 8, 10, 14, 16, September 27, October 4, 6, 10, 12; November 23; December 2, 6, 8, 16, 29.

DECEMBER 5 (5 = 5) K♣ KING OF CLUBS

"Creation is a drug I can't do without." These words by Cecil B. De Mille seem to capture the essence of the versatility and creative intellect suggested by your card and the numerical quality of your birthday. While you can do just about anything exceptionally well, uncertainty, fed by restlessness, may prove a major hazard to your success.

With Jupiter, your planetary ruler, represented by the Two of Spades, it seems likely that your good fortune will depend somewhat on your ability to combine your efforts with others. While you should prosper in partnerships and co-operative efforts, as a king, don't shirk the crown of responsibility in these arrangements. The unknown is also likely to hold a special appeal to you, so much so that curiosity is likely to overcome those secret fears which might keep you from exploring the mystic realms.

The probability that your endeavors will reward you abundantly is pointed out by the Four of Diamonds, which represents your decanate ruler, Mars. An ability to promote values either materially or philosophically is helped by the dynamic aura of confidence that you project. The record suggests that these abilities may be particularly successful in religion, politics or in motion pictures, especially if you are directing the action. For example, you share this birthday with President Martin Van Buren, General George Armstrong Custer (of the famous "last stand"), Senator Strom Thurmond, Cardinal Vincent Sheean, poet Christina Rossetti, producers Fritz Lang, Walt Disney and Otto Preminger, singer Grace Moore.

Emotionally, you're apt to be very intense and demanding. Although you can be generous to a fault, you may still not be truly aware of the needs of mates and lovers. Card-wise, you have the best symbolical influence for marriage but restlessness and a compelling need for freedom of action may make it difficult for you to sustain a lasting relationship. You may find this less difficult with someone born on January 25, 28, 29, 31; February 3, 5, 10, 11; March 21, 24, 25, 27; April 1, 6, 7, 19; May 21, 23; June 2, 3, 15, 18, 19, 21; July 29; August 11, 14, 15, 17; September 25; October 7, 10, 11, 13, 23, 31; November 29; December 3, 9, 19 and 27.

DECEMBER 6 (6 = 6) Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

A crown of intellectual idealism is suggested by your card. Numerologically, your birthday implies justice tempered by love and truth is your scepter of power. While you can succeed at just about anything that you put your mind to, that probable success may be delayed through your own lack of initiative.

Jupiter, your ruling planet, as symbolized by the Ace of Spades, suggests that the development of your intuitive awareness is an important key to your good fortune. This card also warns of disappointment through secretive dealings or in the neglect of your spiritual development. Remember to choose your associates and goals very carefully. A nonconforming individualist, your unique way of doing things is likely to seem somewhat bizarre to others.

A need for focus and organization is emphasized by the Three of Diamonds, which represents your decanate ruler, Mars. Confusion and nervousness may prove a very real hazard in your attempt to express your multi-talented potential. Making money should not be a serious problem, but financial difficulties may arise from poor management and an inclination to ignore details. An expression of leadership or excellence in the expression of your talents is the destiny implied in your crown card. As a natural humanitarian, you may feel inspired to fulfill fate's plan through some type of service, such as to be found in teaching, counselling and healing. A successful outlet for your cerebral sensitivities may also be found in literature, music and drama. For example you share this birthday with writers Joseph Conrad and Joyce Kilmer, chemist-inventor Charles Martin Hall (Aluminum), composers Ira Gershwin and David Brubeck, actresses Lynn Fontanne and Agnes Moorehead, actor William S. Hart, and comedian Wally Cox.

You crave affection and seek the security of a stable home scene, but an uncertainty as to what you want emotionally may cause you to try again and again in the quest of a perfect lover. You might just save yourself a lot of trouble by picking someone born on January 26; February 10, 11, 12; March 22, 28, 31; April 6, 7, 8, 13, 20; May 24, 27, 29; June 2, 3, 4, 9, 16, 22; July 23, 25, 30; August 5, 12, 18, 21, 23; September 26; October 1, 8, 14, 17, 19, 24; November 27, 30; December 4, 10, 13, 15, 20.

DECEMBER 7 (7 = 7) J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

Combine the mystical influence implied numerically in your birthday with the creative magic suggested by your card and there is very good reason to expect you to be the source of inspired productivity. Just do not allow procrastination and the tendency to wander aimlessly to shoot down your best intentions.

The King of Clubs, which represents your planetary ruler, Jupiter, suggests that you can be a leader, literally, or in the expression of your talents and abilities. Even though you may be reluctant to accept the responsibilities of administrative roles, you are likely to be very unhappy in subordinate positions. If you can channel your strong will, you might even surprise yourself as to what you can accomplish. The development of specialized skills may help you to both find the success you seek, and the self-discipline so necessary to give your life purpose.

An inclination to waste your energies in fruitless activities may be somewhat minimized by the driving energy suggested by Mars, your decanate ruler. As represented by the Two of Clubs, this planetary influence indicates a quick mind, and a possibility of being almost too blunt and outspoken. Watch that doubts do not cause you to wear a chip on your shoulder. After all you have everything to gain through the sharing of ideas and activities. A Natural eloquence should enable you to more than hold your own in a courtroom or in the political arena. You may be even happier in some artistic endeavor. For some examples of this and other possibilities, you share this birthday with Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, sculptor Giovanni Lorenzo Bernini, novelist Willa Cather, composers Pietro Mascagni and Rudolf Friml and actress Fay Bainter.

According to numerology, marriage is not particularly easy for those born on a number seven birthday. With the insight given you by the cards, you might overcome, or at least minimize this jinx. You might further improve your chances by controlling those critical comments regarding loved ones and looking for someone born on one of the following birthdays. January 22, 27, 31; February 1, 5, 8, 13, 18; March 23, 27; April 1, 4, 9, 14, 16, 21; May 23; June 5, 10, 12, 17, 21, July 31; August 1, 6, 8, 13, 17; September 22, 28; October 2, 4, 9, 13; November 23, 24; December 5, 9, 21, 22.

DECEMBER 8 (8 = 8) 10♣ TEN OF CLUBS

Success through the expression of creative power is the image projected by your card in combination with dynamic force suggested by your number eight birthday. An inventive, critical mentality, tempered by a philosophical outlook implies that you have the cards all stacked in your favor. Do not lose this advantage through temperament and erratic behavior.

Jupiter, your planetary ruler, further accents the fortunate qualities of your birthday. As this astrological influence is represented by the Ace of Clubs, which emphasizes the mental aspects suggested in your own card, it appears that your fortune will largely depend on how well you can use your head. As your energies are likely to spill forth rather freely through your many interests, it is especially important that you replenish your vitality. The rejuvenating pleasure that you can find in mingling with nature may be minimized by your quest for power and place. So watch that your material aspirations do not kill your natural spark of creativity. Adept as you can be in handling big business and large organizations, keep in mind that there is a sensitive part of you which needs the nourishment of some type of artistic expression. Whether it be in business, the theater, or in your own personal world, you belong in the driver's seat. Not as an ego thing, but just because you have too much on the ball to be happy in secondary roles. Observe in the following who share this birthday with you how they have fulfilled its potential in their lives. In literature there are Horace, Bjornson Bjornstjerne and James Thurber, inventor Eli Whitney, composer Sibelius, artist Diego Rivera, labor leader Tom Mooney, actors James MacArthur, David Carradine and Maximilian Schell, entertainers Sammy Davis Jr. and Flip Wilson.

Occurring in the decanate of Sagittarius, sub-ruled by Mars, your birthday implies that you have a great deal of vitality and drive. Since this planetary influence is symbolized by the Three of Hearts, this force of energy may cause you to vacillate in your expression of love, causing you to swing from demonstrative, affectionate nature to that of indifference. You may find less uncertainty in love and friendship with individuals born on January 26; February 6, 7, 16; March 22, 28; April 2, 3, 12, 20; May 31; June 8, 16, 22; July 27, 31; August 4, 12, 18, September 23, 27, 29; October 8, 14, 21; November 23,25; December 4, 10, 17, 21.

DECEMBER 9 (9 = 9) 9♣ NINE OF CLUBS

A broad life style filled with spectacular opportunities and frustrations is the picture predicted by the double nine influence of your card and birthday. If you do not allow early disappointments in life sour your outlook, you are more than likely to find that fate has dealt you a lucky hand.

The prime indicator of your good fortune is the King of Diamonds, which represents your ruling planet Jupiter. The combined influence of this card and this auspicious celestial planet certainly suggests the possibility of fame and wealth. Whatever, it does imply the probability of a keen material-money sense, which should serve you well in all types of financial enterprises. You belong on the big stage of life, traveling, enjoying the stimulus to be found in associating with many people and diversified activities.

Mars, your decanate ruler as represented by the King of Hearts, adds an emotional-magnetic impact to help you achieve your ambitious objectives. In this drive for success, guard against a tendency to become so intense and edgy that nervous afflictions become part of your prize. Impatience, combined with a reluctance to develop your superior mental capacity could cut you off from one of your prime assets. Get your head together, and you can excel in writing and research. You are likely to thrive on the excitement to be had in acting, preaching and lecturing. To illustrate, you share this birthday with the poet John Milton, journalist Lucius Beebe, clown Emmett Kelly, singer Elizabeth Schwarzkopf, actress Hermione Gingold, actors Lee J. Cobb, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Broderick Crawford, Kirk Douglas, Redd Foxx and John Cassavetes.

The same charm which can win for you socially and before the public is also likely to work for you in love. Compelling as your need for love and companionship may be, problems in marriage may arise from a rebellion against the restrictions and responsibilities of matrimony. You find this an easier adjustment to make with someone born on January 1, 27, 29; February 4, 7, 12; March 23, 25, 27, 30; April 3, 8, 21; May 21, 25, 27, 30; June 4, 17, 19, 23; July 23, 26; August 13, 15, 19, 21, 24; September 22, 30; October 9, 11, 15, 17, 20; November 26; December 5, 7, 11, 13, 24, 29.

DECEMBER 10 (1 + 0 = 1) — 8♣ — EIGHT OF CLUBS

Success through the expression of your talents, particularly through your powerful mental attributes is suggested by your card and birthday. The latter numerologically translates into one, which implies that you can achieve leadership in just about anything which you may undertake.

An abundance of the good things in life is suggested by the Ten of Diamonds, which symbolizes Jupiter, your ruling planet. The sense of affluence indicated here suggests that your efforts are likely to be handsomely rewarded, or you may marry or inherit wealth. This same influence points out the probability of success in financial enterprises. You may have to watch that a preoccupation with material values does not obscure your destined purpose of sharing your gift of knowledge.

With the Ten of Hearts representing your decanate ruler, Mars, this aura of success should also prevail in your people oriented activities, especially those involving groups or the public. So much so, that your serious endeavors may be crowded out by your gregarious pursuits. You are capable of doing things well, but do not let your impatience to de everything, foster nervous conditions. When the tensions begin to mount, you are likely to find travel one of your best therapies. If you need an idea of your potential, consider the following who share this birthday with you. Among them are composer Cesar Franck, abolitionist and journalist William Garrison, writer Emily Dickerson, astrologer Edith Randall, musicians Vincent Lopez and Morton Gould, actresses Una Merkel and Dorothy Lamour and television commentator Chet Huntley.

Hospitable, but not particularly domestic, so you need more than marriage and a home to occupy your attention. Intimate involvements may suffer from impatience and tactlessness. You may find an easier rapport with members of the same sex. Both love and friendship may be more successful with someone born on January 25, 28, 30; February 8, 15; March 21, 24, 26, 30; April 4, 11, 19, 22; May 20, 22, 26; June 7, 15, 18, 20; July 22; August 3, 11, 14, 16, 20; October 7, 10, 12, 16; November 27; December 3, 6, 8, 12.

DECEMBER 11 (Master Number) — 7♣ — SEVEN OF CLUBS

Application of the mastery symbolized numerically in your birthday can help you capture the potential for inspiration represented in your card. Since you may have a strong inclination to indulge in worry, even fear, it probably will take much self-discipline to translate your cerebral energies into constructive expression.

Intellectual as you may be, the Nine of Diamonds, which represents your ruling planet Jupiter suggests that you also have a compelling desire for material expression. Happily, your sense of extravagance is backed up by an intuitive sense about money, which suggests that you can manipulate your way into a fortune. Just do not let this become such a preoccupation that you ignore your more profound possibilities.

A dynamic determination to achieve is implied by the Jack of Clubs, representative of your decanate ruler, Mars. This card and planetary influence suggest a keen, creative intellect with temperamental overtones. Depression and chronic nervous problems may result from an almost obsessive drive to reach your goals. So when you feel down, check to see if you are pushing yourself too hard. A natural for executive positions, but you can be very bossy. According to the record, science, writing with a message, music and even politics are all suitable to your unique potential. For example, you share this birthday with scientist T.C. DuPont, bacteriologist Robert Koch, nuclear physicist Max Born, writers Alfred De Mussett and Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, composer Louis Berlioz, politician Fiorello La Guardia, journalist Gene Markey and actress Rita Moreno.

As with everything else, even in love, there are no halfway measures. Either you love with all your being, or you could not care less. Even in marriage, you require a certain amount of freedom. And with luck, you are likely to have things your way. Emotionally, you may be attracted to unusual romantic situations with a touch of the bizarre about them. Your best bets in love and friendships are likely to be found among those born on January 31, February 1, 9, 16; March 27, 31; April 5, 12; May 27, June 1, 8, 21; July 23; August 4, 17, 21; October 13, 17; November 28; December 9, 13.

DECEMBER 12 (1 + 2 = 3) — 6♣ — SIX OF CLUBS

The intuitive sense of timing implied by your card should help you to capitalize on the dynamic magnetism suggested numerically in your birthday. Self-expression is essential to your happiness, but in the quest of an audience guard against a tendency to scatter yourself through too many people and activities.

With Jupiter, your ruling planet represented by that money-power card, the Eight of Diamonds, you are likely to be rewarded abundantly for your efforts. In fact, so much so, that you may have to watch that a preoccupation with material values does not cause you to completely lose sight of your more idealistic aspirations. Basically, you are likely to be pretty healthy, but you may be vulnerable to nerves and respiratory ailments.

Though your card implies a streak of laziness, Mars, your decanate ruler, is not likely to allow you to remain inactive for long. Since this planetary influence is symbolized by the Ten of Clubs, your ambitions are supported by talent and brain-power. The somewhat feisty mentality suggested here may cause you to be temperamental. This same energetic cerebral influence suggests that you are philosophically progressive and may be able to make valuable contributions through teaching, writing and politics. According to the following notables who share this birthday with you, you could also be a natural for show business. For some examples, you share this birthday with the first Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, John Jay, writer Gustave Flaubert, actor Edward G.Robinson, singers Frank Sinatra, Connie Francis and Dionne Warwicke.

Despite a strong urge for marriage, a tendency to surround yourself with a crowd may be a somewhat deliberate attempt to protect yourself from the heartaches of a serious emotional entanglements. As a romantic sensualist, you may be inclined to take love wherever you can find it, and run. Be it for keeps or fun, love may be better with someone born on January 25; February 10, 17; March 21, 28, 31; April 6, 13, 19; May 24, 27, 28, 30; June 2, 9, 15, 22; July 23, 24, 26, 29; August 5, 11, 18, 21, 22, 24; September 25, 28; October 1, 7, 14, 18, 20, 23; November 21, 24, 28, 29; December 3, 10, 13, 14, 16, 19, 22.

DECEMBER 13 (1 + 3 = 4) 5♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

The multi-potential suggested by your card is enhanced by the practical, hardworking attributes associated with your numerological four birthday. Unfortunately, your many possibilities may be jeopardized by a compelling urge for freedom from all the responsibilities that might restrict your free spirit.

All that money can buy, according to the Seven of Diamonds, symbolic of your ruling planet, Jupiter, is likely to be a major incentive. The probability of your achieving recognition as well as gaining the fortune you so greatly desire is accented by the Eight of Diamonds, which represents your decanate ruler, the Sun. Though your earlier years may be a struggle, this influence indicates that you can earn your way out of the limitations of your younger years. In this respect, your greatest challenge materially may be in hanging on to your hard won gains. A restless, discontented attitude may keep you on the move, often away from opportunity. Since this may foster a nervous and irritable disposition, you would be wise to look for a healthy safety valve through the arts or sports. Except for an inclination to be somewhat dictatorial, you have the potential to be very effective in positions of authority. But it is probably in your quick and clever mentality, as a gag writer, attorney or politician that you are likely to be at your best. For some examples of these and other possibilities, you share this birthday with Mary Todd Lincoln, columnist Drew Pearson, writer Heinrich Heine, singer Lillian Roth, the Aga Kahn, actors Dick Van Dyke and Christopher Plummer.

Charming as you can be, your seemingly eccentric ways and temperamental outbursts are likely to earn you more misunderstandings than appreciation. While you are not likely to be particularly demonstrative of your affections, your vivid imagination can create exciting relationships. Emotional happiness may be a greater probability, if you can control your tendency to jealousy and romantic restlessness. You may be less inclined to lose interest with someone born on January 20, 21, 25, 28, 31; February 5, 11, 18, 19, March 21, 24, 27, 29, 30; April 1, 7, 14, 15, 19, 22; May 20, 23, 25, 26, 29; June 3, 10, 11, 15,18, 21, 23, July 21, 22, 25, August 6, 7, 11, 14, 17, 19, 20, 23; September 28; October 2, 3, 7, 10, 13, 15, 16, 19; November 24; December 2, 6, 9, 11, 12, 15, 22.

DECEMBER 14 (1 + 4 = 5) 4♣ FOUR OF CLUBS

A duality is suggested by the combination of your card and your numerical five birthday. Part of you seeks security through stability, the other, prodded by a relentless restlessness, craves changes, travel and new experiences. In your efforts to satisfy both needs, you run the risk of becoming excessively nervous and fretful.

Basically lucky, but do not overlook the fact that Jupiter, your ruling planet, as symbolized by the Six of Diamonds, indicates that the wise investment of time and money is the key to your good fortune. A natural sixth sense regarding values and bargains is also implied in this influence. Your keen, practical mentality is likely to be annoyed by abstract concepts which cannot be translated into dollars and cents. While able to give a good account of yourself in just about anything, domesticity or the arts are not exactly your thing. You are likely to be far more at home in business, the bigger the better. Dealing with the public through teaching or selling is also likely to feed your enthusiasm. Whether it be for business or pleasure, travel is likely to prove to be one of the better therapies for whatever ails your restless spirit. Basically constructive, but your negative tangents can be equally destructive.

As represented by the Eight of Diamonds, the Sun, your decanate ruler, accents your ability to turn your efforts into money. Pride and ambition with a little help from destiny will help you to find your place in the sun. Observe in the following who share this birthday with you how they fulfilled this promise. The list includes the prophet Nostradamus, King George VI of England, Senator Margaret Chase Smith, General James Doolittle, president of MGM and CBS James Aubrey, tennis star Stan Smith, actresses Lee Remick and Patty Duke and singer Abby Lane.

While you seek to identify with the establishment, emotionally, you are apt to attract some rather unusual involvements. Although your astute observations should serve you well in business, in close relationships it may become the cause of much unhappiness. In your quest for love and friendship, you may be more successful with someone born on January 21; February 1, 2, 6, 9, 12, 19; March 30; April 2, 5, 8, 15; May 26, 30; June 1, 4, 11; July 22, 26; August 7, 20, 24; September 22, 29; October 3, 16, 20; November 25, 30; December 12, 16.

DECEMBER 15 (1 + 5 = 6) 3♣ THREE OF CLUBS

The bright, youthful quality reflected in your card is complemented by the harmonious influence of your numerical six birthday. While this may bring you moments of serenity, an underlying restless urge for freedom of action is likely to keep things from ever becoming too dull.

Your great need for security is likely to be disturbed by the fact that the changeable influence of the Five of Diamonds represents your ruling planet, Jupiter. While this may keep you up in the air, it also suggests that your good fortune is likely to include extensive travel and many changes in work and interests. A tendency to vacillate between extravagant generosity and selfishness may result from your many uncertainties. Fortunately, as a natural diplomat, you are usually able to smooth over the ripples of misunderstandings caused by your impulsive, erratic behavior. This charm is also likely to attract helpful friends and win over enemies. Although you can inspire confidence in others, you may find a major battle in conquering your own inner insecurity.

As textbooks are likely to bore you, it is fortunate that your great curiosity can help you learn from observation and experience. The opportunity to gather more than your share of worldly treasures is suggested by the Eight of Diamonds, which symbolizes the Sun, your decanate ruler. This influence also suggests that you prefer to be your own boss. In that quest for the right career, keep in mind your great need for self-expression. For some other ideas, you share this birthday with Emperor Nero, famous for "fiddling while Rome burned," financier J. Paul Getty, writers La Rochefoucald and Maxwell Anderson, and actor Jeff Chandler.

Although numerologically your birthday is considered a marriage number, easy as it may come, love is one thing you cannot afford to take for granted. You have all of what it takes in the way of magnetism and sex appeal to attract romantic opportunities, but your impulses are inclined to attract burdensome emotional situations. You might improve your prospects for personal happiness by selecting lovers and friends born on January 22, 28; February 10, 13; March 24, 31; April 6, 9, 16; May 22, 27, 31; June 2, 5, 12, 18; July 23, 27, 29; August 1, 8, 14, 21; September 23, 25, 28; October 4, 10, 17, 21, 23; November 21, 24, 27; December 6, 13, 17, 19, 22.

DECEMBER 16 (1 + 6 = 7) — 2♣ — TWO OF CLUBS

Profound intellectual-mystical possibilities are suggested by the merging of your card with the numerical seven influence of your birthday. As a deep thinker, you are likely to be somewhat more aloof than your positive facade indicates. While a self-insistent intensity can bring you spectacular achievements, combined with self-doubts, it can also be your undoing.

The tremendous possibilities within your reach are illustrated astrologically by Jupiter, your planetary ruler, and the Sun, your decanate ruler. As these celestial influences are represented by the Four and Eight of Diamonds respectively, your endeavors are also likely to reward you abundantly. While this suggests that you can do particularly well in the world of finance, your creative, romantic nature may find an even greater satisfaction in music and literature. Whether it be in composition, the legal profession, or in exploring the spaces of of philosophy, your quick, perceptive mentality is likely to be your prime asset. In this respect, guard against indulging in impatience with those who cannot grasp things as rapidly as you.

You prefer to run things, and are likely to do equally well in the expression of leadership either up front directing the action or behind the scenes. This might include anything from writing to scientific research or politics. For some examples, you share this birthday with composers Ludwig Van Beethoven and Noel Coward, philosophers George Santayana and Jinarajadasa, writer Jane Austin, anthropologist Margaret Mead, musician Spade Cooley and Russia's Leonid Brezhev.

Being emotionally involved is very important to your sense of completeness. If you cannot fulfill your idealized concepts of love, you may substitute them with social-sensual excesses, ever seeking someone who can really turn you on. Close relationships may be jeopardized by a tendency to indulge in nervous irritability, and a tendency to crave more love and affection than you are willing to give. You may feel more like giving with someone born on January 23, 31; February 4, 14, 16; March 27, 30; April 10, 12, 17; May 23, 26, 28; June 6, 8, 13, 21; July 22, 24, 28, 30; August 2, 4, 9, 17, 20, 22; September 24, 26; October 5, 13, 16, 18, 22, 24; November 22; December 1, 9, 12, 14, 18, 20.

DECEMBER 17 (1 + 7 = 8) — A♣ — ACE OF CLUBS

The numerical eight factor of your birthday points out the possibility that the inquiring mind suggested by your card could come up with some very productive ideas. A conservative individualist, you tend to ignore your critics, listening only to those who appeal to your exceptional reasoning powers, especially if they intrigue your curiosity.

The Three of Diamonds, symbolic of Jupiter, your ruling planet, suggests the probability of a fluctuating financial picture. Fortunately, this propitious planetary influence also implies that your good fortune is likely to outweigh the bad. Nevertheless, you are likely to be confronted with expensive quandaries as to which course of action to take regarding employment and investments of time and money. A positive material awareness is suggested here, which could help you to excel in merchandizing and financial endeavors. You can be among the most generous, but, because of an undercurrent of uncertainty, you can also be quite selfish.

Occurring in the decanate of Sagittarius ruled by the Sun, especially since this planet is represented by the Eight of Diamonds, your birthday suggests that your key to material stability may lie in your inherent organizational skills. This influence also implies not only the ability to make money, but the possibility that your endeavors may bring some recognition. Though a part of you may prefer to work unobtrusively in a laboratory or at a typewriter, you do have a side which enjoys public acclaim. For some examples, you share this birthday with physician-alchemist Philippus Paracelsus, scientist Humphry Davy, inventor of the electromagnet physicist Joseph Henry, writers John Greenleaf Whittier and Erskine Caldwell, conductor Arthur Fiedler, and ex-chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, William McChessney Martin.

Your many interests along with a preoccupation with a career or some activity to fulfill your need for self-expression implies a wisdom in delaying marriage until your late twenties or early thirties. When you are ready to accept the responsibilities of matrimony and settle down, you may find greater success in holy wedlock with someone born on January 24, 30; February 2; March 26; April 18; May 22; June 14, 20; July 25, 31; August 10, 16, 23; September 21, 27; October 6, 12, 19; November 23; December 2, 8, 15, 21.

DECEMBER 18 (1 + 8 = 9) K♥ KING OF HEARTS

A strong urge to live on a rather grand scale is implied by both your card and the numerical nine factor of your birthday. While this may lead to spectacular self-indulgences, the aura of "universality" also symbolized here may inspire you to fulfill yourself as a leader in government, entertainment or as a humanitarian.

Do not allow your crown card set you too far apart from the benefits to be gained through cooperative endeavors. Jupiter, your ruling planet, as represented by the Two of Diamonds suggests that joint efforts, partnerships could truly be the key to your fortune. Either in the limelight or in the background running the show, success is a strong probability.

With the Sun as your decanate ruler, your talents and abilities are not likely to remain hidden. As represented by the Eight of Diamonds, this stellar influence also implies an earning potential capable of supporting your royal appetites. Unless you find some interest or work capable of absorbing your powerful emotional energies, you may find yourself plagued with nervous restlessness. Discipline your forces and talents, and you should find that the fates will be very generous to you. For examples, you share this birthday with composers Carl Weber and Edward MacDowell, inventor Edwin Armstrong (frequency modulation), baseball's Ty Cobb, politicians Robert Moses, Ramsay Clark and Germany's Willy Brandt, actresses Gladys Cooper and Betty Grable, actors Dane Clark and Roger Smith.

Identified, as you are with the top "heart card," you should have all the charm and romantic magnetism needed to attract love and friendship. Any storms in your love life are more than likely to arise from abuse of this power, which may tempt you to play perverse, romantic games at the expense of others. You may feel a greater desire to be faithful to someone born on January 25; February 3; March 21; April 19; May 30; June 2; July 26, 30; August 11, 24; September 22, 26, 28; October 7, 20; November 22, 24, 27; December 3, 16, 20, 22.

DECEMBER 19 (1 + 9 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) Q♥ QUEEN OF HEARTS

Leadership based on a blend of intellect and emotional power are suggested by the combination of your card and your numerical one birthday. Despite your multi-potential, the road to your true place of success is likely to be paved with many obstacles. Fortunately, you have both the inner strength and good health to prevail.

Although Jupiter, your ruling planet is considered to be the planet of good fortune, as represented by the Three of Hearts, it is all too likely to prove to be a mixed blessing. On the plus side it does indicate a bright, optimistic attitude and possible musical talent. But it also suggests that nervousness may become a price that you may have to pay for your many interests.

While you may have to work for fame and other good things promised by the Sun, your decanate ruler, as symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, suggests that your efforts should prove profitable. The close proximity of your birthday to the sobering influence of Capricorn is likely to somewhat subdue the frivolous qualities associated with your social card. The more profound perspective on life encouraged by this Saturnian influence may direct your sensitive skills to the realms of science and politics. Almost in contrast to your otherwise artistic nature, you may also find an aptitude for working with iron and machinery. For other possibilities, you share this birthday with physicist Albert Michelson, musician Fritz Reiner, reformer Mary Livermore, television's H. Allen Smith and David Susskind, actress Minnie Madden Fiske, actor Sir Ralph Richardson and singer Edith Piaf.

While your life may be crowded with people, only a few are likely to get through your protective aloofness. Those who make it are all too likely to prove more of a burden than a joy. Due to your own proneness to disappointments in love, which may in part be due to your own ambiguous, emotional nature, you would be wise to choose lovers, even friends most carefully. You may find better luck with someone born on January 27, February 10, 17; March 23, 30; April 6, 13, 21; May 26, 29; June 2, 9, 17; July 21, 31; August 5, 13, 20, 23; September 27; October 1, 9, 16, 19; November 23, 30; December 5, 12, 15, 21.

DECEMBER 20 (2 + 0 = 2) J♥ JACK OF HEARTS

Modest as the numerical two factor of your birthday may cause you to appear, the dynamic emotional vitality indicated in your card suggests that you can give inspired leadership. You may find a conflict between personal aspirations and the desire to become involved in some humanitarian endeavor.

Your Sagittarian dash may be mellowed somewhat by the closeness of your birthday to Saturn ruled Capricorn. With Jupiter, your ruling planet represented by the King of Hearts, the heart power suggested by your own card is amplified to the point where it appears that your fortune is to be found in dealing with people. A natural empathy combined with a warm personality suggests that you may be particularly suited to the ministry, or to counselling. This emotional magnetism should also serve you well in theatrical and political activity.

Although a natural reticence may cause you to be somewhat reluctant to display your talents and inherent ability to lead, your decanate ruler the Sun is not likely to allow your potential to remain hidden. As this star is represented by the Eight of Diamonds, you have the strength not only to transcend the frustrations that may plague your earlier years, but also the potential for considerable success. Note in the following how they have made this promise come true. Philosophers A. Seth Pringle Pattison and Sidney Hook, rubber manufacturer Harvey Firestone, columnist Max Lerner, dancer Valerie Bettis and actress Irene Dunne.

While your strong romantic nature suggests that you could enjoy multiple involvements, as a conservative idealist you are likely to remain faithful to one. In close relationships, watch that your emotional ego does not become an unecessary obstacle to the love you so desperately need. You also are likely to find greater success in relationships where the emphasis is on intellect and shared interests instead of passion. Vulnerable as you are to disappointments in love, you should choose lovers most carefully. You may find greater success in relationships with individuals born on February 3, 5, 11, 15, 17, 18; April 1, 7, 11, 13, 14; May 30; June 3, 7, 9, 10, July 26, 28; August 3, 5, 6, 24; September 22, 24, 28; October 1, 2, 20, 22; November 24; December 16, 18, 22.

DECEMBER 21 (2 + 1 = 3) 10♥ TEN OF HEARTS

Your endeavors to be a constructive force in the community are enhanced by the personable attributes implied in your numerical three birthday. The prime threat to the aura of success suggested by your card may be an inclination to scatter your energies through too many interests and people.

Born on the cusp, the practical influence of Capricorn should help you to apply your Sagittarian vitality productively. Whether it be an idealistic goal or some material objective, Jupiter, your ruling planet, as represented by the Ace of Diamonds, suggests that you have the natural ambition to prod yourself into action. And if you do not allow emotional attitudes to cloud your fine mentality, you are more than likely to accomplish whatever you set out to do.

Idealistic as you are likely to be, you still appreciate the more tangible aspects of success. With your decanate ruler, the Sun, symbolized by the Eight of Diamonds, your prospects for material achievement and monetary success become a strong probability. This influence also suggests that you can find your fortune in occupations which allow you to blend your people-power with your intuitive sense of values, such as to be found in merchandising, advertising, entertainment and politics. For some other possibilities, you share this birthday with French dramatist Jean Baptiste Racine, Scottish missionary Robert Moffat, entomologist-philosopher Jean Henri Fabre, social worker Henrietta Szold (organizer of Hadassah), politician Benjamin Disraeli, choreographer Andre Eglevsky, actress Jane Fonda and tennis star Chris Evert.

While you can charm the public, those closest to you may feel somewhat overwhelmed by personal force. This is not likely to be helped by a tendency to indulge in moods, which build an invisible barrier around the real you. There is a strong possibility that it will take more than one marriage to remove some of these obstacles to your romantic happiness. This may be more easily accomplished with someone born on January 26, 30; February 1, 4, 7, 16, 19; March 22, 26; April 3, 12, 15, 20; May 22, 31; June 8, 11, 16, 19, 20; July 27, 29; August 4, 7, 12, 15, 16; September 23, 25, 29; October 3, 8, 11, 12, 21, 23; November 25, 27; December 4, 7, 8, 17, 19, 23.

DECEMBER 22 (Master Number) 9♥ NINE OF HEARTS

Extreme possibilities are suggested by the combination of the compassionate-universality associated with your high heart card and the potential mastery implied numerically in your birthday. The possibility of true greatness is within your reach, but it may be jeopardized by an emotional-negativity, which can drag you from the heights to the depths of depressive neurosis.

As a cusp baby, you have the forces of both Sagittarius and Capricorn working for or against you. Their ruling planets, Jupiter and Saturn, as represented by the Jack of Clubs and Nine of Diamonds, suggest that the access to your fortune is to be found through an expression of creative leadership. Considering the tremendous forces represented in your birthday, it is apparent that much personal discipline is a prerequisite to fulfilling your high destiny. Otherwise, emotional attitudes and a desire for money and power could seriously impair any expression of your basic idealism.

Due to childhood disturbances, which may have related to your parents, you may be confronted with the necessity of overcoming worrisome mental habits. If you allow these to get out of hand, they can encourage erratic behavior patterns which could seriously endanger your health. Due to your extreme sensitivity, you need to be particularly careful in the use of liquor and drugs.

If not in some type of people related activity, you are likely to be happiest in some expression of music, poetry and sculpture. To illustrate these and other possibilities, you share this birthday with philanthropist James Oglethorpe, creator of the Japanese navy Count Togo Heihachiro, Pulitzer prize winning poet Edwin Robinson, sculptor Manzu, musician Andre Kostelanetz and Lady Bird Johnson.

Your emotional-magnetism may prove to be more of a hindrance than a help in building lasting relationships. Too easily dissatisfied with spouses and lovers, you may get into the habit of looking for something better, only to find that loneliness may be the real price for frequent changes of partners. Discipline your romantic prowess and look for someone born on one of the following days and you may find the meaningful love you seek. January 15, 22, 25, 29; February 13, 20, 27; March 11, 18, 21, 25, 30, 31; April 9, 16, 19, 23, 28, 29; May 7, 14, 17, 21, 26, 27, 29; June 5, 12, 15, 19, 24, 25, 27, 30; July 3, 10, 13, 17, 22, 23, 25, 28, 30; August 1, 8, 11, 15,,20, 21, 23, 26, 28; September 6, 9, 13, 18, 19, 21, 24, 26, 30; October 4, 7, 11, 16, 17, 19, 22, 24, 28; November 2, 5, 9, 14, 15, 17, 22, 26; December 3, 7, 12, 13, 15, 18, 20, 24.

DECEMBER 23 (2 + 3 = 5) 8♥ EIGHT OF HEARTS

People-involvement, according to your card, is essential to your happiness, but a proud, restless, independent nature may cause you to ignore this need in an ambitious quest for personal success. Numerically, your birthday implies a versatility, which will give you a variety of possibilities through which you can find that success.

Good money and material indications are suggested by the Eight of Diamonds, which represents your ruling planet Saturn. Your close proximity to Jupiter, the ruling planet of Sagittarius, suggests that your imaginative intellect may be the entree to your material well-being. Despite your talent potential and other abilities, your prime asset is likely to be your powerful personality. In this expression, you will probably accomplish more by going easy on the "power" and accenting your inherent charm. While your card suggests some wonderful possibilities, as with all who are identified with the eights, you will probably have to work hard to achieve the wonderful promises made by your card.

While your strong feelings can be a disturbing factor, disciplined they can give you a special insight into the workings of the mind, body and even machinery. To this, you also might add the sensitivity to appreciate and express yourself through music. For some ideas of how your potential may be expressed, you share this birthday with English inventor Sir Richard Arkwright (cotton spinning frame), composer Giacomo Puccini, Mormon religious leader Joseph Smith, film producer J. Arthur Rank, dancer Jose Greco, Japan's Crown Prince Akihito, baseball manager Connie Mack and football star Paul Hornung.

While you have the emotional power to influence many people, your more intimate involvements may suffer from a restless temperament. If your gender is feminine, you will bring the full power of your creative imagination to build a successful marriage. On the other hand, if your gender is masculine, preoccupation with other interests and a lack of patience are likely to make it difficult for you to sustain relationships. Male or female, love may be better with someone born on January 4, 8, 11, 16; February 21, 28; March 4, 7, 12, 19; April 24, 30; May 3, 8, 15; June 26; July 4, 11, 18; August 22; September 7, 14, 20; October 25, 29; November 3, 10, 16, 23; December 21, 25.

DECEMBER 24 (2 + 4 = 6) 7♥ SEVEN OF HEARTS

Both your heart card and the numerical six of your birthday suggest that emotional factors play an extremely important part in your life. They are likely to supply the initiative to overcome your natural reticence and spur your ambitions for success. If others think you difficult to understand, they might be surprised to find you feel the same way about yourself.

Your planetary ruler, Saturn, as represented by the Nine of Spades, may prove to be a dubious blessing. While it suggests that you have the power and perseverance to overcome all obstacles, unfortunately, it also implies an inclination to indulge in a self-destructive negativity. Keep in mind, this aspect indicates a profound depth of awareness from which you can draw the wisdom to build a constructive philosophy. The same serious mentality which suggests that you have a significant mystical-spiritual potential also indicates an insight into machinery and manufacturing. Of course, as a Heart, your strongest and most fulfilling area is likely to be in people-related activities. If you can discipline your sensually sensitive intellect and talents, you may find a voice for your strong feelings in music, art and drama.

While you may be subject to illnesses which are difficult to analyze, you have an inborn vitality which can help you overcome health problems. Actually those mysterious ailments are usually due to emotional ego frustrations or boredom. Since you are inclined to feel imprisoned by routine and static situations, seek careers and activities which offer a variety of action and people contact. For some ideas in this regard, you share this birthday with early American physician and patriot Dr. Bejamin Rush, Indian scout Kit Carson, Queen Maud of Norway, industrialist-film producer Howard Hughes, film director Michael Curtiz and actresses Ruth Chatterton and Ava Gardner.

As a Romantic idealist, you seek fulfillment in love. Faithful as you may desire to be, marriage may be upset by ripples of discontent nourished by a restless sexual-emotional drive that no one individual can satisfy. In your quest for someone who can live with your romantic eccentricities, you may have better luck with someone born on January 4, 9; February 22, 29; March 5, 20; April 25; May 1, 16; July 3, 12, 19; August 30; September 8, 15; October 26, 30; November 4, 11; Dcember 22, 26, 28.

DECEMBER 25 (2 + 5 = 7) 6♥ SIX OF HEARTS

The charm and affectionate manner suggested by your card is tempered by the somewhat introspective, philosophical you implied in the numerical seven factor of your birthday. Your great desire for love is almost matched by a concern for the well-being of others. You can give serenity to others but an inner restlessness suggests that you are not likely to enjoy very much of it yourself.

The emotional qualities associated with your card are somewhat stabilized by your ruling planet, Saturn. As represented by the Six of Diamonds, this celestial planet implies an inherent sense of responsibility and a reluctance to allow obligations to linger any longer than absolutely necessary. Health-wise, the cards are stacked in your favor, so any problems in this area are more than likely due to a consuming need for people-involvement and the subsequent excesses in food and drink. Sensitive to the needs of others, you are a natural for humanitarian causes, public service organizations and the healing professions.

As a Heart, you are at your best in people-related work and activities but subtle indications suggest a possible aptitude for mathematics, law, writing, even an intuitive mechanical ability. Whatever you choose to do, it will probably involve many changes and travel. For some career possibilities, consider this list of people who share this birthday with you, scientist Isaac Newton, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, religious leader Evangeline Booth, Red Cross founder Clara Barton, writers David Laurence, Robert Ripley and Rod Serling, artist Maurice Utrillo, singers Gladys Swarthout, Tony Martin and Cab Calloway, actor Humphrey Bogart, hotel tycoon Conrad Hilton and Caroline Kennedy.

Identified with the card symbolizing "the law of love," emotional factors are likely to be uppermost in your life. Although your card implies that the marital state is ideal for you, the numerical influence of your birthday suggests problems may arise because your heart rules your head. To minimize the possibility of unwise involvements and to improve your chances for personal happiness, look for someone born on January 5, 12; February 23, 26; March 1, 8; April 22, 26; May 4, 17, 20; June 22, 27, 30; July 13, 16, 20; August 23, 26, 29, 31; September 9, 12, 16, 21; October 22, 25, 27, 31; November 8, 12, 17, 20, 23; December, 21, 23, 27.

DECEMBER 26 (2 + 6 = 8) 5♥ FIVE OF HEARTS

The numerical eight factor of your birthday indicates that there is a sensitive power in the restless charm suggested by your card. That power is likely to be the most apparent in your ability to make friends and win others over to your point of view. If anyone is a natural for public life, you are that special individual.

While your free spirit may be somewhat inhibited by the burdensome influence of Saturn, which is both your planetary and decanate ruler, this practical influence should also help you give substance to your dreams. As represented by the Five of Diamonds, your ruling sphere suggests that a fluctuating financial picture may prove to be one of your greatest challenges. The prime contributor to your material uncertainty may be your own restlessness, which is likely to encourage many changes in work, in relationships, circumstances and extensive travel. Pride in appearance along with an intuitive feel for color and style is likely to keep you among the best dressed.

Unable to tolerate smallness and narrow viewpoints in others, be careful that you do not indulge in these yourself. You will be at your best in some position of authority where you can have others help you realize your many ideas and complete those projects which might be left undone when your short-lived enthusiasm passes. Your cards suggest multiple choice of opportunities. Among the considerations you should keep in mind in selecting a life's work or interest is your need for freedom of action and people-contact. To illustrate some possibilities, you share this birthday with artist George Romney, poet Thomas Gray, Admiral Dewey, Mao tse Tung of the People's Republic of China, actors Richard Widmark and Steve Allen and comedian Alan King.

A natural diplomat, but the emotional instability associated with your card is probably going to require all the diplomacy and practical discipline that you can muster.While an underlying indecisiveness may disturb emotional relationships, a desire for emotional security should encourage faithfulness. The odds might be further improved in relationships with someone born on January 6, 11, 14; February 24; March 2, 7, 10; April 27, 28; May 3, 6, 18; June 23, 24, 29; July 2, 14, 21, 22: August 25; September 10, 17, 18, 23; October 28; November 6, 13, 14, 19; December 24, 28 .

DECEMBER 27 (2 + 7 = 9) 4♥ FOUR OF HEARTS

An intrinsic romantic nature together with a strong streak of practicality is suggested by the merger of your card with your Capricorn birthday. The world, according to your numerological nine birthday, is your stage. So expect your life story to include a large supporting cast and a wide variety of action and settings.

According to the Six of Spaces, representative of Saturn, which is both your planetary and decanate ruler, you are likely to be blessed with good health. The greatest hazard to your well-being may be an inclination to indulge in moods and emotional excesses. The latter may leave you very vulnerable to alcohol and drugs. On the brighter side, this planetary influence also suggests that you are likely to have intuitive insight into people, which could prove to be a wonderful asset both personally and in activities which involve you with the public. If your natural luck ever lets you down, happily, you have a persevering nature to keep you going. A charming diplomat, but it would be a mistake for anyone to think that they can push you around. While you have the attributes to bring you success through public-related enterprises, you might be wise to leave the more mundane details to others. In fact your great sensitivity may, for that reason, prefer more private endeavors such as to be found in research and writing. For some examples, you share this birthday with astronomer Johannes Kepler, researcher Louis Pasteur, dramatist Dion Boucicault, writer Louis Bromfield, actress Marlene Dietrich and pianist Oscar Levant.

As your birthday is identified with the marriage card, the family and home, as well as love, are likely to be especially important to you. Unfortunately, the numerological aspects of your birthday suggest that you may have some difficulty in fulfilling your complex emotional needs. So while your magnetic charms will attract many to you, an instinctive distrust of people will cause you to allow only a few to come close to your heart. Your intense need for love as well as friendship may be more happily fulfilled with someone born on January 1, 7, 12; February 25; March 3, 8,; April 21, 27, 28; May 4, 19; June 24, 25, 30; July 15, 22, 23; August 21, 26; September 11, 18, 19; October 29; November 8, 14, 15, 21; December 25, 29.

DECEMBER 28 (2 + 8 = 10 = 1 + 0 = 1) 3♥ THREE OF HEARTS

Your card suggests an audacious charm which should help you to achieve the leadership status encouraged by the numerological one of your birthday. As fate has a rather full life in store for you, much self-discipline and organization are needed to keep you from losing your opportunities to confusion.

The influence of Saturn, your ruling planet, should be a stabilizing force but, since this celestial planet is represented by the Three of Diamonds, indecisiveness may prove to be a serious problem. This may be especially evident in the management of your resources where confusion in objectives could bring a wide fluctuation in your material circumstances. In your attempt to counter the resulting sense of insecurity, be careful of an inclination to stick to a course of action whether it be right or wrong. Since part of your strength is to be found in a disciplined flexibility, do not allow fixed attitudes to sabotage your progress.

Being an individual who does not appreciate being number two, prepare yourself to occupy first place. Do not be too surprised to find that you have the potential to do this on the stage, in the pulpit or in the political arena. To illustrate, here are some examples of the careers chosen by people who share your birthday: President Woodrow Wilson, religious leader Charles Wesley, astro-physicist Arthur Eddington, educator W.C. Abbott, composer Roger Sessions, humorist Sam Levenson, actress Maggie Smith, actors Cliff Arquette, Lew Ayres and Martin Milner.

Overly serious at times, in a complete turn-about, you can be the life of the party. You are likely to attract all sorts of interesting people which may be a lot of fun, but it might add to your emotional quandaries. Even though your "heart" card implies a great need for affection, someone who can turn on your mind will be equally exciting. Emotional hang-ups and a streak of selfishness may impede your quest for lasting love. Eventually your tendency to flirt and run is likely to be overcome by your need for emotional security. When that time comes, you may find relationships more successful with somone born on January 19, 22; February 20, 26; March 15, 18; April 22, 29, 30; May 11, 14, 20; June 25, 26; July 7, 10, 16, 23, 24; August 22, 27; September 3, 6, 12, 19, 20; October 23, 28, 30; November 2, 8, 15, 16, 21; December 24, 26.

DECEMBER 29 (2 + 9 = 11*) 2♥ TWO OF HEARTS

A compelling desire for peace and harmony is suggested by the great emotional sensitivity of your card. Together with the inspired strength of your master number birthday, it denotes a diplomatic grace which can accomplish wonders in all types of people-related activities. Despite an innate willingness to work hard, your idealistic endeavors may be jeopardized by a self-deprecating modesty.

The emphasis on co-operative endeavors stressed by your card is further accented by the Two of Diamonds which symbolizes both your planetary and decanate ruler, Saturn. Money and material matters may be a source of considerable concern. Extremely conscientious, you may be overly fearful regarding debts and obligations. As your practical nature suggests that you can manage financial and business matters very well, your fears are usually groundless. Fundamentally, a constructive influence in the home, community or church, you are likely to be an inspiration to others. The subtle power suggested by the merger of your gentle card with your master number birthday can bring you to spiritual heights. It can also drop you to the depths of melancholy. "I never knew how to worship until I knew how to love." (Henry Ward Beecher).

Though you may feel an affinity for working for the earth and its products, the curious union of heart and mind implied in your birthday suggests an aptitude for education, religion, government, anything requiring a compassionate perspective. For some illustrations, you share this birthday with President Andrew Jackson, statesman William Gladstone, Madame Pompadour, cellist Pablo Casals, inventor Charles Goodyear, writer Morley Roberts, fighter Jess Willard, aviator Billy Mitchell, actresses Viveca Lindfors and Mary Tyler Moore, and actor Jon Voight.

Essential as love is to your personal fulfillment, do not overlook your need for a companion with whom you can also share your quest for knowledge. You are inclined to do far more than your share in making relationships work but nervous conditions arising from an inclination to repress your emotional desires may take the joy out of love. This may be less likely with someone born on January 1, 3, 9, 14; February 29; March 5, 10; April 25, 30; May 1, 6; June 26; July 2, 19, 24; August 22; September 15, 20; November 11, 16; December 27.

DECEMBER 30 (3 + 0 = 3) A♥ ACE OF HEARTS

The compelling need for self-expression suggested by both your card and the numerological value of your birthday is likely to feed the fires of your ambition. Fortunately, your aspirations are usually supported by a keen, analytical mind and a bright and very optimistic personality.

Saturn, your ruling planet, as symbolized by the Three of Spades, indicates that your ability to do many things well may prove to be a mixed blessing. Making decisions pertaining to work or anything else of consequence may prove to be an almost traumatic experience. This is not likely to be helped by the inner turmoil arising from your many and often conflicting interests, part of you aspiring to be of service, the other reaching for personal gain. In this respect, you may fulfill both needs in occupations which provide services.

Fundamentally, you are generally blessed with a good physique and health. A natural empathy suggests that you may be vulnerable to the problems of others, so you would be wise to choose your associates carefully. In this light, you probably are not suited to the healing professions. Susceptible as you are to moods and wild fantasy trips, the development of a stabilizing philosophy reinforced by a practical education could be essential to your personal happiness and prosperity. The wide variety of possibilities through which you can find success is clearly shown in the following who share this birthday with you: writer Rudyard Kipling, composer Dimitri Kabalevsky, politician Al Smith, capitalist and philanthropist Samuel Guggenheim, television master of ceremonies Bert Parks of Miss America pageant fame, actor Jack Lord and baseball's Sandy Koufax.

Your personable nature is likely to help you fulfill the tremendous need for affection indicated by your card. Difficulties may arise from emotional hang-ups and a suspicious, skeptical attitude which may cause you to doubt love when you find it. A pre-occupation with your own image and the accompanying selfishness are not likely to be of much help in building successful relationships. Anyone who truly wins your confidence will find a loyal friend and lover. In this respect, you may find this easier to accomplish with someone born on January 2, 4, 10, 15, 17; March 6, 11, 13; May 2, 7, 9; June 27; July 3, 5; August 23; September 1, 21; November 17; December 28.

DECEMBER 31 (3 + 1 = 4) THE JOKER

Cardwise, you are the most enigmatic of all, probably as much of a mystery to yourself as you are to others. Innocence and power merge in your card suggesting a tremendous potential for good and evil. The legend of the "TAROT" tells us that you do have a choice. The "Joker" need not be a "fool."

The means to cope with this awesome power is spelled out in the practical influence of your numerological four birthday and your ruling planet, Saturn. This combined with the wisdom associated with your card could help you to avoid the pitfalls suffered by the unenlightened born on this day, who often try to get by through cleverness, hiding their dubious deeds and tactics behind a veil of ambiguity.

Since there are no "life" or "yearly" spreads for the Joker, in a sense, "you make your own rules." As you can function under the Ace of Hearts, or the King of Spades, greater understanding of your possibilities may be gained by analyzing these two cards. An approximate picture of your yearly outlook may also be had by blending their influences in the yearly spreads. With much "self-discipline" you can choose to operate under the best aspects from either spread. Capable of noble leadership, and yet you are not above selfish preoccupation with your own interests. Vacillating between a profound strength and petty weakness may cause a self-depreciating-despair regarding your true identity. With this insight and a positive philosophy, you can translate your unique perspective and inherent gifts into success in a wide range of possibilities. For some examples, you share this birthday with explorer Jacques Cartier, surgeon Andreas Vesalius, Generals Cornwallis and George Marshall. Bonny Prince Charles, artist Henri Matisse, singer Odetta, violinist Nathan Milstein and actress Sarah Miles.

As with everything else, strong likes and dislikes are apt to disturb your love life, leading to sexual repression and grim moods. When secure in love, you can be a warm and imaginative lover. In both love and friendship, sincerity comes high on your list of requirements. In this respect, you might have better luck with someone born on January 2, 4, 5, 6, 10, 15, 18, 19; February 25, 28, 29; March 1, 2, 4, 6, 11, 13; April 21, 24, 25; May 2, 7, 9, 19, 22; June 21, 27, 28, 29; July 3, 5, 18, 19; August 23, 24, 25; September 1, 11, 14, 15, 21, 22, 23; October 31; November 7, 10, 11, 17, 18, 19; December 27, 28, 29.

SECTION III — You, Your Life and Your Card

Symbolically, the card that represents your birthday, is you. It depicts your basic attributes and perspective on life.

The story of you and your life is further told by the seven cards which make up your basic Life Spread. On the Life Spread, these cards proceed from right to left of your card and down, as shown in Fig. 5. In the example, our subject's April 14th birthday is identified with the Seven of Diamonds. Notice that each card that makes up his Life Spread is associated with a planet, and that they proceed away from our subject's card, the Seven of Diamonds, as the planets relate to the Sun, Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune.

As well as showing additional characteristics, these seven cards also suggest influences which may prevail at different times in your life. For example, the first card to the left of our subject's card, the Five of Spades in the Mercury position, along with the second or Venus card, the Jack of Hearts, symbolize the complexion of the early part of his life. In a progressive sense, the influence of the Nine of Clubs in Mars, the Nine of Spades in Jupiter and the Two of Hearts in Saturn, will apply more significantly to the middle years, and the King of Hearts and King of Diamonds in Uranus and Neptune to the latter part of life.

As you read the interpretations of your card and the cards which portray your life, try to extract the essence which may most closely apply to you. In doing so, you may find this knowledge a helpful tool in gaining a greater understanding of yourself, loved ones, friends and even enemies.

To find the story of your life, locate the card which represents your birthday. The cards have been listed in numerical sequence, beginning with the Aces.

♥ ♣ Aces ♦ ♠

"All human activity is prompted by desire."* Desire, self, and the great need to express that self is the quality which the Aces bring to the language of the cards. This motivation not only supplies the incentive to "Dream the impossible dream," but also the incentive to make it a reality. As a rule, those identified with the Aces correspond to the number one, which suggests a strong sense of independence, a desire to excel and to lead. So, even though the Ace may be considered the lowest number in the cards, according to the record the force of ambition embodied in this symbol can bring those identified with the Aces to the greatest heights.

Although not necessarily selfish, because of a compelling urge for freedom of action, and a preoccupation with thoughts and efforts to establish their own identity, Aces often appear to be selfish and self-centered. The prime challenge for all identified with the Aces is not to let their drive for achievement and recognition become an obsession, causing them to lose everything else in the quest of their own "self-expression."

The direction which your particular desire will take you is further delineated by your suit. In a capsule view, the four suits modify your aspirations as follows:

Ace of Hearts	Love and emotional expression are emphasized as motivating factors. Concerns relating to ego may be a hazard.
Ace of Clubs	Curiosity, the desire to know is symbolized here. Inquisitiveness may encourage meddlesome snooping.
Ace of Diamonds	The desire for money and prestige is likely to nurture ambition. The quest for power can be overwhelming.
Ace of Spades	The desire for productive expression and higher or spiritual wisdom. Inclined to be secretive and involved in activities of a clandestine nature.

* Bertrand Russell

A♥ ACE OF HEARTS

Emotional considerations, "the desire for love" are the prime motivating factors symbolized in your card. Behind your bold facade hides an extremely sensitive individual. Happily, you have the stabilizing influence of Saturn, your planetary ruler to help you constructively apply this emotional power. Although the Uranus placement of your card in the Jupiter line may encourage an interest in philosophy and metaphysics, the displaced Ace of Diamonds implies a strong need for material success. Ambition is underscored by this combination of Aces, which could supply you with the motivation to achieve considerable success. You can give excellent leadership and counsel. Don't spoil it by indulging in a preoccupation with self and dictatorial attitudes. "There are glimpses of heaven to us in every act, or thought, or word, that raises us above ourselves." (Arthur P. Stanley)

A♦

That you desire more than love is evidenced by the Ace of Diamonds in the Mercury position of your Life Spread. A need for expression is likely to have made itself felt early in your life, motivating you to get out into the world to seek your place in the sun. For a starter, it should serve you well by stimulating you into action. It may also cause you to place too great an importance on money and prestige. Combined with the influence of Mercury, it may encourage impatience and involvement in get-rich-quick schemes. In all probability, you will make that fortune, but you will probably have to work very hard for it.

Q♦

The Queen of Diamonds in the Venus portion of your Life Spread does nothing to minimize your appreciation of the finer things of life. Merged with the sensual influence of Venus, it suggests that it is very important to you that your home and personal life reflect an aura of luxury. As this can all too easily be a symbol of extravagance, watch that your life style doesn't exceed your budget. You seem to gravitate to strong, dominant women, only to shy away from them when they threaten your own identity. If your gender is "male chauvinist," you prefer a woman who can contribute materially to your home scene.

Fickle? Well maybe not, but the Five of Hearts, symbol of emotional restlessness, in Mars, suggests appearances to the contrary. Marriages, relationships, even work may be jeopardized by the instability implied here. Male acquaintances are likely to prove both a source of stimulus and irritation. While life will hold much travel and moving about, you might minimize the restless urge by channeling your energies into occupations and activities, which will provide you with the opportunity for a variety of contacts and experiences.

Personality plus is suggested by the Jupiter placement of the Three of Clubs. This should be one of your prime assets, not only in making conquests socially but winning contacts in business. As a sort of magnet, it may also attract all kinds of opportunities, which could compound your inherent indecisiveness. Yielding to your Capricorn nature, you may seek security through occupations that appeal to your more practical instincts. But there is an aspect in your makeup which seeks the excitement of speculative ventures and the ego rewards of being in the limelight. Discipline the keen, versatile mind indicated by this card and the auspicious influence of Jupiter should assist you in profitably exploiting your mental resources.

3♠

What to do? The Three of Spades combined with the testing influence of Saturn in your Life Spread tends to emphasize the indecisive quality reflected above in the Three of Clubs. In this case, the Spade suit points to the probability that your quandaries will largely pertain to choice of work and interests. Inclined to be extremely impressionable, it is most important that you find a living and work environment that encourages a positive outlook. Occupations dealing with illness and sorrow may be too much for your empathetic nature. So while you may not be particularly suited for surgical or medical careers, others may benefit from your mental healing force. While you can fool others with that bright, confident face, don't deceive yourself in matters of health. Due to your great sensitivity, this is one area not to be taken for granted.

9♥

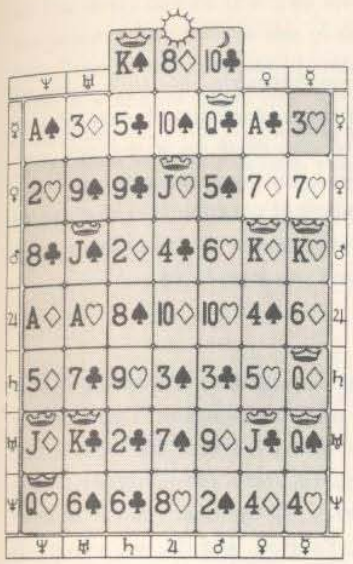

The natural charm symbolized by the Nine of Hearts in Uranus also represents what may prove to be one of your principle challenges. The universal love portrayed in this card may lead to emotional excesses, which can bring disappointment after disappointment in love, marriage and with people in general. If you are not careful your fine reasoning powers may be clouded by negative emotional attitudes. This influence encourages grandiose schemes, egocentric notions and romantic involvements which are likely to be far more expensive than they are worth. If you really want lasting relationships, you will have to get your emotional discontent well under control. Demonstrate the compassionate understanding also represented in this card, and you will find that it can also symbolize fulfillment, especially through service oriented occupations and charity organizations.

Combined with the idealism of Neptune, the inspirational attributes of the Seven of Clubs may encourage you to aspire to profound awareness. But a skeptical streak is also implied in this card, which, merged with the illusionary influence of Neptune may tempt you to dissipate your mental energies in nebulous ideas and worrisome mental attitudes. While this influence applies particularly to the latter part of your life, the inclination to confusion and disturbed thinking may be a hazard throughout your life. If you are to minimize this danger and make the most of your sensitive intellectual potential, education and the development of a positive philosophy are imperative.

The best way to keep your friends is
Not to give them away.
Wilson Mizner

A ♣ ACE OF CLUBS

If anyone should be in the know — you should! After all your card suggests that your prime motivating force is "the desire for knowledge." Curious about people and life, not much escapes your attention. While this could make you a busy-body, it can also help you to be among the best informed. Since your card in the Life Spread displaces a Two of Hearts in the Perfect Spread, your pursuit of knowledge is a quest that you will want to share. "Knowledge is the eye of desire and can become pilot of the soul." (Will Durant)

Q ♣

A woman, probably your mother, is indicated by the Queen of Clubs in Mercury, as the principle influence in your childhood. Though a stimulating influence, her dominant nature along with your overwhelming desire for self-expression, probably prodded you out of the nest at an early age in the quest of your own identity. A quick and sensitive mind is also suggested by this card. Particularly in your youth, this sensitivity may have manifested as a somewhat argumentative nature. Positive and aggressive, you are not likely to get lost in any monotonous rut.

That your ambitious drive can bring great rewards is pointed out by the Ten of Spades. Since this symbol of success occurs in the Venus portion of your Life Spread, work interests pertaining to the home, to women and to the arts can be especially fortunate. Actually, you are apt to be happiest in careers and activities which involve contact with the public, particularly the fairer sex. Though the aura of success associated with this card can bring its benefits to and through marriage, you may have to watch that personal and career interests do not become competitive. In work and pleasure, you are inclined to think big. And in either case, be it a large project or big parties, you are apt to be successful.

An innate restlessness is indicated by the Five of Clubs in Mars. The combination of this energetic and warlike planet with this card suggests that the desire for change can become a source of discontent, making it difficult for you to settle down in any one place for long. While this is apt to keep you from going stale, it will also contribute to your underlying sense of uncertainty. On the bright side, this influence suggests a great flexibility in your thinking that helps you to be receptive and adaptable to new ideas. Since you feed on changes, travel and a variety of experiences, don't become a prisoner of your household tasks or chained to a desk.

According to the Three of Diamonds in Jupiter, your fluctuating life style is apt to bring some problems to your financial picture. Actually the auspicious influence of this planetary position tends to minimize the negatives. Possibly too much so, in that you may become too casual regarding money and other obligations. But even through your lean periods, you should feel a sense of protection. Another source of uncertainty is likely to be due to your many interests and versatility. Perhaps the only answer to this problem is to become so super-organized that you can do all the things that you want to do.

Though you are inclined to be preoccupied with matters mundane, the Ace of Spades in Saturn suggests that your "desire to know" extends to the spiritual realms. This yearning may sufficiently motivate you to tap the mystical vision associated with this card. If not metaphysical, this influence will probably stimulate you to probe the mysteries of life through science and medicine. Regarding the latter, you may just find that you can be even more effective through the practice of spiritual healing. Religion, and the serious view it presents on life, may seem oppressive and restrictive, but you are as well equipped as anyone to use this medium to seek and find answers that can benefit both yourself and others.

A magnetic charm is suggested by the Seven of Hearts in the Uranus position of your Life Spread. While this should prove to be quite an asset in your public life, in your personal life it is all too likely to be another story. If you are going to minimize the possible disappointments implied in this card, you will need to practice much discrimination in your choice of lovers and friends. Jealousy, not only romantically, but also in other associations can prove to be a real hazard. It would be wise to be somewhat self-protective, as others may fail to give you the recognition of your efforts and abilities that you deserve. You also will have to guard against going off on negative emotional tangents. Fortunately, with the passing years, your natural curiosity is apt to lead you to an interest in psychology and metaphysics. Here you may find a philosophy that will help you to constructively apply the emotional energies represented in this card. With your enlightened understanding, you can help others see the truth.

The idealism of Neptune combined with the questionable material influence of the Seven of Diamonds point out the probability of challenges in monetary matters. It suggests that in your attempts to achieve some of your far-out schemes, you may neglect to lay the necessary groundwork. Nebulous attitudes regarding money, especially financial arrangements with friends and partners, can prove costly. Travel and distant interests are other areas in which you would be wise to practice a little extra caution. Otherwise, you are all too likely to find that you are paying too much for everything, or that these endeavors are too expensive. Since this planetary influence particularly applies to the complexion of your later years, it would be wise to have money matters well under control prior to this time. If you have based your life on self-interest and material values, this may be a time of disappointment. But if you have learned to apply the mystical philosophy associated with the number seven of this card, you should find this a time of increased spiritual awareness.

A♦ ACE OF DIAMONDS

"Ambition is so powerful a passion in the human breast, that however high we reach we are never satisfied."* The aspirations associated with your diamond card are likely to be measured in prestige gained through financial and material achievements. Positively applied, the drive for self-fulfillment symbolized in your card can supply you with the incentive to live a most productive life. In your eagerness to prove yourself, watch that your ambition doesn't deteriorate into an obsessive, unprincipled drive for power. "No bird soars too high, if he soars on his own wings."†

As a Diamond, material considerations are apt to be uppermost, but a tremendous craving for love may at times seem to compete with your other aspirations. With your entire Life Spread in the Saturn Line, "nothing is for free." So it's extremely important that you realize that this karmic influence emphasizes the necessity of investing your energies, efforts, even your emotional expression, wisely, if you are to truly reap both personal happiness and material success.

Q♦

The probability of your earlier years being significantly influenced by a dominant woman, probably your mother, is suggested by the Queen of Diamonds in the Mercury segment of your Life Spread. This card also implies that she, along with other early experiences, are likely to leave a lasting impression of the importance of material values. Bright and clever, you may have to learn that "cleverness is not wisdom,"+ so resist the temptation to get by on your wits. If you don't, you may fail to acquire the good study habits and the necessary discipline needed to achieve your lofty objectives.

5♥

A changeable emotional nature is pointed out by the Five of Hearts in Venus, suggesting a lifetime of changes, travel, separations and uncertainty in your people involvments. While this influence suggests many social and romantic opportunities, you may have to watch that this does not encourage an inherent emotional instability. Occupations and other interests are likely to keep you on the go. While this should appeal to your love of variety and free spirit, it is not likely to contribute much toward creating stable domestic situations. If you are to build lasting relationships, which will fulfill your great need for emotional stability, you will first have to master your restless heart.

* Niccolo Machiavelli † William Blake + Euripides

Indecision as to purpose and objectives is suggested by the Three of Clubs in Mars. Confusion may be a very real threat to the vital drive suggested by this planetary influence causing opportunities to be lost due to an inability to think clearly, or to make decisions under pressure. Focus and concentration appear to be most important key words toward your success. Partnerships, especially with men and overly aggressive females may be a source of quandaries. As this dubious influence is also apt to touch your legal interests, exercise much caution in all arrangements, agreements and dealings with the law. Do not let impatience or recklessness allow you to sign away your fortune.

3♠

Due to the Three of Spades in Jupiter, the above indecisiveness is likely to include your work efforts, resulting in lingering questions as to whether you have chosen the right career or work procedures. Apart from the bright personality suggested by this "double three" influence, it also suggests that you may have exceptional ability in the expression of ideas through writing, publishing and theatrical endeavors. In your great need to feed your ego, guard against aspiring for objectives which you really do not want, as lack of enthusiasm for these ventures may interfere with your achieving the success you so dearly desire. You are naturally lucky, but karmic influences modifying this card suggest that you must not push it too far.

9♥

The emotional quality of the Nine of Hearts in Saturn belies the material orientation implied by your Diamond card. This card suggests a warm, winning charm with a "universal appeal" which could prove a most valuable asset in occupations and interests which bring you before the public. Unfortunately, it also suggests that your more intimate involvements are likely to be challenging and all too often a source of grief and disappointment. Emotionally seated frustrations may actually be the underlying factors in some of your health problems. Romantic quandaries are apt to be fed by your possessive jealousy in a head-on conflict with your urge for personal freedom. Another source of irritation in relationships is an inclination to vacillate between extreme generosity and penuriousness. At times your need for love may be so great that you will momentarily even give up your constant quest for money, fame and success — but not for long!

7♣

The mystical influence of the Seven of Clubs in Uranus suggests a possible spiritual mellowing with maturity. Even at this time, you are likely to insist that your religious expression conform to your mundane perspective. Though you are apt to experiment with various metaphysical-philosophical concepts, a lack of faith in the unseen is apt to minimize your spiritual quest. While the inspirational possibilities suggested by this card and planet can be a source of profound wisdom, its benefits may be jeopardized by a tendency to indulge in needless worry, and in conscious projections of hostility, which gain you nothing but antagonism. As with all the "sevens" access to the power they represent requires discipline. In this case, it's "mental discipline."

The probability of a great deal of travel is underscored by the Five of Diamonds in Neptune. This card accentuates the restlessness which is likely to prevail all through your life. As this planetary influence particularly pertains to the complexion of your latter years, this urge to be on the move is not likely to diminish with the years. While travel and those far away places may ever entice you, due to the somewhat nebulous illusionary influence of Neptune, take heed that these journeys and distant interests do not become excessively expensive or a source of loss. Retire, perhaps, but do not become inactive. You are always likely to find something to intrigue your interest, so even those golden years are likely to bring new adventures.

I conceive that the great part of the miseries of mankind
Are brought upon them by false estimates
They have made of the value of things.

Benjamin Franklin

A♠ ACE OF SPADES

Embodied in your card, which traditionally has been identified as a symbol of death, is also the key to "the mystery of life." Unfortunately, for the majority of those who are identified with this card, the mystical meaning of this symbol is lost. If you belong to this category, this card becomes a symbol of labor, and all too often you try to solve all your problems by the sweat of your brow or through questionable schemes. But, as you read these lines, realize that your card is also a symbol of spiritual wisdom. Since the life pattern portrayed in your card is not a particularly easy one, keep this in mind. It may help you cope with and transcend the many challenges which appear to be part of your destiny. The temptation to indulge in bitter despair may be a real hazard. Remember, from the metaphysician's viewpoint, despair and inspiration are often considered to be a step apart. Discipline and vision are essential key words toward the overcoming of your problems. In the process, you may also become a source of inspiration to others.

Due to the Seven of Hearts in the first or Mercury position of your Life Spread, relationships are apt to be a source of significant challenges. Since this card is the principle indicator of the complexion of your earlier years, the meaning of this challenge may have become evident early in life. A mixed blessing, this card implies a magnetic charm, which is likely to attract all sorts of people to you. While this can be a plus factor in social activities or in careers involving public contact, it is also likely to bring some dubious associates. Since it does imply an inclination to become involved in negative emotional experiences, you are apt to experience more than your share of jealousy and broken relationships. Much of this may be due to lack of discrimination; so, in love and friendship, don't trust to luck.

Luxurious tastes in your personal life style are suggested by the Seven of Diamonds, your Venus card in your Life Spread. This is one area where your heart is inclined to rule your pocketbook with expensive consequences. In all probability your loved ones, friends, and also your pursuit of pleasure, will make a big dent in your wallet. Happiness in personal relationships is not denied you, but it will probably require the application of much patience and wisdom. Most importantly, you must overcome a preoccupation with self-interests, which can isolate you from the love you so desperately need.

The restless influence of the Five of Spades occupies the Mars position. This symbol of change and action will probably stir up activity in all areas of your life. While it can bring productive changes, since it may also encourage erratic behavior, it can also be a disturbing influence in marriage and close relationships. Since this planetary influence is associated with masculinity, you may find a greater stimulus in work and activities involving men. Athletic endeavors as well as work should benefit from the vitality represented here. In choosing a livelihood, happiness is most likely to be found in occupations and interests which will provide you with a variety of action and the opportunity to move about and travel. A hard worker, try to be flexible enough so when there is a better way of doing things, you will be able to recognize it.

Intense emotional power is suggested by the Jack of Hearts in Jupiter. While your strong feelings can be a source of pain, symbolically, this card (sometimes called "the Christ card") suggests that in directing these emotional energies into humanitarian efforts, you may find this symbol of fulfillment. Due to its association with the auspicious influence of Jupiter, you may find the quality of "sacrifice through love" represented by this card, the key to spiritual power symbolized in your card — the Ace of Spades. Throughout your life, many are likely to call upon you for help. In meeting their needs you may find your true and greater self.

Combined with the planetary influence of Saturn, the Nine of Clubs can represent a significant challenge. Discipline is extremely important if you are to tap the brainpower symbolized in this high mental card. As this card indicates an inclination toward mental laziness, this great opportunity may be lost through negativity. The tremendous intellectual potential hidden in this card will probably require some sort of educational or self-improvement program. While you may find study and the learning process difficult, you are likely to retain and make good use of the knowledge and experience you acquire.

Another nine, the Nine of Spades occupies the Uranus segment of your Life Spread. Symbolically, nines represent completion and fulfillment or disappointment. With the double nine influence in your Life Spread, this possibility is apt to be multiplied. Although this suggests that you are likely to be confronted with significant challenges, translating them into opportunities can lead to substantial achievements. In this regard, perseverance is essential to any success that you may realize. Both in social groups and work, you may find a lack of recognition for your abilities and efforts. Don't allow this to cause you to withdraw into your own lonely world. Combined with the unusual influence of Uranus, this high spade card suggests that you have the potential spiritual insight to get on top of your mundane disappointments. This combination of influences suggests you should apply much caution to all speculation activity pertaining to real estate or products of the earth.

The Two of Hearts combined with the nebulous, but idealistic quality of Neptune, suggests that some of your difficulties in relationships may be due to a vagueness, which opens the doors to misunderstandings. Inherently secretive, do not assume that others understand what your intentions are. Learn to communicate your thoughts, even your love and you should find the rewarding companionship you seek. Though at times, you play the part of a loner, it is not your natural role. With this card of love governing your latter years, your golden years, particularly through sharing a spiritual and intellectual quest with others, should bring you stimulating companionship.

No man that does not see visions will ever realize any high hope or undertake any high enterprise.

♥ ♣ 2 ♦ ♠

The most obvious meaning of this number is that it usually involves more than one person or thing. It usually implies a combining of efforts into some sort of partnership or cooperative endeavor. As a rule it implies gain through sharing or joining forces with someone else. If your birthday identifies you with this number, you're apt to feel incomplete without someone else to share your love, ideas, wealth or labor. Symbolically, your prime challenge is "fear." If it becomes an obsession, it can deteriorate into a hostility that can make cooperation difficult, if not impossible.

Add the influence of the four suits, and in brief you get the following picture:

Two of Hearts — The joining of two or more in an expression of love and friendship. May have a tendency to be overly dependent.

Two of Clubs — The sharing of knowledge and intellectual efforts. Quick mind, which may be somewhat argumentative.

Two of Diamonds — The combining of material and financial efforts. Can represent fearfulness regarding money and security. Inclined to selfishness.

Two of Spades — Cooperation in work, partnerships. Negatively expressed, this card can lead to a lack of cooperation, quitting or being fired from a job.

2♥ TWO OF HEARTS

Love, especially when used as a force of union and cooperation, can be both your greatest strength and challenge. In your super-sensitive awareness of the needs of others, and your ability to combine your energies with theirs to fulfill that need, it becomes a power of love. When this same super-sensitive emotional quality combines with the element of fear hidden in the number two, it becomes a challenge that may cause you to compromise yourself for security's sake. Throughout your life, you may be plagued by a conflict between your fine mind and a compelling need for emotional security. Your prime motivating forces are a great curiosity about life and the desire for knowledge. With this in mind, you are apt to be happiest in activities which will allow you to provide yourself with the opportunity to share this growth and wisdom with others. Of all, those born on your day have the greatest need for someone else; you just were not cut out to be a loner. Attempting to fulfill this need, your practical nature may fail you, leaving you to suffer the consequences of your idealistic romantic fantasies. Vulnerable to melancholy, a spiritual philosophy may be your greatest tool in maintaining a positive outlook.

K♥

Your overwhelming need for love is indicated by the King of Hearts, which is the first card in the Mercury position of your Life Spread. It also suggests that an older man, probably your father, as the dominant influence in your earlier years. While there may have been an undercurrent of sadness, your childhood may have found you surrounded with an aura of love. A quality which is likely to persist throughout most of your life, attracting friends and admirers wherever you go. This influence also suggests that when you occupy positions of authority, you rule with love.

K♦

Another King symbolizes the Venus portion of your Life Spread. This combination of Kings, gives you a strength, which helps to minimize the somewhat reticent, dependent nature implied in your card. Modest as you are inclined to be, this influence certainly indicates that you are capable of giving understanding leadership. If your gender is feminine, there is a strong probability that you will choose an older man for marriage. Whatever your gender, your keen material sense will be most evident in your personal life, in your practical choice of clothing and comfortable but not ostentatious home. Whether it be your living situation or your material treasures, your greatest pleasure comes from sharing them with others.

A somewhat passive nature is suggested by the Six of Hearts, your Mars card. Peace and serenity are so important that you are apt to go to great lengths to keep harmony in marriage and other relationships. Where others may thrive on excitement, travel and changes, you are inclined to become exhausted by them. Your idea of pleasure is more likely to be found in sharing an intimate evening with friends with whom you can share common interests. For this reason, you are likely to seek a way of life whose very stability and static quality may appear monotonous to those inclined otherwise. Marriage is especially important to you, so even when it fails to live up to your idealistic concept of what it should be, you will probably stick with it. Slow to commit your heart, but when you do, you are inclined to have long-lasting marriages and to be a most faithful friend.

The stable, serene way of life promised above is underscored by the Four of Clubs. Even though your natural disposition is opposed to change, if you can see an advantage to making them, your practical attitude will not let sentimentality stand in the way. Conservative, but your friendly manner should bring you many friends and success in social groups. The positive and constructive qualities projected by this card are enhanced by the auspicious influence of Jupiter. These benefits should be especially evident in expansive mental activity. As a Heart person, whether it be a quest for knowledge, or work, you are happiest when you can share with others.

Under the somewhat dubious influence of Saturn, you have the Two of Diamonds. Unfortunately, the placement of this card in this position will encourage the fear aspect shown in your birthday card. In this case, your fears are likely to pertain to financial matters. Actually the material protection implied in your Life Spread suggests that your fears are mostly groundless. Yet, anxiety regarding money and obligations can be most disturbing, upsetting your otherwise serene attitude. As your health depends so very much on your state of mind, guard against going into emotional tailspins when things go wrong. A counter measure would be to develop a strong faith and a positive philosophy to protect you from the vicissitudes of life.

With the Jack of Spades setting the tone of the Uranus influence in your life, no one can complain about you not doing your share of work or anything else. No matter how you may feel, a dedication to duty causes you to pitch in and do whatever has to be done. All too often this means that you end up by carrying more than your share of the load. In your desire to get the job done, watch that you don't choose to do it the hard way. Creativity and spiritual power are attributes suggested by this card. If you can overcome your fear of the unknown and not be deterred by your practical skepticism, probing the secrets of higher wisdom symbolized here could be spiritually rewarding. Mundanely, this influence indicates benefits in working with the land through farming, mining and real estate. You may also find that your intuitive insight can solve problems in science.

Fortunate you are to have the Eight of Clubs occupying the Neptune position of your Life Spread. Indicating the quality of your latter years, this powerful symbol of the mind minimizes the possibility of senility. Not only are you likely to be mentally alert to the end, but you will find renewed interest in these latter years in pursuing your understanding of life through religion, philosophy and metaphysics. Eights symbolize the power to overcome. In your case that power is to be found through the mind tempered by a compassionate heart. Not only is this power available to you in your golden years, but throughout your life. Combine this intellectual strength with the spiritual power shown above in the Jack of Spades and the love quality reflected in your card, and you can be a significant healing force for all who know you.

2♣ TWO OF CLUBS

"Cooperation" in the quest and in the expression of knowledge is the literal translation of your card. Yet, though you recognize the value of sharing, an aggressive, somewhat egotistical facade may isolate you from the very companionship you crave. A brilliant mind supports your quick and talented tongue, suggesting that you can more than hold your own in any debate or exchange of wit. Unfortunately, hidden by your bright, personable manner is a subtle fear that can cause you to abuse your verbal powers through sarcasm and impulsive arguments. You have such a tremendous potential in talent, intellect and luck, but negativity, possibly rooted in some unhappy experience from your past could surface in suspicious attitudes and temperament minimizing the potential for joy and success shown in your cards. Know yourself and channel this mental energy and you should find a dynamic force that can help you to achieve anything to which you might aspire.

K♣

As well as indicating the probability of a significant influence from a wise father or teacher in your earlier years, the King of Clubs in Mercury highlights your mental potential. While it implies all sorts of wonderful possibilities, among them being the brightest, most intelligent kid in school, it also poses some serious problems. It may incline you to be somewhat willful, domineering, insistent that everything be done your way. You may have to learn to resist the temptation to get by on your wits and accept the responsibility embodied in this royal card. With maturity, this influence implies the opportunity to demonstrate your leadership qualities, suggesting that you can excel in almost anything you try to do.

J♦

The probability of artistic or dramatic talent is implied by the Jack of Diamonds in the Venus segment of your life spread. This symbol of creativity, combined with the planet of love adds its youthful impact to your relationships. It suggests an exuberance which could be quite an asset personally and especially in careers dealing with the public. Don't allow the streak of immaturity also associated with this card spoil your grandiose schemes through irresponsibility and erratic behavior. Combined with Venus, this influence suggests a great deal of romantic action, with a strong possibility of multiple marriages and involvements with bizarre overtones. So much so, that you may have to guard against accepting emotional instability as a natural way of life.

4♥

With the emotional Four of Hearts combined with the vital influence of Mars, you are likely to thrive on hard work and activities which involve people contact. As this can get out of hand, your social and romantic activities could create problems on the job scene. Due to the Mars placement of this card, you generally relate more happily to men. Women who are active and productively inclined are also likely to seem more attractive to you. Having this symbol of love under the influence of the red planet, you could find a great deal of stimulus from love and marriage. But, keep in mind, Mars to the ancients symbolized war. So guard against an inclination to friction in your relationships.

4♦

The fortunate material, monetary influence associated with the Four of Diamonds is amplified by its location in Jupiter. With this card so auspiciously placed, you have got the cards stacked in your favor to achieve exceptional success and to be well rewarded materially. So your cries of "poverty" are most likely to be groundless or based on your inherent fear. This can be the prime obstacle, as it may cause you to minimize your abilities and fail to reach out for the many opportunities within your reach. So there is a very real danger of your projecting a negative image, which could cancel out the wonderful possibilities represented here. The development of a very practical and responsible economic awareness is essential, if you are to enjoy the good fortune shown as part of your destiny. If you have not put it together before the middle years of your life, this influence suggests that you will have at least a second chance.

2♠

That "fear" tends to be your greatest hazard is emphasized by the Saturn placement of the Two of Spades. Combined with this planet, the fears suggested here are likely to pertain to your health. Hypochondria can become a serious threat in that health problems may arise from your concern and the resulting negativity. Hidden in this very same card is a subtle spiritual potential so great, that it may not only hold the secret to overcoming your own problems but also those of others. In other words, this card suggests that you have a great spiritual healing potential.

The power to overcome all problems is further accented by the Eight of Hearts in Uranus. The tremendous magnetism suggested by this influence should be a particularly effective asset in careers which bring you before the public. If you ever have any difficulty in love and friendship, it will probably be due to your overlooking the "power of Love" symbolized in this card. If you will but remember to use this attribute, you should be able to charm lovers, friends or audiences. The Uranus placement of this card encourages group involvements, especially those interested in the study of metaphysics and spiritual philosophies. Through the insight that you can acquire in this effort, you should be able to find the key to overcome your fears and destructive negativity. Then you should be able to realize the greatness that can be yours.

Intuition is suggested by the Six of Clubs, which represents the Neptune influence in your Life Spread. Only your "fear of the unknown" may keep you from using this door to higher awareness. Since this card also represents the complexion of your latter years, you may find that after a lifetime of considerable activity, these years may appear comparatively quiet. While this will not be a time in which to try and "set the world on fire," it can be a time to enjoy a more serene way of life. A time for hobbies and pleasant recreation. Since mental qualities are accented in this influence, you may find this time especially rewarding in the pursuit of wisdom.

2♦ TWO OF DIAMONDS

As with all whose birthdays identify them with the number two, cooperative activities are especially important to you. So it is essential that you seek a way of life that involves you with others. For that truly complete feeling, marriage, or some close relationship is almost a prerequisite. If it brings you that much needed companionship, almost any sacrifice is worth it.

The Diamond suit adds the element of values, so you are apt to be very concerned about money and material considerations. Actually, since you have one of the more fortunate life patterns much of your concern and fear is unwarranted. If this doesn't appear to be true, you had better check to see whether indulgence in fear and an inability to cooperate are minimizing the good fortune that you could gain through sharing with others.

An independent streak is indicated by the Jack of Spades, which is the first card in your basic Life Spread, the Mercury position. Since this planetary influence particularly applies to your youth, this card suggests a rebellious quality, which may supply the impetus to break away from your childhood home at an early age. Fortunately this adventurous force usually gives you enough self-confidence to get you off on your own. Since this card is a symbol of creativity, you should check for talent in painting, composing and writing. There is also a nice theatrical flair suggested here. While the element of aggressiveness implied here should help you make your own way, don't let it deteriorate into hostility and a quick temper.

A good education is most important, if you are to make the most of the excellent mental potential suggested by the Eight of Clubs in Venus. This card also implies a rather fixed nature, which from time to time manifests as plain old stubbornness. Emotionally and socially restless, you are likely to travel far and wide in the quest of romantic action. You should especially enjoy social activity and contacts that are mentally stimulating. You have much to contribute in the way of leadership and organizational skills to civic groups and clubs. Both in love and work, fear of change is likely to cause you to stick with difficult relationships and situations.

The Six of Diamonds in the Mars position of your Life Spread suggests a certain degree of protection in material matters. But since this card symbolizes the "Karma of Values," or in other words, "what you sow, you reap," you would be wise to develop a practical sense of values. This could do much to minimize your inherent fears pertaining to money and obligations. Probably no one suffers any more than you, when finances are lean and debts pile up. If it weren't for your rugged constitution, you might suffer nervous breakdowns from worry. While Mars is considered to be an energetic influence, the inertial quality represented in this card could do much to counter your drive, causing you to lose opportunities through procrastination.

One of the primary reasons for considering yours to be one of the more favorable Life Spreads is the Four of Spades in Jupiter. The positive work quality associated with this card is amplified by this auspicious planetary influence. True, the good fortune represented in this card does depend largely on your willingness to work. But, if you are willing to accept this responsibility, there is no reason why you should not find it enjoyable as well as rewarding work. The solid, practical influence of this card suggests that you are likely to find stable, established types of businesses the most satisfying. As a rule, in spite of your restless spirit, speculative ventures and uncertain life styles are not for you.

You have a people-vitality suggested by the Ten of Hearts in Saturn, which should prove to be an asset in several ways. It implies a beguiling charm which should win you many friends and admirers. It also indicates the probability of good health and if you should become sick, excellent recuperative powers. When problems arise, you should have no difficulty in finding a helping hand. Remember that while this influence symbolizes "success in people-related activities," due to Saturn, it is particularly important that you accept the responsibility of your power to charm which will attract many friends.

With the Ten of Diamonds in Uranus, material abundance and success are strong probabilities. So if you haven't realized the good fortune associated with your life pattern in your younger years, this influence suggests that you are more apt to in your middle years. This influence also points out the possible benefits to be gained through dealing with products of the land, such as farming, mining and real estate. Scientific research, especially that related to the space age and television in front or behind the camera should also hold a special affinity for you. A displaced Queen of Clubs suggests that some type of public service could also prove fruitful. You can even turn your interests in religion and the occult into profit. In group or partnership endeavors, guard against indulging in jealousy.

The Eight of Spades, which represents the quality of Neptune in your Life Spread, suggests that you should keep going strong right up to the end. With this vital force governing the latter years, you should be able to overcome most health problems. In this respect, both at this time and throughout your life, you may have to watch a tendency to take things for granted, which may cause you to ignore problems until too late. You are a natural for positions of authority and management. And this influence suggests that those golden years may see you tackling new projects in which you can demonstrate this ability. In work, as well as in your personal life, stress clarity in communication. Emotional attitudes combined with an inability to express your true feelings are likely to contribute to misunderstandings. Skip the early retirement plans, as you are likely to be happier if you can remain active. If you do, you might just find this time of your life the most fulfilling of all.

2♠ TWO OF SPADES

Independent as you may be, as a two your well-being and fulfillment is really related to your ability to build through joining forces with others. And since you are identified with the Spade suit, you are more than likely to realize these benefits through sharing work efforts and your spiritual quest. It may be easy to recognize the advantages of sharing in the realm of work, but you may not be aware of the mystical overtones also associated with your card. So if you are tempted to be a loner, learning to work with others and sharing a quest for higher wisdom can be a real challenge. But remember, if you are honest with yourself, as a Two of Spades you will appreciate the fact that you need other people, and that your greatest gain is apt to come from cooperative endeavors. The prime obstacle to uncovering the spiritual power associated with your card is a fear of the unknown. Overcome this fear and the earthbound perspective of the spade suit, and you should find that you have embodied in your cards the key to a tremendous potential both mundane and sublime.

Your life pattern gets a positive send-off from the Eight of Hearts. Apart from indicating an active social picture in your youth, this card also suggests emotional power and charm to attract all sorts of emotional experiences. This could be a mixed blessing, attracting as many heartaches, disappointments and problems as fulfilling love. This influence also implies a self-insistent stubbornness, which may be a source of difficulty in close relationships. A degree of superficiality in romantic activity is suggested by the Mercury placement of this card. To truly turn the quality reflected in this card into an asset, combine the communicative attributes associated with Mercury with the "power of charm" symbolized in this card and you should find an entree to all the love and friendship you could desire.

6♣

With the Venus position of your Life Spread occupied by the Six of Clubs, from time to time, your personal life is apt to come to a complete standstill. In fact, unless you make an extra effort to counter its monotonous effect, you are likely to find your home scene on the dull side. You also may lack the necessary push to establish a marriage or relationships which are so essential to your happiness. By accenting the intuitive intellectual quality hidden in this card and finding others with whom you can share your brainstorms, you may find just what you are looking for in the way of companionship.

6♠

The Six of Spades in Mars is not likely to do much to liven things up. Actually, you may have to watch that the double six influence in your Life Spread doesn't bog you down in a mire of inertia. As it is, even though the vital influence of Mars suggests that you are a hard worker, you are all too likely to get into a rut. This, of course, is fine if your rut is comfortable and you are content with the status quo. Whether you like your particular groove or not, there is a strong probability that you will remain with it for a long time. Let your resistance to change be based on reason rather than fixed notions. On the other hand, as it is apt to represent a degree of security, don't rebel at the static but also stable circumstances handed you by fate. Moods which can lead to depression can be a serious hazard. Positively applied, this same force can indicate spritual insight.

Q♥

The probability of gain through social and emotional activity is highlighted by the Queen of Hearts in Jupiter. Combined with the expansive and beneficial influence of this great planet, this card suggests a social rapport which can be profitable for you in business as well as personally. While this influence suggests an easy access to friends and lovers, it also warns of the temptation to become lost in social excess and over-indulgence in all the vices to which the flesh is prone. It would be negligent not to mention that the combination of this feminine influence also implies benefits through your association with the fairer sex. Not only should you find women valuable friends, but you are also likely to benefit in career activities relating to their needs.

10♣

Even the somewhat dour influence of Saturn is not likely to do much to minimize the positive influence of the Ten of Clubs. As this card translates to read "success in mental activity," it certainly suggests that you have a significant intellectual potential. Due to Saturn's influence, you are apt to have an interest in the more serious and profound aspects of life. If not before, in your middle years this may lead to the study of metaphysics and spiritual philosophy. In the process, you may find an inner awareness regarding the mysteries of life, which might even surprise you. The healing power suggested here can help you be an inspired physician or spiritual healer.

8♦

That you can give a good account of yourself in the material realm is pointed out by the Eight of Diamonds, your Uranus card. With the earning potential symbolized here, you should have no real difficulty in paying your way and having a little extra for some of the little luxuries of life. The latter part of your life should especially benefit from this fortunate material influence. Combined with the influence of Uranus and the displaced Queen of Spades, this card can symbolize a tangible bridge to your higher consciousness. So while you may be tempted to use the "power of values" represented in this card strictly for monetary gain, don't overlook the hidden "spiritual power" also symbolized in this card.

K ♠

You are most fortunate in that your latter years are crowned by the King of Spades. Occupying the Neptune segment of your Life Spread, this card symbolizes the tremendous potential available to you. As the top symbol in the cards, it implies that you can rise to the top of your chosen field of endeavor. Even more important are the spiritual possibilities represented in this card. So while it can bring mundane power and leadership, it can have an even greater impact through the expression of its higher potential. Since it is the symbol of mastery some application of this concept is likely to be an essential prerequisite to fully realize the power represented here. You would be wise to prepare yourself to accept and express the responsibility of this high calling. To you falls the opportunity to teach and show others the way to truth.

♥ ♣ 3 ♦ ♠

If you have the fortune, good or bad, to have a birthday identified with the number three, you might be able to minimize the possible dilemmas associated with this number through the following insight. Basically, this number implies that you have a choice of possibilities, such as a choice in love, interests, investments or work. In itself, this seemingly should pose no serious problem. But in your case, due to your many involvements and interests, having to express a preference or make a choice, could prove to be a traumatic experience. So in other words, your symbol of brightness, optimism and fun, can become a symbol of "indecision."

The following is a brief picture as to how the four suits influence the interpretation of the number three.

Three of Hearts — Indecisions in love and friendships, or in how you want to express you emotions. While this influence might be fun in light of social involvements, it can indicate disappointment in serious relationships.

Three of Clubs — Your very intellectual brightness is apt to lead to too many interests and confusion in trying to do everything.

Three of Diamonds — Your quandaries are likely to pertain to values, money and otherwise. Extravagant schemes or too many places to spend your money may be your special challenge.

Three of Spades — What to do, while this usually relates to choices pertaining to work, it also applies to other interests. It may also relate to the necessity of having to choose between mundane objectives and spiritual aspirations.

3♥ THREE OF HEARTS

The Heart suit adds charm to the brightness suggested by the numerical three of your card. The combination should prove to be quite an asset in social activities and public life. Since these attributes suggest that you will have many choices in your quest for the ideal love, they will contribute to your basic challenge of indecisiveness. In all probability, whether it be as a guest or host, you are a sparkling asset to any social function. And this is no doubt helped by an ability at making small talk. Anyone would be mistaken if they took this and an inclination to scatter yourself through many interests as an indication of being scatter-brained. Actually, in spite of the emotional emphasis of your Heart card, you will be more than able to hold your own in intellectual discourses. You have a serious and profound side to your nature, which, at times, may be in conflict with your lighter, romantic inclinations.

A♣

Curiosity about life and the desire to know is the initial impetus in your Life Spread suggested by the Ace of Clubs. Symbolic of the Mercury portion of your life, which are the earliest years, this card suggests a motivation to get off to a good start by acquiring a good education. Since this card displaces a Two of Hearts in the Perfect Spread it suggests that some of the quandaries which may plague your emotional involvements, could be minimized by combining your pursuit of knowledge with your quest for love. Whatever, educational programs are apt to be socially rewarding: An excellent conversational ability is implied here, but you may have to resist the temptation to waste it in idle gossip.

Q♣

The accent on your intellectual possibilities is further emphasized by the Queen of Clubs, which symbolizes the Venus portion of your "life spread." This accentuates the probability of an extremely sensitive intellect, one with strong intuitive possibilities. The Venus placement of this card also suggests that you are likely to find friendly, even affectionate support from your association with women both personally and professionally. Socially you are more suitable to enjoy those who are active in creative endeavors, politics or philosophy. As a crown card, this influence also suggests leadership capabilities. You have just the right combination of attributes to give sensitive guidance. Perhaps almost too much sensitivity, so you may have to watch that your emotional nature does not impair your effectiveness in positions of authority.

10♠

Obviously with the Ten of Spades, a symbol of success, in Mars, you have the cards stacked in your favor to achieve considerable success. While this influence indicates that you can excel at anything, since it particularly symbolizes "success in work," its benefits should most readily be obtained through some sort of work effort. But if you are not career-oriented, you may find this a constructive force in social and charitable organizations. Social overtones to this influence suggest that your work scene should benefit from your ability to mix these two elements. The combination of this card with Mars suggests that you may work more successfully with men and be stimulated by male oriented activities. While this aspect holds spectacular possibilities, it will probably require that you do something about bringing them about.

5♣

Throughout your life, you are prone to have to contend with an inner restlessness, which will probably feed your basic indecisiveness. In this regard, the Five of Clubs in Jupiter is not likely to be much help. As a symbol of change it suggests a lifetime filled with travel and moving about. You may have to learn to resist the temptation to run, when loved ones, friends or work seem to fence you in. Accepting the responsibilities which they are inclined to impose upon you can minimize the uncertainty of this influence and contribute to your emotional stability. But considering the planetary position of this card, you would be wise to choose occcupations and interests, which will allow you to indulge your need for a variety of experiences constructively.

3♦

Even though you certainly have a good earning potential, the Three of Diamonds in Saturn suggests that financial considerations are prone to be a significant source of concern. So much so, that if you do not take the steps to minimize this possibility, worry about money could disturb your health. Learning to curb impulsive, emotional attitudes regarding economics could go a long way toward mitigating this concern. Of all people, you should never leave anything to chance. According to your cards, gambling and speculative ventures are not likely to contribute to your pocket book or to your sense of security.

A♠

If the earlier years do not find you responding to the intuitive urgings suggested by your great sensitivity, the Ace of Spades in Uranus may cause you to do so in the middle and latter part of your life. Combined with the far-out qualities of this planetary influence your natural curiosity may be prodded into investigating matters, spiritual and metaphysical. Your inherent doubt is inclined to foster a skepticism, which may be a significant hurdle in the development of these interests. But if you overcome your reservations, you may, to your surprise, find that you are gifted psychically. Mundanely, this influence suggests an inclination to become involved in secret relationships and activities. Use care, as these could become sources of disappointment.

The Seven of Hearts, the last symbolical influence in your "life spread" emphasizes that your greatest challenges are likely to be found relating to your emotional expression. The Neptune placement of this card suggests that these may in part arise from a too nebulous attitude regarding love and relationships. Especially in affairs of the heart, it is extremely important that you develop a positive and objective attitude. It may be all too easy for you to delude yourself with some glamorous, romantic illusion, or that you may feel that some distant place will hold the answer to your dreams. Regarding the latter, travel, particularly in the later part of your life will probably require extra caution to minimize the possibility of disappointment. If you are to know happiness in these golden years, it is most important that you learn to transcend your restlessness and replace your quest for the "ideal lover" with the compassionate, universal sense of love suggested by this card. Find some way to incorporate this into loving service to others, and your golden years can become a time of true fulfillment.

3 ♣ THREE OF CLUBS

Of all whose birthdays identify them with the number three, your Club suit suggests that you are the most likely to be plagued with "indecision." This need not necessarily be the story of your life. But if not, then you are going to have to apply a great deal of self-discipline to make the most of the excellent mental potential hidden behind that attractive but somewhat confused smile. You might start with making a conscious and deliberate effort at clear and logical thinking. Part of your charm and part of your problem is your enthusiastic interest in everyone and everything. When it becomes necessary to make a choice, whether it be work, play or especially love, indecision is apt to be the painful solution. One possible answer may be to become so super-organized that you can enjoy many relationships and find success in several endeavors. In making a choice of career, keep in mind that your restless spirit will not appreciate being chained to a desk or routine. So look for something which will provide you with the opportunity for travel and an opportunity to enjoy a wide variety of experiences.

The Three of Spades, which occupies the first or Mercury position of your "life spread" tends to underscore the indecisive influences shown by your own card. Since this planetary position especially applies to your earlier years, this aura of uncertainty may have made itself felt early in life. Almost from the very beginning, this may have brought problems of choice, such as what to play, where to live, what kind of work, etc.. As a child even though you probably were surrounded by love and friends, you may have felt an element of insecurity. You would be wise to develop focus and concentration to minimize the temptation to solve your confusion through expensive impulse.

Considerable personal magnetism is indicated by the Nine of Hearts in Venus. But while this suggests that you are inclined to be very popular, love is all too likely to be a source of challenges with disappointments equalling your romantic successes. The obstacles to realizing your heart's desires are not all external. If you seriously examine your emotional needs, you may find that part of your problem is due to your not knowing what you really want in the way of love and friendships. Inclined to be generous and trusting, so you are all too prone to find involvements expensive. In love or financial matters, you should not trust to luck. Happiness in love is not an "impossible dream" but you will probably need to apply much personal discipline and self-knowledge to achieve the "wish-fulfillment in love" symbolized in this card.

With the Seven of Clubs in Mars, your optimistic outlook is inclined to be threatened by those who are either jealous of your abilities,or just plainly lack of appreciation of your efforts. Do not allow this and opposition to your ideas cause you to indulge in worrisome, self-defeating attitudes. This influence suggests that you may have some difficulty in obtaining a sufficient education, or have to overcome other obstacles in the development of your fine mind. Again, if you can discipline yourself to establish a positive mental attitude, the displaced Eight of Diamonds suggests that you can turn your mental energies into considerable earning power and success. The Mars placement of this card discourages your taking risks, especially of a legal nature.

That travel and changes are likely to be an important part of your life is suggested by the Five of Diamonds in Jupiter. Due to this influence, you might just as well prepare for a fluctuating income. True, at times, you can be extremely successful, but you also tend to have some lean periods. Some of these are likely to be due to the many moves and changes in occupations for you. Others though are inclined to be due to that streak of extravagance and generosity that makes you so much fun to have around. The auspicious influence of Jupiter suggests that you tend to gain from occupations and interests that involve travel and distant places. A strong sense of honesty and responsibility is suggested by this influence, so you are not likely to remain in debt to anyone any longer than absolutely necessary.

The Saturn placement of the Queen of Spades suggests extreme caution in your association with women. Whether, you are male or female, this influence may indicate burdens and problems relating to women. These are likely to include calls for help financially and otherwise. Or you may be saddled with the responsibility of a sick female relative. Or this may just indicate opposition from a hard-headed lady boss. It would be unfair to imply that this influence has only a negative interpretation. This planetary position is sometimes called the position of the "teacher," so you may find association with a particular woman a significant learning experience. The queen of Spades also symbolizes "self-mastery." Application of this concept suggests not only success in work, but a displaced Ten of Diamonds suggests possible material abundance.

With maturity, the Jack of Clubs in the Uranus portion of your "life spread" suggests that you may discover your ability to lead others. While you may be reluctant to accept this responsibility, this card suggests that you have the capabilities. Creative abilities are also indicated here that could bring successful expression in music, acting and literature. Or this same theatrical flair, could help you to be a successful politician. The combination of the intellectual force represented in this card with the unusual viewpoint associated with Uranus suggests that the middle years may bring an increased interest in metaphysics and spiritual concepts. While you may find it difficult to concentrate on these profound matters, perseverance in these realms could bring you that long sought "peace of mind."

The greatest challenge to your financial situation is symbolized by the Nine of Diamonds in Neptune. Combined with this planetary influence this card suggests that any problems that you may have of a monetary nature are inclined to be due to a too nebulous attitude towards money. Since this position indicates the complexion of your latter years, you may have to watch that this attitude does not create unnecessary hardships in those so-called golden years. As this planetary influence accents liquids and travel especially over water, caution is suggested in both cases. Your great sensitivity may be too greatly affected by liquor and drugs. Direct the powers represented in this high card toward philosophical and spiritual interests, and you will find that this can be a symbol of fulfillment.

All our final decisions are made
In a state of mind that is not going to last.
Marcel Proust

3♦ THREE OF DIAMONDS

Such extreme differences of expression are suggested by your card, that it is difficult to conceive that these are attributes represented by the same card. At one end of the spectrum of possibilities this card indicates a bright, beguiling personality. At the other end, it paints a portrait of a worrisome, confused, filled-with-despair individual. And then, if you belong in the middle of this picture, you may join the ranks identified with this card. The ones who, because of their indecisiveness, end up by doing nothing of any consequence. As a Diamond, your quandaries and concerns are more than likely to pertain to the realm of values. So even though you have a sensitivity, which might encourage you to aspire to spiritual heights, you're more apt to look for meaning and security in the more tangible aspects of life. While your card is often considered a dubious material influence, your drive for security may be so great that it may press you to acquire great wealth. Actually, your natural intuitive quality may find its most successful expression in careers involved with the handling of money. A tendency to become uptight under any form of restriction, real or imagined, suggests that you should seek occupations and activities which will allow you to enjoy a sense of freedom.

A♠

The Ace of Spades, the first card of your "life spread" in Mercury, suggests that you began life under a somber cloud. Traditionally the symbol of "death," this influence may have encouraged a rather serious view on life. It often indicates some sort of unhappiness relating to parents, frequently death. But this card does have a more positive side, in that it also symbolizes " the key to the mystery of life." In your youth, this may indicate nothing more than a heavy religious experience, which may have seemed so oppressive that you may have rebelled. But as you become enlightened you may appreciate how truly valuable this entree to higher wisdom can be. This card also suggests that you are likely to cloak your activities with so much secrecy that others tend to suspect your motives. So in order to minimize the misunderstandings to which you are prone, accent clarity in communication.

The personable quality suggested by your card is enhanced by the Seven of Hearts in Venus. The magnetic charm suggested by this card is likely to attract all sorts of people to you. Due to a probable lack of discrimination, this tends to prove a questionable blessing.

Since this card is more often than not a symbol of disappointment in love and friendship, if you want to minimize the emotional turmoil that it can represent, you are going to have to practice extreme caution in all relationships. This does not only pertain to love and marriage but also to associates and business-partners. All of this is not helped by your vulnerability to negative emotional attitudes, which includes being on both the giving and receiving end of jealousy.

Combined with the headstrong, impulsive influence of Mars, the Seven of Diamonds suggests an inclination to be somewhat reckless in money matters. Gambling and speculation are just not strong points for you, and if you seek to pursue your fortune through horses and ventures of chance, you will find your experiments very costly. This consideration tends to apply to friends, so avoid making loans, or becoming involved with people who think that you are an easy touch. With the disturbing influences implied in the double seven paranoia could be a real peril, or give you an obsession in money matters. Get it all-together and the mystical-material sense associated with this card could provide you with the drive to achieve considerable success.

5♠

An inner restlessness is suggested by the Five of Spades in Jupiter. Channel the energy represented by this card into some constructive activity, and you should find that the auspicious influence of this great planet can be beneficial. This could prove particularly true in occupations which will provide you with the opportunity to travel and to enjoy a wide variety of action. Any sort of routine tends to kill your enthusiasm through boredom. While this card implies versatility, it also suggests that a feeling of uncertainty may keep you a prisoner of the same job for a long time. A displaced Ten of Hearts suggests that you may find your greatest success in people related activities.

J♥

Due to the Saturn placement of the Jack of Hearts, you will probably come to appreciate why this card is identified as a "symbol of sacrifice." Whether it be loved ones, who will require much of you, or heavy work responsibilities, you are apt to feel like a martyr. As you respond to the calls for help from family and friends, your personal sacrifices are likely to reveal that you have a compassion not expected from the usually materially oriented Three of Diamonds. A revelation that may not only surprise those who think they know you, but even yourself. If you can accept the responsibility of "service through love" symbolized in this card, you should also find it can represent a tremendous spiritual healing power.

Considerable mental discipline is a must, if you are to avoid the inclination to worry and frustration suggested by the Nine of Clubs in Uranus. If you choose to express the negative attributes of this card mental problems and confusion are apt to be the price. Overcome a tendency to mental laziness and you will find that this card indicates a significant intellectual potential. Apart from a good education, a positive philosophy is essential if you are to truly realize the mental power indicated in this card. With the years, your materialistic preoccupation may diminish giving way to an increased activity in spiritual and philosophical interests. Overcome your skeptical hurdles, and you may find an awakening of a more profound awareness, which will conquer your discouragements and give life new meaning.

In the language of the cards, the number nine is symbolic of fulfillment or disappointment. The Neptune placement of the Nine of Spades brings the impact of this challenge especially to your latter years. This planetary position also suggests that throughout your life, you would be wise to use extreme caution in traveling and in distant interests. You may also be particularly vulnerable to health and other problems relating to liquids, which could include everything from the use of liquor to travel over water. If all your efforts have not been materially oriented, and you have responded to the "cosmic urge" associated with this card, the latter part of your life can well become a time of fulfillment.

3 ♠ THREE OF SPADES

Your Three of Spades suggests that the necessity of having to make important decisions, especially those pertaining to work, or to your life's purpose, can be almost traumatic. Your many diverse interests and associates are likely to pull you in all directions. The placement of your card in the Saturn line of the Life Spread displacing a Six of Diamonds, suggests a heavy karma. In other words, the challenge handed to you by destiny to find yourself, both in a mundane sense and spiritually, may seem so overwhelmingly difficult that you may choose to avoid this responsibility. If you choose this "out," the inspired vision implied in your spade card is apt to be lost in a life without purpose. Accept the responsibility of your great challenge, and even though it may be difficult, you should find that fate can be generous, and that your card can also symbolize a significant and rewarding "self-expression."

One of your greatest assets, and probably also one of your prime hurdles is the magnetic charm suggested by the Nine of Hearts, your Mercury card. Especially when combined with immaturity, this influence is more likely to bring emotional disappointment than fulfillment in love. And since this planetary position of your Life Spread especially applies to your younger years, heart-aches are likely to have made themselves felt early in your life. For the most part these may have been due to causes beyond your control, but throughout your life an inability to communicate your real thoughts and desires is likely to contribute to your difficulties in relationships. Frustrations are also apt to be associated with financial limitations, which in turn may result from your rather unrealistic view of life and economic innocence. In light of this, you would be wise not to mix love and money and to become money-wise as soon as possible.

The Seven of Clubs occupying the Venus segment of your Life Spread suggests that you are really going to have to let your head rule your heart. Otherwise, the combination of this card with the planet of love suggests that emotional matters could become a major source of worry. Some of the anxiety that you are likely to experience is apt to be due to a lack of discrimination in your involvements. You are inclined to attract all kinds of people, and in your own insecurity be flattered by their attentions to you. Fantasy combined with an uncertainty as to what you want in love may make it difficult for you to sustain marriages and intimate friendships. Directing your emotional energies to intellectual interests, especially those which you can share with others may help you find happier and more productive social involvements.

You had better enjoy changes and travel, as the Five of Diamonds in Mars suggests that they are likely to be an important part of your life pattern. This aura of change will bring a sense of uncertainty into every area of your life from work to money and relationships. While some of this may be beyond your control, your own impulsive restlessness and reluctance to accept advice will add to this disturbing influence. As this diamond card particularly points out the possibility of fluctuations in money and material situations, much self discipline will be needed to keep this from making life too uncomfortable. In choosing an occupation or major interest, avoid those which are too restrictive. You need something which will provide variety and action.

Even though romantic and social involvements with the fairer sex are likely to be a source of worry, the Queen of Spades combined with the auspicious influence of Jupiter certainly implies that women can be a beneficial influence in your life. It may not be until you are in your late twenties or early thirties that you will realize how much they can contribute in partnerships and in business. A displaced Ten of Diamonds suggests that the key to your fortune spiritually, as well as materially, is to be found in the application of the "self mastery" symbolized in the Queen of Spades.

A significant intellectual and creative potential is suggested by the Jack of Clubs. But the Saturn placement of this card is inclined to cause you to rebel at the hard work and discipline required to develop your possibilities. Actually, you are strongly tempted to run from work, and relationships, or anything that you feel is too demanding and restrictive. In this respect, you should be very wary of friends who might encourage escape through dissipation and other dubious indulgences. Frequently, this card symbolizes difficulties through a young man or male relative who may need help because of illness.

The Nine of Diamonds in Uranus further emphasizes the importance of your developing a realistic sense of values. The touch of extravagance suggested here combined with some of your far out dreams could prove very costly. Gambling and speculative ventures are just not for you. While this influence suggests loss through unwise investments, there are exceptions, such as long term investments. So while dealing in real estate and other products of the land may be questionable, the purchase of a home of your own may escape the negative financial aspect of this card. As I mentioned earlier, your fortune is found in the development of your fine mind and talents. Even then, when you do "strike it rich," you are going to have to guard against careless spending.

According to the Seven of Spades in Neptune, health problems may arise from self-deception regarding your physical well-being. As this influence particularly applies to your latter years, it is of the utmost importance that you get your various eccentricities under control well before this time. There is a positive potential also represented in this card, one that could help you overcome the challenge that it represents. Considered the symbol of "spiritual victory," this card suggests that development of your higher awareness could compliment the mystical potential represented in your own card. If you recognize this possibility, and make the necessary effort to grow in "cosmic awareness" you should find that you have the means to transcend the mundane problems implied in this card and translate the influence shown here into one of fulfilling enlightenment.

♥ ♣ 4 ♦ ♠

Having a birthday identified with the number four suggests that you are a constructive individual. Numerically, you are considered to be a builder, a doer, among the hardest workers of them all. You are apt to be happier giving service than wasting your energies in the pursuit of pleasure. What you may lack in intellectual brilliance, you more than make up with your persistent, analytical mind and efforts. True, the perseverance that you apply in getting the job done, or gaining your objectives, at times also manifests as just plain stubbornness. You can also be overly critical and very exacting about details. And a tendency to be unsympathetic is not apt to help your relationships. The concept of "self-sufficiency" was probably coined for you. While some may consider you the "square" of the numbers, which applies to your inclination to be fixed and dense, it also indicates that you are a "square shooter," whose organizational skills and productivity can make you one of the most beneficial members of the community of men.

The constructive quality reflected in your number four is modified by your particular suit as follows:

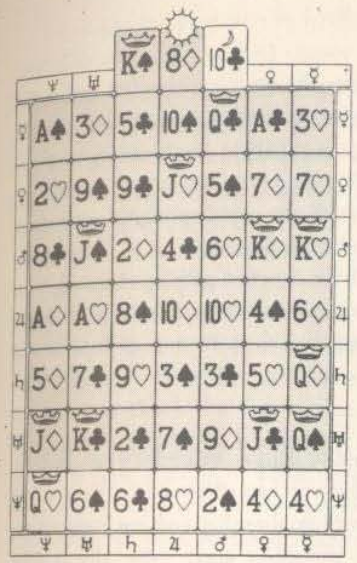

Four of Hearts — Identified with the card of love, to you falls the challenge of constructively applying your emotional energies to the well-being of others. This is one of the prime indicators of marriage.

Four of Clubs — Knowledge and its constructive application is the key to the "peace of mind" symbolized in your card.

Four of Diamonds — While money and material values are apt to be very evident in your life, your challenge will be to use them as tools to build a pedestal from which you can reach for the sublime.

Four of Spades — Although physical labor figures strongly in your constructive expression, the spiritual overtones of your Spade suit suggest that your task will include the merging of the mundane with the divine.

4♥ FOUR OF HEARTS

A symbol of love, romance and marriage, your card suggests that high on your list of priorities must come emotional expression. A desire to express and communicate an idealistic concept of love is suggested by the Mercury Neptune placement of your card in the Life Spread. Combined with your creative urge for self-expression this might inspire you to find an outlet through writing, composing or singing about love. Your Heart card also suggests that your need for people involvement might find fulfillment through counselling, social reform or some other type of humanitarian endeavor. While the expression of love can be the source of your greatest joy, don't let it sour through a preoccupation with self-fulfillment. Strong as your feelings are, watch that they don't color your thinking and perspective too strongly. While you run the risk of being too smug, you have an inner warmth, which when turned on can assure you of success in people related activities. Keep in mind, identified with the number four you are a builder. Your Heart suit implies that your challenge is to build through love.

Another four, the Four of Diamonds , occupies the Mercury position of your "life spread." As this planetary position especially symbolizes the earliest portion of your life, this combination of influences suggests that you're likely to acquire an awareness of material and monetary values early in life. While this influence implies a certain amount of material security in your early years, it is not likely to have discouraged your efforts to make improvements in yourself and in your acquisition of earthly treasures. The only apparent truly negative aspect of this influence is a tendency to indulge in whims and impatience, which may cause you to give up too easily, often just before a desired objective may have become a reality.

Not only your heart card, but also the Two of Spades in Venus emphasizes your need for people involvement. This card especially accents benefits to be gained through partnerships and cooperative work efforts. The Venus placement of this card suggests that these activities tend to include relatives and friends. Whatever, this accents the fact that you are not inclined to be very happy in the role of a loner. Your strong sense of values is likely to be evident in everything from your choice of clothes, furnishings to your choice of associates. An artistic potential is revealed by the combination of this card's sensitive attibutes with the more sensual influence of Venus. If you do not choose to commercialize these possibilities, you probably should consider them as a hobby or through social groups involved with the arts.

Even though you may appear somewhat conservative, the emotionally vital influence of the Eight of Hearts combined with Mars suggests that you can be dynamic in your charm. So much so, that this exceptional personal magnetism can contribute significantly to your success in politics and show-business. If you are not careful, this emotional power could also send you running down the "primrose path" in the quest of one social-romantic adventure after another. The pleasure that you get out of social good times suggests that in your desire to make others happy, you are likely to be an excellent host. Since in playing this role, you are inclined to be at your radiant best, you may have to resist the temptation to get carried away to the point that your socializing may have a negative impact on your health and pocketbook.

The Six of Spades in Saturn is not likely to do much to light a fire under you . In fact the double six influence in your "life spread" suggests that you can all too easily bury your dreams in a do nothing rut. For good or bad, this influence implies that you are inclined to stick with a job for a long time. Basically, your health should be good, especially if you have not abused this advantage. Any problems tend to be due to social excesses and worry about emotional matters. Regarding the latter, you may have "karmic" or destined burden of a loved one that may weigh heavily on your spirit. If you allowed a lack of ambition to dictate your life style and work efforts, the middle years are inclined to bring unemployment or monotony. Others as well as yourself could benefit from the spiritual healing attributes associated with this card.

The subtle power of the 6 of Clubs in Jupiter hints at one of your strongest points and probably one of your greatest challenges. It suggests such an intense sensitivity that the resulting intuitive awareness could be a principle key to your power. It would be negligent to ignore that as a symbol of inertia, this card points to the danger that some of your objectives could be jeoparized through a lack of motivation and lazyness. The combination of the attributes of this card with the comfortable quality of Jupiter could make this a real hazard. You just might become too content with the status quo. This is fine, providing you've achieved the life expression to which you aspire. Then this influence suggests that your middle years will bring a time of peace and serenity. Keep in mind, much can be accomplished in these years through the combination of your intuition with some type of productive type of activity.

The Queen of Hearts in Uranus underscores your natural warmth and sociability. This card also suggests a second chance at marriage or a renewal of love. This eccentric planetary influence suggests that you may find yourself attracted to unusual and unconventional relationships. This influence also is likely to encourage involvement with groups involved with the study of metaphysics and other unusual subjects. In a more mundane sense, you are prone to find success and profit in any kind of business, which will allow you to capitalize on your personable charms.

You are fortunate in that your Life Spread has the positive influence of the Ten of Clubs in Neptune. With this symbol of success making its influence felt especially in your latter years, you really have something to look forward to. In the Life Spread you will notice that this is the first card in the top, or crown line. This suggests the probability of recognition and fame. It certainly suggests that you should not plan on retiring, unless it is to some new activity in which you can find the rewards of success promised here. As this is one of the top cards in the mental suit you would be wise to seek out stimulating intellectual activity, with mystical overtones. Throughout your life, as well as in the latter years you are prone to find that travel and distant interests can be most rewarding.

There is a Law that man love his neighbor as himself. In a few years it should be as natural to mankind as breathing or the upright gait; but if he does not learn it he must perish.

Alfred Adler

4 ♣ FOUR OF CLUBS

The positive mental attributes associated with your card have caused it to become identified as the symbol representing "peace of mind." Actually, a displaced Five of Clubs, which implies mental restlessness may make it difficult, especially in the earlier part of your life to appreciate the contentment symbolized in your card. Identified with the Club suit, the constructive expression represented by the number four in your case would particularly apply to the realm of the mind. So to truly realize the potential implied in your card, it is essential that you develop your mental attributes. Although you may feel that you have your share of problems, the life pattern shown in the basic Life Spread for you is one of the most fortunate of all. True, as a four in all probability you will have to work or make some effort to earn your good fortune. But then on this planet, this is not an unusual requirement. Only in your case, you have the cards stacked in your favor.

Early in life, according to the Two of Diamonds , which occupies the Mercury position in your Life Spread, you are likely to be impressed with the value of money. Unfortunately some of these earlier lessons tend to linger with you as groundless fears and concern about financial matters. To minimize these concerns and find your own identity, you may have responded at an early age to the urge to strike out on your own. While you can be quite independent, this card also suggests a need to share material and monetary considerations with someone else. This frequently indicates an early marriage, or partnership of some sort. As work and money opportunities are prone to arise without much warning, it is important that you counter your stubborn ways and develop flexibility.

J ♠

The Jack of Spades in Venus suggests that your quest for love may lead to some rather bizarre or unusual experiences and arrangements. A tendency to be attracted to glamorous and sometimes dubious involvements is inclined to bring you some worrisome relationships. When your practicality has the upper hand, your choice of associates will lean to those who are mentally stimulating. So much so, that at times you may completely overlook emotional considerations. This, along with a reluctance to be demonstrative in your affections, may cause you to appear cold and insensitive to those closest to you. This is not helped by a tendency to be critical of loved ones and friends. Socially, you tend to be at your best in work related activities. Whether you need the income or not, you do need to be constructively occupied.

The intellectual potential suggested by your card is amplified by the Eight of Clubs in Mars. Education is most essential if you are truly going to capitalize on the excellent mental potential symbolized in this card. Otherwise, you are all too likely to spin your wheels as an intellectual dilettante. The combination of this "mental power " card with Mars gives you the aggressive drive to succeed. The only problem — an inclination to be somewhat fixed in your attitudes may find you trying to do everything the hard way. Use your head! This card suggests that you have one of the best. Although you are identified with the practical and traditional influence associated with the number four , philosophically and spiritually, you also have a strong leaning to the unconventional.

In money matters and work, the Six of Diamonds in Jupiter suggests that you are likely to do best in occupations that are tried and true. So in spite of some of your eccentricities, in this respect, you're really apt to be happier as a member of the establishment. Gambling or anything involving a risk are not likely to agree with your nervous system. So in your quest for material security, forget those spectacular ventures. Consistent effort is much more likely to bring you the well-being and security that you seek. Symbolic of karmic values, the Six of Diamonds emphasizes the wisdom of cautious investment of money and energy. In this regard, guard against the tendency to fret and worry about money. This can become a real obsession with all who are identified with the Four of Clubs.

While the Saturn placement of the Four of Spades suggests that you will have to work for your good fortune, it also implies that you will be well rewarded for your efforts. This card also suggests good health, but due to the karmic influence of Saturn, you should guard against taking your health for granted. If problems do develop, you tend to have a hard time mastering up enough discipline to overcome them. This combination of card and planet suggest that you can be equally gifted in the practice of medicine or in non-medical techniques as are found in spiritual healing. This card is also indicative of inheritance. So there is a strong possibility of gain, probably from a male member of the family.

Whatever you do, you should not hide away in your ivory tower. If you do, you will miss the social benefits of the Ten of Hearts in Uranus. This card suggests a natural flair for dealing with people. For this reason, you could be very successful in occupations and activities which involve public appearances or direct sales as to be found in real estate, entertainment and politics. An interest in metaphysical and spiritual philosophies is prone to grow with the passing years. If you can overcome your reservations in this area, you should find groups engaged in these studies socially as well as mentally rewarding. When you are in control of your worrisome tendencies, you should find that your charm will win for you wherever you apply it.

Materially speaking, you have the happiest ending of any "life spread." You could not ask for a better material influence in Neptune, than the Ten of Diamonds. Actually, from your early fifties on, you should feel the benefit of this positive influence. And so till the end of your days, this material protection is likely to minimize all the downs. This planetary influence also indicates benefits from travel and distant investments and businesses. Your fulfillment in these golden years will be enhanced by sharing your good fortune with others. The one possible flaw in this wonderful picture may be a continuation of a negative habit of fretting over money and every little thing. Conquer this habit, learn to share, and you should find this the most rewarding time.

He that will not reason is a bigot;
He that cannot reason is a fool;
And he that dare not reason is a slave.

William Drummond

4 ♦ FOUR OF DIAMONDS

As a Diamond your building blocks are to be found in the realm of values. While this gives you a special insight in monetary and material matters, this challenge also extends to values that transcend the mundane. The life pattern indicated for you in the cards is among the most fortunate. But a displaced Five of Spades suggests that work or some sort of effort on your part is likely to be an integral part of your good fortune. This should be easy to take, especially when you realize that these efforts can bring you considerable success. Your prime adversary is an underlying impatience and restlessness which may rebel at the restrictions imposed by relationships, work and circumstances. Although materially oriented, you have a significant spiritual potential, which should not be neglected. Development of your higher awareness should help minimize getting into a materialistic rut and help raise your vision to greater possibilities.

The Two of Spades, the first card in the Mercury position of your Life Spread, suggests that you have a knack for attracting companionship in everything from childhood's play to adult responsibilites. This card also suggests the probability of having to cope with responsibilities early in life. Though inner fears may have caused you to meet this challenge with a certain reluctance, your concerns were probably masked with a bold confidence. This, along with a streak of independent-aggressiveness, may have served to get you started on your own. Combined with Mercury, this influence suggests a lifetime filled with the communication of ideas. Although you are apt to be quite self-sufficient, keep in mind that this card does indicate advantages from cooperative endeavors.

The Venus placement of the Eight of Hearts implies that one of your greatest assets is "charm." Whether it be with individuals or with large groups, this dynamic emotional power can win you love, audiences and sales. While you should be able to more than hold your own in those one-to-one relationships, you are apt to be even more effective with groups. Although you should have no difficulty in attracting romantic opportunities, restlessness combined with the fear of being tied down is apt to make you wary of marriage. In matters of the heart, your normally practical nature is apt to abandon you to romantic fantasies.

The Six of Clubs in Mars suggests that you may try to minimize your uncertainties through building stable situations. You may seek to achieve this through interests that intrigue your keen and analytical mind. Unfortunately, although you hunger for knowledge, you are apt to find it difficult to apply the necessary study discipline. You prefer to let experience be your teacher. Although you do have drive and ambition, you can all too easily get into routine ruts. You can push others into action, but yourself — that's likely to be another story. Intuition is also symbolized in this card. So sometime in your young adult life, you may get the first glimmers of perceptive abilities that may intrigue your interest in spiritual concepts. Preoccupied with "all that glitters" you probably will not do much to develop this ability until later in life.

The more positive attributes of the Six of Spades are accented by its placement in Jupiter. This card tends to underscore the indications suggested by the prior Six of Clubs, emphasizing the probability of your staying with a job or situation for a long time. Though this can indicate monotony, it can also indicate stability. In order to realize your full potential, it may be necessary to establish such a situation from which you can build towards your more profound objectives. If you are on a negative tangent, this card can bring long periods of unemployment and boredom. Although when turned on, you are likely to be a hard worker, the force of inertia represented by these two sixes may make progress difficult. This may be particularly true in the middle part of your life. At this time you may also recognize a subtle awareness, which may inspire spiritual and philosophical interests.

Women, according to the Saturn placement of the Queen of Hearts, are apt to be a source of challenges. If your gender is masculine, this suggests that you be extremely cautious in matters matrimonial. No matter what your gender, this influence implies the possibilities of burdens through emotional involvements or marriage to someone much older or younger than you. Due to the "karmic" influence of this planetary position, this may be a destined relationship, one from which you may still have much to learn. Actually, even problem relationships associated with this influence may prove to be a most valuable learning experience.

The Ten of Clubs in Uranus suggests that with the passing years, your exceptional mental potential will become more and more evident. Combined with this unique planetary influence, this card suggests that your mental activity is apt to include interest in philosophy and metaphysics. A certain affinity for these subjects suggest that you may become so adept in the expression of the mystic arts that you may teach others to apply these concepts to their lives. This influence also accents your leadership possibilities in more mundane affairs.

As a symbol of success, your middle years should find all your endeavors benefiting from this fortunate influence. Investments in products of the land, real estate and the electronic industry are especially favored.

Material security in your latter years is strongly indicated by the Eight of Diamonds in Neptune. This card also suggests a combination of vitality and discipline, which can help you overcome the problems of health associated with age. If you retire, it shouldn't be to inactivity. A hobby, or a new career in these golden years could prove to be as successful as any earlier venture. The Neptune placement of this card also suggests that you may find your fortune in some distant place, or through travel. Although a most fortunate influence for material affairs, this card also implies that with the application of self-mastery, you will have the opportunity to realize that this power symbol represents a force in your life that can translate spiritual awareness into tangible expression.

Rank and riches are chains of gold,
But still chains.

Giovanni Ruffini

4♠ FOUR OF SPADES

The combination of good health, talent and just plain luck, suggests that yours is one of the most fortunate of all the life patterns shown in the cards. True, that "good fortune" is likely to include work — and lots of it! But when you realize that in your case these efforts are likely to bring you the wealth and prestige so dear to your heart, this shouldn't be too hard to take. Just about any sincere effort on your part is more than likely to bring success. Actually, your greatest challenge may be that your material achievements may limit your vision to mundane objectives. If it does, you are likely to miss out on the wonderful possibilities to be realized through the expression of the spiritual wisdom also represented in your card. And since almost in spite of your good fortune, you will also know some pretty heavy heart aches and frustrations, you are likely to need the understanding gained from this spiritual perspective.

Turn on the charm suggested by the Ten of Hearts in the Mercury segment of your Life Spread and others should find you irresistible. Be it in sales, entertainment, or any activity that brings the opportunity for direct contact, you should be a winner. As the prime indicator of the complexion of your earlier years, this card suggests a positive, social quality, which should help you overcome the challenges of your earlier years. Since this card displaces the Jack of Clubs, you may have to watch that your popularity does not attract too many dubious and irresponsible associates. Disappointments in relationships can have a rather devastating effect on you.

With the Ten of Diamonds adding its sparkling aura to Venus, your home and personal life style will probably reflect your appreciation of the finer things. You are likely to have a sixth sense about people and values. This attribute along with the aforementioned magnetic charm will attract friends and contacts who will contribute to your affluence and general well-being. While you can instantly spot a phony, you may deceive yourself in the little games that you play in relationships. Since the Ten of Diamonds, the most spectacular of all the money cards, is combined with the personal and artistic influence of Venus, your fortune could be found in service oriented occupations or some expression in the arts. This diamond card merged with the planet of love suggests that you may place too great an importance on material values in your choice of mates and friends.

Whether it pertains to work or pleasure, the Eight of Spades in Mars suggests that you have the extra vitality to make you a winner. The drive and aggressiveness implied in this influence reinforce your talents and other abilities, making success as strong a probability as possible. A displaced King of Clubs points to the possibility that this success might be best achieved in positions of authority or as the leader in your field of endeavor. The combination of Mars with this power card suggests that you may have to guard against overwhelming others, or trying to do everything yourself. You are likely to be a very hard worker, with a rather fixed viewpoint, which can get the job done, but which might also isolate you from others. This planetary influence suggests that you may find it easier to work with men, or with women who are active and productive. You are not likely to enjoy the sedentary life.

A ♥

A casual directness conceals the ambition suggested by the Ace of Hearts in Jupiter. This heart card implies that you are likely to seek to fulfill your grand aspirations through expanding your people contacts. In a sense, your fulfillment, both personally and career-wise, will depend on your ability to live on a broad scale. This quest may lead to expression in charitable organizations, politics or show business. Even though this is a symbol of ambition, you are likely to be motivated by a very sincere desire to help others. And those who win your friendship will have found themselves a loyal friend. A friend who will be a constructive influence in their lives.

A ♦

In spite of the fortunate tone of your Life Spread, the Ace of Diamonds in Saturn suggests that you may have your lean periods. This also warns of the possibility that your ambitions and desire for money and power can jeopardize your happiness. The beautiful, positive quality that you are capable of giving forth can be lost through your concern about material status. The subsequent black moods can cause you to be the grimmest of them all. In this respect, your real challenge may lie in keeping a truly balanced sense of values.

Q ♦

While your association with women may be marked with an air of uncertainty, the Queen of Diamonds in Uranus suggests that there are also advantages in relationships with the fairer sex. Although the Diamond Queen implies material benefits in your association with the fairer sex, together with this planetary influence, this card suggests that some women may inspire interest in things metaphysical and spiritual. She may prove instrumental in helping you develop your awareness and intuitive potential. Regarding the mundane, this influence — The Queen of Diamonds in Uranus — suggests that your middle years are inclined to be touched with extravagances, which could minimize your basic security. So as you start to reach for the stars, remember, as a Spade you will more likely reach them if you keep both feet solidly on the ground.

Throughout your entire life the restless influence of the Five of Hearts will keep you on the move. Due to the Neptune placement of this card, your quest for love and adventure are likely to take you on long journeys. This planetary influence also suggests that relationships may be disturbed by emotional instability. Your own vagueness will contribute to the many emotional changes and separations which will be part of your life picture. Fortunately, since this card mainly applies to the latter part of your life, you should find these years fulfilling your strong desire to travel. In all probability, you should find distant contacts and experiences most rewarding.

There is no failure except in no longer trying,
There is no defeat except from within,
No really insurmountable barrier
Save our own inherent weakness of purpose.

Kin Hubbard

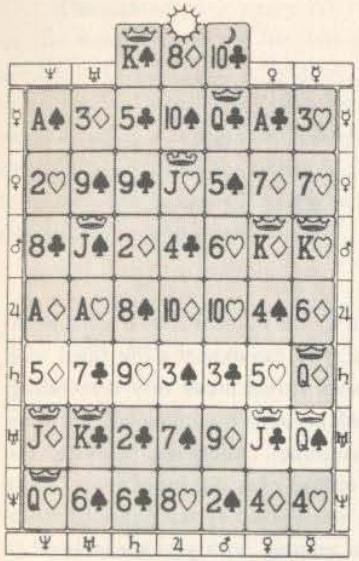

♥ ♣ 5 ♦ ♠

Personal freedom is the motivating force symbolized by the number five. If your birthday identifies you with this restless, changeable number, you can expect a life filled with many changes and travel. While this variety of experiences should prove very stimulating, you may also find it breeding a sense of uncertainty. Much personal discipline will probably be needed to control the restlessness associated with this number. Otherwise, dissatisfaction with the status quo may encourage a wanderlust, a never ending quest for inner peace. While some, in a desperate search for stability, may cling to unsatisfactory relationships, occupations and circumstances, the majority who share this number with you are inclined to solve their problems through making changes. All too often, these changes are apt to be followed by more changes. This restless spirit might best be controlled by choosing involvements and activities which will meet your demand for action and adventure.

The impact of this number is further modified by the suit associated with your birthday. In brief:

Five of Hearts	Suggests emotional changes, instability and separations.
Five of Clubs	Changes relating to the mind and interests. Restlessness.
Five of Diamonds	Material and monetary changes, uncertainty regarding money and circumstances.
Five of Spades	Changes in work, moves and travel.

5♥ FIVE OF HEARTS

If variety in love and friendship is your thing, you have picked the right card. Actually, the demands of a restless heart, and how to blend it successfully with a need for stability may prove to be one of your greatest challenges. There is a very real danger that instead of looking for answers within, you may become involved in an obsessive quest for fulfillment through a series of unfortunate emotional experiments. Personable and exciting, you can stimulate others into action, but in the process, watch a tendency to make excessive demands on your physical resources. Although "emotional instability" is one of the most frequent interpretations associated with your card, this certainly is not the only alternative available to you. Channel this charming, emotional versatility and you should find you have the power to find success in all sorts of people related activities.

The basic uncertainty implied in your card is not likely to be helped by the Three of Clubs which occupies the Mercury segment of your life spread. Since this planetary position especially pertains to your earliest years, a sense of insecurity may have been fostered by frequent moves, changes and travel while you were still quite young. The unsettled conditions suggested for this time may have also proved an obstacle to gaining an education. A quest for stability and independence may have encouraged an early marriage or employment. Both may have suffered from your confusion of values and a tendency to scatter your energies through too many interests.

3♠

When it comes to love, the Three of Spades in Venus suggests that you may find emotional involvements the source of your greatest quandaries. While this combination of threes indicates that you have the charm to turn others on, they also suggest you may lack the staying power to build lasting relationships. Due both to a fear of being fenced-in and a short interest span, you're apt to display an almost indifferent coolness to those closest to you. Opportunities for romantic expression should abound. Unfortunately, this is also likely to contribute to your difficulty in making a choice and sticking to it. You might minimize the possibility of being trapped in a dull marriage or job by looking for someone or something that can keep up with your need for a variety of action.

9♥

With the Nine of Hearts in Mars, you most definitely cannot afford to take relationships for granted. If you do, you'll discover that this card can symbolize disappointment and heartaches. Apply the universal love quality also represented in this card and you may both avoid those expensive, emotional tangents to which you are prone and also find true fulfillment in helping others. Due to the masculine influence associated with this planetary position, some caution in your relationships with men might be advisable. Business, as well as personal involvements with the so-called stronger sex, could prove a source of emotional and financial problems.

7♣

Bright as you can be, the Seven of Clubs in Jupiter warns that your feelings may all too often cloud your thinking. Problems in communications and a tendency to indulge in needless worry are also hazards of this influence. As this card also suggests that you could be vulnerable to deception, be particularly careful in all financial and legal transactions. As with all the cards, there is also a positive potential represented in the Seven of Clubs. As a sensitive, intellectual influence with mystical overtones, it suggests that you are capable of inspiration which might be translated into creativity or leadership. And, combined with the auspicious influence of Jupiter, these efforts could prove very profitable.

5♦

The Five of Diamonds, combined with the karmic influence of Saturn, suggests that your restless urge for change is probably the greatest threat to your material well-being. Since this planetary influence especially applies to your middle years, it's to be hoped that maturity will have brought you some control of your habit of solving your problems by making changes. Otherwise, you will find this habit not only costly, money-wise, but also in it's impact on your health. Concerning the latter, watch that you don't complicate health problems by trying too many different types of treatment. Restrictive emotional situations, family burdens may contribute to your desire to run or travel. Not to encourage you to be derelict in your duties but, in your case, getting away may be the best therapy.

Q♠

Fortunately, the Queen of Spades, symbolic of strength occupies the Uranus position of your life spread. Not only is it likely to temper your eccentricities, but it also suggests that you can benefit through association with practical members of the fairer sex. Apply the self-mastery symbolized in this card and you should find that you have the power to overcome the uncertainties and weaknesses associated with your card. This card also suggests that, while much discipline and hard work are pre-requisites to any success, your efforts are likely to be handsomely rewarded. Although this influence is apt to be most strongly felt in middle age, apply the key represented in this card and you should find this power available to you at any age.

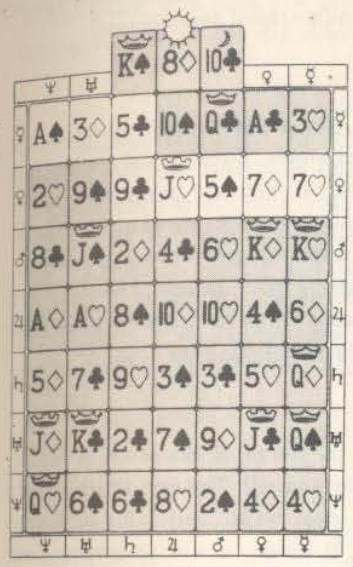

J ♣

Another entree to your success potential is the creative intellect symbolized in the Jack of Clubs. Combined with Neptune, it suggests the ability to turn the idealistic fantasies inspired by this far-out planet into a tangible and profitable product. There is a catch and that is the temptation to waste time and talents in nebulous schemes and people games. The leadership attributes associated with this card may bring you to a high point of achievement late in life. While this card indicates that your golden years should find you mentally alert, indifferent to the passage of time, the intellectual and artistic possibilities revealed in this card are yours to draw upon throughout your life.

Our passions are like convulsion fits,
Which, though they make us stronger for a time,
Leave us the weaker ever after.

Jonathan Swift

5 ♣ FIVE OF CLUBS

The Club suit combined with the number five merges the forces of change and motion with the mind. While this may produce restlessness and uncertainty, it can also stimulate an interest in many different things. Though this may spawn uncertainty resulting from confusion, it can also give birth to versatility.

An urge for action is likely to encourage you to seek solutions to your problems through travel and frequent changes. Channel the flexible mental attributes of this card in a positive way, and this can bring constructive expression of your many talents and abilities. Otherwise, this desire for change can become an obsession, a lingering discontent, which no change can ever remove.

As you are identified with the Club, or "mental suit," education may be the most effective discipline. With organization, you may find that the promised good fortune in your life spread can bring you success in more than one endeavor.

As your Mercury card in the life spread, the Three of Diamonds suggests that your quandaries began early in your life. Initially, this is likely to have meant problems relating to money which may have brought material limitations in your youth. Throughout your life, you may be confronted again and again with the need to make difficult decisions regarding financial and employment possibilities. In part, this may be due to a tendency for several opportunities to arise at the same time. If you can rise above the confusion implied in this card, you should find that it also has a brighter side. Combined with Mercury, it also suggests a bright, personable quality which should prove quite an asset in the communication of ideas, professions and interests involving public contact.

According to the Ace of Spades in Venus, you really are not an open book. Due to this emotional planetary influence, you are inclined to be unusually secretive about your personal life. Because of the modifying influence of a displaced Seven of Hearts, you'll have to watch that this tendency to secret involvement, affairs, relationships do not lead to unhappy complications and disappointments. Even if you are married, chances are that you'll still require the stimulus of other important friends. As you are inclined to be jealous, keep in mind that this can work both ways. While you are usually fairly materially oriented, this card also suggests a spiritual overtone which could help you transcend your frustrations and bring the peace which no mundane change can bring. This influence particularly favors finding fulfillment in groups involved with spiritual and philosophical development.

Due to the Mars placement of the Seven of Hearts, you are apt to have an emotional vitality which hungers almost desperately for people-involvement. Unfortunately, while this card suggests you have a magnetic charm, it also indicates that you may be disappointed in lovers and friends. Many of your heartaches are due to your own willful emotional attitudes. You can be the life of the party and then spoil it all by displaying an unreasonable amount of temperament. The planetary position of this card suggests that you should be especially cautious in not allowing your feelings to create unnecessary problems in business and legal matters. Avoid confrontations as the odds are that your heart will rule your head.

If you enjoy all the things that money can buy, the Seven of Diamonds in Jupiter suggests that there's a good chance you'll be able to enjoy yourself. This card which usually indicates financial challenges can become a symbol of great wealth under this auspicious planetary influence. Even though it suggests affluence, it would be well to develop your economic know-how as problems could arise over management of your resources. One of your greatest hazards in this regard is an inclination to act on impulse. So, in this respect, gambling and speculation are questionable for you. While uncertainty in your earlier years may encourage you to be frugal to the point of being parsimonious, when dame fortune smiles on you, you usually become generous to a fault.

Your naturally restless disposition is not likely to be helped by the Five of Spades in Saturn. In this case, it will probably bring many changes in work and interests. Those close to you may find it difficult to keep up with your vacillating interests and urge to be on the move. You might counter the possible negative effect of this influence by seeking occupations and interests which will provide you with the opportunity for travel and a wide variety of experiences. Although travel may prove a mixed blessing, it can also be a source of successful social and business contacts. Again the karmic influence of Saturn underscores the importance of gaining control of your restlessness. If you don't, the resulting discontent could stir up psychosomatic ailments.

Although you're not likely to seek a way of life which requires that you make sacrifices, the Jack of Hearts in Uranus suggests that when you are called upon to do so, you give generously of yourself. For this reason, you should do very well in service-oriented occupations. A rather dramatic, emotional nature is suggested by this card which, while it can be effective on stage, can cause you to be almost too dominant in more intimate situations.

There's a spiritual giant hidden in this card which might surface with a little help in your middle years. If it does, you should find the pursuit of higher wisdom aiding you in controlling your strong and impulsive emotions.

Fulfillment or worry and frustrations are the alternatives suggested by the Nine of Clubs in Neptune. Since your fine, versatile mind is your prime asset, it is extremely important you don't short-circuit your intellectual power by indulging in worry and negativity. You may have to watch your practical skepticism does not turn into a self-poisoning cynicism. Throughout your life and particularly in the latter days, it is very important you stress clarity in your thinking. Otherwise, you run the risk of ending your days in a state of disappointment. Keep in mind, the key to the great mind power suggested in this card is a positive philosophy and mental discipline.

Common sense is instinct,
And enough of it is genius.

Josh Billings

5 ♦ FIVE OF DIAMONDS

Due to the Saturn-Neptune placement of your card, the uncertainty in values suggested by your card will be amplified by a conflict between idealism and mundane concerns. Initially, the Diamond influence of your card suggests that money and material considerations are likely to dominate your attention. A sense of insecurity fed by some lean periods along with a compelling sense of duty is likely to supply you with the push to achieve considerable success. In the process of realizing your objectives, watch that fear and a preoccupation with mundane matters are not allowed to compromise your principles and spiritual awareness.

Q ♠

Your life pattern begins under the influence of the Queen of Spades in Mercury. This combination of card and planet suggests a childhood dominated by a rather strict mother or some other strong woman. Although her disciplines may have seemed rather severe, this,combined with other lessons learned from the experiences of your youth, are likely to provide you with an inner strength which may prove to be your most valuable asset. As a result of this early training, you have the capacity for hard work and are likely to be somewhat of a perfectionist. Whether it be with your children, subordinates at work or with yourself, you may have to guard against being too rigid a taskmaster. If you can apply the self-mastery symbolized in this card and overcome your innate lack of self-confidence, insecurity should never be a real threat.

J ♣

An excellent mental potential is indicated by the Jack of Clubs, your Venus card. As this card also represents a challenge of responsibility, you may have to learn to resist the temptation to waste your intellectual and creative abilities in trivial activities. Your happiest and most successful social expressions are likely to be found in the company of those who are mentally stimulating. This card accents the probability of an important relationship with a male friend. Particularly if your gender is feminime, be careful of an inclination to become romantically involved with interesting but generally weak partners.

Your strong money-material awareness is underscored by the Nine of Diamonds in Mars. But while you do have good money-making possibilities, this card and its placement under this planetary influence clearly imply that gambling and speculation are not your means to this end. Actually, just about any venture which depends more on chance than on your ability is likely to contribute to your basic uncertainty and become a source of loss. Even legal matters are likely to require extra caution, so read the fine print before you sign. On the other hand, recognize that you do have natural luck. The catch here is that it relates to work or some type of productive activity.

The mystical attributes symbolized in the Seven of Spades, your Jupiter card, can lift your awareness to spiritual heights but, mundanely, it will represent challenges in health and work. These may arise from a super-sensitivity which would make you much too vulnerable to set-backs in work and relationships. The very conscientiousness which makes you such a hard worker, may cause you to worry over work and money to the point that you jeopardize your health. Fortunately, in illness, you generally receive the best of care. St. Francis of Assisi, a saintly Five of Diamonds, well demonstrates the spiritual potential suggested in this card. Of course, to gain access to this power, much prayer and a great deal of self-mastery are likely to be the pre-requisites.

The Two of Clubs, combined with Saturn, suggests that vague, obscure fears may cause your normally friendly manner to be replaced by an impatient, argumentative nature. It might help to know that you do have a choice as to how you can use the force symbolized in this combination of card and planet. As with all twos, power is gained through co-operation. In this case, the Two of Clubs suggests that benefits may be found through sharing your knowledge, interests and pursuit of wisdom with others. If you are to overcome the negative factors associated with this particular influence, a positive philosophy is an absolute must.

K ♣

With the King of Clubs symbolizing the complexion of the Uranus portion of your life, you obviously do have some of the cards stacked in your favor. As the top card in the club or mental suit, you certainly do have something to work with in the brain department. Combined with this planetary influence, it also suggests that with the passing of years interest in matters spiritual and metaphysical will grow. If you follow up on this possibility, you should find that you're well-equipped to teach and give inspiration, This card also suggests that recognition, which may have been denied you earlier, will eventually find you. Symbolic of mental authority this card implies that your true place is to be found in some expression of leadership.

J ♦

The promise of a certain youthful enthusiasm to the very end is suggested by the Jack of Diamonds in Neptune. The positive and negative application of the forces and attributes of this card are worlds apart. On one hand, this can be a symbol of creativity indicating talent in writing, music, art and drama. On the other, it can also imply a sort of life-long immaturity, reluctant to accept the opportunity of the responsibilities destined for you. Accept the challenge embodied in this card and you should find that the latter days of your life can be the most rewarding of all!

Teach us that wealth is not elegance,
That profusion is not magnificence,
That splendor is not beauty.

Benjamin Disraeli

5♠ FIVE OF SPADES

An urge for personal freedom, as well as restlessness is likely to motivate a lifetime of changes and travel symbolized in your card. As identified with the Spade suit, these changes will apply particularly to work and your more productive interests. Though ambition will be an important motivating force, concern about improving the situation and well-being of loved ones will add impetus to your endeavors. Considering the need for variety and action implied in your card, you would be wise to avoid occupations and interests which are too routine and static in their nature. Although the many obstacles and frustrations indicated in your Life Spread may drive you to drink, keep in mind that the very same cards which indicate this possibility also suggest an inner strength and perseverance to achieve considerable success. While many who are identified with your card waste their lives in menial tasks, remember that the potential for a spectacular life expression is contained in the destiny projected by your card.

J♥

A strong emotional nature is suggested by the Jack of Hearts, the first, or Mercury card in your Life Spread. While this card implies a subtle personal magnetism, which can contribute significantly to your success, it also warns of the danger that your talents and fine mental potential may be overwhelmed by your feelings. This influence also indicates the probability that you will be the recipient of many calls for help. This may be more true in the early years when economic limitations may require sacrifices, especially in behalf of a male relative or friend. The noble quality associated with this influence suggests, particularly in your youth, a willingness to give service to others.

9♣

According to the Nine of Clubs, which occupies the Venus segment of your Life Spread, you certainly cannot afford to take love and friendship for granted. The combination of this card with the planet of love suggests people involvement will be a source of much worry and disappointment. A significant intellectual potential is also hidden in this card, and due to a lack of patience and difficulties in gaining an education, there is a danger that it may remain an undeveloped resource. Overcome this hurdle, and your mental powers could help you cope with your emotional challenges and be one of the principle keys to your success.

Another key to your success is perseverance, which is the positive interpretation of the double nine influence in your Life Spread. The Nine of Spades in Mars adds its weighty challenge to that implied by the Nine of Clubs. While this influence suggests some rather difficult obstacles in both health and work, there is also a potential for "greatness," providing you can develop the broad perspective, the sense of "universality" associated with the number nine. Difficulties in both work and health may arise from a somewhat willful and reckless attitude, combined with an inclination to push yourself beyond your endurance. You may be particularly vulnerable to accidents and secret dealings. In this regard, be especially cautious with male associates. As legal interests also come under this dubious influence, read the small print.

Keeping the above cautions in mind, the Jupiter placement of the Two of Hearts does indicate the probability of gain through partnerships, marriage and cooperation efforts. As your serious, determined approach is likely to win more resistance than acceptance, it is important that you learn to frame your usual "matter of fact" attitude with a warm and friendly manner. Careers with social-emotional overtones, or which involve travel and distant interests are likely to prove very rewarding. As this influence particularly applies to your middle years, much of the earlier turmoil and frustrations are likely to dissipate under this happier influence making this a time favorable for relating to loved ones. Marriage or some other close alliance could prove very fortunate.

The King of Hearts, which can indicate triumph in leadership roles, symbolizes your wonderful potential. But since this card is combined with Saturn, the "task master" of the planets, the road to the top is likely to be very challenging and the responsibility of leadership burdensome. You can be especially effective in careers involving public service, counselling and health. Regarding the latter, if you require any medical attention, you are likely to receive the best available. This combination of card and planet also suggests a strong willed individual, possibly a spouse or business partner, who is likely to play an important part in your life during your middle years. While this may be a beneficial association, you may have good reason for doubts.

The probability of success in your middle years is further enhanced by the King of Diamonds in Uranus. While the cards may imply that yours is not a particularly easy life, the double kings certainly suggest that it can be a rewarding one. As the top card in the Diamond suit, not only is your ability to handle executive positions emphasized, but the probability that they can bring you considerable monetary success is also underscored. While this part of your life is likely to be a time of affluence, watch that a preoccupation with material considerations does not cause you to overlook the subtle intuitive power also represented in this influence. Developed, it could prove to be a most valuable tool mundanely as well as spiritually.

Turbulent as your life may be, the Six of Hearts in Neptune suggests that your golden years will compensate for your earlier struggles with a time of peace and serenity. Actually, since you are inclined to be a rather restless individual, this may seem a mixed blessing. But even though this portion of your life may seem rather quiet after a lifetime of changes and travel, the positive influences in effect at this time should more than make up for any lack of excitement. This is a time to do all those things for which you never had any time. This part of your life is especially cut out for hobbies and interests with social overtones. Relax and enjoy yourself!

♥ ♣ 6 ♦ ♠

Symbolic of "Law and Order" the primary urge of the number six is for harmony and balance. Also identified with karma the law of "cause and effect," this number suggests that "what you sow, you'll surely reap." Having a birthday identifying you with this idealistic influence suggests you have a passion for having everything in its right place. Justice and truth are among the virtues you hold most high. You may learn that in order to enjoy the peace and beauty which you so greatly desire, you will have to set them into motion with your own example. Failure to obtain the wonderful contentment and serenity associated with this number is more than likely to come from selfishness and lack of initiative. Wallowing in inertia, indulging only in the more sensual aspects of your extremely sensitive nature can be a very real hazard. You're a natural diplomat who needs involvement with others where you can share your warm charm, intuitive intellect, and friendly responsibility for the well-being of others.

To more clearly understand how the four suits modify and accent certain aspects of the number six, the following is a brief illustration of their influence.

Six of Hearts — "The Law of Love." Apply it and love and harmony should return to you. This will probably include much sacrifice and understanding.

Six of Clubs — Here the "Law of Knowledge" is enhanced by intuition. As its messenger you may choose to express it in song or in the spoken and written word.

Six of Diamonds — The Diamond suit accents the "Law of Values." Responsibility applied, efforts should bring rewards. Flaunt this law, and debts and obligations are the probable consequence.

Six of Spades — Mundanely, "The Law of Labor" which if not applied can bring a lack of productivity and inactivity. This card also symbolizes "The Law of Life" with its benefits gained through the expression of a "selfless-universality."

6♥ SIX OF HEARTS

Symbolically, your card represents "The Law of Love." Subtle as this force may be, always keep in mind application of this principle is the true source of your power. With it you will win the hearts of all who come to know you. The emotional nature associated with your card, combined with the passive, but sensually-indulgent six, can also prove to be the source of your greatest challenges. Not only may it encourage a lack of initiative, as well as social excesses leading to many unfortunate emotional involvements, indolence and self-indulgence.

Happily, the positive attributes of your card and Life Spread far outweigh the negative possibilities. Actually, to the point that your's is considered to be one of the more fortunate life patterns. While it may not bring you material wealth, it will gain you many friends and much love through your natural charm and your generous, self-sacrificing concern for others.

Your Life Spread begins under the positive mental influence of the Four of Clubs. Occupying the Mercury position, this card indicates that you should learn to use your head, as well as your heart. You have an intellectual potential which could help you to think your way out of all those problems your emotions usually get you into. It suggests that you have a quick mind with a desire to learn about everything. As this planetary influence particularly applies to the earlier part of your life, it indicates a rather happy childhood, despite the moves and travel which may disturb your little world every so often. These changes may also foster a restlessness, encouraging you to leave home at an early age.

Obviously, with the Two of Diamonds in Venus, you're not a loner. The need to be involved with someone is so compelling that, if you don't marry while quite young, your fear of being alone may lead to all sorts of compromises and arrangements. This may encourage you to provide a serene haven for friends, students, the sick and the aged. Indicative of partnerships, this card also points to co-operative endeavors and the sharing of financial interests. In doing so, keep your eyes wide open! While you usually gain through joining forces with others, your casual, trusting naivete can lead to loss through partners. Perhaps your inherent fears regarding money will keep you on your toes.

What you may lack in burning ambition, the Jack of Spades in Mars suggests that you more than make up for in your willingness to work hard for your objectives. You are also most capable of giving efficient leadership. It does appear that you may need someone else, or a cause to act as a catalyst. This influence also indicates you may be stimulated into action by male associates. In this respect, you may also have to guard against dubious involvements, female as well as male, who may persuade you to travel the path of irresponsibility and dissipation. An inclination to be intrigued by the unusual, both in people and in interests, may motivate you to develop your latent perceptive faculties as you probe the mysteries of science and the occult.

Though your natural power is in the realm of love, the Eight of Clubs in Jupiter implies that knowledge is likely to be the key to the constructive use of that power. This card which symbolizes The Power of the Mind, combined with the auspicious influence of Jupiter, suggests that some type of education is essential if you are to really know the extent of your good fortune. Delightful as you can be, this aspect indicates that you're no pushover. So, while you may appear spineless at times, this fixed card shows you can also be very stubborn. Don't allow this quality to minimize the advantages you have to gain through working with others.

If anyone should appreciate the importance of the wise investment of time and money, you are that individual. What with being identified with a six and also having the karmic influence of the Six of Diamonds in Saturn, you will certainly reap what you sow! As monetary matters and debts can be a source of much grief, it's extremely important that you develop a realistic economic awareness. As a rule, your considerate nature inclines you to be very conscientious about obligations. Excellent as your earning potential is, it's your ability to manage your resources which may leave something to be desired. As this accents the probability of good health, any problems in this respect are likely to be due to carelessness. This same positive force suggests you can be effective in the healing professions.

Among the most fortunate indications in your Life Spread is the Four of Spades which indicates that you are likely to find favorable working conditions, especially in the latter part of your working experience. Not only are you likely to receive recognition for your efforts but you're also likely to gain material security. Due to the Uranus placement of this card, your interest in spiritual and metaphysical interests is apt to become more productive in your middle years. This planetary influence also suggests you may find profit and health in working with the land through farming and mining.

Perhaps the happiest symbol in your chart is the promise implied in the Ten of Hearts, which occupies the last segment of your Life Spread. This assures you with the passing of the years, your opportunities to enjoy love and friendship should increase, reaching a high point in your golden years. While this wonderful influence should be especially evident in your latter years, all through your life it accents the charm and ability to deal with people successfully indicated by your own card. The Neptune placement of this card also suggests that, whether it be for business or pleasure, you should find travel bringing you rewarding contacts. With this in mind, don't hide in a rut. There's a great big world out there waiting to meet you and love you!

All mankind loves a lover.

Ralph Waldo Emerson

6♣ SIX OF CLUBS

Your card combines the sensitive quality of the number six with the mental attributes of the Club suit, suggesting an exceptionally perceptive mind. This is one of the reasons why your card is considered to be the symbol of "intuition." If you haven't recognized this sixth-sense in yourself, perhaps the awareness of this potential will encourage you to develop it. It could prove a tremendous aid in relationships and work, and in achieving that harmony and "peace of mind" so important to you. This special insight also suggests that fate has destined you to share and inspire others with your unique vision and stimulating ideas. Your efforts are apt to be aided by artistic and musical talent, or with a perceptive understanding of the law.

There is one significant catch to this wonderful promise, and that is your great "love of ease and comfort." So, on your way to "set the world on fire," you may stumble over apathy and all the delights to which the flesh is prone.

Your basic Life Spread indicates that you have a potential for considerable success. If this doesn't seem to apply in your case, check to see if inertia has caused you to fall into the rut of laziness.

The probability that your life got off to a rather slow start is suggested by the Six of Spades which occupies the Mercury position of your Life Spread. As this influence especially applies to your earliest years, it suggests that, while your childhood may have been fairly comfortable, it may also have been rather monotonous. While this influence may have stimulated religious activity and other serious interests, these may have proved rather heavy and depressing on your young mind. Boredom may have made you impatient to strike out on your own which you might have done through an early job or marriage. As this influence underscores the inertia quality of your own card, not only in your youth but all through your life, you may find delays within, as well as without, making it difficult to get things underway.

Q ♥

With the Queen of Hearts in Venus, your love life is not likely to be dull. Actually, this card suggests that your emotional power is likely to be one of your strong points, winning as many heartaches as successes. This may be especially evident in your late teens and early twenties. This is not to imply that you're going to slow down later. While this card does indicate that you're likely to have the opportunity to build a lasting marriage, being somewhat of a romantic adventurer, multiple involvements are a strong possibility. The double Neptune placement of this card in the Life Spread warns of misunderstandings that could pose a serious problem in relationships.

The Ten of Clubs in Mars suggests that your efforts in your late twenties and thirties are likely to feel the growing momentum of success. While this card accents your good fortune in intellectual activities, such as education and writing, it also brings its aura of success to your expression of talents. Much of what you might achieve under this positive influence is likely to be based on your perceptive understanding of people. This cerebral influence, combined with the intuitive nature of your card, suggests that you're well-equipped to pursue the mysteries of life through science or spiritual endeavors.

If you want to be rich, the Eight of Diamonds combined with the auspicious influence of Jupiter suggests that you may have a better chance than most. This card does suggest that while you will probably have to earn your fortune, it's there waiting for you. The Sun-line placement of this card also implies that your efforts are likely to bring you recognition and fame. This diamond card warns of becoming so preoccupied with material values that you overlook the spiritual power also hidden in this card, which can be every bit as spectacular as its more obvious mundane possibilities. A spirit-matter drive is suggested here, which suggests that you can overcome all obstacles.

K ♠

The Saturn placement of the King of Spades indicates the high calling available to you. This card, which is considered to be the top symbol of mastery indicates the tremendous potential available to you. As a symbol of leadership and authority, it implies that you can rise to the top of your chosen field. To truly realize the ultimate prize embodied in this card, you will need to apply a great deal of personal discipline. In the cards, the spade suit pertains to work. Due to the Saturn influence of this card, once turned on, you may have to guard against overwork. Your basic good health indications are vulnerable to excesses in play as well as work. If your path is spiritual, you could not ask for a greater potential than that which is represented in this card.

While the Three of Hearts in Uranus symbolizes expression in music it also can be an indicator of indecision. Due to the Heart suit, this is likely to pertain to relationships, causing you to wonder if you have made the right choice, or if someone really cares as much for you as they say. This may leave you up in the air socially and if you are not careful, you may find yourself traveling alone. This indecisiveness may also be due to your great versatility, causing you to wonder which ability or opportunity you should pursue. Perhaps the best solution will be found in becoming so super-organized that you can develop your multi-potential and find success in several expressions of your abilities, and talents.

A♣

The last card in your Life Spread is the Ace of Clubs in the Neptune position. Symbolic of "the desire for knowledge," this card suggests that you will travel far in a quest for answers about yourself, about love and about life. Some of the possible loneliness associated with this card under Neptune's influence could be minimized if you will learn to share this quest for these answers with someone else. Fortunately, the latter years can benefit from your curiosity about life, in that it could provide you with the motivation to pursue the higher wisdoms, which might be found in religion and philosophy. This search could make your golden years the most rewarding of all.

The soul of God is poured into the world
Through the thoughts of men.

Ralph Waldo Emerson

6♦ SIX OF DIAMONDS

To the karmic influence of the number six, your diamond card adds the modifying influence of values. As your card symbolizes "the karma of values." it is extremely important that you develop a truly realistic sense of economics. Unwise investments, obligations or your own indifference to financial matters could return to haunt you and minimize all the fortunate possibilities implied by the placement of your card in the Jupiter line of the Life Spread. While this card accents material values, it also emphasizes the necessity of balancing these values with those of the spirit and mind.

As with all whose birthdays identify them with the number six you will be confronted with the challenge of inertia and lethargy, with your diamond card adding the desire for pleasure in luxury. In this respect the underlying material protection projected by Jupiter on your life may prove a dubious blessing in that in helping you get by, it may contribute to your lack of initiative. Overcome the temptation to drift aimlessly, wasting the wonderful potential shown in your Life Spread and you should find that fate dealt you a winning hand.

Though your earlier years may bring you problems probably relating to a parent, the positive influence of the Four of Spades should bring you over those young hurdles. This determined force is likely to supply the motivation to push you through school when you would prefer to pass your time day-dreaming. It may also encourage you to accept responsibilities in an effort to improve your material situation to the extent that you may have even sought employment while fairly young. This positive influence also suggests that work opportunities may arise suddenly and also fade as rapidly. It does suggest that you are likely to be your own best salesman. So, if you want something, go after it personally.

10♥

The Ten of Hearts in the Venus portion of your Life Spread suggests that you should have no real difficulty in attracting friends. The only problem here may be in your inclination to attract all kinds, some very interesting, some bizarre, and others who in their own weakness and irresponsibility are likely to lean on you. For this reason, you may have to learn to practice a great deal of discrimination; otherwise, your personal life may be peopled by unstable individuals. Perhaps this is why so many who share this card with you, in spite of their popularity and need for love, choose to go it alone, becoming solitary artists, scientists or religious workers. Actually, on a less personal scale, this influence does indicate the probability of success in careers and activities dealing with people.

Even when your material monetary situation is limited, the Ten of Diamonds in Mars suggests that you will feel your good fortune is just around the corner. In a sense, you are right, only don't let your inclination to find it the easy way, through gambling or speculative ventures, cause you to miss out on the opportunity to strike it rich, implied in this card. Even though this card suggests you may have some material protection, in combination with Mars, it suggests that the real opportunity for success shown here will require some effort on your part.

If you accept the previous challenge and decide to make the necessary effort, the Eight of Spades combined with the auspicious influence of Jupiter, should give you the vitality to overcome all obstacles. This card is considered to be the most powerful work symbol in the cards. And, while some of its benefits may be handed to you on a silver platter, to really take advantage of its potential, you will have to engage in some type of productive activity. Due to the expansive influence of Jupiter, your potential for success is likely to be amplified through your association with large groups, projects or organizations.

The Saturn placement of the Ace of Hearts suggests that your greatest trials may come through your desire for love and affection. And while you can attract many to you, it appears that, to minimize the possibility of disappointment in love, you must seek to express love in a personal way. Since you have an intuitive understanding of people, this may be accomplished in the role of a counsellor, teacher and benefactor. With the progress of the years, it will probably become more apparent to you that this may bring you the greatest personal fulfillment.

All through your life, you may have a continuing battle with inertia. In that struggle, the Ace of Diamonds in Uranus is likely to supply you with the motivation to continue the battle against giving in to inactivity. This symbol of ambition, representing a desire for material abundance and recognition, is likely to keep you in action until you've attained the high places to which you aspire. Combined with Uranus, it is likely to encourage your interest in the well-being of others through social services and labor groups. It is also likely to spark your intuitive nature, encouraging you to develop your spiritual and philosophical potential.

The complexion of the latter years is indicated by the Queen of Diamonds in Neptune. This suggests the probable association with a rather dominant woman who may be both a source of inspiration and a stimulus to your interest in fine things. This may encourage you to seek a marriage with material advantages. In this respect, you may always have to watch that your underlying sense of luxury doesn't encourage unreasonable extravagances. You should try to remain active in your golden years, preferably in activities which involve you with other people. After all, one of your greatest assets is your ability to relate successfully to people. And the latter years should bring significant opportunities to demonstrate this ability.

Without a rich heart
Wealth is an ugly beggar.
Ralph Waldo Emerson

6♠ SIX OF SPADES

"The Law of Life" is symbolized in your card. So the potential for expression represented by this card is far apart as life and death. As with all the sixes, karma, the "law of cause and effect," is particularly important. In other words, the consequences of your thoughts, words and actions are likely to become very evident. Negatively expressed, the forces represented here can indicate "inertia and monotony." So if you choose to ignore the responsibility symbolized here, you are apt to find a meaningless existence filled with boredom. If caught up with the positive spirit, also represented here, you will find an intuitive insight that will help you fulfill your mission in life. Whether it be through spiritual, philosophical or political means, it appears that you are to communicate to others the true purpose of life. In doing so, you may choose a less obvious route, applying the charismatic aura associated with this card to an expression in the realm of entertainment.

Q♥

Serious as your card suggests you to be, the Queen of Hearts, symbolic of Mercury in your Life Spread, suggests that behind those brooding eyes hides a tremendous charm. Besides indicating the knack for winning others through your social emotional powers, this card symbolizes the quality of your early years. It suggests the probability that your mother, or some other woman encouraged you to be more outgoing socially. Leadership, or responsibilities may have found you early in life. In all probability you were more than able to meet and cope with them.

10♣

An aura of success is suggested by the Ten of Clubs, which occupies the Venus segment of your Life Spread. While this card accents your intellectual possibilities, the planetary position suggests that you will find your success in people related activities. A "quick study," you can assimilate knowledge quite readily. Even your social activities may take on cerebral overtones with discussions of politics and philosophy. In fact, particularly in close relationships, you may have to work at developing a sense of humor to minimize your serious, matter-of-fact attitude.

Combined with the energy of Mars, the Eight of Diamonds suggests that money and the pleasure you gain from enjoying the good things in life may be the real stimulus that gets you into action. This card suggests that you have the vitality spiritually as well as materially to overcome just about any obstacle. While you will probably have to work for the prizes you seek, the "material power" symbolized here should place them within your grasp. Notice, in the Life Spread, this is the top center card, identified as the Sun Symbol. Due to this position, the influence of this card suggests that your fortune is also likely to bring you fame.

K♠

The great possibilities available to you are underscored by the Jupiter placement of the King of Spades. Here you have, in the most auspicious planetary position, the "top master card." The King of Spades symbolizes a potential power, spiritually as well as mundane, of the greatest magnitude. This can be a most awesome responsibility, one that can be used to serve or dominate. Whatever your field of action, this card suggests that you can be a leader. As this influence can encourage you to be somewhat arbitrary, remember to temper your power with warmth and understanding. While the forces represented here can raise you to heights in anything you choose to undertake, its greatest potential is in the mystical realm.

The Three of Hearts in Saturn suggests that your greatest challenges will come through your emotions and relationships. While this symbol of expression suggests you can shine socially and in occupations and activities in which personal appeal is important, it also represents emotional indecision. So you are likely to know a great deal of uncertainty in your association with others. This is likely to be fed by your own indecisiveness as to what you want emotionally. As this can be a most disturbing influence, you may have to watch that psychological reaction to affairs of the heart do not bring on psychosomatic illnesses. Minimize ego considerations in relationships and accent the perceptive, compassionate nature hidden here and you should improve your chances for personal happiness.

A♣

It may take the curiosity, the desire to know symbolized by the Ace of Clubs, to prod you into uncovering your own subtle, perceptive powers. The Uranus placement of this card suggests that your quest for answers is likely to include all sorts of unusual experiences and sources of knowledge. Earthbound inclinations, the need to be logical and practical may minimize the development of your intuitive awareness. So it may not be until your middle years when the urge may become so strong that you will finally turn to spiritual, philosophical and metaphysical sources for answers. When you do, you should find that mundane affairs, as well as your quest for wisdom should benefit from the development of this attribute.

Respond to the above mental intuitive stimulus and the Queen of Clubs, symbolic of the last or Neptune portion of your life, promises that you can reach the heights of intellectual sensitivity. If your gender is feminine, you may be tempted to live up to an illusionary ideal. If you are male, that same illusionary idealism may encourage you to place woman on such an idealistic pedestal that you will find it difficult to relate realistically to them. This card does suggest that women, probably a specific woman, are apt to play a most significant part in your life. Since this card is also the symbol of service, you may find that your latter days are brightened in roles that provide you with the opportunity to help others.

Prolonged idleness paralyzes the mind.

As you may have noticed, this system of the cards (metasymbology) is built around the number seven. It uses seven planets, the spreads all consist of seven rows and seven columns, and the long-range spreads of seven yearly cycles. Perhaps this is why Olney Richards in his Mystic Test Book associates the book of cards with the "Book of Seven Thunders" in Revelations, Chapter 10, Verses 4 through 11.

In its higher expression, the number seven symbolizes "Spiritual Victory." This might be also interpreted to indicate the ability to transcend an identification limited by mundane values. If life were primarily concerned with matters spiritual, those identified with this number would have a tremendous advantage. But in the material realm, the sensitive mystical attributes associated with this number can cause you to be especially vulnerable to introversion, melancholy, skepticism and a tendency to waste your productivity in daydreams. Symbolically, you have a reservoir of inspired wisdom combined with an inherent analytical ability, which could reward you through expressions of spiritual leadership, artistic visions, scientific research and in the analyzing of business trends. The true challenge symbolized in this number may be to use your profound vision to help you overcome the temptation to compromise your higher values.

As your expression of the number seven also depends on your "suit," the following depicts, in brief, how the four suits modify the challenge and vision of the number seven.

Seven of Hearts	The challenge is to rise above petty emotional considerations and to express the "ideal love" through loving service.
Seven of Clubs	The challenge is to control a tendency to indulge in worry and cynicism, to use your intuitive intellect as a medium for inspired knowledge.
Seven of Diamonds	The challenge is to overcome a preoccupation with material acquisition, to demonstrate faith and wisdom in a true expression of values.
Seven of Spades	The challenge here is to transcend the mire of moods, of flesh and matter, to reflect the "divine inspiration" symbolized in your card.

7♥ SEVEN OF HEARTS

"The Mystic Heart" might be the literal translation of your card. To fully appreciate what this may mean to you, consider the components involved. As a heart, emotional considerations are likely to be uppermost. But keep in mind, charming as you are likely to be, that this quality is modified by the profound sensitivity of the number seven. Ignore this reality by pursuing love indiscriminately or indulging in selfish, emotional attitudes, suspicion and jealousy, and you will know that this card also can be the symbol of heartaches and "disappointment in love." So your challenge will be to accept the responsibility of love. True, it is likely to require many sacrifices on your part, but in giving service through love, you will find your own personal fulfillment.

7♦

The first card in your Life Spread is in Mercury and is the Seven of Diamonds. The combination of this seven with that of your card emphasizes the probable stress of your earlier years. It suggests that this time is apt to know limitations and obstacles, which are likely to contribute to your uncertainty about your relationships with others. With your basic need for love and self-expression being so great, this could have an almost traumatic effect on you. Although your intense sensitivity is apt to be a source of pain, it also is likely to heighten your perceptive powers, aiding you in the expression of art and music, or in the understanding of the problems of others. You are also apt to have excellent taste in clothes and decor. The combination of this Diamond card with Mercury suggests an inclination to spend impulsively, to indulge in emotional extravagances.

5♠

Venus is occupied by the Five of Spades. This symbol of change is likely to bring an element of restlessness to your more personal life, encouraging much travel or many changes relating to your living situation. Since this changeable influence is combined with the planet of love, you may have to guard against emotional instability. Some of the uncertainty, which you may experience in relationships, are likely to be due to a projection of your own uncertainty regarding what you desire in love and friendship. While this influence may be especially prevalent in your youth, its lingering effect may have a disturbing influence on relationships throughout life. Socially, even businesswise, some of your most rewarding experiences and contacts are likely to be made while traveling and through activities concerned with those "far away places."

J♥

Dynamic emotional power is suggested by the Mars placement of the Jack of Hearts in your Life Spread. This card also suggests that an element of sacrifice is likely to permeate your life. This may be nothing more than the demands made upon you by loved ones. In this role, resist the temptation to indulge in self-pity. This crown card, which is identified as the "Christ Card," points the way to greatness through "loving service." Discipline the emotional energies represented here, and you may find renown through giving spiritual or political leadership or in some type of theatrical expression.

9♣

Your strong emotional nature is somewhat countered by the cerebral influence of the Nine of Clubs in Jupiter. While this high mental card does indicate a significant intellectual potential, unfortunately, it also suggests difficulty in developing this attribute. In part, this is apt to be due to mental laziness arising out of the probability that you may find thinking such a chore. Although you probably can get by on your charm, the combination of this card with Jupiter, "the planet of fortune," suggests the importance of education or some program to develop your talents as keys to your true success. As you tend to be particularly vulnerable to envy and jealousy, make it a point to stress charm and friendliness in work, especially in situations which place you in positions of authority.

9♠

"What you sow, you reap" is emphasized by the Saturn placement of the Nine of Spades. Combined with the influence of the above mentioned Nine of Clubs, you are likely to be confronted with some seemingly insurmountable obstacles and frustrations. Actually, the means of overcoming these possibilities is also symbolized in this card. And that is through much self-discipline, patience and perseverance. Achievements made under this planetary influence can be most substantial and lasting. Since this card suggests a dubious health pattern, it is extremely important that you seek a life style which doesn't impose too great a stress on your well-being. Illnesses are likely to arise from overwork and social excesses. The latter in particular, may produce ailments difficult to diagnose.

The need to be involved with someone is accented by the Two of Hearts in Uranus. At times this need may be so great that you will make just about any kind of compromise not to go it alone. The number two symbolizes partnerships and cooperative activity. As you grow older this will become increasingly important, and you will find your greatest satisfaction in sharing in work or social endeavors. Since you thrive in an atmosphere of harmony, make sure that you are radiating it in your work and personal life. Joining groups involved in the pursuit of knowledge, especially those concerned with the philosophical and metaphysical realms may not only bring social pleasure but also help you find the peace of mind you so desperately need.

The last symbol in your Life Spread, in Neptune, is the King of Hearts. It can crown the latter part of your life with recognition and love. As a rule, Kings relate to leadership and responsibility. So in order to take full advantage of this wonderful time in your life, you might aspire to excel in your field or offer your services to some charity or humanitarian organization. There is also a vitality here which suggests that your golden years need not be wasted in non-productive activity. If this time does not bring you renown as a public figure, it will probably bring you loving appreciation for your warmth and service.

Borrow trouble for yourself,
If that's your nature,
But don't lend it to your neighbors.

Rudyard Kipling

7♣ SEVEN OF CLUBS

The merging of the club suit with the number seven in your card suggests that your truest expression will be found in the realm of "inspired knowledge." Unfortunately, the critical skepticism also mirrored in your card may close your inner eyes to spiritual sources of wisdom. In this case, the lingering sensitive awareness may end up wasted in worrisome thought patterns. As you look for answers and fulfillment in more tangible expressions, you should find your endeavors to "lay up earthly treasures" helped by the fact that your card displaces the Eight of Diamonds, symbolic of significant earning potential in the Perfect Spread. You can be very successful in matters mundane but you may never find peace of mind until you find a way to express the "mystical-mental" attributes symbolized in your card.

Your earliest years are marked by the changeable influence of the Five of Diamonds, which occupies the Mercury position of your Life Spread. It suggests that this is likely to be a time of many moves and travel. While this may bring an aura of adventure to your life, it may also leave you with a haunting uncertainty and restlessness, which may foster a sense of instability. There's a danger that this may cause you to be so impatient that you may fail to get the necessary education to capitalize on your fine mental potential, or make it difficult to sustain your interest in work and other pursuits. As this influence can indicate the possibility of sudden and surprise changes in your employment and material situations or losses of money, make sure that these are not due to your own impulsiveness.

Q♠

According to the Queen of Spades in Venus, women are likely to have a beneficial influence on your life. Especially in your teens and twenties, when this may manifest as expressions of love and affectionate support from the fairer sex. Activities relating to the home and businesses dealing in services, such as nursing, restaurants, hotels, etc., are all favored by this influence. Humanitarian endeavors to be found in church and charity may also prove to be most rewarding socially. Whether it be in pursuit of mundane success or spiritual awareness, application of the "self mastery" symbolized in the Queen of Spades is your key to everything.

J♣

An active and somewhat feisty mind is suggested by the Jack of Clubs in Mars. While this could help you win legal debates, unless these cerebral energies are constructively channeled, this could make you argumentative. Since this card is one of the symbols of creativity, check for possible talent in writing, music and drama. Male or female, you will find greater stimulation from your association with men or women who are real doers. You will be bored with the ladies who depend entirely on their feminine wiles. In your late twenties and early thirties, you are apt to be particularly vulnerable to those who would appeal to your libertine side and secret desire to kick over the traces. So much so, that there is a real threat that these could end up as the wasted years.

Under the expansive influence of Jupiter, you have the Nine of Diamonds. This usually indicates the out-go of a great deal of money. Obviously, you are not likely to spend it unless you have it, so in a sort of backhanded way this implies that you're apt to enjoy a certain amount of affluence. If not through your own efforts, you will probably acquire money through marriage or inheritance. However you come by it, your real challenge is likely to be in your ability to manage it. You not only have expensive tastes, they are apt to be down-right extravagant. With more than an ordinary desire for the better things, you had better think seriously as to how you can support this life style. Symbolically, the greatest obstacle to your mystical potential is a preoccupation with material values.

Positive and vital may be the image you project, but the Seven of Spades in Saturn indicates that you had better not take your health for granted. Your bright facade hides a rather sensitive individual, causing you to be vulnerable to all sorts of ailments. For the most part, they are apt to relate to your state of mind. This is why it is extremely important that you develop constructive thinking habits. After all, your card also symbolizes challenges of a mental nature. When you are on a positive wave length, you will not only ward off illnesses for yourself, but also have a healing effect on others. Though this combination of card and planet can indicate some serious challenges, it also implies a significant "spiritual potential."

The great secret of the cards is how you apply the forces and attributes which they represent. For example, in Uranus you have the Two of Clubs. Negatively expressed, this can become a symbol of secret fears and quarrelsome disposition. But the true power symbolized here is to be found in cooperative activity, especially in sharing a quest for knowledge with others. In this instance, due to the Uranus influence, group activity involved with unusual interests socially and intellectually are accented. Caution in dealing with products of the land and real estate is also advised by this influence. Secretive partnership efforts could backfire.

Unlimited possibilities are suggested by the King of Clubs. Due to its Neptune placement in your Life Spread, it may take you a lifetime to recognize the wonderful opportunities available to you. Since this is the top card in the Club suit, it indicates a significant mental potential and capability for expressions of leadership and authority. If you are willing to accept the responsibility of developing your intellect, talents and executive abilities, this card certainly suggests that the latter portion of your life should find you achieving your high goals. There is good reason to think that the latter part of your life will be the most rewarding time of all.

Worry is the interest paid by those Who borrow trouble.

7 ♦ SEVEN OF DIAMONDS

Profound and profane values mingle uncomfortably in your card. While they may encourage you to champion some idealistic cause or to capitulate to the "golden calf," the resulting inner conflict may produce a driving force. One which, while an irritant to you and those about you, may also propel you or someone close to you into success. Basically productive, you are inclined to work hard for your objectives, so much so at times that your quest for success may become an obsession, which you will fulfill no matter what the consequences. This may include pursuing your ambitious drive through your spouse or children. You are not likely to be satisfied with a modest cottage or apartment. Perhaps this is why so many of the very wealthy are identified with your card. While you are likely to be quite successful, a nervous irritability may plague you until you can find a way to successfully integrate the spiritual and materialistic values symbolized in your card.

The Mercury placement of the Five of Spades in your Life Spread suggests that the element of change is likely to have made itself felt early in your life. Apart from indicating changes in your living situation and circumstances, this card also indicates the probability of travel. With the progress of your life, you are likely to find some of your most rewarding contacts socially and businesswise in travel. This could be an important consideration when choosing a life work. A basic restlessness and curiosity about life is suggested here, encouraging a desire to get out into the world to find out what life is all about.

J ♥

The probability of having to make sacrifices on behalf of loved ones is indicated by the Jack of Hearts in Venus. While this suggests that you can be particularly effective in roles of service, such as to be found in nursing, teaching or politics, it may also indicate the necessity of having to put aside personal ambitions for the sake of the family. The dynamic emotional power implied in this card suggests that you could make quite a dramatic impact in public life. Intimately this may prove more of a cross than a source of joy. Despite personal frustrations, you are likely to see that those you love are well and cared for. This same attribute overcomes your reluctance to entertain, helping you to be a most considerate host.

Even though the Nine of Clubs in Mars indicates the probability of a significant potential in the brain department, it also suggests that you may find thinking such a chore that you may be reluctant to use your cerebral powers. This card combined with the erratic energies of Mars emphasizes the great need to control your inherent, edgy impatience. Some of the necessary antagonism which you might encounter in life may arise from a tendency to gloss over details and the feelings of others. This same impatience may encourage you to try all sorts of short-cuts and devious means to gain your ends. While you can make money, this influence suggests that you had better not trust to "lady luck," as she is not likely to be of much help in those speculative ventures or legal intrigues.

While you can achieve considerable success, the Nine of Spades in Jupiter suggests that you will probably have to work hard for it. The combination of the two nines suggest that you are apt to have your share of obstacles and frustrations. Since these cards also symbolize perseverance and the concept of "universality" you should find in the application of these principles a means to overcome your hurdles. Transcend petty values, preoccupation with self and turn your abilities into compassionate concern for the well being of others, and you should find that this influence can also represent fulfillment.

The Two of Hearts indicates your great need for close relationships, but the Saturn position of this card also suggests that marriage and other close ties will be a source of restrictive responsibilites and burdens. This may be in the form of health problems of loved ones, or in occupations which require you to help those who are ill. In your middle years, the materialistic attributes suggested by your card may be seriously challenged by a growing spiritual awareness, which may encourage a greater interest and participation in religious and humanitarian endeavors.

K ♥

While your efforts and aspirations are apt to meet with many delays, the King of Hearts in Uranus indicates that eventually the tide should turn in your favor, with the middle years bringing you the success held from you earlier. Maturity is also likely to bring a mellowing, revealing a warmth and inner depth, which may surprise you as much as those who have seen only your Diamond side. The magnanimous quality implied in this card could prove a tremendous asset, especially if you choose to demonstrate the leadership potential suggested in this card. Group and social activities should also prove more rewarding and successful in your middle years. Combined with Uranus, this card also suggests a great deal of psychic energy.

Fortunate you are to have your life crowned with two Kings. The King of Diamonds in Neptune amplifies the wonderful promises indicated by the above mentioned King of Hearts. Whatever your objectives, power, recognition or material security, in the long run, it certainly appears that you have the cards stacked in your favor. As the top card of the Diamond suit this King accentuates your material power, but it also emphasizes the responsibility involved, and suggests that you can accomplish your lofty objectives by preparing to wear the mantle of leadership. Whatever, don't expect to retire to a rocking chair, as your golden years could be "the best years of your life."

The chief value of money
Lies in the fact that one lives in a world
In which it is overestimated.

7♠ SEVEN OF SPADES

The spade suit may either emphasize the mystical possibilities of your number "seven" card, or bury them under a preoccupation with sex, money and power. As you are likely to have some good material fortune, you may not realize when you have rejected your higher awareness. The lingering sensitivity, which could be an entree to inspiration, may prove to be more of a curse instead, making you vulnerable to all sorts of pain. Unless you are able to find refuge in some spiritual or philosophical expression, you may be tempted to drown your pain in liquor or drugs. If you can recognize that your card suggests you are an instrument through which loftier values may be communicated to others, then you will know the "divine peace" you seek, and realize why your card is identified as the symbol of Spiritual Victory.

The complexion of the earliest years of your life is symbolized by the Two of Clubs. Combined with the planetary position of Mercury, this card suggests a mental keenness which, while it may have helped you learn quickly, may also have been like a double edged sword in that it may have also made you somewhat argumentative. The latter, both as a child and as an adult, may be due in part to hidden fears. Uncertainty as to what you want to do may contribute to this defensive position. In this respect, you may have to guard against an inclination to get off on negative, moody tangents, which can isolate you from others. While this may encourage you to play the role of a loner, the Two of Clubs clearly indicates that you have much more to gain by sharing.

The King of Clubs, which occupies the Venus segment of your Life Spread, underscores the excellent mental potential mentioned above, and points to its development as a key to your true power. This card suggests a significant moulding influence from an older man, possibly your father or some teacher. The Venus placement of this card also favors intellectually oriented social activities and associates. Executive and leadership possibilities are accented by this crown card, suggesting that you are much more suited to positions of authority, or to having a business of your own. In close relationships or with employees, guard against being too bossy.

In Mars, you have the creative influence of the Jack of Diamonds, which suggests that you should check to see if you have any artistic ability. Whether it be in art, writing, drama or something else, this influence implies that you have the ability to turn whatever you do into profit. Apart from indicating an ability to make money, this also points to the probability that you can make a career out of handling the financial affairs of others. A streak of idealism is suggested here, which may encourage you to be a moving force in public service, churches and fraternal organizations. When you have decided what you want to do, and that can be quite a problem, you are likely to work hard at it, and you might just end up by finding success in several different interests.

Combined with the expansive influence of Jupiter, the social romantic influence of the Four of Hearts suggests that you are likely to win many friends and admirers. This attribute should be particularly helpful in careers which cater to the public. Even though you are somewhat on the quiet side, your charming, magnetic energies seem to accelerate correspondingly with the number of contacts you make. To the point that your natural shyness is replaced by a sparkling, overt personality. This benefic-emotional influence implies the probability of material and other advantages through love and marriage.

The middle years, aided by maturity should help you enjoy the material and stabilizing advantages of the Four of Diamonds in Saturn. While this planetary influence suggests that you will have to work hard for your good fortune, this card highlights earning ability, suggesting that you will live very well. Your health is also likely to benefit from this positive aspect, probably due in part to your interest in sports, diets and other health related subjects. While at times you will be consumed by measures taken to preserve your well-being, there are those times when you couldn't care less. If your indifference or carelessness should produce illness, you are likely to receive the best possible care.

Again, the benefits to be gained through cooperative endeavors are emphasized by the Two of Spades in Uranus. A tendency to be somewhat aloof and independent may minimize your ability to take advantage of this influence. If you have not come to realize this earlier in your life, you will probably have a chance in your middle years to join your forces with someone else, or to establish a partnership. This card and the planetary influence favors combining your efforts with others in the pursuit of unusual and innovative ideas, inventions and the study of things spiritual and occult. Regarding the latter, even though your great sensitivity should make you a natural for ESP and other metaphysical interests, fear of the unknown combined with a preoccupation with the mundane may keep you from tapping this power.

The last, or Neptune, segment of your Life Spread is under the happy influence of the Eight of Hearts. This positive influence should not only bring a lot of pleasant social activity into the latter part of your life, but should also bring rejuvenating vitality to your health. With this stimulating influence crowning your life pattern, you will probably remain active to the very end. Throughout your life, you should enjoy the benefits of this wonderful aspect, especially in your travels. The contacts you are likely to make while journeying are likely to be very rewarding socially. As you may find it easier to relax away from home, you are especially intrigued with "those far away places." Due to its combination with Neptune, the planet of glamour and illusion, your charm is inclined to contain an aura of mystery. This may also produce misunderstandings with lovers and friends.

This is the number of power, a symbol of action and overcoming, one of the most positive and constructive influences of all. It can also become a terrible force when its power is abused as the bully, the tyrant who will ride roughshod over others who get in their way. A passion for justice is also represented here, but in its dispensation, arbitrary attributes may encourage the concept of "might makes it right."

You are fortunate if your birthday identifies you as an eight. Having the power to shape your own destiny, you are never completely at the mercy of fate. Organizational ability and the potential for aggressive leadership suggest that you belong in positions of authority. In this role, guard against impatience and a tendency to be a "slave driver." You have the inherent courage and endurance to accomplish "The Impossible Dream." In your efforts to do so, resist the inclination to use pomp and show as a criteria of success. As an eight, you have the keys to mundane power and material wealth. As you glory in your achievements, don't overlook the higher octave, the spiritual responsibility of your power. "Most powerful is he who has himself in his own power." (Seneca).

Your particular eight is further modified by your suit. For example, if you are an:

Eight of Hearts — Yours is "The power of love and charm." You can win love and friendship. If you abuse this power in endless emotional conquests, you could end up all alone.

Eight of Clubs — Yours is "The power of mind and knowledge." Guard against being so inflexible that you can't grow in the expression of wisdom.

Eight of Diamonds — Yours is "The power of values." Don't allow material success to obscure your responsibility to blend spiritual and material values.

Eight of Spades — Yours is "The power of labor and higher wisdom." You can overcome through hard work, but in the process don't overlook your spiritual power.

8♥ EIGHT OF HEARTS

"Emotional power" is the most obvious attribute suggested by your card. Whether this will translate into "The Power of Love" will largely depend on what you call love. If love is synonymous with sex, your emotional drive may urge you to pursue your romantic fantasies through one relationship after another. If you will accept the responsibility of the power symbolized in this card and combine it with your inherent idealism, you should find that you have the power in your love and charm to overcome all obstacles in relationships, to heal the sick, and the ability to bring peace and harmony where there is strife and disagreement. As an eight you may have to learn to resist the temptation to use power tactics, to bully your way through. You may achieve some objectives this way, but you are likely to accomplish far more through the use of charm and loving understanding. As a Heart you thrive on people-involvement. Keep this in mind when choosing occupations and prime interests.

6♣

Action oriented, as you tend to be, the Six of Clubs in Mercury, suggests that your earlier years may have seemed on the quiet side. On the plus side, this card suggests that circumstances in your youth are likely to have been rather stable and secure. Health considerations, of yourself or of someone close to you, may have been contributing factors to your lack of activity. Although this card suggests that you are bright and probably gifted with some intuitive potential, it also indicates a tendency to be somewhat lazy in developing your mind, depending rather on your charm and gift of gab. As this card also has an inertial influence throughout your life, you may find it difficult to initiate action, to get activities and projects under way.

6♠

The Six of Spades in the Venus portion of your life Spread suggests that your teens are likely to experience a continuation of the monotonous influences indicated above. Here it tends to encourage an anxious-restlessness to break free from the boredom of it all. In your endeavors to liven up your life, you are prone to try some desperate measures. These may include an unfortunate early marriage and work efforts, probably equally disappointing. Actually, if you can apply the perceptive insight associated with this card, you should be able to manage your way successfully in both love and work. You want enduring relationships, but much patience and self-control are to be prerequisites to make your romantic dreams come true.

If not before, the Queen of Hearts in Mars suggests that the social-romantic complexion of your life should brighten considerably in your twenties. You will have the opportunity to truly realize the emotional power of your heart card. As all your craving for action and excitement is likely to surface, you must have to watch that you do not become too aggressive in your quest for love and social activity.You are not likely to find much resistance to your charms, as you conquer all the hearts of those exposed to your magnetic personality. But you may have to watch that you do not turn them off, encouraging them to put up defensive barriers, by coming on too strong, or using pressure tactics. Channel this tremendous, emotional energy and it could win both personally and professionally for you.

Although you have the capabilities of overwhelming others with your personality, the Ten of Clubs , combined with the great beneficial Jupiter, suggests that your fortune may be helped significantly by developing your intellectual potential. With this in mind, it appears that education may be the real key to the success represented in this card. Whatever, the Jupiter placement of this card can bring considerable success, making your thirties and forties very rewarding. The brain power you may uncover may also help you to put your emotional house in order. It may also help you to tap the very mysteries of life itself.

With the Eight of Diamonds in Saturn, the above promise of success could also prove to be very profitable. As your own card indicates "emotional power," this card implies a "power in values," suggesting a certain protection materially. True, combined with Saturn, the benefits implied here are likely to require a great deal of hard work, but the cards are stacked in your favor to make money. Gain through inheritance, or through service type occupations, such as to be found in teaching, social work, medicine, counselling is also shown as a possibility. Your cup of vitality runneth over, according to this card. So much so, that others are likely to feel stimulated in your presence. For this reason, health problems are likely to be due to carelessness.

Both your card and the King of Spades in Uranus suggests that you are not likely to be happy playing "second fiddle." And this card certainly implies the potential capability of handling positions of authority. Your middle years probably will provide you with the opportunity to demonstrate your ability to express leadership. With so much power at your disposal, guard against being overbearing, as you can all too easily be too dominant both in business and in your personal life. This, the top master card also suggests a most significant mystical potential, which you could use to give inspired, spiritual leadership.

The emotional quandaries implied by the Three of Hearts are not likely to be helped by the vague, illusionary influence of Neptune. But this combination of influences suggests difficulties in relationships. especially affairs of the heart, may be due to a nebulous, romantic idealism. to which no one could ever possibly live up to. As this influence symbolizes your personal weather outlook for those latter years, it is extremely important that you be very honest with yourself, realistically appraising your emotional needs and responsibilities. Otherwise, self-deception may be a contributing factor to the uncertainty and dissatisfaction you may find in relationships at this time. No one has a greater opportunity to know love, but you will have to accept its responsibility, if you are to enjoy this, the greatest of all prizes.

The heart has reasons that Reason does not understand.

8♣ EIGHT OF CLUBS

Eight is the number of power, the Club suit merges this power with the mind, making your card the symbol of "mental power." Develop and discipline this power, and you have the most effective instrument available to man. Yours is one of three fixed cards. The others being the King of Spades and the Jack of Hearts. You are likely to have a strong affinity with individuals identified with these cards. You will notice as you look through the yearly spreads, that your card never changes position. This can be indicative of strength. But it can also imply a fixed, stubborn nature, which may fail to grow due to its own inflexibility. For this reason, it is very important that your thinking be based on a reasoning knowledge rather than opinionated feelings. Guard against the temptation to indulge in mental gymnastics and arguments as a sort of perverse pleasure. Of all, those who are identified with this card are the most likely to be tempted to play the part of the "Devil's advocate." "There is no knowledge that is not power."*

Since your entire Life Spread is under the auspicious influence of Jupiter, your's is considered to be one of the most fortunate of all the life patterns shown in the cards. This underlying protection may be the source of your greatest challenge, in that, allowing you to get by without really trying, you may fail to develop the strength of character needed to bring out the potential greatness implied in your card.

On the surface, the Six of Diamonds in Mercury, the first position of your Life Spread, suggests that your early years, while not particularly exciting, were secure, static and stable. Underneath this serene image your extreme sensitivities may have caused you to suffer disturbing thoughts about emotional quandaries and problems pertaining to getting an education. Material values, especially those relating to security may have been so strongly impressed upon you at this time that throughout the rest of your life some of the material protection you are likely to enjoy will be due to the thrift habits learned in your youth.

4♠

With your teens, the Four of Spades in Venus suggests that life probably became a little more exciting, mostly due to your own quest for adventure in an attempt to liven things up. An improvement in your mental outlook is also indicated, which probably resulted in better grades in school and an ability to excel in all kinds of intellectual activities. Early employment, possibly even an early marriage or emotional experimentation are likely to have been encouraged by your expanding outlook. Careerwise, this combination of card and planet suggest that your best bet may be found in interests which appeal to the personal or emotional needs of others. The good physique and health pattern suggested here may also encourage an interest in sports. Romantically, the physical will appeal to your sex drive, but it is the relationships which offer mental stimulation that are most likely to endure. An aura of secretiveness is apt to surround your emotional involvements.

10♥

You had better like people, as the Ten of Hearts in Mars suggests that your life will be filled with them. If career-oriented, and you should have some type of productive activity, consider occupations and interests which involve you with the public. This vital influence assures you success in people related endeavors. Socially, the Mars placement of this card suggests that you are apt to relate more successfully with men. To qualify for a close, lasting relationship, the women in your life are going to have to be truly exceptional. While your aggressive nature may project an argumentative quality, you are likely to avoid those who seriously express opposing viewpoints. You realize that you have a certain amount of inherent wisdom, but you may lack the patience to reinforce it with factual knowledge.

10♦

Materially speaking, the Ten of Diamonds suggests that yours is one of the most fortunate of all Life Spreads. Money and material well-being are likely to come to you through inheritance, investments and just about anything which you may do to encourage it to come your way. This also points to the probability of success in positions of authority, the ability to excel and win fame through the expression of your talents or in just about any field which you may choose. You may have to watch, especially if your gender is masculine, that the feeling of security generated here does not encourage a complacency, which may cause you to drift aimlessly.

8♠

While impatience frequently encourages you to take the easy way out, the Eight of Spades in Saturn certainly implies the capability to work hard, particularly when your ambitions are turned on. A vitality and drive are indicated, which suggests that you can accomplish just about anything that you want to, providing you are willing to work for it. The powerful energies symbolized in this card also suggest that you have excellent recuperative abilities, with the power to overcome health problems in yourself and others. If you have not been prodded into action earlier in your life, the dynamic force represented in this card is likely to supply the motivation to achieve success of some sort in your middle years.

The Ace of Hearts combined with Uranus suggests that you are likely to attract unusual emotional and social experiences. A great desire for friendship and love is indicated in this card, but a lack of patience or flexibility may make it difficult for you to build substantial marriages or relationships. The Uranus influence on this card implies that your social and emotional relationships are apt to be most successful with those who are intellectuals and possibly involved in philosophical and occult interests. The latter receives some emphasis due to the placement of your card in the Neptune column of the Life Spread, which suggests the mental powers associated with your card are likely to have some psychic overtones.

A ♦

Among the many fortunate aspects of your chart is the Ace of Diamonds, which in Neptune is the primary indicator of the complexion of your latter years. This card suggests a continuing motivation for success, which indicates you are not apt to spend much time in the old rocking chair. Instead, you will still have the urge to learn and to expand your horizons. Throughout your life, this will probably encourage you to travel and to participate in a wide variety of interesting experiences. Age is not likely to minimize this drive and enthusiasm.

8 ♦ EIGHT OF DIAMONDS

The Diamond suit brings the power of your eight to the realm of values. Too often those whose birthdays identify them with this card only recognize its force as a power in material values. But the displaced Queen of Spades in the Perfect Spread indicates that there is also a subtle, spiritual power hidden in this card. One of the most significant factors about your card and its influence on you is its placement in the top center position of the Life Spread. For this reason, your card has become identified as the symbol of the Sun. This amplifies the power implied in your card and the variety of expression through which you can demonstrate this power. While the potential that this suggests is tremendous, so is the responsibility. Abuse this power through being overly dominant, or through being obsessed with material acquisition and you will know the emptiness of those whose criteria of success is only measured in gold and power.

Although you have the power to overcome most obstacles, as an eight the potential opportunity symbolized in this card will probably require a great deal of effort from you. While many identified with this card do realize the fame and success embodied in their Sun Card, the true greatness implied here does not necessarily require that you be the richest or the greatest. Only that you accept the responsibility of blending the spiritual and material power represented in your card into a constructive influence in the lives that you touch.

While the initial impact of the King of Spades, your Mercury card in the Life Spread, is especially evident in your youth, it may take years for you to recognize the power represented here. In your earlier years it may indicate a significant spiritual influence, which may, in a sense, mark you for the rest of your life. It also suggests the profound influence on your development by an older man, who may contribute much to your growing wisdom. Responsibility is accented by this Kingly card, indicating that early in life you may have been burdened beyond your years. Guard against the temptation to abuse this power, or you may try to bully your way through problems and people. This may bring you success, but it may also isolate you from the love and friendship you so desperately need.

The Three of Hearts in Venus suggests that your greatest challenges are likely to come in affairs of the heart. While difficulties may arise through involvement with unstable individuals, problems may be caused by your own uncertainty as to what you want emotionally. Since this is likely to affect marriage and other close relationships, it will take all the wisdom you can apply to make them successful. As it is, you are apt to have more than one marriage. Your home scene is also apt to be affected by this aura of uncertainty. On the plus side, this card frequently indicates musical talent, especially in singing. And if you choose a career which brings you before the public, you will find the bright, personable influence represented in this card one of your prime assets.

The Mars placement of the Ace of Clubs suggests an almost aggressive quality in your quest for knowledge and self-improvement. While your intense curiosity about life may be motivated in part by a desire to improve your mundane-material status, in the process you are apt to discover your greatest potential. Perhaps the best entree to a happy social life for you will be found in sharing your pursuit for knowledge with others. You have an enthusiasm which is likely to spill over and stir others into action. As this card also symbolizes "ambition" you are not likely to stay in a rut. Actually, you may have to guard against becoming overly ambitious.

Even though your relationship with women emotionally may contain an element of uncertainty, the Jupiter placement of the Queen of Clubs certainly indicates the probability of benefits from association with them. This could prove particularly true in businesss and activities which cater to the needs of women. This card is also considered the symbol of "service," so your fortune and greatest opportunity for personal fulfillment may come through giving some type of service, such as teacher, counsellor, or as patient parent or inspired friend. This also implies an intellectual sensitivity which suggests that you are apt to have a significant intuitive potential.

While the Saturn placement of the Ten of Spades indicates that you will probably have to work very hard for it, success is a reachable goal. This planetary influence favors your finding that success in more profound and serious interests, such as science, medicine and spiritual ministry. Not only does this influence brighten your middle years, it also indicates that you have excellent recuperative ability. Healing power of a spiritual nature is suggested here. Combine the aura of success suggested in this card with the power of your own card and you should be able to accomplish just about anything you set out to do.

Significant changes in your middle years, probably relating to work and circumstances, are suggested by the Five of Clubs in Uranus. Your mental outlook may do a drastic turnabout. So much so that you may find yourself on a completely different path. Even though they are apt to entail some sacrifices, you should be wise not to resist these changes, as they will probably be a necessary ingredient to your continued growth. Throughout your life, an underlying restlessness may cause you to feel insecure and uncertain about your choice of work and associates. This in turn may cause you to make many changes as you travel about looking for your true identity.

Although considerable earning power is implied in your card, the Three of Diamonds in Neptune warns of dissipating your fortune due to a too nebulous attitude about money. Confusion in your choice of objectives could not only be a hazard to your financial picture, but prove a serious obstacle to some of your goals. The indecisiveness represented in this card emphasizes the importance of learning to concentrate in your endeavors. As this card is also your personal weather forecast, for your golden years, you would be wise to make adequate preparations well ahead of this time to take care of your material needs. If you do, modifying influences suggest that this can be a pleasant time, bringing new expressions of success to liven up these years. Whatever, a productive activity or hobby at this time, especially one that might involve some profit could prove an ideal way to pass this time.

8♠ EIGHT OF SPADES

Although your card is most commonly identified as the symbol of power through labor, this certainly does not necessarily limit this expression of power to that which is accomplished through the "sweat of the brow." True, this card usually implies hard work, but as associated with the Spade suit, this eight also suggests a productive power through the expression of spiritual energies and the application of higher wisdom. Since this card occupies a Saturn position in both the Perfect and Life Spreads, it's fortunate that it also implies that you have the potential strength to cope with the challenges suggested by this planetary influence. To the unenlightened, this may bring burdensome tasks which are primarily accomplished through grim determination and physical energy. Their criteria of success being based purely on material and monetary achievements. Unfortunately, an ability to do exceptionally well in mundane matters may minimize your efforts to develop the higher octave of your power.

The tremendous energies symbolized in your card suggest that you can overcome just about any obstacle, which also implies that you may have a significant potential for healing. In this respect, whether it be through the conventional channels of healing, or through metaphysical practices, you might be particularly effective in activities related to health.

A♥

According to the Ace of Hearts, which occupies the Mercury position of your Life Spread, "the desire for love and appreciation of your efforts" is likely to be the first and most significant motivating force in your life. Especially in your earlier years, this compelling emotional force is likely to encourage non-enduring romances and marriages, which founder over financial concerns and your wilful temperament. While this dramatic quality should prove quite an asset in the theater and politics, it is likely to be a detriment in close relationships. Guard against being overly concerned with yourself and a tendency to insist that everything be done your way.

In Venus you have another Ace, the Ace of Diamonds. Combined with the emotional influence of this planet, this card suggests that the desire to live well, to achieve some type of personal success is a powerful incentive in your life. You are willing to work hard, to go to great lengths not only for yourself, but for the well-being of those you love. A strong believer in productive action, you are not likely to waste much time with those who are not contributing something constructive to your life. Socially or businesswise, you are likely to energize others into activity. Pride in material status can become a sore spot in marriage and close relationships. Love, and family are apt to be a source of much worry and disappointment.

Q♦

The Mars placement of the Queen of Diamonds points to the probability that while you are stimulated by women who are active and productive, you are not likely to have time for the stereotype feminine female. Though quick to see through the superficiality of others, you may be inclined to indulge yourself in a big display of your abundance of material generosity, not realizing the great importance that you place in prestige. One of your prime assets is a quick mind, which enables you to learn readily, and take advantage of sudden opportunities. Watch that the restless impatience, also implied here, does not encourage argumentative tendencies.

5♥

The Five of Hearts combined with the expansive influence of Jupiter suggests that you thrive on a wide variety of activity and people contact. It is a good thing, since it appears that the course destiny has plotted for you includes a large cast of supporting players, many changes and much travel. This changeable influence suggests that others may find it difficult to keep up with your ever-changing moods and attitudes. Emotional instability could be a threat to relationships and a source of inner turmoil, some of which may be brought about by traumatic separations. Combined with the great beneficent, Jupiter, this card suggests that you could find your journeys and moves opening the doors to material improvements.

3♣

To the world, you are likely to appear the very model of competent efficiency, capable of any task, of overcoming any problem. But the Three of Clubs in Saturn reveals that behind that bold facade may hide an individual who may not be all that secure. It suggests that indecision, possibly arising out of illnesses if not of yourself of someone close to you, may confuse and delay your efforts. This almost arrogant, defiant will to tackle anything, no matter how seemingly impossible, may produce some unique successes, or psychological problems. You may jeopardize everything by sticking your positive chin out too far.

3♠

The aforementioned indecisiveness is amplified by the Three of Spades in Uranus. This is likely to apply to work and other productive activities. While you may dislike change, some of the quandaries and uncertainties which you are apt to experience, especially in your middle years, are likely to be due to the constant, restless urge to make improvements in your situation and circumstances. The double three influence in your Life Spread emphasizes the importance of organization and clear and objective thinking. The mingling of this card with this planetary influence will encourage an interest in the unusual. If this includes the metaphysical realm, due to a tendency to attract negative experiences, you would be wise to avoid psychic phenomena. The sharing of group philosophical and spiritual activity is likely to provide greater satisfaction.

Perhaps more than any other card in Your Life Spread, the Nine of Hearts, symbol of "universal love" represents the prime challenge in your life. How you use your great emotional power will largely determine whether this is to be a life of fulfillment or disappointment. A tremendous magnetic charm is implied here, which could bring success before the public. But if your personal expression of love is minimized by a preoccupation with self-fulfillment, you may find these years a time of loneliness and sorrow. If you can express the great compassion symbolized in this card, lifting others up with your loving power, your golden years can truly be a time of fulfillment.

Universality is your key word, if your birthday identifies you with the number nine. As the number nine completes the circle of numbers from one through nine, it becomes a "symbol of completion." It can symbolize a lifetime of fulfillment, providing you aspire to fulfill the "cosmic idealism" it represents. On the larger picture of life, you're not a neophyte, so you can't claim either the innocence or ignorance of a beginner as an excuse for pettiness or selfishness. A strong underlying negativity, resulting from the inner struggle with the demands of this profound responsibility may tempt you to abuse your powers. You will then realize that this is also a symbol of destruction, in that it destroys untruths, bringing frustration and disappointment when you try to find fulfillment in false values. As a nine, you are destined to serve through compassionate love and sacrifice as a teacher and counsellor, philanthropist and servant.

Yours is not an easy fate, but if you are willing to accept the responsibility of the opportunities as well as challenges represented in this high number, you're apt to find that it can be a number of true greatness. While you are fortunate in your potential, luck is not your answer. You must plan, discipline your energies and focus on your goals. Then you will have an entree to true fulfillment.

In a few words, the following depicts how your particular suit modifies your potential for fulfillment or disappointment.

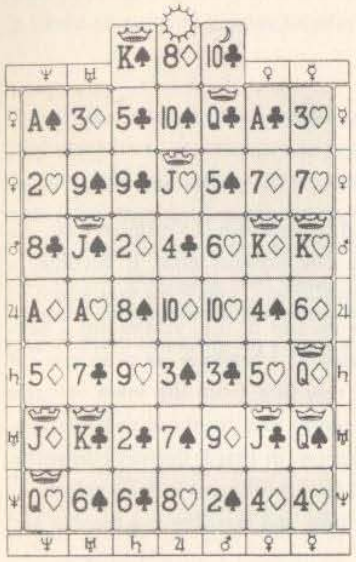

Nine of Hearts — Your true fulfillment is to be found through the expression of compassion and "Universal Love." If you measure success by the fulfillment of passion and desires, you will find this a symbol of disappointment.

Nine of Clubs — Your fulfillment will come through the sharing of your wisdom with others. Ego identification with your intellectual powers could minimize your effectiveness and bring frustration.

Nine of Diamonds — Your fulfillment will come through the sharing of your treasures, helping others understand that material values like children's blocks, are only instruments toward a higher sense of values.

Nine of Spades — Your fulfillment will be measured in your service to others, spiritually as well as through your labors, teaching others that earth is only a stepping stone to paradise.

9♥ NINE OF HEARTS

The fact that your birthday identifies you with this high Heart card points to the probability that your thoughts and actions are likely to be dominated by your strong feelings. So it is imperative that you learn to control and channel this emotional power, using it as a force to amplify your scope of expression and understanding. Although your card promises fulfillment through love, the nine aspect of your card implies that this is more than likely to be found through some expression of the concept of Universal Love. So while you're likely to have a magnetic charm, which can win you admirers, resist the temptation to abuse this power through emotional and sexual conquests. If you don't heed this caution, you are likely to learn that the alternate interpretation of this card is disappointment in love and heartache. Wisdom suggests minimizing your romantic ego, converting some of your passion into expressions of compassion and a constructive concern for all the well-being of others. In overcoming your selfish pursuit of love with a desire to give loving service and counsel to others, you are likely to find the true fulfillment symbolized in your card.

7♣

The Mercury placement of the Seven of Clubs in your Life Spread, suggests that your testing began at an early age. Considered to be a somewhat dubious mental influence, this card suggests that you developed the questionable habit of worry while quite young. Negative thought patterns complicated by early emotional urges are likely to have disturbed your educational process. As this influence suggests an inclination to become too easily discouraged, it is very important that as a counter measure, you develop a positive philosophy. An appreciation of the little niceties of life may have supplied you with an early incentive to start earning money. While you may appear like the greatest extrovert, in truth, you are actually probably an introvert.

5♦

The Five of Diamonds in Venus suggests that your personal life and living situation are likely to be subject to many changes. While this could bring much travel, it is also likely to encourage an emotional restlessness which may make it difficult to sustain your interest in marriage and other close relationships. Indulge your emotional instability and you are inclined to find affairs of the heart very expensive. A desire to live "high, wide and handsome" might also make serious inroads into your financial resources. The tendency to place too great an importance on your material status and money matters could prove to be a major disturbing factor in marriage.

Q♠

Women, according to the Queen of Spades in Mars, tend to prove to be a source of excitement and friction. While there is an irritation factor here, work relating to women or your association with them could also prove to be very profitable. Annoyed by your own emotional nature, you are prone to be irritated by this quality in others, especially women who might try to play petty games with your feelings. For this reason, you prefer to associate with members of the fairer sex who are objective and productive. Fine as your mental equipment is, its effectiveness may be minimized by emotional attitudes. So make sure your strong opinions are well founded on fact, not just expressions of ego. Sensitive as you are, guard against over-reacting to the challenges of your life pattern, as the result could be chronic nervousness.

J♣

A creative mentality is suggested by the Jack of Clubs in Jupiter. This symbol of intellect and talent combined with this most auspicious planetary influence suggests that the key to your fortune may be found in writing and publishing. Or since you are a heart, you may find even greater personal satisfaction as politician or entertainer. Responsibility and leadership are symbolized in this card. In this respect, be wary of those friends and associates who would encourage you to dissipate your creative energies in trivial activities. Symbolic of young men, this card suggests that a close association with a male friend, spouse or relative may prove to be very beneficial to you.

9♦

As a nine, you like to do things in a big way. Well, the Nine of Diamonds, which occupies the Saturn position of your Life Spread, brings this attitude to your material expression. In this respect, it's likely to inspire some very extravagant notions. But its placement in Saturn warns that your excesses could produce some real headaches, with your health fluctuating along with your financial situation. True, you can make money, but your flamboyant nature, probably helped by others who may need help or who just like to spend your money, suggests that you may have difficulty in hanging on to any of it. Gambling, or any other kind of speculative venture, especially financial arrangements involving women, are likely to prove unwise.

7♠

The interpretation of the Seven of Spades, your Uranus card, depends largely on what level you are functioning. To illustrate, mundanely this card suggests challenges relating to health and work, especially in your middle years. Health problems may arise from too great a work load, or from social excesses. Or it may just be a sensitive reaction to the fact that your efforts in work and other activities are not fully appreciated. It is extremely important that you find occupations which are congenial to your emotional nature. You may minimize many of these difficulties through the development of the spiritual attributes associated with this card, and in applying these philosophical concepts to your perspective on life. Again in doing so, you will be more likely to understand the meaning and the satisfaction to be found in expressing the universal "love" associated with your card.

The Two of Clubs in Neptune suggests that throughout your life, and especially in the latter part of your life hidden fears may be a disturbing factor, frequently causing you to feel defensive, even hostile. You might minimize the resulting quarrelsome situations, by recognizing the advantages of sharing, especially in intellectual pursuits, as suggested in this card. In sharing this quest for knowledge, you not only are likely to find the wisdom to dissipate your fears but also the companionship which is so very important to you.

9 ♣ NINE OF CLUBS

Although your curious, adventurous nature will attract you to a wide variety of interests, it is in the realm of the mind that you will find your greatest fulfillment and disappointments. Your high card implies potential greatness, but in order to find it, you must surrender your ego to your universal purpose. Let your idealistic desire to serve supply the motivation to transcend your inclination to emotional self-indulgence. You have what it takes to realize your high destiny, but mental laziness and negativity can dissipate this power. Meet these challenges, and you should truly find this a life of fulfillment.

Combining its influence with those of your card, the Nine of Spades in the Mercury portion of your chart suggests that the earliest years are apt to be full of uncertainty and frustration. A lack of love and stability may contribute to childhood illnesses. Fortunately, except for possible psychological holdovers, these are not likely to have any lasting effect. Actually, in an effort to survive, you have developed some good habits. Apart from an inclination to indulge in excessive worry, the prime challenge to your health may come from impatience and erratic behavior which may incline you to be somewhat accident-prone.

That emotional considerations are extremely important to you is indicated by the Two of Hearts in Venus. The need to relate closely to someone is so great that you may compromise yourself into relationships which are beneath you. High on your list of priorities should be the establishment of a home base; and, if possible, one filled with love to heal your easily wounded spirit. Since the academic approach to wisdom is not likely to turn you on, sharing that quest with someone may gain you both knowledge, and love and friendship.

With the vitality of Mars combined with the King of Hearts, you tend to be an emotional volcano. While this influence suggests that you can be quite exciting, this same powerful force of love out of control can be equally destructive. So you may have to watch that emotional attitudes do not become a breeding ground for quarrels. Men, especially older men, are inclined to play a stimulating role in your life, and may inspire you to become involved in action-oriented interests. The strong sensual quality here suggests that you watch "that your emotional tail does not wag your mind."

Not only are heart and mental power shown, but the King of Diamonds under the auspicious influence of Jupiter brings a "Midas touch" to your life. With two Kings, you certainly have the opportunity for considerable success. But in order to collect the prize symbolized here, you will have to accept the responsibility of leadership. While this may be a challenge, your cards indicate that you have the latent capacity to succeed in positions of authority, or to excel in people related activities in anything from public service to entertainment. Be careful that you don't sacrifice your ideals to the Golden Calf.

Basically the Six of Hearts in Saturn suggests a fairly even flow to your life. But since karmic influences are strongly implied here, "what you sow, you shall surely reap." So with your intense mental power, you can ill afford to indulge in negativity, which can result in lingering health problems. Positively applied, the energies represented in this card indicate excellent recuperative abilities. So much so, that the power symbolized here suggests that you can be very effective in the healing professions. And if you choose employment in this area, you should find it rewarding spiritually as well as materially.

Although a certain restlessness may linger, the Four of Clubs in Uranus suggests that your middle years will bring peace of mind. The combination of this card and planet suggest that interests in philosophy and metaphysical concepts may accelerate this process. This time may see you in the role of teacher and benefactor, sharing the wisdom of your experiences and studies. Perhaps by now, you may have also acquired the patience to develop the more subtle aspects of your being, giving expression to them in writing and the other arts. You may even discover that you are gifted in spiritual awareness and psychic ability.

The Neptune placement of the Two of Diamonds is likely to encourage some sort of cooperative venture in the latter part of your life. This joint endeavor may not only provide companionship but some material advantages as well. At this time, and all through your life, due to the illusionary influence of Neptune it is important that you make a special effort to minimize the possibility of misunderstandings in partnership efforts. This card also favors investment and business activities with those at a distance or related to travel. If your spiritual development leads to increased psychic expression, it will be extremely important that you explore this realm with the greatest caution. Your own mental laziness along with this nebulous planetary influence could lead to self-deception and dubious psychic experiences.

9 ♦ NINE OF DIAMONDS

As a nine, you can reach the heights of humanitarian-idealism, or as a Diamond, you may even rival old King Midas, himself, in an obsession for all that glitters. No matter what course you choose, you are apt to struggle with a lingering conflict in values, spiritual and mundane. Regarding the latter, your potential in talent and ability suggest that you do have the means to lay up treasures. Your real challenge is more likely to come in the management of your resources. Your extravagant tastes can make this an almost impossible task. A creature of extremes, you are either numbered among the most generous or the most penurious. Some of the greatest philanthropists share this card with you. Likewise, some of the most miserly, who are overly concerned with self, feel that the acquisition of wealth is the only answer. If you choose the latter course, you will find that this card can symbolize frustration and disappointment. As a nine, you need a broad life expression, which will provide you with the opportunity to blend material and spiritual values in an expression of universality.

The first card in your Life Spread, in the Mercury position, is the Seven of Spades. As this planetary position particularly applies to your earliest years, this card suggests that your youth may well be the most difficult time in your life. Problems in health and also with the family are likely to have made this a time not worth remembering. Domination from a parent or some other older person may have served as a prod to get you out from under the paternal roof. This is also likely to have encouraged a streak of independence, which may prove to be a sore spot in future relationships. The combination of the Seven of Spades and Mercury can indicate problems relating to the head, such as headaches and injuries. Since this influence also suggests an inclination to confusion and erratic behavior, watch that this does not encourage problems as a result of your being somewhat accident prone.

The Two of Clubs in Venus indicates such a compelling need for companionship, that you are apt to make considerable compromises in order not to have to go it alone. Happiest in the company of those who are mentally stimulating, you will find your most rewarding social activity involved with the sharing of some type of intellectual activity. Do not allow the hidden fears also implied in this card to become a disturbing, quarrelsome factor in relationships. You may have to watch that you don't feed this possibility through your own clandestine activity. Whether it be through participation in clubs, social organizations or through careers which involve you with the public, your life is likely to be filled with many people.

An excellent mental potential is accented by the King of Clubs in Mars. This crown card also indicates a potential for leadership. And since you are not too receptive to orders, you might take this as a clue and prepare yourself for positions of authority. Be it as an executive, or in the expression of your talents, you belong up front. Due to the Mars influence on this card, resist the temptation to be bossy. If this influence does not make you an intellectual giant, or place you in power, it is likely to bring you into contact with men who are expressing these qualities. The association is likely to prove a stimulus to you.

The ability to make money, and lots of it, is shown by the placement of the Jack of Diamonds in Jupiter. You could not ask for a more auspicious planetary influence for this symbol of creativity. With this card so happily placed, you should check to see if you have any writing, acting, dancing talent, or any other ability to which you could apply this creative influence. While this card suggests possible success in show business, it also indicates an innate ability to make your fortune in banking and the stock market. The latter, due to a reckless streak, might be better left in someone else's hands. This influence suggests that you are inclined to collect antiques, objets d'art, and expensive toys. You might be happy to learn that this influence also suggests that you will retain a youthful appearance for most of your life.

Due to the Four of Hearts in Saturn, marriage and other close, emotional involvements may prove to be somewhat burdensome and restrictive. Although these relationships may be challenging, they are also likely to be rewarding, sometimes very substantially. Frequently this influence indicates marriage to either someone much older or younger. Healthwise, this is a fortunate influence, indicating a good health pattern. If your carelessness brings illness, you are likely to receive the best of care and enjoy the benefits of your excellent recuperative abilities. Though you tend to appear cool and rather unemotional, this card does reveal a potential for compassion, which could be effectively expressed in the healing professions and in humanitarian endeavors.

The Four of Diamonds in Uranus suggests that with the passing years, your material circumstances are likely to get better and better. While some of this is due to the generous hand of fate, this card does reveal a practicality which senses how to best capitalize on your opportunities. An underlying restlessness suggests that you are apt to be attracted to careers and interests which include a wide variety of action, and high on your list of favorite pastimes is travel. You have no compunction about giving up on a job or situation which does not seem to hold much future. Fortunately, especially when you learn to control your tendency to act on impulse, career changes will prove progressively profitable. Dealing in real estate, products of the land, as well as occupations related to science and space-age technology are favored.

The Two of Spades underscores earlier indications of advantages to be had through cooperative efforts. Occurring in Neptune, it suggests that the latter years of your life will probably bring companionship, possibly even a late marriage. This spade card advises against retiring to inactivity. This could be an excellent time to join with others in the pursuit of higher wisdom. In doing so, you will find that you have a depth which you may have suspected but never had the time or inclination to investigate. Learning to share your quest and your great bounty with others should do much to remove any fear of loneliness and crown these golden years with a sense of fulfillment.

9♠ NINE OF SPADES

Probably no other card promises such extreme alternatives as does your card, the Nine of Spades. It can bring you to the grandest heights, as the Spade suit enhances the universality of your nine card with an added spiritual dimension. On the other hand, the weight of the life and death responsibility contained in this card can also drop you to the deepest depths of despair. If you choose to indulge the latter, it is not because you have such a difficult life pattern — because you don't. Actually, it would be more like a wilful act of defiance hurled at the "powers that be" that you should be saddled with such a great responsibility.

The placement of your card on the Life Spread in the Venus line, displacing a King of Hearts, suggests that you have a tremendous personal magnetism, which could also make you emotionally top heavy. Get this heart power under control and you can become a powerful people mover as an artist, entertainer, politician or spiritual leader. Do not allow an overindulgence in self-interests and a worm's eye perspective on life to bring you the weight of disappointment which can be the alternative interpretation of this card. Accept the responsibility of your birthright, gained through many life times, and enjoy the fulfillment this lifetime can bring you.

The Two of Hearts in the Mercury position of your Life Spread suggests that a compelling desire for loving companionship is likely to be one of your earliest motivating forces. An urgent quest for romance, leading possibly to an early short-lived marriage is likely to have pushed education, and just about everything else, into the background. This card of love combined with the spontaneous impulses of Mercury suggests the probability of several emotional experiments in the search for the real thing. You have so much love to give, that your very intensity could snuff out the flame. Although you go into a relationship with your whole heart, if it fails, you recover quickly, all set to give love another try. Indirect tactics, such as sharing interests, particularly a pursuit for knowledge, may prove to be your best entree to romance.

K ♥

Combined with the planet of Love, Venus, the King of Hearts underscores earlier indications of your strong emotional drive. Your people-related activities, whether they be personal or professional, should benefit from this magnanimous influence. As important as your home and marriage are likely to be, this card does suggest that you do need outside interests, if not in a career, some cause to champion, or a social group to enliven through your dynamic heart power. If you are a female, this is apt to bring marriage to an affectionate but dominant man. Despite his love, you will resent being placed in a subordinate role. Whatever your gender, as you feed on their wisdom, you are likely to find the association with an older man, or men, contributing much toward the uncovering of your own profound depths.

K ♦

Another King, the King of Diamonds, occupies the Mars portion of your Life Spread. This double king influence (King of Hearts and King of Diamonds) highlights the probability of success, especially if you will accept the responsibility of leadership. This does emphasize the importance of your preparing yourself for positions of authority, or to excel in the expression of your talents and other abilities. With so much going for you, you should never really be in want, that is unless confusion diffuses your efforts, or you decide to identify with defeat. Actually, with these powerful aspects showing your great strength, you may have to guard against overwhelming those closest to you. You can be great, but if you become carried away with your power, you can also be a tyrant.

In Jupiter, you have the Six of Hearts, which symbolizes "The Law of Love." Keep this in mind in all your associations, since it can be the key to both personal and business success. The middle part of your life is especially blessed by this stabilizing influence. Even though your underlying restlessness is likely to encourage you to move about, this influence indicates that you are likely to be happiest in work and circumstances, which have a minimum amount of change and travel. Perhaps the greatest challenge to your serenity is that underlying urge to be involved with the whole world. If you do not find a healthy way to give expression to this desire, your erratic inclinations may set you off on some wild tangents.

The Saturn placement of the Four of Clubs challenges the otherwise positive mental qualities associated with this card. While it still indicates that the odds are in your favor, this planetary influence clearly suggests that you cannot afford to be careless in your mental attitudes. If you take your good fortune for granted and indulge yourself in cynicism and restless discontent, you are apt to lose all the benefits of this positive card. Under control, you have the mental-spiritual resources which can inspire and even heal others, as well as yourself. Your own health and possibly the well-being of others depends largely on your state of mind.

The Two of Diamonds in Uranus suggests that you may have to guard against too great a concern about money. Actually, unless you toss away all sense of responsibility, your fears in this respect are likely to be groundless. As this card symbolizes cooperative activity, especially in the realm of money and other material endeavors, it favors partnerships and indicates the probability of gain from combining your efforts with someone else's preferably with someone who will take care of the details. This influence also favors dealing in products of the land, from mining and farming to real estate. You might also find mundane as well as spiritual gain through combining your forces with others in some type of religious or philosophical expression.

In a sense, the Jack of Spades in Neptune symbolizes your challenge for this life. While it can indicate a lifetime of crazy schemes and dubious activities, it does have an aspect which can act as a catalyst for the greatness hidden in your card. In this respect, it can symbolize "the initiation into the mysteries of life;" it can be the key of the spiritual power shown in your spade card. Your card may well be the symbol of disappointment if you fail to recognize this tremendous opportunity. If you will accept this challenge and probe the mysteries of higher wisdom, you are likely to find the fulfillment also symbolized in your card. Now that you know this, the choice is up to you.

A gem cannot be polished without friction,
Nor man perfected without trials.

♥ ♣ 10 ♦ ♠

To the Pythagoreans, the decad, or number ten was the greatest, the grand summit of all the numbers. True, numerologically it becomes a number one a symbol of beginnings. But in this case, it is a new beginning in a higher cycle, built on the accomplishments, the completion of all the prior numerical values. So if your birthday identifies you with the number ten, you have all the attributes of the lesser numbers to draw upon. What greater potential for achievement, for success could there be? So if any number can assure you of success, the number ten is that number. According to your suit, you may find that success through an expression of the ultimate in heart-power, mind-power, material-power and in the power of labor and wisdom. If not through some type of leadership, then in the expression of your talents and abilities, or perhaps you may choose to find your success more indirectly, helping others find a more successful life expression.

Bright and gifted, able to excel with so little effort, that of all people you may be the most vulnerable to problems of personal discipline. Here is apt to be your "Achilles heel." To the ancients your number may have identified you as a deity, but your birthday, unfortunately, reveals your mortality, subject to all the laws of the third planet from the Sun. So if you would truly know the tremendous potential for success embodied in your card, you will have to meet, and master, the challenge of self-discipline.

As to where your particular success is most likely to be found is illustrated in the following brief answers given by your suit.

Ten of Hearts — As a Heart, your success is to be found in people related activities, giving, teaching and inspiring love, that others might love.

Ten of Clubs — As a Club, knowledge, its sharing and expression is your entree to success.

Ten of Diamonds — As a Diamond, "The gratification of wealth is not found in mere possession or in the lavish expenditure, but in its wise application."*

Ten of Spades — As a Spade, success may be the result of your labors, or in allowing yourself to be used as an instrument of inspired wisdom.

*Miguel de Cervantes

10 ♥ TEN OF HEARTS

"If there is anything better than to be loved it is loving." As you contemplate the great heart-power symbolized in your card, keep this thought in mind. Identified with the card which literally translates into "success in love," one might expect you to be among the greatest of lovers. Actually, if you are like most Ten of Hearts, you may be aware that you have something extra going for you, but you probably never would suspect it to have anything to do with love-power.

Due possibly to an embarrassment over your own strong feelings, you would probably prefer to identify with your keen intellect or one of your talents, suggested by a displaced Jack of Clubs in the Perfect Spread. In some respects you are apt to be too independent for intense, intimate emotional involvements, but guard against going to other extremes. Your fulfillment is to be found in love and friendship and all types of people related activities. You are apt to be at your best up front in social organizations, on stage and in politics. Do not allow your supersensitivity to isolate you from the people contact so very important to you. After all your high heart card suggests that you are the one who should be so wise and understanding, patiently bridging the gaps of misunderstandings with love and friendship.

Another symbol of success, the Ten of Diamonds, occupies the first, or Mercury, position of your Life Spread. As well as bringing a touch of luck to your speculative ventures, it also suggests that an aura of material protection surrounded you in your earlier years. Frequently this indicates financial assistance, possibly through an inheritance. It also brings an emphasis on material values, which is apt to influence your choice of associates and marriage partners. As it also suggests that you have the ability to make money, you are more than likely to contribute your share, if not in money, in efforts. Combined with this planetary influence, this card suggests that money is likely to go as quickly as it comes.

With the Eight of Spades in Venus, you will want your personal and social life to be active, and productive. Rather than just sit around, you would probably take off if there were no chores or activities around the house to keep you busy. You are turned on by travel and will find it a source of much friendly and social activity. Occupations involving travel can be especially rewarding in the contacts that they will bring you. Though you can play the social butterfly, you prefer the company of those who are mentally stimulating. Be it in business or in your home, your innate executive ability will help you keep things running smoothly, so much so that your guests and business associates may wonder at your subtle powers. The basic health pattern shown for you is good, so any problems in this area are likely to be entirely due to your own lack of discipline and to carelessness.

A ♥

An inclination to take things for granted may be somewhat minimized by the Ace of Hearts in Mars. This combination of card and planet suggests such a strong desire to be appreciated by others, that you are likely to make the necessary effort to gain their love and friendship. Do this, and you are likely to find the "people-success" promised in your card. Emotional attitudes combined with impatience may cause you to be somewhat prone to misunderstandings. So it is very important that you stress clarity in all communications. Be aware that at times your behavior may appear so illogical to others you may create unfortunate barriers. Your bright, confident facade is likely to mask an extremely sensitive individual, one that others may not fully appreciate, so guard against over-reacting to their insensitivity. You need them every bit as much as they need you.

A ♦

Another Ace, this time the Ace of Diamonds combined with the auspicious influence of Jupiter. The double aces in your Life Spread suggest, despite appearances to the contrary, that you are not totally lacking in ambition. Perhaps this combination will supply you with sufficient motivation to aspire to some idealistic purpose. Actually, the cards and planets are stacked in favor of your achieving success, so if you fail, it will be more likely due to impatience and lack of discipline. Guard against insisting on having your own way, as part of your good fortune depends upon your ability to relate successfully with others. You were never meant to travel alone.

Q ♦

Karmic, or destiny type relationships with women are suggested by the Queen of Diamonds in Saturn. Even though this may indicate challenges in your association with women, it's not necessarily a negative influence. Though you may find them a source of burdens, possibly even a restrictive influence, they may also prove to be your most valuable teachers. The Queen of Diamonds in this position frequently indicates a marriage to someone older, or with health problems. Of course, if these relationships have been made primarily for some sort of material or monetary gain, you may find yourself a prisoner of your own arrangement.

The probability of travel and changes playing an important part in your life is emphasized by the Five of Hearts in Uranus. This heart card suggests that your quest may be an emotional search for answers. Watch that this doesn't deteriorate into emotional instability. You may be tempted to keep on the move, pursuing some idyllic fantasy, ignoring the responsibility of finding that wonderful expression within yourself. Uncertainties in love and friendship are likely to be due to your own restlessness. In choosing occupations and interests consider your need for personal freedom. Don't tie yourself down to a nine to five situation or to a desk or kitchen. If you turn your superior potential to the realm of metaphysics, with your exceptional gifts, you are likely to find fulfillment for others as well as for yourself.

The need for focus and clarity in your thinking is stressed by the Three of Clubs in Neptune. As this influence particularly applies to the latter years, it is especially important that you have your personal house materially and spiritually in order well before these years, otherwise confusion may create unnecessary problems at this time. While travel is not encouraged by this influence, expression of ideas and talents are. At this time, and throughout your life, your strong emotional attitudes suggest that you make it a point to base your beliefs and opinions on facts rather than feelings.

Popularity is glory's small change.

10 ♣ TEN OF CLUBS

Not only does this, the top numbered card in the Club suit imply a superior cerebral potential, but also talent and leadership, which suggest that you can find success in just about anything you sincerely put your mind to. Your spectacular possibilities are further amplified by the placement of your card in the first position in the Sun line, which suggests that your efforts may also win you some worldly acclaim. This high position in a sense places you above traditional concepts and life styles, which may prove a mixed blessing in that the freedom which it implies may cause you to ignore the responsibility of your high calling. In this regard, perhaps the single greatest obstacle to all the wonderful possibilities represented in your card, is the lack of personal discipline, which may cause you to fail to develop your tremendous potential. This may be encouraged by a streak of immaturity suggested by a displaced Jack of Spades. Disciplined, the significant mystical power of this card combined with great possibilities associated with your card, suggests that no one has a greater opportunity for success than that which is spelled out for you.

The earliest years of your life are under the protective material influence of the Eight of Diamonds. The combination of this card with the planet Mercury, suggests a strong but impatient desire for wealth. With this influence, you do have the earning potential to satisfy your expensive tastes. A certain amount of aggressiveness is also implied here, which combined with your material desires may have encouraged you to seek early employment or to apply some other tact as a means of establishing your own identity while still quite young. While you were probably a whiz in school, your top-of-the-head brightness may not have done much to encourage good study habits.

K ♠

The King of Spades in the Venus position of your Life Spread suggests a significant influence from an older man, probably your father. Valuable as his insights into life are likely to be, his dominant nature may at the time minimize your appreciation of this experience. This influence also suggests that in your teens and early twenties the earlier serenity of your life is likely to be disturbed by a noticeable increase in responsibility, probably requiring you to contribute more productively to your support. Your leadership potential is also accentuated by this crown card. In time you may also recognize the tremendous mystical-spiritual potential embodied in this, the top Master Card. You're likely to find that the true key to the "success" indicated in your card will be found in applying the concept of "mastery."

Much personal magnetism is suggested by the Three of Hearts in Mars. While this should prove a terrific asset to your public image, even socially, on the more intimate level, this same influence creates uncertainty in love and friendship. Before you blame others for your emotional quandaries, examine the possibility that your own indecisiveness as to what you want in love isn't the major factor in your emotional insecurity. You have so much to offer that others may have great difficulty in living up to your expectations. This may be further complicated by your many interests and independent ways which make it almost impossible for you to settle down to long-lasting relationships or situations.

Curiosity, the consuming desire to know suggested by the Ace of Clubs in Jupiter is likely to keep you on the move, providing you with the incentive to make the most of your wonderful possibilities. Sharing your knowledge and your search for adventure could do much to minimize some of the dubious emotional aspects shown above. Resist the temptation to be impatient with those less astute, who are unable to grasp ideas as quickly as you can. Ambition is another trait suggested by this card. Combined with the expansive, fortunate influence of Jupiter, it suggests that you will set your sights high. Although the odds all favor your achieving your lofty aspirations, guard against placing too great a value on material success.

While you may be annoyed by the impositions which others may make upon you, the Queen of Clubs in Saturn suggests that part of your personal fulfillment may depend on rendering some type of service. This influence often indicates some sort of burden or responsibility relating to female relatives or friends. In meeting this challenge, you may discover a deeper, more compassionate side to your nature. Although this does imply problems with the fairer sex, this is only part of the picture, as your contacts and experiences with them may also contribute substantially to your spiritual growth. Whether it be as a teacher, through some type of social service or community effort, you may well find that your expression of leadership in these efforts is among the most rewarding of all your experiences.

The aura of success projected in your card is given added impetus by the Ten of Spades in Uranus. Although success seems almost inevitable, this high spade card suggests that much hard work will probably be a prerequisite. If you haven't made it earlier in your life, or even if you have, this positive influence suggests that your middle years will give you another opportunity to do so. This combination of card and planet suggests that you may find your success in matters relating to humanitarian endeavors, labor organizations and occupations relating to films and television. This Uranian influence points to the possibility of inventions or some valuable scientific contribution from your inspired intellect. Products of the land, like oil, coal and farming along with real estate are also likely to pay off for you.

The changeable quality of the Five of Clubs dominates the last and Neptune segment of your Life Spread, suggesting that your golden years are likely to be filled with changes and travel. If you have your head together, and your world under control, then this could prove a source of much pleasure. But if not, then you may find this a time of uncertainty. Throughout your life, the strong compulsion to be on the move, to be a part of the action is likely to bring many interesting people and exciting experiences into your life. Just watch that your restlessness doesn't become a source of discontent, dissipating your energies in aimless wanderings.

Sensual pleasures are like soap bubbles, sparkling, effervescent.
The pleasures of the intellect are calm, beautiful,sublime, Ever enduring and climbing upward to the borders of the unseen world.....

10♦ TEN OF DIAMONDS

"The gratification of wealth is not found in mere possessions or in lavish expenditure, but in its wise application."* If your birthday identifies you with this card, "success in values" is the name of your game. While this — the top money-material card in the deck does not necessarily guarantee you wealth, it certainly brings the opportunity to enjoy material affluence within your reach. The auspicious potential projected in your card is further enhanced by its double Jupiter placement in the Life Spread. If, as you read these lines, you find it difficult to identify with these wonderful possibilities, always remember — if you are willing to make the necessary effort, no one has greater power in financial or material matters. As with all who are identified with the tens, the primary obstacle to acquiring the prizes to which you aspire is apt to be your own lack of personal discipline. The fact that you frequently get away with doing just what you want to do, and only when you want to do it, could prove to be a real hurdle. Master this tendency, discipline yourself and apply the "lucky power" symbolized in your card. You will then enjoy the full meaning of being identified with a symbol of success.

The powerful influence of the Eight of Spades dominates the first and Mercury position of your Life Spread. As this planetary position particularly applies to your earliest years, you are fortunate to have the help of this positive influence to get you over the challenges of your youth. This frequently is an indication of early employment or some other type of productive activity. A basically good health pattern is implied, but watch that you do not minimize it by taking it for granted. The vitality represented here should provide a drive to overcome most obstacles throughout your life. You may have to watch that all this energy does not encourage you to be overly aggressive, possibly creating unnecessary obstacles for yourself.

A ♥

Materialist, you may be, but the Ace of Hearts in Venus suggests you also have some pretty strong feelings. In fact, at times your desire for love and social involvement may even push aside practical matters, even to the point of subordinating yourself in order to have a marriage or someone close to love. Though material considerations may play an important part in your choice of associates, those who gain your friendship are likely to find a very loyal friend. The strong compelling urge to be involved with others is apt to encourage you to become a moving force in community affairs, a philanthropist not only of your worldly goods, but also of your personal energies. In fact, your inclination to give so generously of yourself is likely to gain you much love and admiration.

* Miguel de Cervantes

A ♦

The catalyst to your fortune is apt to be due to the ambitious drive suggested by the combination of the Ace of Diamonds with Mars. Direct the energies represented here and you should be able to find success in just about any endeavor. As the money game is probably your favorite sport, you can, as a rule, manipulate financial interests to suit your purposes. Actually, you may have to learn to resist the temptation to bend a few rules and use dubious tactics. In investments and other monetary transactions, minimize the use of middlemen; after all, you are the one who is identified with the symbol of "success in money." Opportunities for gain through partnerships and cooperative ventures are suggested by modifying influences. A quick somewhat edgy mentality is suggested, so you can more than hold your own in bargaining or in a debate. You may have to watch that this quality does not encourage you to go looking for arguments.

Q ♦

The probability of benefits through women is indicated by the Jupiter placement of the Queen of Diamonds. If you call yourself Mr. this could indicate a helpful wife or secretary. If you call yourself Ms., Miss. or Mrs. you are likely to find some of your best friends are called by the same titles. A sensitivity is indicated here, which suggests a concern for the welfare of family, friends and employees. Grandiose ideas and extravagant tastes are also implied in the combination of this royal diamond card with Jupiter. Happily, as a Ten of Diamonds, you could very well afford them. "Wealth is not his that has it, but his that enjoys it."* * Benjamin Franklin

An element of uncertainty in love and other relationships is suggested by the Five of Hearts in Saturn. This may bring jarring emotional experiences and separations, some of which are apt to be due to your own emotional restlessness and desire for a wide variety of experiences. Your great charms are likely to attract many social and romantic opportunities, and probably quite a few who will deposit their problems at your doorstep. Even in your own insecurity, to them you are apt to appear like a pillar of strength. Change and travel are likely to mark your middle years. While some of these may be due to health considerations of either yourself or loved ones, even those journeys you take for pleasure may require extra precautions to keep them from becoming more trouble than they are worth.

The Three of Clubs in Uranus suggests that you are apt to have some curiosity about matters occult, but these interests may seem too alien for you to pursue very seriously.

Considering that this card indicates a possibility of mental quandaries, it might be for the best, as psychic experiences could add to your confusion. On the other hand, you may find a stabilizing influence and even a life's purpose through the study of philosophy and spiritual concepts, the more tangible and applicable the better. As you are not likely to be happy taking orders, you are likely to be happier and more effective in positions where you are in charge or working for yourself.

With another Three, the Three of Spades in Neptune, the importance of getting your life on a solid footing and pointed in a positive direction is emphasized. While throughout your life, you may suffer from indecision and lack of decisive action, this could be an even more serious hazard in your later years. At this time, and all through your life, it is extremely important that you do not allow the illusionary influences of Neptune to lure you into nebulous "pie in the sky" schemes. Practicality — mundanely and spiritually — is essential to your well-being. Identified, as you are with a symbol of success, uncertainty does not need to be your destiny. But you may have to learn that true success requires some planning and much responsibility.

Try not to become a man of success but rather Try to become a man of value.

Albert Einstein

10 ♠ TEN OF SPADES

A potential for success which reaches into the heavens, is a quality indicated by the Ten of Spades. Yet of all the tens, you are the least likely to be aware of your wonderful possibilities. Part of this may be due to the inherent protection implied by this high card, which suggests you will get by no matter what you do. There is also a reluctance to recognize that work is your particular key to success. "I look on a man as happy, who, when there is a question of success, looks into his work for a reply." If you appreciate and apply the truth of this statement by Emerson, you have a very good chance of achieving the success potential symbolized in your high Spade card.

An underlying emotional quality suggests your tremendous work capacity is modified by an intuitive feel for the human factor. This could help you be particularly effective in occupations and interests dealing either directly or indirectly with people. Aloof as you appear, you are not really happy as a loner. That bold front is likely to conceal a very sensitive you. While this sensitivity can help you achieve outstanding success in music and drama, it can also cause you to be devastated by deep moods and depressions. Since your potential for success is equaled by that of despair, you cannot afford to indulge in negative tangents.

If you are restless, the Five of Clubs in Mercury suggests that this may be a habit spawned by a childhood full of changes, moves and probable travel. Some of which are likely to have brought separations from family and friends, feeding a lingering sense of uncertainty about people and relationships. This may also encourage an impatience which will cause you to readily drop those who are boring and change situations which do not hold much promise. Although you are likely to have a quick mind, educational efforts may have suffered from a lack of concentration. Money power is suggested, especially through the communication of ideas. All throughout your life, you may have to guard against losing opportunities due to your changeable and restless nature.

Your basic uncertainties are not likely to be helped very much by the Three of Diamonds in Venus. This indecisive money-material influence combined with the emotional qualities of Venus suggests the need for extreme caution in financial matters in your personal life. Money could all too easily become the root of difficulties in marriage, even with family and friends, so much so that monetary considerations may become an underlying factor in your choice of associates. Positive as you can appear on the outside, an inner insecurity may cause you to stay with an inadequate job or a bad marriage. Actually, cardwise, you have both the earning power and an equally significant "charm power" to find the best of both worlds.

An intense curiosity about life, suggested by the Ace of Spades in Mars, may motivate you to probe the mysteries through scientific research and philosophical studies, resulting in inventions and innovative ideas. This inclination also suggests a predilection to become involved in occupations and other activities which include an element of secrecy, such as undercover and clandestine love affairs. Regarding the latter, take great care, as the cards suggest these could be the source of pain and heartaches. Perhaps in your probing for answers, you will discover that contained in the forces symbolized in this card is the key to the mystery of life, as well as death. This might serve as a catalyst, encouraging you to explore the spiritual consciousness associated with your high spade card.

Even in Jupiter, the heart-power represented by the Seven of Hearts may prove a dubious blessing. True, this card implies that you are likely to have a great deal of charm and personal magnetism, which could prove a tremendous asset in public related careers. But the compassionate quality represented here is also apt to make you vulnerable to all those who are willing to take advantage of your helping hand. Too often those who borrow from you forget that it's just a loan. Watch that emotional attitudes don't prove a hazard in business, causing you to over-react to problems, encouraging a vulnerability to health problems arising from business worries.

You can make money, but the Seven of Diamonds in Saturn emphasizes the necessity of applying a great deal of caution in managing it. Others may find you an all too easy touch, as you take on their debts and responsibilities. Or you may insist on living on a grander scale than your income can support. For the most part, your financial difficulties are likely to arise from your involvement with others. As mentioned earlier, you just cannot afford to allow emotional considerations to give others too easy an access to your resources. The mystical influence of the double seven in your Life Spread suggests a wisdom in minimizing the importance of material values. Not because you can not do well on this level — you can — but because you are apt to find an even greater satisfaction pursuing matters more profound.

Life may be challenging, but it should not be dull. The Five of Spades in Uranus underscores earlier indications of changes and travel and a life filled with a wide variety of experiences. As this influence is accentuated in your middle years, you may be able to make a more constructive use of all this activity at this time. In all probability, you will be happiest in occupations which provide an opportunity to move about and meet many people. Your journeys could also prove rewarding socially and be a source of valuable contacts. As this changeable influence particularly applies to work and productive activities, resist the inclination to make unwise changes out of impatience and restlessness.

Although it probably indicates a continuing need to make sacrifices for others, the Jack of Hearts in Neptune also indicates a noble strength, which can help you crown your latter years with additional achievements. A dramatic vitality is implied here, which should help you inspire others and also aid you in retaining a youthful appearance and outlook in those golden years. Throughout your life, and especially at this time, you may find that your greatest fulfillment will come through giving some type of service. When choosing careers and avocations, keep this in mind, as it may be through these activities that you will come closest to realizing the greatness contained in your card.

The fruit derived from labor
Is the sweetest of all pleasures.

♥ ♣ Jacks ♦ ♠

If your birthday identifies you as a Jack, cardwise, you are a Crown Prince. This implies certain advantages, including a creative mentality, freedom from limiting concepts, even the opportunity to dip into the royal treasury. Due to a streak of immaturity also associated with the Jacks, responsibility for these advantages may prove to be your greatest challenge. While it's apt to give you a youthful quality, talent and enthusiasm, it's also apt to encourage you to make your own rules, to willfully do as you please, chucking your responsibilities, earning for the Jacks the reputation of being the playboys and playgirls of the cards. Another aspect of this symbol is its androgynous, neuter gender nature, which, while it does not necessarily indicate that you are bi-sexual, it may make it more difficult for you to enjoy the security of traditional life styles.

If your gender is feminine, you are apt to have an aggressive quality, which the male chauvinist might qualify as a masculine mind. If you are a male, you may tend to vacillate between an almost feminine sensitivity to dictatorial attitudes. As with all power, and you do have power, the advantage lies in its control and application. Discipline the wonderful attributes of your Crown Card, and you should find a most rewarding life as a teacher, leader, artist, performer, etc.

Your particular suit plays an important part in mounding your expression of your royal card. In brief, if you are a:

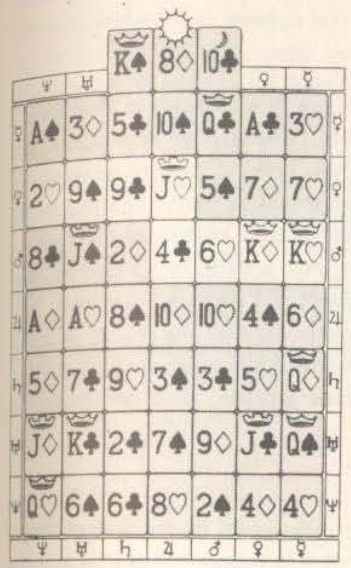

Jack of Hearts — Your responsibility involves channeling your emotional energies into an expression of service through love and sacrifice.

Jack of Clubs — The dispensing of knowledge and ideas through your wand of intellect and talent is your entree to your royal place.

Jack of Diamonds — To you falls the challenge to communicate and sell values spiritual as well as material.

Jack of Spades — Excelling mundanely, you might choose to play the part of a devil, but when you realize that your card symbolizes the initiation into "the mysteries of life," you may prefer sainthood.

J♥ JACK OF HEARTS

Tremendous emotional power is represented in your card. Its expression is apt to be your greatest challenge. Fortunately, as your card is identified with the "Christ Principle," the basic concept associated with this card of "service through love and sacrifice" is likely to inspire you to some expression of idealism. True, your emotional energies are apt to prove a cross, tempting you to indulge in all sorts of emotional excesses. Since you are likely to have a natural charm and personal charisma, you can win public acclaim and make romantic conquests. But expressions of this emotional power beneath its high calling are apt to bring psychological repercussions. "We are shaped and fashioned by what we love."*

Leadership through loving service is your natural role, as you inspire others through your own noble expression of love. While your colorful personality suggests that you may be able to do this successfully as a dynamic politician or theatrical personality, you may be even more effective as a teacher, minister, counsellor or understanding parent.

That you may have more going for you than charm is indicated by the Nine of Clubs, which occupies the Mercury position of your Life Spread. This card and planet suggest a cerebral brilliance, which can support your heart-power with mind-power. Your early educational efforts are likely to run into problems, which may delay your mental development. If not from family interference and other outside causes, your own inability to apply self-discipline is likely to make early progress slow. Particularly in your younger years, the first stirrings of your intense emotional needs are likely to distract you from study and just about everything else. Throughout your life, you would be wise to watch that your thinking is not clouded by your strong feelings.

9♠

Another Nine, the Nine of Spades in Venus, suggests that your young years through your teens and into your twenties, are apt to be rather challenging. Combined with the planet of love, this card suggests that intimate emotional considerations are apt to be the source of your greatest frustrations. A compelling need for love is apt to draw you into all sorts of romantic involvements, sexual experiments and marriages, which may prove more burdensome than pleasurable. Sacrifices are likely to be required of you by mates and loved ones. Due to your great vulnerability to emotional matters, guard against over-reacting to these stresses, as worry over them could have a negative effect on your otherwise good health pattern.

*Johann Wolfgang von Goethe

Aloof, as your royal card may cause you to appear, the Two of Hearts in Mars reveals your great warmth and need for companionship. You need to be involved with others, and so you are likely to be stimulated by partnerships and other types of cooperative ventures. In these arrangements, your crown card suggests that you would be wise to tactfully retain the upper hand. The Mars placement of this card may encourage a preference for working with men. This influence also suggests that just about any activity in which you may become involved from work to church or club activity is likely to have social overtones. You may find your most successful emotional activity indirectly through the sharing of intellectual and spiritual pursuits. You have so much warm friendship to give, watch that an unconscious projection of coolness or negative emotional attitude does not create an unseen barrier to love and friendship.

The leadership attributes of your card are strongly underscored by the King of Hearts in Jupiter. The benefits suggested by the combination of this magnanimous card and the auspicious influence of this planet will largely depend on your willingness to accept the responsibility of being a leader in work, the community and socially. Spectacular success through public related careers is suggested here. This is an expansive social-emotional influence, so you may have to watch that it does not cause you to overindulge in people activity. This card also suggests a helpful association with an older man, possibly your father, or if you are a woman, this may represent your husband.

If you have not recognized the message of leadership spelled out in your cards, the King of Diamonds in Saturn reiterates this potential. While responsibilities associated with positions of authority may be challenging, even burdensome, they are likely to also prove materially rewarding. A rather hardheaded individual is apt to have an impact upon your life, possibly along in your middle years. Since inflexibility is suggested by the fact that your card remains fixed in the same position throughout all the spreads, this could be a description of one of your attributes. So much vitality is suggested by the Double King influence that others are apt to feel recharged by your presence. This could prove a wonderful asset in the healing professions. With so much power, discipline is an absolute must, as this same power, which can raise you to the heights, can also drop you into the depths.

It may not be until your middle years that you will fully appreciate the serenity implied in the Six of Hearts in Uranus. Even your more intimate relationships should respond to this harmonious influence. You may have to guard against becoming overly complacent, busying yourself only with the pursuit of pleasure. Combined with Uranus, this card suggests an interest and possible involvement in activities dealing with the welfare of others, as to be found in religion, social work and in labor reform movements. You can be a particularly effective force in anything involved with the betterment of the human race.

While your life may have begun on a frustrating note, the Four of Clubs in Neptune, suggests the latter portion of your life is likely to be filled with contentment. This positive mental influence indicates that most of the disturbing influences which may have plagued your earlier years are likely to be far behind you. This should be an excellent time for increased intellectual and spiritual activity, sharing your wisdom with others may not only bring great satisfaction, but a latter day success which may equal or even surpass anything accomplished in prior years.

Self-sacrifice is never entirely unselfish,
For the giver never fails to receive.
Dolores E. McGuire

J♣ JACK OF CLUBS

As the crown prince of the Club Suit, the mental realm is where your expression is most likely to find success. Here you have the potential to excel as an intellectual, writing, teaching, lecturing, stimulating others to think. As you share your knowledge, you'll find that your own storehouse of wisdom will grow. Inherently rich with potential, but your greatest challenge will be to accept the responsibility of your gifts. A willful streak of immaturity which may cause you to act only when the mood strikes, could be the most serious obstacle to all your wonderful possibilities.

Intellect and talent combined with your youthful enthusiasm can help you be a world-shaper, but it can also take you down the path of trivia, seeking only pleasure, encouraging you to get by on your wits and manipulative abilities. Disciplined and developed, your talents and abilities can bring you spectacular achievements intellectually, artistically, theatrically, politically and mystically. You have no lack of potential, but do you have the will and the determined-responsibility to find your true place?

Intellectual and talented you may be, but money, according to the Nine of Diamonds is likely to be the root of many of your problems. Due to the placement of this card in the Mercury position of your Life Spread, this is likely to be particularly true in your earliest years. At this time, if not from lack, limitations may arise from difficulties involving your parents. Their uncertainty, probably fed by emotional upsets, is not likely to contribute much to your sense of security. Helped by the influence of a dominant woman, probably your mother, this is likely to strongly impress you with the importance of material values. From time to time throughout your life, you are likely to rebel against this early training, vacillating from extreme frugality to reckless extravagance.

7♠

Home and love are very important to you, but with the Seven of Spades in Venus, you cannot afford to take them for granted. This card indicates that especially in your youth, the home and family scene are likely to know more turmoil than joy. Some of this may involve the illness of someone in the family. In this respect, you are far more sensitive than outward appearances may reveal. So much so, that unwise emotional involvements and social excesses can aggravate an inclination to chronic nervousness, becoming a source of physical and psychological problems. If you are to know true happiness in love and marriage consider applying the subtle power symbolized in your Venus card. That power is primarily spiritual, but in practicing the awareness and self-discipline required to truly realize this power, your personal life and others' interests should also share in the benefits. Emotionally as well as socially, you should flourish in groups concerned with spiritual and philosophical interests.

A compelling need to be involved with others is emphasized by the Two of Clubs in Mars. While this influence suggests that your own mental powers will be stimulated by sharing your intellectual efforts with others, a displaced Ace of Spades implies that these endeavors may prove even more exciting if they include a quest for mystical or metaphysical knowledge. An able and quick mentality is suggested here, which could serve you well in the role of an attorney or politician. But this same influence warns that hidden fears fed by the war-like quality of Mars could corrupt these mental energies, encouraging an edgy-irritability and quarrelsome attitudes.

K♣

The leadership attributes suggested by your own card are considerably amplified by the King of Clubs. This card combined with the propitious influence of Jupiter suggests that you can rise to the top of just about any profession or type of activity which you may choose to undertake. Accepting the responsibility of authority, or of excelling in your field, could also prove to be the entree to your fortune. While this card implies that you can achieve prominence, it also suggests that you are likely to benefit through association with a man, or men of power. If your gender is feminine, this could mean a marriage to such an individual and probable material advantages.

J♦

The Jack of Diamonds merged with the task-master Saturn is likely to prove a double edged sword. On one hand, its creative energies add vitality to those shown in your own card. And as a high Diamond symbol, it also suggests that your endeavors can be financially rewarding. Just remember, Saturn does not give anything away for free. So much work and self-discipline are likely prerequisites. There is another side, and that is that the immaturity of this Jack card may encourage you to fritter away your time with dubious associates in meaningless frivolity. Due to the "Karmic" influence of Saturn, symbolically this challenge represents your key to success or failure.

The Four of Hearts in Uranus gives you good reason to hope that the passing years will bring you greater happiness in love and friendship. In your younger years this card and planet suggests an inclination to unusual and unconventional social and sexual involvements. With maturity, it may also bring you the success in intimate involvements which may have evaded you in the earlier part of your life. The Uranus placement of this card encourages involvement in groups concerned with social and labor reforms. It also accents the probability of finding rewarding emotional as well as intellectual expression through involvement with occult and spiritual organizations. At this point in your life particularly, you could contribute a great deal in the way of leadership and inspire others through the sharing of your wisdom.

In a happy contrast to the beginning of your Life Spread, your latter years are under the positive material influence of the Four of Diamonds in Neptune. Combined with the above Four of Hearts, this double four influence suggests that the latter part of your life will probably be the happiest. This influence also implies benefits from travel and distant business interests. You may very well find your greatest personal and business success far from your place of birth. While this possibility is most strongly indicated for your golden years, you are likely to enjoy this beneficial influence throughout your life whenever you travel or become involved with those "far away places." As this influence is one of the better material indications, your retirement years are likely to be protected materially.

Writing is the only profession
Where no one considers you ridiculous
If you earn no money.

Jules Renard

J ♦ JACK OF DIAMONDS

A special affinity for the realm of values spiritually as well as mundane is suggested by your Diamond crown card. While this is likely to accent a sense of materiality, encouraging you to acquire earthly treasures, this is only part of your picture. To more clearly understand the various aspects of your nature, we have to consider the Neptune-Uranus placement of your card in the Life Spread. This suggests that idealism may motivate some of your material aspirations, possibly to the point that you may completely forsake the trinkets and baubles of this sphere to pursue more profound objectives.

As with all the Jacks, you share a quality of youthfulness, which may be even more pronounced in your case. While this may help you retain the spirit and even the bloom of youth, be careful that it doesn't encourage a lingering immaturity.

Fundamentally positive, productive, even somewhat aggressive, you can be especially effective in any type of activity or work which brings you in contact with the public. In trying to determine your values, what you really want to do, where you would like to live, a displaced Three of Spades in the Perfect Spread suggests that you will do a great deal of soul searching, traveling and experimenting with different types of employment and interests in an effort to find your true place. Your bright personality suggests that you can be the perfect salesman, entertainer, teacher, politician, even a moving force spiritually.

The combination of the warm heart quality of the Four of Hearts with Mercury in your Life Spread indicates that an inherent gift of gab is likely to win friends, admirers, constituents and customers. Besides suggesting this as a significant asset throughout your life, as this planetary position especially indicates the complexion of your earlier years, it suggests a childhood filled with loving companionship. The strong emotional urge implied here is likely to surface early in your life encouraging early marriages or romantic involvements without much staying power. This suggests that you would be wise to watch that you do not become too easily bored, or relationships will suffer from your short interest span.

Your home and loved ones, as well as yourself, are likely to benefit from the positive material influence of the Four of Diamonds in Venus. You're inclined to surround yourself with those little luxuries, which will brighten your person and your environment. This influence also implies the likelihood of your attracting those who will contribute to your well being. The emotional quality of this planet combined with material power of this card suggests that you can make money in just about anything which appeals to the emotions, or in dealing in products and services for personal use or for the home. While you have excellent money making abilities, you also have a reckless streak, which may make it difficult to make income and outgo compatible.

Don't try to go it alone! The Two of Spades in Mars points to the probability that you can do far better by combining your forces with someone else. Partnerships could provide the very stimulus you need to bring out the more creative, productive you. Guard against indulging those erratic notions and willful tangents, which may be fed by groundless fears. They could become a real sore spot in relationships, and might even become separative influences with destructive possibilities. The Mars placement of this card suggests you may find working with men particularly stimulating.

The probability of your charm being the key to your fortune is emphasized by the Eight of Hearts in Jupiter. This symbol of Love-Charm-Power points to rather spectacular possibilities, especially if you choose to use its winning power in public related occupations and activities. On the more personal front, it should also help you gain the support of friends. In this respect, remember, whether your role is that of a teacher, boss or parent, you will gain far more cooperation by applying this "charm power." Healing is also suggested by this influence, which suggests that you can be particularly effective in the healing professions.

Brash and superficial, as you can appear at times, the Six of Clubs in Saturn reveals that you do have a very sensitive and perceptive side. Unfortunately, a preoccupation with things mundane is apt to cause you to overlook your inherent intuitive potential. The world of the occult may seem so alien that you are likely to avoid the abstract aspects of mysticism, preferring involvement with matters more substantial and tangible. In doing so, you may fail to find the peace of mind which spiritual awareness can bring. Eccentric attitudes plus carelessness are apt to minimize your good health pattern. Those hard to diagnose ailments may actually be traced to disturbances to your psyche.

The Six of Spades in Uranus emphasizes the intuitive potential suggested above. It also indicates an inclination to get into static, monotonous situations. While this may somewhat counter your natural restlessness by keeping you on a job for a long time, it can also bring long periods of unemployment. If all this makes life dull from time to time, keep in mind, you can liven things up considerably by digging into your bag of talents. After all you share this card with many who are doing all sorts of creative, exciting things. Throughout your life, you are likely to find that the burden of action rests on your shoulders. If you're not creating, or promoting the action, everything is apt to come to a standstill.

The probability of a socially active life right through your golden years is highlighted by the Queen of Hearts in Neptune. This planetary influence also suggests that some of your happiest personal experiences are likely to be found while traveling. The combination of this Heart card with Neptune does suggest that you may have a tendency to pursue will-o-the-wisp social-romantic fantasies If you're addressed as mister, you may be inclined to place women on a too idealistic pedestal, making realistic relationships with them difficult. If they call you Miss, Ms or Mrs., you can look forward to this time in life with anticipation of additional appreciation of your warm charm. Whatever your gender, providing you don't get sidetracked by eccentric notions, the latter years should bring you loving companionship.

J♠ JACK OF SPADES

Extreme alternatives are suggested by your high Spade card. On one hand it suggests that you may be the Black Prince of the cards, achieving your ends through Machiavelian cunning. But then you may also choose to identify with the spiritual power hidden in your crown card and most effectively express yourself as a saintly mystic. Actually, you are probably somewhere in between, with both influences shaping your worldly expression. As with all the Jacks, you have a youthful nature, which may present a challenge in that it may be difficult for you to muster enough maturity to cope with the great responsibility indicated by your card. Even though your princely card suggests that you belong up front leading the action, it also indicates that you can be the determined, hard-working individual, with a vitality to accomplish just about anything you put your will and muscle to.

Watch that your compelling urge for achievement to live like royalty does not tempt you to resort to nefarious tactics to gain your objectives. Strange as it may seem, your card, which can symbolize profound mystical insight, symbolic of "the initiation into the mysteries," unfortunately has also become the symbol of con artists, thieves and blackmailers. Unhappily the potential to commune with angels also opens the door to the forces of evil. Cardwise, you have one of the more fortunate Life Spreads, loaded with opportunities. So you do have a choice of either being a black magician or a high priest of truth.

With the Mercury position of your Life Spread occupied by the Eight of Clubs, your significant mental potential is likely to make itself apparent early in life. Early enough to help you make the most of educational opportunities and to overcome some of the problems of youth. Even though as a youngster you may have some problems, probably arising out of a need to express your own identity and independence, for the most part, you are likely to be protected and aided by parents and others interested in helping you develop your obvious potential. Wilful and worrisome attitudes may also surface early, disturbing your outlook, possibly breeding a skeptical philosophy. You have great mental powers, and with patience, you should be able to think your way out of just about any problem. Guard against indulging in negativity, which could short-circuit your power.

K ♠

The leadership symbolized in your crown card is underscored by your Mars card, the King of Spades. As a symbol of mastery, it indicates the power available to you, providing you can muster the necessary self-discipline. Since this aspect of your nature is identified with one of the fixed cards, your sweet smile is likely to conceal a very determined individual, who usually gets his or her way. If you needed anything to help you to make "the impossible dream" come true, you couldn't ask for a better asset than the intuitive strength symbolized in this card.

According to the indecisive emotional influence of the Three of Hearts, love is not likely to be a simple and pure thing for you. The quandaries associated with this card are somewhat minimized by its Jupiter placement. Even so this personable influence, which gives you the power to charm all who come within your spell, may attract questionable involvements, relationships that are more trouble than love. Or you may become involved in social activities that will crowd your work and other responsibilities. Regardless of burdens with loved ones, emotional frustrations, you will probably wear a bright happy face.

A ♣

Although you wear a crown of love, the Ace of Clubs in Saturn suggests that you will be more successful personally and socially through sharing your quest for knowledge with others. This influence implies two extremes. Either you will reach the heights through a serious pursuit of wisdom and expression of your talents, or fail, distracted by trivia and inadequate preparation. Support your grand dreams with a solid foundation of education and self-discipline.

Q ♣

Combined with the exciting influence of Uranus, you have the sensitive, mental influence of the Queen of Clubs. Even though women are apt to be a source of uncertainty, they are likely to play an important, even an inspiring role in your life. Symbolic of service, this card suggests that you may find your true niche in helping others through teaching, nursing or some form of public service. With the passing years, your intuitive intellect may encourage an increased participation in spiritual and metaphysical activities. You are likely to find this activity helping you uncover your true identity. In the process, you will probably find that you are leading the action, that the middle years will truly give you the opportunity to wear your crown of leadership.

With the Ten of Spades in Neptune, you are not likely to slow down for those golden years. In fact, if you do retire, you will probably find success in hobbies, or even in a new

The need to develop a realistic and responsible sense of values is accented by the Six of Diamonds in Venus. Particularly in your teens and early twenties, you may become overly concerned about material limitations to your life style. Resist the temptation to compromise your principles as a means of solving those problems. The karmic influence of this card could cause you to regret such action. Actually all you aspire to do and be can be achieved by developing your inherent gifts and abilities. With your unique perspective on Life, traditional values, especially those pertaining to emotional considerations and building a home, may seem inadequate to your intense and somewhat bizarre tastes. So in order to avoid an unexciting and restrictive marriage, it is important that you choose your love partners with much care.

The importance of personal productivity is pointed out by the Four of Spades in Mars. As you can be especially vulnerable to irresponsible associates and dubious interests,it is particularly important that you choose to identify with constructive individuality. When sufficiently motivated, there is no one who can be more industrious than yourself. And actually, as a Spade you will find this is the true secret of your material power. Organizational skills are also suggested by this influence, which should serve you well in business, in clubs and service oriented activities. The accent is on responsibility so you are likely to find subservient positions alien to the real you.

Tremendous people-power is suggested by the combination of the Ten of Hearts with Jupiter, the mythological "God of Fortune." Apply the charismatic charms implied here, and you should have no real difficulty in winning friends and admirers. Translate this into career activity, especially something which will involve you with the public and this literally could prove to be the key of your fortune. If you are truly going to capitalize on this wonderful influence, seek out those opportunities both socially and professionally which involve you with groups of people. As this card symbolizes "success with people," you should be able to find success in selling ideas, products and even yourself as a celebrated personality.

Since you have another symbol of success, the Ten of Diamonds in Saturn, your success potential is multiplied to spectacular possibilities. While this influence can indicate inheritance or benefits gained through marriage, as a rule, Saturn does not give anything away for free. This may mean nothing more than long hours of hard work and burdensome responsibilities. It may be that some of your abundance will involve a relationship with someone much older or someone who needs your assistance. This card and planet does point to the probability of success in professions catering to the health and care of the elderly.

The middle years of your life should particularly benefit from the powerful influence of the Eight of Spades in Uranus. This card suggests a vitality which should not only keep you active and productive, but also help you overcome most health problems. Work and humanitarian interests may also be stimulated, which suggests that you can be a constructive force in activities concerned with labor and social reforms. While you can be a most efficient boss, you may have to watch an inclination to push others too hard. Occupations relating to mining, farming, real estate, films and science are also favored by this influence. At this time in your life, something may act as a catalyst, triggering the spiritual dimensions suggested by your card. Development and expression in this area could help make this the most rewarding time in your life.

Due to the Neptune placement of the Ace of Hearts, curiosity about people and distant places will stimulate a desire for much travel. This influence also warns that emotional problems may arise from a rather nebulous idealism concerning your heart's desires. In an erratic quest for answers, you may find yourself involved in all sorts of strange situations. It is very important that you get your emotional values straightened out, or you may find the latter years a lonely time. You have all the attributes to win love, but an inclination to ride roughshod over the desires and needs of others could jeopardize your personal happiness.

The world is filled with willing people:
Some willing to work,
The rest willing to let them.

♥ ♣ Queens ♦ ♠

The Queens share a co-rulership position with the kings. But unlike the power of the Kings which is symbolized by the weapons they carry on their cards, the power of the Queens, is symbolized by the flowers of conception, inspiration, prayer and hope shown on their cards. In this light, they are the passive rulers, representing the feminine principle of receptivity, the source of inspiration, setting the ideals for their children and for the nations. Frequently they are found bearing the responsibility of leadership without the name or recognition. No matter what your gender, if your birthday identifies you with one of the Queens, you have a mission to inspire, to counsel, to comfort, even to sit in judgement, encouraging expressions of truth, love and peace. Rendering some form of service appears to be an integral part of your high calling and fulfillment. "For anything worth having one must pay the price; and the price is always work, patience, love, self-sacrifice — no paper currency, no promises to pay, but the gold of real service." (John Burroughs)

The four suits indicate the instruments of your power and the manner in which you are to demonstrate your rulership:

Queen of Hearts — Your scepter is love. You rule through emotional values, converting desire into love and an idealistic expression of "Universal Brotherhood."

Queen of Clubs — Your scepter is knowledge. Your reign is accomplished through an intuitive expression of intellect and service.

Queen of Diamonds — Your scepter is value. To you falls the challenge of balancing the materiality symbolized in the Diamond with the divine vision sparkling within its crystal facets.

Queen of Spades — Your scepter is labor. Through discipline, you bring dignity and inspiration to man's work. Your card symbolizes Self Mastery.

Q♥ QUEEN OF HEARTS

Consciously, or unconsciously, most women identify with the Queen of Hearts. If your birthday is symbolized by this attractive card, you are apt to find the life it represents a mixed blessing. True, the men as well as the women identified with this royal card are among the most attractive and charming of all. But the emotional quality of this crown card makes them vulnerable egowise and tempts many to abuse this power as emotional tyrants, or to waste their charms through endless flirtations and self-indulgence. It is an easier card for women as men born under its influence, while sensitive and kind, are more inclined to fall prey to its weakness. Their warmth and gentleness may be replaced without warning by temperamental explosions. For those who are able to master the sensitive power portrayed in this card, there awaits a potential which is second to none. They symbolize beauty, the ideal expression of love. To them falls the challenge to communicate through their talents and intellect, as well as love, an appreciation of finer things, of a divine purpose. "I never knew how to worship until I knew how to love."*

Obviously, you're not all heart. The Ten of Clubs, symbolic of the Mercury segment of your Life Spread indicates a spectacular mental potential. As this card especially applies to the earlier part of your life, it suggests that you could have been a whiz at school, that is if you didn't get bored. Besides a gift of gab, it also implies that with a little personal discipline, you probably can write all sorts of wonderful things. Particularly in your youth, impatience and an inclination to be willful could prove to be serious stumbling blocks.

With the Eight of Diamonds in Venus, you are not likely to be lacking in the money department for long. In fact, once you put your mind to it, the combination of Venus with this positive material influence suggests that you do very well in the arts and in creating products of a personal nature or for the home. You are among the few who can mix business and pleasure profitably. While you will probably have to earn your way, inheritances and benefits through others are not too improbable. All your interests, as well as your home and occupational efforts are likely to benefit from this positive Venusian force.

*Henry Ward Beecher career. Travel is a strong probability, and is likely to prove an entree to many happy social experiences. You may even find that your greatest achievements and personal success are to be found far away from your original home scene, possibly in some distant land. Fortunately, a displaced Four of Hearts in the Perfect Spread suggests that your earlier emotional crosses are likely to be far behind you now. So while this card crowns your life's work with an aura of success, it also implies the possibility that the latter years will bring you some personal happiness.

Nothing is less in our power than the heart, and far from commanding we are forced to obey it.

Jean Jacques Rousseau

Q♣ QUEEN OF CLUBS

Identified with one of the top crown cards, you probably can do many things well. But as a Queen of Clubs, your true realm is that of the mind, as a receiver and dispenser of knowledge. Not necessarily as an academic intellectual, though you certainly can excel in this area, but more as an intuitive source of higher knowledge. In this you inspire others through a quality of being as well as facts. While you may be more apt to express this through science, teaching and writing, you may also find that you can communicate this essence through music, painting and drama.

Though you are naturally gifted, it is still very important that you acquire the disciplines needed to develop your inherent potential. Otherwise, you may be tempted to rule through the weight of your own crown than through the authority of your wisdom and ability.

Innately compassionate, but you may still have to guard against being impatient with those less astute. For while your card highlights the power of your sensitive intellect and superior talents, it also is a symbol of service. So when others call upon you for help, as they are likely to do, don't turn away. Remember, part of your personal fulfillment is more than likely to include some expression of service to others. "The soul of God is poured into the world through the thoughts of men."*

Your Life Spread beginning under the positive influence of the Ten of Spades in Mercury suggests that your natural brightness is likely to make itself evident early in life. So any lack of success either in school or in any early work effort is more than likely to be due to a lack of sincere interest. With your great potential surfacing at such an early age, the most serious hazard may be an inclination to take your good fortune for granted. This could prove to be an unfortunate mistake, as self-discipline is essential to sustain the success promised in this card. If not through employment, you may seek an early marriage as an expression of independence. If you do not marry while young, you may not marry at all, or at least not until much later in life. In your case, this would not necessarily be unfortunate, as much of what you have to express may be hindered by an early marriage.

5♣

The Five of Clubs in Venus suggests that your teens and early twenties are likely to see you on the move, trying to find someone, someplace, something to help you find stability.

*Ralph Waldo Emerson

Emotional matters are likely to be very shaky at this time. In all probability, some of the disappointments which you will experience in love are likely to be due to your own uncertainty as to what you want emotionally. If you want to build a lasting relationship, try to find a mate or partner who enjoys a wide variety of interests and who can cope with your restless nature. Another prerequisite — they should also be mentally stimulating, boredom can be a serious hazard in your relationships. Don't be too surprised if others drop their problems in your lap. While you can be a wise counsellor and helpful friend, don't allow others to abuse your assistance.

With your many talents and abilities, you should have no great difficulty in making money, but the Three of Diamonds in Mars suggests that managing it may be a different story. A touch of extravagance combined with an impulsive, somewhat erratic nature implies a need for caution in financial matters and legal involvements. You probably could use a business manager, but don't be too trusting, neglecting the responsibility of your own material well-being could backfire. A strong desire for freedom combined with a multitude of things that you should like to do suggests that choosing a career, work procedures or investments is not likely to be an easy task. Learning to focus and becoming super-organized may be the only way you are going to be able to do all the things that you want to do successfully.

A

The most significant, symbolic indication of your intuitive powers is the Ace of Spades in Jupiter. The subtle forces represented in this card merged with this auspicious planetary influence indicate the probable benefits to be gained from developing your perceptive powers. You are not likely to require much encouragement, as your natural curiosity is likely to be a strong motivating force, prodding you to investigate mysteries mundane as well as spiritual. An element of secrecy may surround some of your activities. Whether these be in business or in your personal life, a displaced Seven of Hearts in the Perfect Spread advises much caution, as these could be the source of much disappointment.

Usually a picture of positive vitality, but the Seven of Hearts in Saturn implies that appearances may be deceiving. As this influence can indicate hidden frailty, resist your natural inclination to throw caution to the wind. Emotionally vulnerable, health problems may be traced to your intense feelings, and a tendency to worry over disappointment or burdensome relationships. Emotional attitudes, such as jealousy, temperament and possessiveness are not likely to do much for your physical well-being. A need for a positive philosophy, especially pertaining to matters of the heart, is essential both for your personal happiness and health.

A combination of the eccentric influence of Uranus with the Seven of Diamonds clearly warns against gambling and speculative enterprises. Your fortune will depend more on know-how than chance. Long term investments, such as fulfilling your desire of a home, could prove rewarding personally and monetarily. Practical intellectual efforts are likely to prove more valuable in money matters than your intuition. Probably your best investment will be in money spent for developing your talents and mental resources. The latter especially favors philosophical and metaphysical interests, which could provide significant opportunities for personal expression in your middle years.

Throughout your life, the Five of Spades in Neptune suggests that your favorite solution for problems is to make changes, move or travel. This is fine, if it doesn't really become a tendency to run away from problems. This illusionary planetary influence indicates a tendency to become involved in nebulous, unrealistic schemes. The element of uncertainty suggested by this card stresses the importance of having your personal house in order well before your latter years. If you have not just trusted to luck but prepared yourself financially for your golden years, you should find this time opening doors to new adventures. While this is likely to include travel, consider the following words by David Grayson. "Adventure is not outside a man, it is within."

Q♦ QUEEN OF DIAMONDS

As your birthday identifies you with the Diamond Queen, your sensitive leadership abilities and other attributes may be somewhat obscured by a preoccupation with material considerations. You have royal tastes and a desire to live rather grandly, but all too often not the means to support the extravagant life style to which you would like to become accustomed. This may prove to be a blessing in disguise, as it may cause you to draw on your inner strength, which is considerable. Once you've learned to apply the personal disciplines which are essential if you are to tap your true power, you should be able to overcome most limitations. Your rightful place according to your crown card is in some expression of leadership. If not as an executive, then in the expression of your talents and other abilities. In positions of authority, guard against being arbitrary and ruling with a too-heavy hand.

The Mercury-Saturn placement of your card in the Life Spread suggests that your's is not an easy life. When heartaches and disappointments make you painfully aware of this fact, remember, for the most part, negative experiences may be due to ignorance and an improper use of the "laws of life." Recognize these laws as symbolized in the cards which make up your Life Spread, and realize that the forces and attributes which they represent are neither positive or negative. So your real challenge will be to translate these energies and qualities into a positive expression. In doing so, you will uncover your own true greatness.

The Five of Hearts in the Mercury position of your Life Spread suggests that an element of emotional uncertainty is likely to mark your earlier years. While your childhood may be secure materially, separations, changes and loss of loved ones are apt to create an inner turmoil. As emotional factors will be the source of your greatest challenges, be careful that this doesn't foster emotional instability. Throughout your life, you're likely to feel a compelling urge to travel and be on the go. While your journeying is likely to bring you many interesting contacts and experiences, watch that it doesn't encourage a restlessness which will contribute to your basic insecurity.

The indecisiveness associated with the Three of Clubs is not likely to do much to minimize the above uncertainty. The Venus placement of this card indicates that many of your quandaries may be due to disappointments in people, strangers as well as those close to you. As many of your heartaches may be the result of misunderstandings arising out of your own ambiguity, stress clarity in communicating your thoughts and wishes. "Not only to say the right thing in the right place, but far more difficult to leave unsaid the wrong thing at the tempting moment."* From your teens on, you are likely to be called upon to make sacrifices on the behalf of family and friends. Just make sure that they are worthy of your efforts. A symbol of expression, this card points to the possibility of talent in singing and acting.

Another three, the Three of Spades in Mars, suggests that you may have a great difficulty in deciding what you want to do in both work and play. This double three influence in your Life Spread warns of a danger of scattering your energies through too many interests, which are apt to prove more debilitating than fulfilling. A sense of insecurity may cause you to remain with an unsatisfactory job or situation for a long time. As you are not likely to be happy in subservient positions, you would be wise to prepare yourself to express some type of leadership. When you are doing something which really interests you, you will work very hard, but if you're on a boring job, you are apt to waste your life in day dreams.

While you will have your penurious moments, the Nine of Hearts in Jupiter suggests that you can also be generous to a fault. This dynamic Heart card combined with this expansive planetary influence suggests that your quest for love and pleasure could prove very expensive. While you are apt to be your best in occupations which bring you in contact with the public, or which have social overtones, be careful about mixing love and money, it could prove extremely costly. As befits your royal card, you like fine things, and your clothes and home are likely to reflect a feeling for quality. Unfortunately, you may not be too practical in your quest for this gracious life style, so your bank account is likely to suffer from time to time from binges of extravagance.

Being vulnerable to fixed and somewhat negative attitudes, the Seven of Clubs underscores your need to develop a positive outlook. While this card implies some inspired insight into ways in which you can improve your material situation, its Saturn placement warns that your thoughts and feelings are so intense that health and psychological problems may result from excessive worry. Perhaps the best way to counter this possibility would be to develop the spiritual and mental discipline associated with the higher expression of the values symbolized in this card. In doing so, you should not only find a constructive philosophy for yourself and others but also a way to overcome your mundane problems.

The Five of Diamonds in Uranus suggests that the middle years are likely to see the inhibiting forces, which may have kept you fettered to a job or a burdensome marriage, dropping away. Combined with the somewhat impulsive and erratic influence of this planet, you may have to resist the temptation to make changes out of restlessness. This period of time is likely to bring travel and possible involvement with distant interests. While this card implies that you can benefit from these changes, don't let a too vague, impatient attitude about legal agreements and other transactions cause them to become a source of loss. In considering occupations and interests, look for something which will appeal to your love of variety and freedom of movement.

In some ways the Queen of Spades in Neptune suggests that your latter years could be among your best. For one thing, this card implies a vitality which could bring you greater rewards from your labors, especially if you are able to express some form of leadership. Your own material situation should benefit from a displaced Ten of Diamonds, which suggests abundant returns for your efforts or a possible inheritance. This period of time is also likely to bring an association with a rather dominant woman. She is likely to be a beneficial influence, possibly becoming a traveling companion. This high Spade card also indicates a significant spiritual opportunity, which may be had through the application of "self mastery." Meet this challenge, and you can crown your life with the fulfillment to be found through higher awareness.

There is this paradox in pride --
It makes some men ridiculous,
But prevents others from becoming so
Charles Colton

Q♠ QUEEN OF SPADES

With the struggles and hard work that you may have to endure, you may be surprised to find that you are identified with one of the royal cards. Like so many born on your day, you can account for the spade in your card, which translates into a lot of hard work, but you may find it difficult to identify with the power of your crown card. But until you find a way to express it, you are all too likely to find yourself working in all sorts of employment beneath your high destiny. So if you find yourself in menial tasks, plodding along as a servant or laborer, perhaps this awareness, along with the willingness to apply the self-discipline represented in your card will set you on the path to achieving your true place. Whatever you aspire to, remember that the prerequisite symbolized in your card is "self-mastery."

Whether you fulfill your destiny in overalls or wearing the royal purple, you will probably have to work very hard at whatever task you choose. But if you have the patience to delve into the great storehouse of higher wisdom available to you, you will not have to solve all your problems through hard labor. While your high Spade card implies a significant spiritual quality, a displaced Ten of Diamonds in the Perfect Spread suggests the potential to excel in both the spiritual and mundane realms.

According to the Jack of Clubs in the Mercury position of your Life Spread, your quick, somewhat aggressive mentality is likely to have made its appearance early enough to help you with your schooling. Talent is also suggested here, but an underlying restlessness may have caused you to be too impatient to develop your intellectual and creative possibilities. An older man, possibly your father, is likely to have played an important part in shaping your values and outlook on life. While you are likely to have an easy rapport with men, you may have to watch an inclination to become involved with those who are not particularly responsible. They are all too apt to bring this quality out in you, which could significantly impede your progress toward all the wonderful things promised by your card.

A strong materialistic sense is accentuated by the Nine of Diamonds in Venus. Practical and modest as you may be in other areas, this influence suggests that your wardrobe and the decor of your home is likely to reflect a touch of extravagance. You appreciate quality and may not stop to consider whether it costs more than you can afford. This same ambivalence about money may become a real source of dissension in marriage and close relationships where financial considerations could become their undoing. You would do well to take to heart the old maxim "love and money don't mix."

The positive and negative attributes of your own Spade card are underscored by the Seven of Spades in Mars. This card suggests possible problems in health brought on by overwork or through indulging in negative attitudes and social excesses. With such a tremendous power potential, you are apt to suffer serious psychological as well as physical problems when this force is abused. This card also suggests that the key to this tremendous power is through spiritual discipline. When applied, you should also find this opening an intuitive potential, which can give you a significant assist in your everyday activities as well as in your spiritual growth. With the possible exception of an individual who may prove to be a source of inspiration, you will probably find male associates a source of problems.

"To share or not to share," that could be the question, but the advantages of cooperative efforts are emphasized by the Jupiter placement of the Two of Clubs. The combination of this card with this auspicious planetary influence suggests that you have everything to gain through combining your forces with others. Only your fears, which may feed a quarrelsome nature can sabotage all the benefits that can be had through joint efforts. True, your royal card implies that you need a certain amount of independence to fulfill your individual destiny. Just don't let this minimize the expansive possibilities to be had through sharing, especially your quest for knowledge. While this opportunity may be available to you throughout your life, it may be particularly evident in your late thirties and early forties.

The Saturn placement of the King of Clubs suggests that while you may find the responsibilities of leadership burdensome, it is likely to be essential to your personal fulfillment. This card may also represent a rather hardheaded individual, possibly in the role of a boss, who may have quite an impact on you in your middle years. The intellectual potential represented in this card, combined with the sensitivity of your card, implies a profound depth, which could be put to very good use in the healing professions, in science or in teaching. In your attempts to be objective, guard against appearing too cold and matter-of-fact.

If you are uncertain how to best express yourself, the Jack of Diamonds in Uranus suggests that you might investigate your creative possibilities. In your youth, these may manifest as talent for singing, acting or dancing. As this is sometimes identified as the "writer's card," you may find with maturity, if not before, the patience to develop your abilities in some type of literary expression. Associations with the male sex are likely to improve with the years, with your middle years bringing a much more successful relationship. As this is also a fortunate material aspect, your material fortunes should benefit at this time from this auspicious influence, especially if you are involved with farming, mining and real estate. It also favors such strange bedfellows as science and the occult, suggesting that you may come up with some valuable innovative ideas or become a leading force in humanitarian endeavors with philosophical or metaphysical overtones.

If earlier emotional involvements suffered from a somewhat glamorous, but illusionary quality, it may have been due to the nebulous influence of the Four of Hearts in Neptune. Happily in your latter years this same influence suggests that you are likely to enjoy something special in the way of personal happiness. This may mean a late marriage or just that you are surrounded by the love and companionship of good friends. A late career or social activities involving groups of people should prove particularly successful. Throughout your life, you are likely to find some of your most rewarding opportunities for contacts and social experiences through travel.

♥ ♣ Kings ♦ ♠

"Though all are made of clay, some men must follow, and some command."* Co-rulers with the Queens, the Kings represent the ultimate expression in any suit. On their cards, the Kings are shown carrying weapons, which imply aggressiveness, that they rule by strength, making the laws for others as well as for themselves. In nature they symbolize the male principle. When their birthdays or destinies place them on a throne, or in charge of a company or department, as a rule, Kings can rule most effectively. But having nothing to prove or to aspire to, kings frequently are content to rest on their good fortune, living far beneath their high calling. If you have a birthday which identifies you with one of the Kings, you are fortunate in the wonderful potential your card promises. While you can excel at just about anything, your royal card suggests that you should be at your best in some expression of leadership. If not as a ruler of a nation, perhaps as an executive, administrator, authority or in an expression of excellence in the arts, or in some special field.

Your emblem of authority and dominion is also somewhat shaped by the suit over which you rule. For example, if you are the:

King of Hearts — Your crown of authority is love. You may have to learn to distinguish between emotional sensuality and the ideal of love. You are likely to find that this will include an element of sacrifice.

King of Clubs — Your rod of authority is knowledge. You hold dominion through leadership in intellectual endeavors as expressed through science, medicine and education.

King of Diamonds — A diamond-studded crown implies that you reign in the realm of values. As you gather your treasures, remember, Kings have a duty to share their wealth, imparting to others an awareness of true values.

King of Spades — Although your scepter may look like a shovel, and you may earn your place through the labor of your hands, your true sovereignty is demonstrated through an expression of "personal mastery" and as a channel of Divine Wisdom.

* Henry Wadsworth Longfellow

K♥ KING OF HEARTS

"Love" is your wand of power. As the King of Hearts you have the greatest entree, shown in the cards, into the hearts of others. Use it wisely and you will find that this power will win you much love and admiration. With this in mind, your greatest fulfillment will be found in an expression of leadership in people related careers and activities. The emotional-sensuality associated with your card could be your most difficult hurdle. Undisciplined, it could lead to destructive emotional-sexual excesses. There probably is no worse tyranny than that based on emotional power. Under control, this same sensual-sensitivity could aid you in capturing the richness of color, sound and form as an artist, sculptor or musician. It could also add that additional charisma to the magnanimous charm implied in your card, which can win for you as a politician and entertainer. As the King of Hearts, you have the potential magic, through your example as well as your works, to inspire others to live more beautifully. Of all the Kings, your rulership is likely to be the most subtle. Love may be the mightiest of all weapons, but it is usually most effective when expressed thoughtfully and tenderly. "To love is to place our happiness in the happiness of another."* *Gottfried Wilhelm von Leibntz

K♦

Your potential for leadership is underscored by the King of Diamonds in the Mercury position of your Life Spread. This card also implies a material protection in your youth and a strong streak of independence. In an early quest to find your own individuality, you may find talent, even genius. This top Diamond symbol also suggests that your fortune is likely to relate to your willingness and ability to accept the responsibilities associated with your crown card. An older man, possibly your father, is likely to have a strong influence on your thinking and philosophy of life. Although your prime attribute is love, being somewhat embarrassed by anything emotional, you are more than likely to identify with your fine mentality or artistic abilities.

Uncertainty in relationships, especially in your teens and early twenties, may trouble you, but the Six of Hearts in Venus suggests that you have the emotional strength to rise above these quandaries. Keep in mind, this card symbolizes "The Law of Love." Demonstrate this concept in all your contacts, and you should find little resistance to your wishes. If you yield to the temptation to dominate, to be bossy, you are likely to find that the abuse of your emotional powers is likely to earn you resentment and resistance. You may have to learn to give the peace and serenity you so dearly desire, in order to have it yourself.

Cardwise, the first evidence of your fine intellect is shown in the Four of Clubs in Mars. This influence suggests that you are likely to find group intellectual activity very stimulating. In fact even emotional relationships are likely to be more successful if they include the sharing of mental quest. The Mars placement of this card also suggests a special mental rapport with men. This practical cerebral influence could do much to stabilize your strong emotional nature. Even so, you would be wise to watch that your thinking is not too strongly colored by your feelings. Also be careful that your productivity is not minimized by an underlying restlessness, which may encourage you to scatter your energies through too many interests.

Almost in spite of the independent nature implied in your kingly card, the Two of Diamonds in Jupiter emphasizes the benefits to be gained through combining your forces with others. This auspicious planetary influence points to the probability of material as well as other advantages to be gained through joint endeavors and partnerships. Just watch that your royal aloofness isn't allowed to become a barrier in cooperative efforts. If not before, the middle years should bring another significant advantage to the development of your intuitive powers. Occupations providing some type of service, or oriented towards the needs of women could prove to be especially profitable.

Tremendous possibilities as well as probably your greatest challenges are symbolized by the Jack of Spades in Saturn. The latter warns of an inclination to be careless about your health and associates, suggesting a possible tendency to become involved with dubious individuals and activities. With an inclination to make your own rules, self-discipline is likely not to be one of your strong points, so you may have to guard against an inclination to overindulge your passions and your appetites. The resulting stresses not only are likely to have a negative effect on your physical well-being but may create serious psychological problems. A less obvious aspect of this card but even more important is the opportunity that it represents to gain an insight into the mysteries of life. Discipline this force and it can open the doors to mystical awareness.

Your mental powers are accentuated by the appearance of the Eight of Clubs in the Uranus portion of your Life Spread. With the passing years, you may gradually begin to realize how great this power is. It most likely will encourage a development in intellectual pursuits, with philosophical and probably also spiritual overtones. The great mental energies represented here suggest that you may have healing power in your touch and in your thoughts. Your middle years may find you fulfilling your true destiny in the role of a counsellor and teacher. The pull between matters mundane and sublime may create a serious inner conflict at this time in your life. If you fail to aspire high, you may find yourself plagued with a discontent, realizing that you could have been more than you are.

Even though you have a significant earning potential, the Six of Diamonds in Neptune suggests that financial problems may arise out of a too nebulous attitude about monetary considerations. As this is a "Karmic" influence, invest your time and energies wisely or the latter day may find you wanting. With so many abilities and talents to draw from, this certainly need not be the case. Unless you have found interests and hobbies to keep you active, the so-called golden years may seem rather quiet. Keep in mind, even though you have one of the more fortunate Life Spreads, your crown card does require that you accept some responsibility in return for your good fortune.

K♣ KING OF CLUBS

It may come as a surprise, possibly even a shock, to find that if your birthday identifies you with the King of Clubs, that you are identified with the top card in the "mental suit." Besides suggesting that you've got an exceptionally good head on your shoulders, this card also implies that you can excel in just about anything that you may choose to do. The crown that goes with this card also points out that destiny probably wants you to accept the responsibility of some type of leadership. Develop your cerebral-talent potential and prepare to reign in anything from education, law, medicine and government to entertainment.

"You are today where your thoughts have brought you, you will be tomorrow where your thoughts take you."* If anyone should take these words by James Allen to heart, you are that individual. No one is better equipped to determine their destiny than a King of Clubs. But, as with all who are identified with the crown cards, discipline, and in particularly in your case, initiative may be your greatest hurdle. The latter can be so critical that your tremendous possibilities may be lost in some inertial rut, fed by all the indulgences to which the flesh is prone. As the saying goes, "Get your head together," discipline and develop your intellectual-talent potential, and you will discover that yours is among the most fortunate of all the Life Spreads shown in the cards.

J♦

According to the Jack of Diamonds, which occupies the Mercury position of your Life Spread, your wonderful possibilities are likely to become evident early in life. Besides giving you the aggressive, self-confidence to overcome the quandaries of youth, this symbol of creativity is also likely to encourage an early interest in music, art and literature. There is a strong possibility that some expression of your artistic talents or some other ability may bring you into the limelight at an early age and even give you a chance to demonstrate your ability to make money. If you can control your anxiety to be out in the world and discipline your abilities, you are likely to be among the brightest in school. As the mental quality of your Club card implies, education is extremely important.

Brainy and talented as you may be, the Four of Hearts in Venus indicates that you also have a very romantic heart. In fact, the compelling need for love may be so great that you may jeopardisze everything in a quest for emotional fulfillment. The combination of this card and planet is considered to be the strongest marriage indicators in the cards. So you should have no lack of opportunities to tie the marital knot. Problems are more likely to arise from an indiscreet use of your inborn romantic-magic and quandaries as to what you want in the way of love. Although, you are somewhat of an authoritarian, you are likely to be a good parent. Just the same, in all your relationships, especially with family members, guard against being too impatient and bossy. After all, others are not likely to have your facility to quickly grasp and understand.

The strong materialistic urges suggested by the Four of Diamonds in Mars are likely to encourage a propensity to indulge in luxurious homes, fast cars and to collect fine art objects. Fortunately, either through your own exceptional earning abilities, marriage, or inheritance, you are likely to have the means to indulge your expensive tastes. If not before, your ability to make money may become apparent in your late teens and early twenties. Fortunately, the demands that you are apt to place on yourself are likely to be sustained by a fairly rugged constitution. Your many adventures are likely to include a great deal of travel and many changes in work and living situations.

2♠

Independent as your royal card may encourage you to be, the Two of Spades in Jupiter suggests that you would be wise not to carry this too far. This fortunate planetary influence combined with the cooperative attributes suggested by this two card indicates considerable advantages are to be gained by combining your forces with others. Not only are you likely to find that part of your pleasure comes from sharing your problems as well as your successes, but you are also likely to gain a sense of security and stability from such arrangements. Also, when you lose your motivation, it might be nice to have someone around to serve as a prod. Just watch that you don't become too dependent on partners, or yield to the temptation to shift most of the work load to their shoulders.

8♥

"The passions are like fire, useful in a thousand ways and dangerous only in one, through their excess."* The Saturn placement of the Eight of Hearts suggests that these words may be especially pertinent to you. As it is, you are all too apt to attract burdensome relationships or problems resulting from unwise emotional involvements. The "karmic" quality of this planetary position emphasizes the importance of practicing discretion on the use of the charm-power represented in this card. On the other hand the charismatic-emotional-energy symbolized here could prove a tremendous assist in any public related career. Besides giving you excellent recuperative powers, these same energies also imply an inherent healing potential, which should serve you well as a physician and counsellor.

According to the Six of Clubs in Uranus, the wisdom of your judgement and the perception of your understanding are enhanced by intuitive overtones. Particularly in your middle years this penetrating perspective may stimulate a greater interest in science and philosophy. It may even awaken an interest in matters metaphysical and spiritual. The various components of this influence combined with those of your own high Club card suggest that you can be an effective instrument of leadership in these realms. Unfortunately, a lazy streak is also suggested by this influence, which may side-track you from your lofty objectives, setting you off on a quest for pleasure.

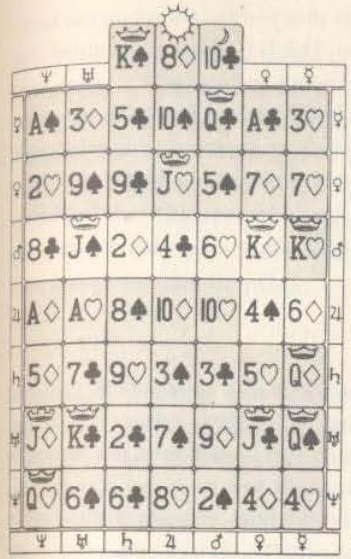

6♠

The Neptune position of your Life Spread is occupied by another six, the Six of Spades. While this double six influence should intensify your intuitive powers, it may also cause you to lose your momentum through a growing complacency, as indulgence in the fruits of your successes jeopardize all your other values. The latter years are likely to be secure, but you may have the feeling that you could have done something more with your life. Respond to the spiritual-idealism suggested by this combination of card and planet, and you may be inspired to live your life on a more universal, humanitarian scale, truly living up to the kingship of your card. Through this expression, you could find these golden years crowning your life with a sense of fulfillment.

It is unwise to be too sure of one's own wisdom.
It is healthy to be reminded
That the strongest might weaken
And the wisest might err.

Mahatma Gandhi

K♦ KING OF DIAMONDS

King Midas and you may not have much in common, but your top diamond Crown card does suggest that you do have the ultimate awareness and appreciation of material values. This strong sense of worth implies an inherent ability to administer and enjoy the products of the earth. This may encourage you to set too great a store in material power, encouraging an unbridled quest to acquire money and prestige, anything which will build your personal pyramid of power. Hopefully, your high perspective on values may offset this tendency, encouraging your philanthropic nature, as a distributor of worldy treasures.

If you are a member of the fairer sex, identification with this male face card, may encourage a masculine attitude to the point that your femininity may be endangered. On the other hand, guard against the use of feminine wiles to accomplish your ends, as you may end up by suffering some of the frustrations associated with the Queen of Diamonds. Whatever your gender, you have so much going for you that you have no need to resort to devious devices to gain your objectives.

Your kingly crown suggests that your greatest challenge may be in accepting the responsibility of leadership that goes with it. Secondary roles are not harmonious with your nature, and are apt to leave you discontented with yourself. Following the lead of your diamond crown card, you may find your true place as a captain of industry, a merchant tycoon or bank president. By no means is your ability to reign limited to material empires. Some of the worlds greatest statesmen share your diamond crown.

The complexion of your earliest years is indicated by the Six of Hearts in the Mercury position of your Life Spread. Though your youth may be disturbed by moves, even long journeys, for the most part these years are likely to be serene and secure. So much so that they are apt to spawn a growing restlessness, encouraging involvements in all sorts of interests and activities. Happily, you have a direct, positive attitude which somewhat minimizes your cool, unemotional display of affection and friendship. Even so, it wouldn't hurt to remember to apply "the law of love" represented in this card, it will help you sustain the friendships won through your easy charm.

Socially restless, the Four of Clubs in Venus suggests that you are always on the lookout for people, interests and places which will turn you on. This is likely to make travel one of your favorite pastimes. It also implies a preference for friends and contacts who can contribute to your prestige and material well-being, especially if they happen to be potential marriage partners. Although your spouse and close associates may appreciate your ability to lead and assume responsibilites, guard against being overly dominant and arbitrary. The keen, positive mental attributes represented in this card should be particularly helpful during your school years and early twenties. A great curiosity about emotional values may encourage many experiments in the quest of true love.

Cooperative efforts and partnerships, especially those which may be related to financial interests are highlighted by the Two of Diamonds in Mars. Although as a king, you should retain the upper hand in joint endeavors. In these endeavors apply much tact, as a tendency to be somewhat absolute with the use of power tactics could become a real sore spot in relationships. Demonstrate your right of leadership through wisdom and performance rather than through bossiness. The Mars placement of this card suggests that you are likely to be especially stimulated in work and activities involving the male species. Along with a certain sixth sense regarding values, you have the quality which inspires confidence, so you should have no real difficulty in attracting financial support for speculative ventures or in raising funds to support your kingly appetites.

The probability that your good fortune will depend somewhat on your ability to demonstrate leadership is emphasized by the Jack of Spades in Jupiter. King you may be, but the playboy, playgirl in your nature may be so strong that you may find it difficult to muster the necessary discipline and effort to fulfill your high destiny. If you lack ambition, it may be that as a king, you may feel that there is nothing more for you to aspire to. Except for a probable awareness that you could have done something more with your life, you are not likely to suffer, as a kindly fate could provide you with the means to live abundantly.

Fundamentally lucky, as well as very capable, you may feel no real incentive to develop the excellent cerebral attributes indicated by the Eight of Clubs in Saturn. To fully capitalize on this, one of your best assets, this planetary position implies a need for personal discipline and some type of educational program. An inborn restlessness fed by a desire to be actively involved with people is likely to make it difficult to concentrate on study and self-improvement programs. An attractive physique and a generally good health pattern are indicated here. Any problems that may arise healthwise, are more than likely to be due to neglect and overindulgence.

Although protected materially the Six of Diamonds in Uranus, which symbolizes "the law of values," emphasizes the importance of investing your energies as well as your money wisely. Taking things for granted may be an easy philosophy to live with, and one which you can, for the most part, get away with, but you will find it leading to a rather pointless existence. An inclination to become involved in static situations or to remain with occupations and interests for a long time suggests the wisdom of choosing these activities most carefully, or you may find monotony and the resulting boredom killing your spark of ambition and enthusiasm for living.

The last card in your Life Spread, the Four of Spades, suggests that your good fortune is likely to prevail right through your golden years. Combined with Neptune, this influence particularly favors interests and occupations which involve travel and distant places. If not for business, you will probably travel extensively for pleasure. Indicating the complexion of your latter years, this card suggests "no rocking chair for you." In all probability you can find these years can be as productive as your so-called prime of life. It may indicate a new career or activity, possibly something with intellectual overtones. And if dissipation hasn't done its dirty work, you will also find the good health to help you enjoy this time.

Every king springs from a race of slaves, and Every slave had kings among his ancestors.

Plato

K♠ KING OF SPADES

Last, but not least, if you were born on the first day of the year, the top card in the deck, the King of Spades, is your personal symbol. It represents the ultimate in spiritual energy and wisdom. Perhaps recognition of this tremendous potential, and directing these forces into some constructive expression will be the greatest challenge of all. This is not likely to be helped by the fact that this power, spectacular as it can be, is apt to be of such a subtle, spiritual nature, that you may not even recognize it, or feel sufficiently motivated to develop it.

Be it in some profound, noble role, or in some far less conspicious expression of service, your true place is to be found in some expression of leadership. Quandaries as to what you want to do may leave you in a mire of mediocrity, drowning your frustrations in anything that will dull your awareness of your failures. Rise to the challenge, and you may bring inspired leadership as a mystic, healer, teacher, counsellor, statesman or parent. Accept the opportunity spelled out symbolically in your card, and apply the essence of mastery, or personal discipline which it encompasses, and there should be no limit to what you can accomplish. "He who is firm in will molds the world to himself." — Johann Wolfgang von Goethe

The Mercury card in your Life Spread, the Three of Hearts, suggests a note of uncertainty particularly in relationships with family and friends. While this emotionally-indecisive influence may be the most acutely felt in your childhood, throughout your life you may have a sense of uncertainty regarding those closest to you. Check to see that this isn't a result of a projection from you, arising out of a fear in accepting love and friendship; it will give others a claim on you. Even as a youngster, indication of a certain maturity and ability beyond your years is likely to be apparent. Do not allow it to foster a superior, dominant attitude, which may push others away from you. Happily, this is somewhat countered by a personable quality also implied in this combination of card and planet, which should prove to be quite a boon both socially and in dealing with the public.

Love and marriage may not be particularly easy, but the following insight along with much applied wisdom might help you minimize possible romantic difficulties. In this respect, the Ace of Clubs in Venus suggests your best entree to successful emotional involvements and friendships may be found through the sharing of your quest for knowledge. It seems this indirect approach to love is more apt to help you find some common ground upon which to build a lasting relationship. Your profound perspective along with a rather quick mind may cause you to be impatient with those less enlightened. Although you can flourish in fraternal and social organizations, there is a quiet side to your nature which can be equally at home in a monastic retreat.

Q ♣

The probability that your strongest realm will be that of the mind is further accented by the Queen of Clubs in Mars. Symbolically, this card points out the more sensitive facets of your cerebral power, suggesting that some of this prowess is due to a strong intuition. The significant influence of a woman in your intellectual growth is also implied by this influence. While she and other women will be a source of stimulus, due to the combination of this card with the unstable energies of Mars, you may have to guard against friction in relationships with the fairer sex. Some problems may arise from your own inflexibility. This is indicated by the fact that your card through all the yearly spreads, never moves from its place in the Crown Line. So when you take those firm, adamant stands, make sure that they are based on wisdom rather than hardheaded stubbornness.

The probability of translating your superior talents and abilities into success and prosperity are enhanced by the Ten of Spades in Jupiter. The combination of this symbol of "success in work" with the fortunate and expansive planetary position encourages grandiose plans, which can bring you spectacular success. This is likely to be all the more probable in projects and interests which involve you with the public, such as politics, religion and entertainment. It is through work that your unique, charismatic charm will be most effective. Here and through other productive activities is where you will find your most successful relationships.

If any card embodies your most significant challenge, it may be the restless mental influence of the Five of Clubs in Saturn. Although this card and planet imply a practical-versatility, this very ability to do many things well may spawn a restless discontent, encouraging you to scatter your energies unproductively. So obviously, some application of the "mastery" symbolized in your card, discipline of your powers is a prerequisite to your great possibilities. As this influence particularly pertains to your middle years, this may be a time of some rather significant changes in both your personal and professional life. This is also a time of much travel. A special affinity with matters relating to the mind suggests that you may find your niche in psychology or philosophy.

With such a tremendous potential, it seems incredible that you should ever have any real concern about money. But the Three of Diamonds in Uranus suggests that indecisiveness regarding work, methods and interests may create serious economic problems. Perhaps as a king, you may be tempted to ignore the little details, indulging your expansive tastes, allowing opportunities to slip by and unreasonable debts to overwhelm you. It is not exactly that you don't care, in fact you may worry yourself sick over it, and still not do much of anything about it. As mentioned above, this suggests that it is in your mental outlook that you are likely to find your greatest challenge.

The aura of mysticism about you, especially in your latter years, is indicated by the Ace of Spades combined with the idealistic influence of Neptune. This symbol, commonly associated with death, particularly in your case symbolizes the key to the mystery of life as well. Mundanely, this may involve you in activities of a secretive nature, probing, investigating things hidden. Spiritually, this may give you the perception, the vision of divine truths, encouraging you to become a great teacher, opening the doors to higher awareness for others as well as yourself. "Great men are they who see that the spiritual is stronger than any material force " — Ralph Waldo Emerson.

I am the master of my fate;
I am the captain of my soul.
W.E. Henley

SECTION IV — HOW TO FORCAST YOUR FUTURE

YEARLY SPREADS

Prior to this section, we've dealt with what your card revealed about you and your overall life picture. This knowledge was gained through analyzing and interpreting the cards in your Life Spread. Here applying the same technique, you will find a progressive picture of your life as revealed through the Yearly Spreads. Just as your life, relationships and activities change each year, so do the cards which represent the yearly progress of your life. Eventually, as you acquire a skill in interpreting these symbols, you should be able to use this foreknowledge to your advantage. Although you may be able to forecast many things accurately, resist the temptation to use this purely as a prediction tool. Rather, think of the cards as a symbolic representation of the weather in your personal weather chart. In this way, this foresight may help you to more successfully time your activities, to understand relationships, challenges and opportunities.

It is extremely important that, as you begin to uncover the secrets hidden in the cards, you don't borrow trouble! If you see what appears to be a dubious aspect, remember, each card has also a positive, as well as a negative interpretation. With this perspective, you may be able to plan on how you can mimimize the impact of negative possibilities, and how you might make the most of happier influences.

FORECAST PROCEDURE

As you become familiar with the cards, you will be able to read them by just scanning the Yearly Spreads. But while learning to interpret them you should find the following procedure helpful. In my experience, I've found the following outline approach the most effective method of organizing the information indicated on the Yearly Spreads, especially when I've wanted to share my observation with someone else.

Step 1:

Start with a large sheet of paper, preferably lined. At the top write the name and birthday of the individual whose Yearly Spread you plan to analyze as I've done with our sample, John Page in Fig. 6. Along with his name I've included the card which represents his June 8th birthday, the Nine of Diamonds.

Step 2:

Along the left hand side of the page write the names of the seven planets as I have done in Fig. 6, using the same planetary sequence used in the Life Spread: Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune. These planets will identify the seven segments, or time periods of the year, and will also influence your interpretation of the cards listed within each segment.

Step 3:

Now add the dates under the name of each planet to show the approximate time that the influences suggested by the cards are likely to be the most strongly in effect. Note, these periods are appoximately fifty-two days in length. These dates can be obtained by either counting fifty-two days for each segment following the birthday being analyzed or by using the Time Table, Fig. 4. In the Time Table, you will find columns of numbers representing the days of the year. The circled numbers denote the months. To use this table, first locate the birthday in question, as we have done for John Page in our example segment of the Time Table, Fig.7. After locating his June 8th birthday, we move from left to right to the next column to to July 30th. Take these two dates, June 8th to July 30, and place them under Mercury as I have done in Fig.6. These dates will indicate the approximate time span of the Mercury segment in John's Yearly Spread. Follow the same procedure to establish the dates indicating the time period for the next planetary segment, which is identified with Venus. You will find that this period includes the time from July 30 to September 20. Add these dates to your outline under Venus. To find the time periods covered by the other planetary segments, continue to move one column to the right as I have done in our example, Fig. 7.

When you come to the last column to the right, the next time period will include the dates from this column and the first left-hand column on the same line. For example, in John's case this is the Jupiter segment of his personal year, and includes the time span from November 11 (last right hand column) to January 3 (first left hand column). Using this same procedure, continue to list the dates for each planetary segment until you return to your birthday, or as in our sample, to John's June 8th birthday.

Step 4:

Turn to your present year in the Yearly Spreads, or as in our example, to John Page's forty-ninth year, where we locate his card, the Nine of Diamonds, as shown in both Fig. 8 and Fig. 9. We are now ready to list the cards which will tell us the story of your present year or of John's forty-ninth year. The first card to be read is the card occupying the Mercury position, or the first space to the left of the subject's birthday card, which in John's case (see Fig. 8) is the Queen of Clubs in Mercury. Add the symbol Q♣ of this card to your yearly analysis for John next to Mercury as shown in Fig. 6.

Following the same procedure, add the symbols for the Ten of Spades to the Venus segment, the Eight of Clubs to Mars, etc. For a clearer, overall picture, write down the symbols for all the cards before you begin your analysis or interpretation of them.

As in the Life Spread, in which the seven cards indicate the overall complexion of a lifetime, the seven cards in the yearly spreads give a symbolic picture of each 52 day segment of a year. In reading the Yearly Spreads, we will also be concerned with several different types of spreads. They are the Primary Spread, Vertical Spread and the Personality Spread.

In Step 4, you just listed the cards which compromise the Primary Spread, which is the most important of all the spreads. Like the Life Spread, the Primary Spread is read horizontally from right to left and down from the subject's card, as shown in Fig. 9. When you have a planetary sequence which continues beyond the last position to the left hand corner of the lowest line, you continue by going up the first position in the top right hand corner of the Crown line, as shown in Fig. 9.

INTERPRETATING THE CARDS

Step 5:

Whether you write down your information as we are doing with John's Yearly Spread, or just scanning the yearly picture, you should find the following procedure helpful.

Think of the cards and planetary influences as sort of a code, consisting of ten numbers, four suits and seven planets, each with basic qualities. Familiarize yourself with these qualities through the Key Word Chart, the list of abbreviated descriptions of the cards in the section "You, Your Life and Your Card," on page 323, and of the planets in "Planetary Influences on Relationships," on page 26. Observe how I make use of this code as I move planet by planet through the Primary Spread of John's forty-ninth year.

Mercury: In this planetary position, John has the sensitive intellectual influence of the Queen of Clubs, highlighting the mental qualities implied by Mercury. The Queen cards usually symbolize women, or a feminine influence. In this case, since John's wife, Mary, has a birthday identified with the Queen of Clubs, in all probability this cards represents her. In combining this information, our interpretation of this aspect might read, "The period following your birthday will probably emphasize the sharing of intellectual activity with Mary. Due to Mercury's influence, you should find an easy conversational rapport with each other."

Venus: Moving one more position to the left, we find the Ten of Spades in Venus. This planetary position especially pertains to personal matters, relationships and interests relating to the home. The number ten is an indicator of success.* The Spade suit is usually associated with work. This combination of influences could read, "Success in personal matters and in work about the home. This also should bring success in occupations providing services of a personal nature, or products for women, and the home. All your activity at this time should benefit from this productive influence."

Mars: The third space is occupied with the powerful mental influence of the Eight of Clubs. Combined with the vitalizing force of Mars, our reading of this influence might go something like this, "Mental energies are stimulated now, so brain power is the key to your success at this time."

Jupiter: Now we drop a line and go to the far right column where we pick up another Ten the Ten of Hearts. The combination of this card with the beneficial and expansive influence of Jupiter will probably amplify the "success in people activity" implied in this card. Our notation for this planetary segment might say, "An excellent time for making new contacts and expanding social activites."

Saturn: Moving left to the next planetary position, we find the Nine of Clubs is the indicator of the complexion of this period. To build our interpretation, we consider the attributes associated with this card and planet. The Nine of Clubs is frequently read as a symbol of disappointment and worry. While this high mental card does also have a more positive interpretation, its combination with the challenging influence of Saturn, the cosmic-taskmaster, is likely to accent its more dubious qualities. I would emphasize caution, especially in the mental outlook. Or in other words, "Retrench at this time, guard against indulging in negativity, which might arise from frustrations and disappointments. Try to use this foreknowledge to minimize the negative possibilities and try to use this mental energy constructively."

* See Chapter on Numbers.

Uranus: The Five of Clubs, a symbol of restlessness and changes, occupies the Uranus portion of John's Primary Spread. Combined with the unusual qualities associated with Uranus, this combination might read, "Exposure to some new unusual concepts may change your mind and give you a new outlook on life." As with all fives changes and travel are a strong possibility, so we might add, "Unexpected happenings or restlessness may bring changes and travel."

Neptune: In the last planetary position, identified with Neptune, John has the Jack of Spades. As one of the top cards in the Spade suit, this card may symbolize a dynamic work effort, with an accent on leadership or creative overtones. As face cards are ususally considered to be representative of people, this card could also represent the influence of a young man in John's life. Considering the idealistic, but also somewhat illusionary quality associated with Neptune, we might interpret this combination of card and planet to read, "Accent creativity in work. Be cautious regarding a young man, who may prove to be somewhat elusive and difficult to understand."

When you have added your interpretations for each card in the Primary Spread, your yearly analysis will look something like our sample for John in Fig. 10

Even though your reading of the year at this point is somewhat incomplete, you do have an overall picture of the most important influences of your year, or as in our case, John's forty-ninth year. All the cards which you will add to your yearly analysis from this point on, will in a sense be modifying influences.

VERTICAL PLANETARY SEQUENCE

Step 6:

We will now elaborate on our basic reading of the Primary Spread, by adding the cards which make up the Vertical Spread Note in Fig.11, that this planetary sequence begins with the card above John' card, the Nine of Diamonds, and proceed upwards from his card. The planetary sequence is the same as in the Primary Spread, or in other words, Mercury, Venus, Mars, etc. In the first place, or Mercury position of John's vertical spread, is the Jack of Hearts. So in our yearly analysis we now add the Jack of Hearts to the Mercury segment. Place the symbol for the Jack of Hearts J♡ under the symbol for the Queen of Clubs. Following the same procedure, continue vertically adding the symbol for the Three of Spades 3♠ under the Ten of Spades on John's yearly analysis, the Four of Spades under the Eight of Clubs in the Mars segment, etc. In reading the Vertical Spread, always read up from the subject's card. For example, we list the cards in the vertical planetary sequence until we reach the top and continue by going to the lowest space in the same column. Here, in John's chart you will find the King of Hearts. Add this symbol to the Jupiter segment of his yearly analysis, and continue listing up by adding the Two of Clubs to Saturn, the Five of Spades to Uranus, and the Jack of Spades to Neptune. At this point, on your yearly analysis, you will have two cards for each planetary position. Note, that the Jack of Spades will appear in both the Primary Spread and the Vertical Spread. An important note: Subjects whose birthday cards are located in the four outside columns, will have only six cards in their Vertical Spreads.

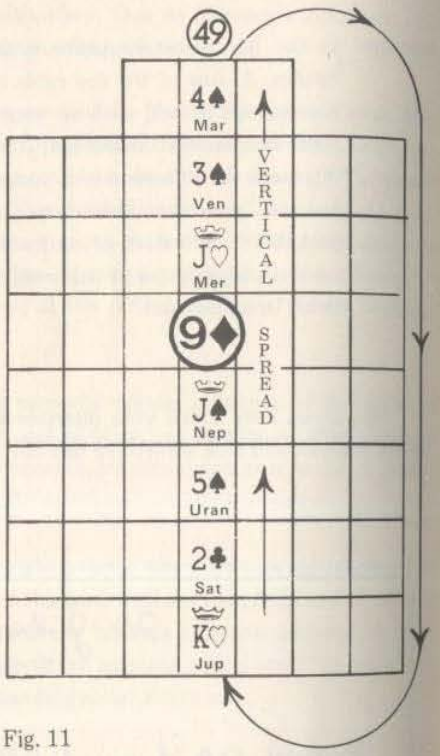

Fig. 11

Since the foregoing procedure of reading the Primary and Vertical Spreads is the fundamental procedure used in reading all the spreads, make sure you understand these steps before you try to work the next steps.

PERSONALITY CARDS

Up to now, we have been primarily concerned with the cards and the planetary influences, which relate to the cards representing yours or our subject, John's, birthday. But there is another facet of our nature reflected in the cards, which is read through what we are calling the PERSONALITY CARDS. These are the face or crown cards of the suit identified with our birth cards. For example, if you are female, your personality card is the Queen card of your suit. For instance, if your birthday were identified with the Three of Spades, your personality card would be the Queen of Spades. On the other hand, if you are male, you have two choices, the Jack or King card of your suit. For example, again using the Three of Spades as your birthday card, and you are under thirty-six years old, you might be read as a Jack of Spades. "Jacks" represent youthfulness and creativity. Now if you are over thirty-six, you are more likely to be operating under your personality card, the King of Spades. An individual expressing his more kingly qualities is apt to operate as the boss, or to express himself in some position of authority or leadership.

As with all rules, there are exceptions. For example, a young man, or even a woman in a position of authority, may reflect at least a part of their activity through the King card of their suit. And a woman who is involved in some artistic endeavor, or occupation which brings her before the public, may also be considered to be operating under the "Jack" of her suit.

In adding the information furnished from the personality spreads to your yearly analysis, follow the same procedure shown for your birth card. Only in this case we will use the Primary and Vertical Spreads as they relate to our personality cards.

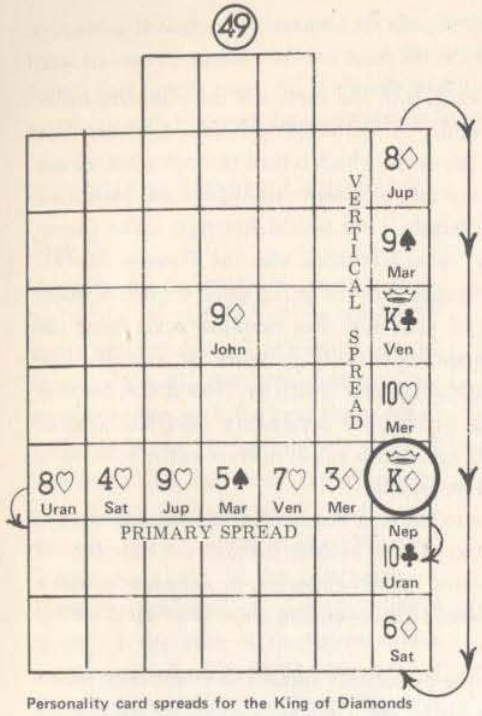

Step 7:

Again, using our example, John Page, who as a Nine of Diamonds will have the Jack and King of Diamonds as his personality cards. Following the same procedure which we used in the spreads for his birth card, and since he is over thirty-six, we will first list the cards from the Primary and Vertical Spreads for the King of Diamonds (see Fig. 12).

In the Mercury position of the Primary Spread, John, as represented by the King of Diamonds, has the Three of Diamonds. Add the symbol for this card 3♢ under the Queen of Clubs and the Jack of Hearts in the Mercury segment of your yearly analysis for John. And do likewise with the Seven of Hearts, which is to be added to Venus, the Five of Spades to Mars, the Nine of Hearts to Jupiter, etc. Now follow the same procedure with the Vertical Spread, which leads off with a Ten of Hearts in vertical Mercury.

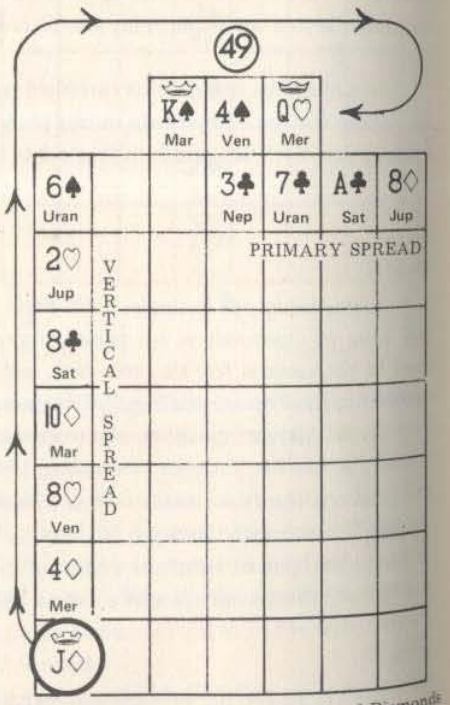

Step 8:

See Fig.13 for the Primary and Vertical Spreads of the Jack of Diamonds. In this instance, the Jack of Diamonds is in the lower left hand corner, so the first, or Mercury card in the Primary Spread will be in the top right hand corner of the Crown Line. Keep this

Personality card spreads for the King of Diamonds

Fig. 12

Personality card spreads for the Jack of Diamonds picture in mind, whenever you wonder where to proceed from the lower left hand corner. As we did with the King of Diamonds, add the cards which make up these spreads to the yearly analysis of John Page. Note, in the case of both the King and Jack of Diamonds, their location is in one of the four outer columns, so the Vertical Spreads in each case will consist of only six cards.

Fig. 13

Step 9:

Well almost! Fig.14 illustrates what your yearly analysis will look like after you have added all the cards from the Personality Spreads to those listed from the Birth Card Spreads.

The next step will be to add your interpretations. In time, you will be able to just scan these symbols and interpret them, but until the time when you are more familiar with the meaning of the cards, use the Key Word Chart and the list of abbreviated descriptions as an aid in making your interpretations.

To obtain a more complete picture, combine and modify the meanings of each card within a planetary segment with each other and with the governing planet. For example, in Fig.14, John has a Ten of Hearts in Jupiter, modified by a King of Hearts, Nine of Hearts, Eight of Diamonds and Eight of Clubs. In building our picture of this portion of his year, we consider the beneficial, expansive influence of Jupiter, plus the success and emotional qualities of the Ten, King and Nine of Hearts, and the material and mental power of the Eights. In combining these influences, our reading of this period might go as follows: "Excellent time for meeting new people and expanding your personal horizons. Contacts, possibly involving an older man could prove very beneficial at this time. Don't allow an overly generous mood to cause you to be careless in money and friendships. Your earning power could benefit from using your mental powers."

Be flexible in making your interpretations, making them relative to your subject. Consider the individual's circumstances, age, sex, mental attitude, work situation, etc. For example, if our subject, John Page, had been a Miss Joan Page, our analysis would take on a feminine slant. A marriage or romantic aspect in a child's Yearly Spread would probably indicate a special friendship or a very social time in their life. Another important consideration is the mental attitude of your subject. A negative individual can sour even the best of aspects. Likewise, a positive person can find a constructive use for dubious influences. Note also if any of the cards listed are representative of the birthdays of people in the subject's life. For example, in Fig.14 the first card in the Mercury segment of John's chart is the Queen of Clubs. This card also happens to be the symbol of his wife Mary's birthday. The Mercury placement of her card in his chart is indicative of the quality of their relationship at this time — his forty-ninth year. For a further elaboration on this planetary influence in their relationship, and relationships in different planetary positions, refer to the chapter, "Planetary Influence on Relationships" on page 26.

If you have completed all the steps to this point, you should have a pretty good picture of your subject's year, or as in our example to John Page's forty-ninth year. But there are subtle influences and further refinements, which can make an important contribution to your interpretations. The first of these are the displacement cards.

DISPLACEMENT CARDS

One of the most important underlying influences in the interpretation of the cards in the Yearly Spreads, are the cards which they displace in the Life and Perfect Spreads. To illustrate we will use the Life Spread to show how it is modified by the Perfect Spread.

All the basic interpretations of the cards are based on the Life Spread. Their attributes are determined, in part, by the number, suit and planetary position of the cards in the Life Spread. The quality of each card in the Life Spread is further modified by the cards in the Perfect Spread which they displace. Observe, if you were to place the Life Spread directly over the Perfect Spread as we have done in Fig. 15, every card in the Perfect Spread, with the exception of three cards, would be replaced by another card from the Life Spread. The three exceptions are the Eight of Clubs, the Jack of Hearts and the King of Spades. These cards never move from these fixed positions throughout all the spreads.

To further illustrate, note the Queen of Hearts in the lower left hand corner of the Life Spread. It occupies the same rectangular space, or planetary position, as that occupied by the Ten of Spades. In this respect, the Ten of Spades has a modifying influence on the Queen of Hearts. It brings its "success through work" quality to the social-emotional qualities associated with the Queen of Hearts.

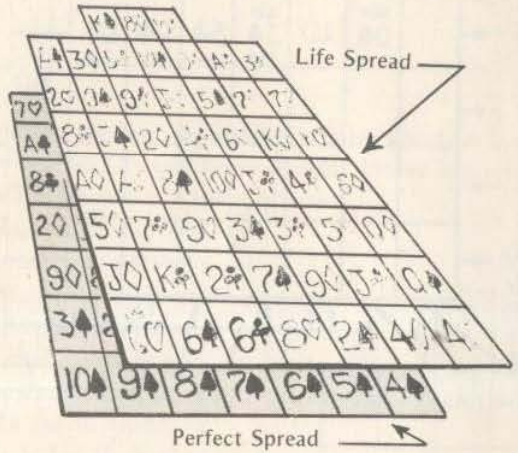

Fig. 15

Even as the displaced cards in the Perfect Spread modify the interpretations of those in the Life Spread, both the Perfect and Life Spreads modify the cards in the Yearly Spreads. For example, see Fig. 16. Again using the spread for John's forty-ninth year, notice how his Jupiter card, the Ten of Hearts, occupies the same position as does the Six of Diamonds in the Life Spread and the Nine of Clubs in the Perfect Spread. In order to make a complete interpretation of the influences in Jupiter, we consider the modifying underlying influences from the displaced Six of Diamonds and Nine of Clubs, as well as that of the Ten of Hearts. The resulting interpretation obtained from adding up these influences might read something like this: "Social success 10♡ gained from beneficial contacts (Jupiter) may bring debts and obligations 6◇ which may cause some worry 9♣. " Following this step by step procedure should prove a help in adding the modifying influences of the displacement cards.

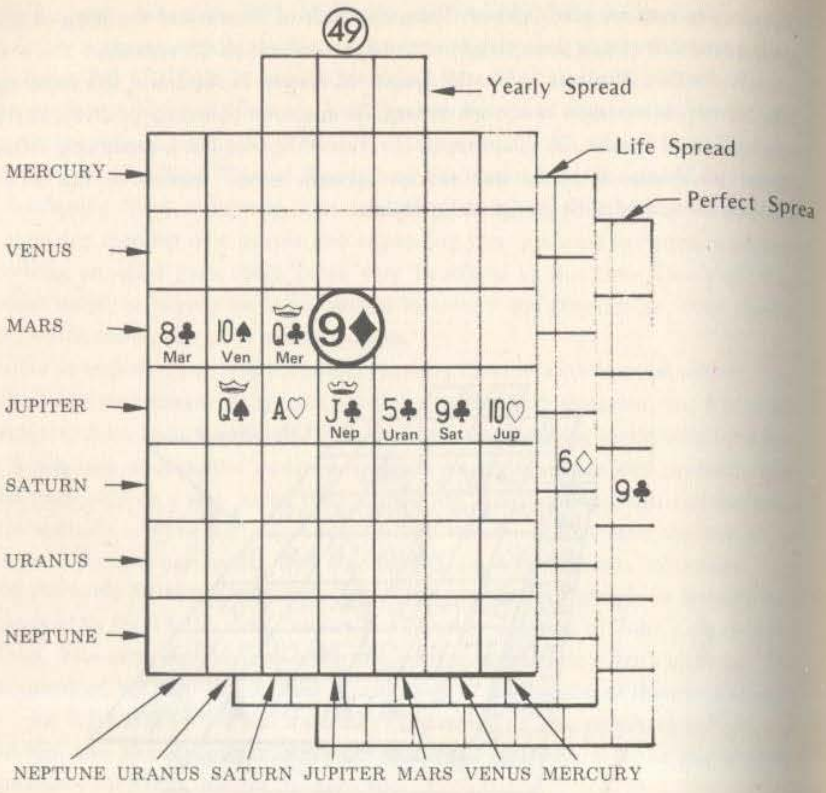

Fig. 16

PLANETARY ROWS AND COLUMNS

Step 10:

In Fig. 16, notice that each row and column is identified with a planetary influence. Do not confuse these planetary influences with the planetary sequences of the spreads, which are read in relation to the birthday and personality cards. These planetary influences (columns and rows) are only an underlying consideration.

In our example, see Fig. 16, John's card, the Nine of Diamonds is located in the Jupiter column, Mars row. The placement of his card in this position indicates that he should have the underlying good fortune of Jupiter going for him, plus a certain Martian vitality. The first three cards of his yearly chart are in the Mars row, so the early part of his year should also enjoy the benefits of this energetic influence. The last four cards on his yearly spread are in the Jupiter row, so their meanings are modified in a positive manner by this auspicious planet. Even though the influences from these vertical and horizontal planetary poisitions may seem minor compared to other considerations, there are times when the weight thay add may have a significant influence on your interpretations.

CHALLENGE AND RESULT

Step 11:

The two cards following the seven cards, which make up either the basic or yearly spreads are called the Challenge and Result cards. In other words, the eighth card is symbolic of the challenge, whether it be for a lifetime, as in the Life Spread, or for a year, as in the Yearly Spreads. The ninth card represents the possible result. In interpreting these cards, consider their attributes as they may relate to the individual. Note in Fig. 16, that the Ace of Hearts symbolizes the challenge and the Queen of Spades represents the result. The Ace of Hearts might be interpreted to represent "A desire for love and expression." And if the challenge is met successfully, the Queen of Spades may represent the person, probably a woman, who may help fulfill this need.

CYCLES

Step 12:

As you may have noticed by now, the mystical number seven has a special significance in the cards. Not only are the Life and Yearly Spreads divided into seven segments, but the years themselves are also grouped into cycles of seven.

In the Yearly Spreads, at the top of the first thirteen spreads, you will find a reference to Cycle Ruling Cards. In this case, cards that would otherwise be read as influences in the seven planetary positions of the year, are also read with each card symbolizing the overall quality of an entire year. Note in Fig. 17, that the seventh spread may be read as representing the seventh year, or as the Cycle Ruling Cards for Years 49 thu 55. The first card to the left of our subject John's card, the Nine of Diamonds, is the Three of Hearts. Read as a Yearly Spread this card would have indicated the complexion of the first fifty-two days, or the Mercury segment of John's seventh year. But interpreting this card as part of the seven year cycles, it symbolizes the qualty of the first year of that cycle. In our example, it represents the ruling card of John's forty-ninth year. The second card would symbolize the fiftieth year. The third card, the fifty-first year, etc.

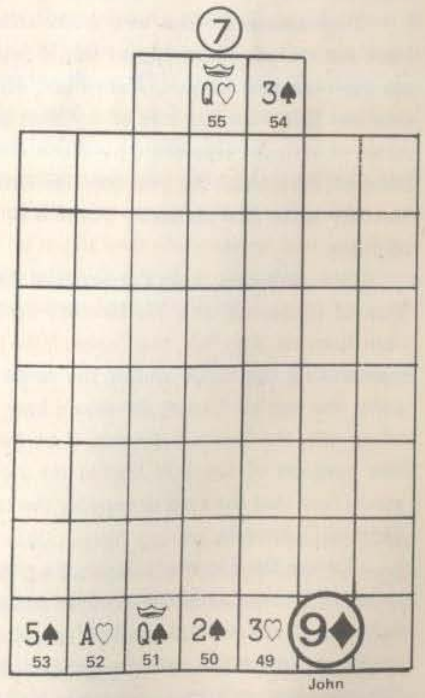

Fig. 17

When interpreting a card in relation to a person's year consider the attributes of the card in relation to the subject. In John's case, the Three of Hearts suggests the possibility that his forty-ninth year will present him with a quandary relating to emotional matters. Remember, in the yearly spread, we found that the result of his challenge was the Queen of Spades. Put this information together with the fact that his wife is represented by the Queen of Clubs, and we may be looking at a symbolic picture of a romantic triangle.

PLANETARY RULERS

Step 13:

As you may have observed in the descriptions of the characteristics associated with each birthday, references are made to cards, which represent the planetary rulers. In other words, the ruling planets for each Sun sign have been translated symbolically into a card. To find the card which represents your planetary ruler, first check the ruling planets listed for your Sun sign under "Astrological Influences" on page 16. When you've found the ruling planet for your Sun sign turn to the Life Spread. Here, you will find that each of the seven positions in your Life Spread is identified with a planetary influence: Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune. Except for Cancer and Leo, which are ruled by the Moon and the Sun, one of these planets will symbolize your ruling planet.

For example, if you were born under Aries, Mars would be your ruling planet, so the Mars card in your Life Spread would represent your Planetary Ruler. To illustrate, we will use our example subject, John Page. His June 8th birthday indicates that his Sun sign is Gemini. Since Gemini is ruled by Mercury, John's ruling planet is Mercury. Now to determine which card represents his planetary ruler, we check the Life Spread for his card, the Nine of Diamonds. As you may remember from previous descriptions of the Life Spread, Mercury is the first planetary position in the spread to the left of the card representing one's birthday.

In John's case, since the Seven of Spades occupies this space to the left of his card, the Nine of Diamonds, it is his Mercury card and also symbolizes his planetary ruler. Had John been born on July 6th, the Cancer Nine of Diamonds, he would have not have found a card representing the Moon among the seven cards of his Life Spread. Instead, as with all born under the sign of Cancer, he would have to use the Ten of Clubs as the card representing his ruling orb, the Moon. Likewise, if he had been born in Leo, he would have to look to the Sun position of the Life Spread for a card to symbolize his ruling planet. In doing so, he would find that the card occupying the top center, or Sun sposition of the Life Spread is the Eight of Diamonds.

To use the Planetary Ruler as a source of additional information, consider the qualities reflected in the combination of the planet and the card, which symbolizes this ruling orb. In the case of our example, John Page, the mental attributes of his planetary ruler, Mercury, are given profound, possibly spiritual overtones by the Seven of Spades, which represents this planetary influence. So while his card, the Nine of Diamonds, may suggest that he is materially oriented, his planetary ruler modifies this picture somewhat, implying that he is not only interested in collecting material treasures.

As a supplementary source of information in the Yearly Spreads, note the location of the planetary ruler in the Yearly Spread in question. In this case, the clue to its meaning is to be found in the cards which it displaces in the Life and Perfect Spreads. For example, In John Page's forty-ninth year, his ruling planet, Mercury, as represented by the Seven of Spades, is the Mars card in the Uranus line. The message here is to be found in the displaced Nine of Diamonds in the Life Spread and a Queen of Diamonds in the Perfect Spread. In making our interpretation of this influence, consider the characteristics of these two high Diamond cards. In all probability they will pertain to material and monetary considerations; the Nine if Diamonds usually indicates the spending of large amounts of money and the Queen of Diamonds expensive tastes. Our reading of this influence might go something like this: "A lady friend, or extravagant ventures are likely to cause you to spend a great deal of money during your forty-ninth year."

AFTER THOUGHTS

There are many possible uses of the cards which could prove very interesting and even profitable. For example, since each day of the year is symbolized by a card, it's probable that each day will take on some of the qualities of the card with which it is identified. If that day should be represented by one of the more fortunate Diamond cards, that particular day might be especially favorable for financial transactions. This same consideration also applies to favorable Heart cards and their possible effect on social and romantic activities, clubs or intellectual interests, and Spades to work efforts. In this respect, you probably should also investigate how the cards representing these particular days relate to your card in both the Life and Yearly Spreads. Another possibility, just as people have birthdays, so might marriages, businesses and other activities. You might keep this concept in mind when planning to initiate a special action. Choosing a day identified with a particular auspicious card might make the difference between success and failure in any venture.

SUMMARY

In reading the cards, especially for someone else, I avoid making specific predictions. I prefer to think of myself as an analyst, with a skill for interpreting the cards and the modifying astrological and numerological factors, in a sense very much like a weather forecaster, only in this instance, making personal weather forecasts. In this way I feel you can share the perspective shown in the cards, yet allowing the other person to use his own wisdom to determine how he is to use this knowledge. So, while I may suggest ways that the prospects shown in the cards may be used more constructively, I deliberately try to avoid making decisions for others. After all, learning how to think and make decisions for yourselves is likely to be far more important than the possible mistakes that you may make.

After combining the subtle essences of knowledge revealed in the cards, numbers and planetary influences, you will at least have a mechanical foundation for probing the future and gain a greater understanding of yourself and others. As you gain mastery over this occult perspective, and this will take much practice, you will probably find that it will be an entree to your intuition, the highest octaves of your mind. If you persist in your efforts, you will probably come to wonder, as I have, at the great wisdom hidden in the cards.

There is a tremendous responsibility in knowledge, especially that which may affect the lives of others. Now that you have the key, you also have the responsibility of the power that knowledge can bring. Use it wisely!

Man is still responsible. He must turn the alloy of modern experience into the steel of mastery and character. His success lies not with the stars but with himself. He must carry on the fight of self-correction and discipline. He must fight mediocrity as sin and live the imperative of life's highest ideal.

ABBREVIATED DESCRIPTIONS OF THE CARDS

The descriptions given here of the cards are intentionally brief, so that you might more readily identify, memorize and apply their meanings in reading the spreads. For a complete picture of each card, refer to the descriptions of them in SECTION III — You, Your Life and Your Card.

In making your interpretations, always consider the planetary positions of the cards in the spreads. Another important consideration in making your interpretations is how you, or your subject is apt to apply the forces symbolized in the cards. In other words, is your subject positively or negatively inclined? In this you will have to depend on your intuition and observations, which may be assisted considerably through a study of the card which represents your or the subject's birthday.

ACES

Aces are usually read as symbols of desire, ambition and as a quest for self-expression and recognition. Positively applied, they can supply the motivation necessary for progress. Negatively, they can be symbols of greed.

Hearts:	Desire for love and personal expression
Clubs:	Desire for knowledge. Curiosity!
Diamonds:	Desire for money, power and prestige
Spades:	Desire for work, spiritual and occult experience; secrecy; the key to the mysteries of life and death.

TWOS

Symbolically, twos frequently represent two or more people, cooperative efforts, or partnerships. Negatively expressed they represent lack of cooperation and fear!

Hearts: Cooperative efforts of an emotional nature. Love and friendship. Negative: coolness, fear of being alone.

Clubs: Cooperative mental activity. Argumentative and quarrelsome.

Diamonds: Cooperative monetary efforts. Business partnerships. Fear regarding financial matters.

Spades: Cooperative work effort, Fear of the unknown. Termination of employment due to lack of cooperation.

THREES

Are symbolic of choice and decision, which more often than not become symbols of indecision. Threes can also represent a bright, personable, expressive quality.

Hearts: Indecision in emotional matters. Choice in social and emotional involvements. Musical expression.

Clubs: Indecision in interests. Mental confusion.

Diamonds: Indecision in material and monetary matters.

Spades: Indecision in work, perhaps relating to choice in jobs or work methods.

FOURS

Fours are usually considered to be a positive and constructive influence.

Hearts: Good for social and emotional activity. Love and friendship. Symbol of romance and marriage, especially under Venus. In Saturn, it can indicate burdens and problems relating to marriage and other emotional involvements.

Clubs: Happiness. Good mental state. Peace of mind. Usually a positive influence on all planetary positions.

Diamonds: Good for material and monetary matters in all planetary positions.

Spades: Good for work and health.

FIVES

A symbol of change, moves and travel, frequently an indicator of uncertainty.

Hearts: Change of heart usually in regard to a relationship. Emotional instability. Separation, often under Venus, a symbol of divorce.

Clubs: Change of mind. Restlessness. Uncertainty.

Diamonds: Change of material circumstances or source of income. Changes frequently have a negative effect on money and material situation.

Spades: Changes in work, travel, moves.

SIXES

A calming, serene influence, often to the point of monotony; inertia. Also a karmic influence (law of cause and effect). You may be confronted with past good and bad investments. What you sow, you may now reap.

Hearts: The law of love. Serenity in personal matters. Pleasant period.

Clubs: The law of knowledge. The messenger; the bringer of ideas. A symbol of intuition.

Diamonds: The law of values. You may be confronted with debts and obligations or rewards for your past efforts.

Spades: The law of life and death. Energy and resistance may be low. Often indicates monotony in work and unemployment.

SEVENS

The most mystical of all numbers. Sevens often symbolize challenges in the nature of the suit with which they are identified. If met and overcome, this can indicate a victory over one's weaker self; a spiritual victory.

Hearts: Challenges of an emotional nature. Jealousy and heartache.

Clubs: Challenges in mental attitude; worry and mental illness.

Diamonds: Challenges of a monetary and material nature. Under Jupiter this can indicate exceptional affluence.

Spades: Challenges in health and work. While symbolic of mundane difficulties, it can be an excellent influence for spiritual interests.

EIGHTS

Eights are symbolic of power, accomplishment and the ability to overcome obstacles in health, work, relationships, etc. Usually a fortunate influence.

Hearts: The power of love, charm and personal force. Excellent for all types of people oriented activities; entertainment.

Clubs: The power of mind. Excellent for intellectual activity.Use your head to overcome problems.

Diamonds: The power of values, material and otherwise. Excellent for earning money and making material improvements.

Spades: The power of labor. Excellent for work activity. A most productive influence. A symbol of healing power.

NINES

Nines are symbolic of completion and fulfillment. Actually all too often this number indicates disappointment and frustration. Much self-discipline and perseverance is needed to obtain the accomplishment and fulfillment contained in this powerful number.

Hearts: Disappointment in emotional matters. Loss of love and friends. Fulfillment through compassion and expression of universal love.

Clubs: Disappointment in mental efforts. Frustration, worry and mental illness. Persistence required to tap the mental power here.

Diamonds: Disappointment in financial matters; loss of money. Avoid speculative ventures or investments for quick turnover. In Venus or Jupiter, this may indicate money spent for personal items, such as clothes, cars and pleasure.

Spades: Disappointment in work. Long hours of hard work. This can be an indicator of a serious health challenge, especially under Saturn. In Mercury and Mars the Nine of Spades can indicate accidents from erratic behavior. A symbol of conclusions; end of job, situations or life.

TENS

The symbol of success, usually considered very fortunate. Benefits may be minimized by a too casual attitude encouraged by this auspicious influence. Particularly when combined with Neptune, may indicate long journeys and success in distant interests.

Hearts: Success in dealing with people. An excellent influence for performers and salespeople. Since charm and personality are at their best, others may find it difficult to resist your wishes.

Clubs: Success in mental activities. Excellent for all types of intellectual endeavors; accelerates the assimilation of knowledge.

Diamonds: Success in money and material matters. Press financial interests. Don't allow the sense of affluence to minimize your efforts.

Spades: Success in work. Excellent time for career activities and special projects. Make improvement. Seek high objectives.

JACKS

Creativity and young men are symbolized by the Jacks. A dynamic influence, but a challenge of maturity and responsibility is also shown here. Neuter gender.

Hearts: "The Christ card." Symbolic of sacrifice, nobility, strong emotional feelings. May be tempted to over-indulgence.

Clubs: Inspire others through the sharing of knowledge via writing, teaching and the theatrical arts. Temptation to waste time in trivia. Sometimes considered symbolic of irresponsibility.

Diamonds: Strong material sense. Have excellent rapport with people, so often identified with selling. Good for artistic expression. Symbolic of a youthful quality.

Spades: A dynamic, creative work influence; a most productive work aspect. While it usually represents a hard working young man, it can also indicate a man of dubious qualities, such as a thief and con man. This is also the symbol of initiation into the mysteries of life.

QUEENS

Symbolic of women. Queens are co-rulers with the Kings, only their rulership is expressed in a more passive sense. Often in the position of authority, without the name or recognition. Sensitive power is indicated here.

Hearts: Symbolic of special and emotional activity. Often a romantic influence, which, especially under Venus, can indicate marriage.

Clubs: A symbol of sensitive mental activity with intuitive overtones. Also a symbol of service, as a counsellor, teacher of occupations dealing in services, such as hospitals and restaurants.

Diamonds: Symbolic of authority and leadership, especially in material and monetary matters. Can symbolize extravagance and dominance.

Spades: Symbolizes leadership through hard work or spiritual inspiration. The secret of the power represented here is "self mastery."

KINGS

Symbolic of leadership, responsibility and authority. Kings represent the ultimate potential of the quality represented in each suit. In the spreads they may also represent older men, father, boss, often someone in authority.

Hearts: Rule through love. Accent on emotional considerations.

Clubs: Rule through knowledge. Emphasis on mental activity. This card frequently represents doctors and attorneys.

Diamonds: Rule through values. Material power. Usually considered a good material influence. Heads of businesses.

Spades: Rule through wisdom and work. Much power is hidden in this card. It is considered to be the top symbol of "Mastery."

NOTE: One of the best ways to learn the cards is to observe individuals and how they reflect their cards.

CASTING THE YEARLY SPREADS

In the beginning, I mentioned that this system is a science with a formula. While the Perfect, Life and Yearly Spreads have already been laid out for you, in case you are curious as to how they were accomplished, the following procedure gleaned from the writing of Olney H. Richmond in his Mystic Text Book describes the formula used.

Step 1: Take a pack of playing cards and stack them in this sequence: Beginning with the Ace of Hearts, face up, add the Two of Hearts, Three of Hearts, etc., through the King of Hearts, then add the Clubs in the same sequence from the Ace through the King. Follow this same procedure with the Diamond and the Spade suits. You will end up with the King of Spades as the top card, face up.

Step 2: Turn the deck over, the King of Spades will now be on the bottom of the pack. Now remove the top three cards without disturbing their order, and place them face down, as the beginning of stack one in Figure 1. To the left of this stack, following the same procedure, place the next three cards in stack two. Below this stack start stack three with three cards, then to the right build stack four with three cards. Continue with this procedure, adding three cards at a time to each stack, until you have only four remaining cards. Place these cards singly on each stack, beginning with stack number one. The King of Spades should be the top card on stack number four.

Step 3: Pick up stack number four and place it on top of stack number three, which in turn place on stack number two, finally ending with all the cards on stack number one. The King of Spades will still be the top card, face down.

Step 4: Turn the deck over. The cards are face up and the King of Spades is once again on the bottom. Deal the cards off the top, face up, one at a time, into the four stacks as shown in Figure 18. Continue dealing until all the cards are again in four stacks, face up. The King of Spades will be the top card of the fourth stack. Pile the cards together again as before, with stack four on top of stack three, three on top of two, and two on top of one.

Step 5: Turn the deck over, backs up. The King of Spades is once again on the bottom of the deck. The cards are now in the proper sequence to be laid out for the Life Spread. To make the Life Spread, deal the cards out in seven rows of seven cards each, beginning at the top right hand corner, (Mercury position) working from right to left and down. The last three cards go on top, making the Crown Line. These cards should be the Ten of Clubs, the Eight of Diamonds, and the King of Spades, reading from right to left.

Step 6: Restack the cards in this exact order face up, beginning with the Three of Hearts, Ace of Clubs, Queen of Clubs, etc., through the King of Spades. Repeat steps 2, 3, and 4. When you lay the cards out again, it will be Spread One. Repeat this same procedure for each yearly spread. Spread Ninety-one will be the same as Spread One. The Yearly Spreads will then have gone full cycle.
